

Outlook For Tank Team Seems Good Says Coach

Returning Of Ed Shumate Will Bolster Blue Dolphins' Hopes Of Successful Year

By Carroll Poplin

Prospects for the 1945-46 swimming team are good, predicted Coach Willis Casey as he begins his second season as head mentor of the Blue Dolphins who are going after their third consecutive unbeaten campaign.

Coach Casey called a meeting of the new prospects last week and viewed the turnout with a smile on his face.

Tough Schedule

With meets already definitely scheduled with such potent pool outfits as Army, Navy, Cornell and Duke, the Blue Dolphins will launch workouts beginning on September 24 which will give them ample time to round into shape before the first engagement.

This year's edition of the Blue Dolphins will be minus a few of the mainstays which carried the swimming squad through a perfect season last year. Such stars as Billy Kelly, Jesse Greenbaum, Bill Ward, and Pete Hexner will be missing from the line-up.

Shumate Returns

Coach Casey welcomed the returning of Ed Shumate, star freshman swimmer in 1941-42, who holds a discharge from the Army Air Corps after seeing considerable action overseas in the Pacific area. Shumate is Carolina's AAU champion in all three strokes, backstroke, breaststroke, and freestyle and Casey hails him as one of the greatest swimming prospects that Carolina has ever had. He will probably step in and fill the suit that Billy Kelly wore last year.

Bo Jenkins will be on hand to strengthen the team's hopes in the backstroke department. Before coming to Carolina Jenkins was captain of the tank team at Staunton Military Academy and this summer was crowned Carolina's AAU backstroke champion. He hails from Tarboro.

Freestyle Champ

Another addition in the sprint division will be Toni Scheinam, who was New York's Interscholastic 220 yard freestyle champion.

Among last season's returning vets will be Ben Ward, Dick Twining, Mike Morrow, Jack Davies, John Lord, Tommy Gray, Bob Dungey, Jack Zimmerman, and Snookie Proctor.

Coach Casey expects around 27 swimmers to report for the opening practice and drills are scheduled to be held daily as the youthful mentor intends to ready his squad for another successful season.

Doak To Direct Jayvee Outfit

Bob "Peanut" Doak, a former football performer at State college who is now at Carolina doing some graduate work, will head the Carolina Jayvee grid team this year, it was announced over the weekend.

Doak, also a professional baseball player, came here directly from Greensboro, where he finished the season with the Greensboro Patriot Club in the Carolina League.

The State man of late finished sixth in the league batting race, having hit successfully in 16 straight games just before the season ended, and he was the only man on the Gate City team to hit over .300. He hit at a .322 clip.

The "B" team, which will have a membership of some 25 or 30 players, will have a schedule of its own, and three or four games are anticipated although no definite slate has been arranged. These boys who are on the Jayvee roster will be watched constantly by the entire staff and will be liable for promotion at any time.

Frosh Track Meet Moved Back Week

The freshman track meet, originally scheduled for last Saturday, has been postponed until next Saturday, Bill McClammy announced today.

The obvious reason for the postponement was the torrential downpours which have threatened to flood Carolina for the last several days. Freshmen not already signed up for this track meet should see Bill McClammy or Sam Daniels. Cooperation will determine other freshman activities which the YMCA has planned.

Snavely's Gridders Prepare For Opening Scrap With Lee

RUSS MURPHY

MAX REED

Russ Murphy and Max Reed, assistant coaches to Carl Snavely, will put the final touches on the Tar Heels before they journey to Camp Lee this Saturday for their opening encounter with a rugged soldier crew. Murphy coaches the backfield, while Reed handles the line duties. Both coaches were with Snavely at Cornell.

Squad Holds Scrimmage Amidst Rain

Kennedy Gallops 60 Yards To Score

By Irwin Smallwood

The last roundup is at hand for Coach Carl Snavely's Tar Heel footballers as they go through last minute drills this week before the official season opener Saturday at Camp Lee, Va., with the soldier eleven.

A final checkup scrimmage session was held amidst mud and torrents of rain Saturday, and although it was held under adverse conditions, "It did us a lot of good," Coach Snavely said yesterday. The intra-squad affair lasted for some hour and a half, and as is the case in games in the rain, a lot of kicking was done. Work was done on passing and running alike, and before the game was over, the boys were able to hold on to the wet pigskin fairly well. However, a good bit of fumbling went on early in the scrimmage.

Three touchdowns were tallied during the course of the very wet afternoon, Bill Voris, hard plunging little fullback, driving over for the first after tackle Stan Marczyk recovered a punt blocked by Ed Twohey. Bob Kennedy, one of the boys singled out by Coach Snavely for improvement, made a gallop of 60 yards after intercepting a pass for the second score, and a pass from Don Clayton to Paul Rizzo plus a run by Rizzo netted the third.

In addition to Kennedy, who also scored once against State last week, Coach Snavely said the defensive work of the fullbacks, Voris and Joe Gurtis, had improved; and the Tar Heel mentor went on to say that such youngsters as Johnnie Colones, Bill Wardle, Sid Varney and Leon Szafaryn were looking better. Szafaryn, who is battling Ted Hazelwood for a first string tackle post, booted several extra points.

According to Coach Snavely, workouts this week will lighten up a little in view of the game with Camp Lee Saturday, but outdoor practices are still in order unless the already bad weather takes a turn for the worse. Practically the entire squad of some 60 boys will be taken to Camp Lee if it is possible, as this is the last time the Carolina lads will have a chance to play before the collegiate opener with Georgia Tech here September 29.

From this point on out, it will mainly be a story of how the Tar Heels develop under fire, for nearly all the practice that will amount to anything has been completed with the first game of the season just three days away. Coach Snavely arrived on the scene early in July and began immediately working with the team, and a lot of water has gone under the bridge since.

Only one week of rest has been taken since that first session was held the first week of July, and three full game scrimmages have been held. This hard work is definitely a credit to Coach Snavely and his assistants, as well as to the candidates for the varsity squad, and they have put out a lot of effort, win or lose. Met in practice games were State, Pre-Flight and PDC of Greensboro.

"We haven't played any of these games with so much interest in winning," Coach Snavely pointed out yesterday, "but more to give the boys a chance to get more experience than they would get in workouts among themselves." The silver haired Tar Heel pilot continued that "as the season starts, we are much further along than if we had not had these games."

He also said that in these tilts, a lot of experimenting had been done, and that this too had proved invaluable.

Head Cheer Leader Kirkland Is Whipping Squad In Shape

Plans Are Being Made For First Pep Rally

Riding on the heels of king football, the Carolina cheerleaders are now preparing themselves for their first appearance. Under Head Cheerleader Jack Kirkland's guidance, the squad is being trimmed to normal working size and is also being given a new list of plays. Kirkland promises that all the razzle-dazzle will not be on the gridiron.

Daily practice sessions are being held and the girls and boys are expected to be in full cheering form by Friday, September 28. For on that night, the first pep rally of the football season will be held. Bonfires, cheers, football players and coaches, Rameses—that noble ram mascot—will all be present to give the team a rousing reception and encouragement for the Tech game on Saturday.

Although a large crowd is expected to be on hand for this rally, no reservations will be necessary as the cheering is expected to come from Fetzer Field.

The squad is just about complete. Kirkland announced that Jane Isenhour, Barbara Boyd, Mary Pierce Johnson, Marguerite Murry, and June Feele have all made the team which completes the complement of girls.

The boy section of the squad is still incomplete. Two positions are still open but are being fought for by "Egg" Heniford, Dale Evans, Carey Dobbs, and Charles Blackburn. Those who have made their starting berths and have proved their worth are Bill Bencini, Mickey Faulkner, and Orin Hyman.

Any new yells will be gladly accepted, Kirkland announced. The cheerleaders will meet with the freshmen soon and the old yells will be reviewed in time for the opening contest with Georgia Tech.

Monogram Club Meets In Y Tonight At 7:30

The Monogram Club will hold an important meeting tonight on the second floor of the YMCA at 7:30, Jack Davis president of the club announced.

Davis encouraged all members to be present and said that some important items would be discussed at tonight's session.

It is the hope of the Monogram Club to bring the monogram sweaters back on the campus pretty soon after the war halted the production.

Phys Education Discussed By 'Pete' Mullis; Gives Reasons For Maximum Training Plan

By Hardinge Menzies

(Editor's Note: A part of the information found in this article was taken from an article to appear in the "Journal of Health and Physical Education" by Clyde E. Mullis, Assistant Professor of Physical Education.)

"Oh heck, I've got physical torture next hour!"—"And am I sore from yesterday—gee, I wish that ole instructor would give us a little rest once in a while, all we do is work, work, and more work." And so the lingo of college students goes from year to year. Each in his own little way always has some gripe about that terrible required stuff down at the gym.

It's true that most of us aren't thrilled to death when we have to get up at seven and get ready to tramp down to the gym or get up from a wonderful meal and make a two o'clock phys. ed. class. We all have some little grudge against this required course, but in the long run I think most of us are glad we had it. Maybe we did learn a little something—maybe we did build ourselves up in some way—maybe it was the right thing to do after all.

Why's and Wherefore's

Here is just to prove the "why's and wherefore's" of the physical ed. course as it stands now at Chapel Hill.

It all began (that is, as we have it today) back in 1936 when an extended program in health and physical education was started by the University for the purpose of supplying to each student, on the basis of a thorough medical examination, complete information about his physical welfare. This program was designed to teach him the elements of public health and personal hygiene; to give special attention to all students with physical handicaps through a program of corrective exercise; and to teach sports and leisure-time recreation to every student according to his interest and ability. Complete facilities were set up when the new Woollen gym was built and an efficient staff was called in to carry out this new and expanded program for physical training.

War Changed Course
Then when war came once again to our country, the tides changed once more in the department. The University had been selected for a Navy Pre-Flight school, a training center for V-12 students, and an enlarged program for the NROTC. War, as it always does, changed the course of humanity and that of the physical ed. student at UNC.

Since the Navy physical training program calls for maximum physical conditioning in the shortest possible time, activities such as badminton, golf, handball, dancing, archery, tennis, horseshoe pitching, etc., gave way to a program composed primarily of sports such as wrestling, boxing, gymnastics, tumbling, speedball, basketball, swimming, military track, etc. The appearance of Navy blue and khaki on the campus and the effects of war itself had put the physical ed. department on a more rugged and healthful basis—geared to fit the times of wartime America.

Student Gets Opportunity

The program as it stands today, gives every student an opportunity to receive instruction, and to participate in a variety of activities, which are selected to give the participant various types of physical experiences. Each course has its own, particular purpose and reason for existing and here are the aims of each major course.

The aim of the boxing program is to increase endurance and stamina; to help train the nervous system to be capable of instant reflective action; to help reach and maintain effective body balance and position which will be capable of greatest efficiency; to be able to make rapid and accurate judgment; to teach relaxation and how to keep calm and poised under pressure; and to have self-confidence, courage, and self-reliance.

Wrestling is selected as an ideal sport to prepare students for physical fitness. Its nature provides fine mental tonic of an aggressive attitude and is unexcelled as a means of acquiring physical efficiency, coordination, poise, and effective use of the body.

The swimming program, arranged in continuity throughout all stages, enhances the principal strokes, skills of swimming, and life-saving and water safety. In military track the development of endurance dominates the program. Activities are selected that will keep the student moving. This is done in order that the entire organism might be exercised thoroughly and result in maximum physical condition. Sprinting, jumping
