

SPORT . . . SPINS

with Irwin Smallwood

TENNESSEING: For the second time this season, a North Carolina football team outplayed Tennessee and lost. This time it was the Tar Heels, Saturday to be exact, last time Wake Forest. It was just the never-say-die and tough fighting spirit of the Vols that paid off, as well as the heads up strategy of the experienced Rose Bowl grid warriors.

From the beginning almost to the end, the Vols were held at bay by the hard charging Carolina line, which was the outstanding factor all day for the locals. The Vols were never able to get closer than the 20-yard line till that fatal kickoff return five minutes into the fourth period. Once, shortly before the half, Tennessee got the ball on the Carolina 22 as Don Hartig was tackled while in deep punt formation, but the stubborn Tar Heels held fast, and two line plays and two pass attempts failed for the Vols. This is just one example of the fine work that the line did.

Leading the line in its rough day was little Sid Varney, who was starting his first game, in place of graduated Ed Twohey. Varney was good throughout, and the rugged guard proved to Coach Snavely and fans alike that he could hold down a first string berth. Also, there was Ted Hazelwood, Frank Curran, Ed Golding, Leon Szafaryn, Bill Wardle, Al Bernot in on the list for commendation.

The ends come in for praise all by themselves, with lanky Bill Pritchard, of Chapel Hill and son of Grady Pritchard, former Tar Heel mentor himself, at the top. Pritchard caught the 24-yard touchdown pass as well as several others during the afternoon.

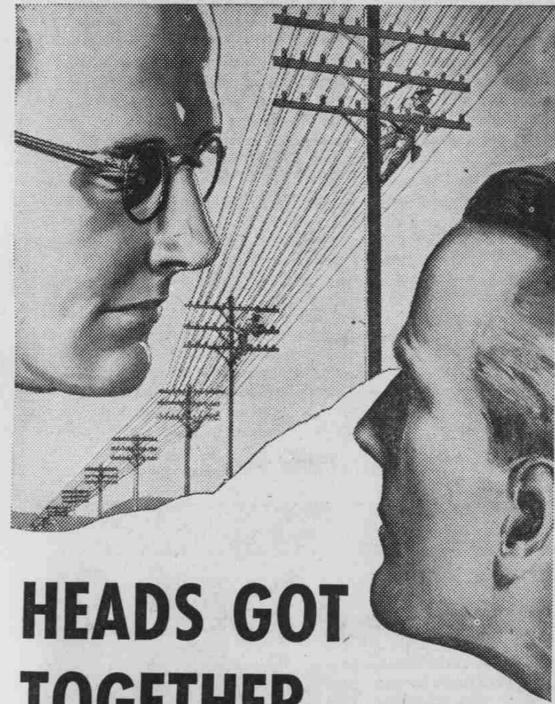

Mike Rubish, Bob Cox and Meade were also on the receiving ends of passes during the tussle, and they all played well defensively. (Passes accounted for 184 yards in the game.)

The offense, although not too efficient in the first half, got rolling in good order in the third period, with big Tom Gorman and Don Clayton leading the way, mostly through the air. Bill Voris, work-horse of the backfield, played almost 60 minutes and turned in a good performance. Gorman and Clayton hit the mark for some 184 yards passing, Gorman flinging a 24-yard aerial for the lone Carolina touchdown. Clayton ran beautifully for 20 yards and a touchdown about three minutes after the game had begun, but it was called back for holding. It was a long pass from Gorman to Bill Flamish just as the half ended that was Carolina's first threat.

Discussing the line was Bob Wilson of the Knoxville News-Sentinel, who said "The Carolina line looked better to me today than the Alabama line did two weeks ago." . . . Said Coach Snavely after the game: "We are never satisfied to lose, but I am certainly pleased with the way the boys played football. They made mistakes, very costly ones, but it was just a lack of experience against a good team, a Rose Bowl team."

MONOGRAM CLUB MEETS

There will be an important meeting of the Monogram Club in Gerard Hall on Tuesday night at 7:30. Some important matters will be taken up, club president Jack Davies asserted and urged all members to attend the meeting.

HEADS GOT TOGETHER

RESULT: MORE TRANSCONTINENTAL TELEPHONE CIRCUITS

With wire scarce and wartime calls increasing, telephone engineers made existing pairs of long distance wires carry nearly four times as many calls as before. This was done through installation of additional carrier equipment, requiring closer spacing of the wires on the line and transpositions at shorter intervals.

Three pairs on the Southern Transcontinental Route were rearranged, and in a 430-mile section this had to be done while keeping the urgently needed wires in service all the time. To do this, new tools and new methods had to be devised in the laboratories and on the job.

This is another among many examples of how Bell System teamwork and engineering skills maintained telephone service under wartime conditions.

Tar Heels Drop Hard Fought Contest To Tennessee Vols In Fourth Period 20-6

Jayvees Swamp South Carolina's Bantams 32-7

Lineweaver Scores Twice In Wild Game

Tar Babies Show Powerful Attack

Carolina's unbeaten Jayvee team offered such a powerful attack in Columbia last week that the University of South Carolina's junior team thought they were playing the varsity as the Blue and White "B" eleven stomped the Bantams to a 32-7 defeat.

John Lineweaver, slender track star, led the Tar Babies' touchdown parade by scoring twice. Three Carolina touchdowns were called back on offside penalties.

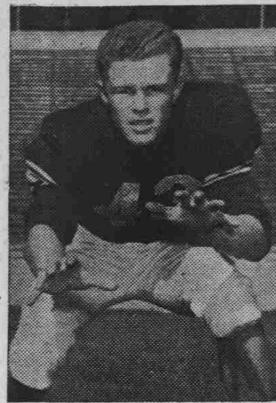

The Jayvees tallied in early part of the first quarter when Lineweaver trucked 28 yards on a reverse from Ed McGee.

The Gamecock juniors scored their lone touchdown in the second period as Proveaux snagged a pass from Lyles and went 20 yards for the marker. Don Ferguson, of Siler City, put the Tar Heel junior team back into the lead by crossing the goal line just before the half ended.

In the third stanza John Colones rifled a pass to Lineweaver who went 10 yards to score. The Tar Babies pushed across two touchdowns in the closing quarter when Jerry Allen of Shelby broke loose on an end-around and dashed 30 yards to pay dirt. Ed McGee added the extra point by bucking center. Bill Crutchfield accounted for the last Carolina marker in the closing minutes of the game by ripping off 10 yards on a center plunge. Ben Haines scored the extra point on a line smash.

Some nice blocking and stubborn line play by Kerns, Cospito, Young, McIntire and Widell, was outstanding. In the backfield Lineweaver, Reynolds, McGee, Colones, Crutchfield and Allen were the sparkplugs.

The Jayvees are idle this week, but journey to Kinston Marine Air Base next Friday to tackle a rugged Leatherneck crew. The Junior varsity beat the Marines, 9-6, in their previous contest.

Bill Pritchard, left, and Sid Varney, right, sparked Carolina's stubborn performance against Tennessee. Pritchard scored the lone Tar Heel touchdown and Varney's line play stood out.

Bill Pritchard Catches Pass For Marker

Varney, Bernot, Spark Line Play

Knoxville, Tenn.—Coach Carl Snavely's Carolina Tar Heels of the gridiron turned in their best performance of the year—for three periods—here Saturday, but the tough Tennessee Volunteers scored three quick touchdowns in the last quarter to beat the Carolinians, 20-6, before a crowd of about 15,000 cold spectators.

With the Tennessee skirmish now history, the Tar Heels are hard on the trail of getting ready for William and Mary, to be played in Norfolk next weekend. Ed Golding, first string guard, and Paul Rizzo, one of the top blocking backs, are both suffering from sprained ankles, but it is hoped that they will be able to go Saturday in Norfolk.

Outstanding for Carolina in the rough encounter more than anyone else was simply the entire line. It was the forward wall that threw the Vols back on their heels three and again throughout the first three periods. Sid Varney, playing in place of graduated Ed Twohey, was way above expectations, and the rugged little guard spent much of his time in the Tennessee backfield before the day was over. Too, Al Bernot, at center, Ted Hazelwood at tackle with Frank Curran, and virtually the whole lot played a good game.

In the backfield, it was Tom Gorman, the passing kid, Don Clayton and Bill Voris that carried the brunt of the work, and this trio shares the honors in that field. Gorman threw the touchdown pass to Bill Pritchard, lanky up and coming Chapel Hill end who stood out all day at his left flank position. Too, Mike Rubish, right end, turned in a good performance, catching two passes in crucial moments.

For three periods the Vols and the Tar Heels battled on almost even terms, although Carolina had a score called back some three minutes after the second half had begun. In that early drive after half-time, Carolina got the ball on the Tennessee 20 as the Vols were penalized for roughing the ball carrier. Behind beautiful blocking, Don Clayton went over to score, only to have it nullified by a holding penalty.

Just before the end of the third quarter, Carolina again got deep in Vol territory on a penalty, gaining possession of the ball on the 18 when the big orange jerseys were docked for illegal use of the elbows. Clayton passed to Mike Rubish for a first down on the four, but the Tennessee line held fast and took over on their own one yard stripe.

Casey Stephenson punted out of bounds on the Vol 26 on the first play following, and the Tar Heels started there what was to be their only touchdown drive. Big Tom Gorman threw to Rubish for 11 yards and a first down on the Tennessee 15. The Tar Heels were pushed back to the 24 in two plays, but on the third down Gorman dropped back and passed to Bill Pritchard who was all alone right over the goal line. Cox attempted to convert, but it was no good. Score 6-0, Tar Heels.

Carolina kicked off to the Volunteers. Bob Lund caught the boot on. See TAR HEELS, page 4.

33 Teams Are Participating In Tag Football Tournament

Marvin Allen, newly acquired intramural athletic director, has announced that the official opening of the tag football activity began Monday afternoon.

The football participants, which are composed of fraternities and dormitories, will have a schedule of Monday through Friday and all games will be played on the intramural fields at 4:30 sharp.

Tag football will continue through the present short term, with the regular play ending on December 7. If necessary, the following week will be held for the play-offs. Immediately following the grid activities will be a wrestling tournament, starting December 11. All entries will be taken the preceding week and those interested are urged to file applications during the designated period.

Fraternities which are competing in the football leagues are as follows: Sigma Nu, ATO, Zeta Psi, Delta Sigma Pi, DKE, Sigma Chi, St. Anthony Hall, Kappa Sigma, Phi Kappa Sigma, Phi Gamma Delta, Pi Kappa Alpha, Beta Theta Pi, Phi Delta Theta, Chi Psi, SAE, TEP, Pi Lambda Phi, and Kappa Alpha. Those representing the dormitories are:

Old West, Old East, Med. School I, BVP, Aycock, 4th Co. ROTC, Graham, 3rd Co. ROTC, Lewis, Everett, 2nd Co. ROTC, Steele, Med. School II, and 1st Co. ROTC.

Games scheduled for the rest of this week are: Tuesday, 4:30, Field No. 1—Old East vs. Old West; Field No. 2—Delta Sigma Pi vs. SAE; Field No. 3—BVP vs. 2nd Co. ROTC; Field No. 4—DKE vs. Pi Lambda Phi; Field No. 5—available for practice. Wednesday, 4:30, Field No. 1—Sigma Chi vs. Phi Delta Theta; Field No. 2—1st Co. ROTC vs. Aycock; Field No. 3—St. Anthony Hall vs. TEP; Field No. 4—3rd Co. ROTC vs. Lewis; Field No. 5—available for practice. Thursday, 4:30, Field No. 1—Kappa Sigma vs. Beta Theta Pi; Field No. 2—Graham vs. Everett; Field No. 3—Sigma Nu vs. Kappa Alpha; Field No. 4—Phi Kappa Sigma vs. Chi Psi; Field No. 5—available for practice. Friday—all fields open for practice.

Director Allen stated that the games would be played under the same rules as used before and emphasized some of the following: Tie game—if the score is tied, the ball will be placed in the middle of the field. See 33 TEAMS, page 4.

to get back in Chapel Hill in this type of work.

As to any definite plan in the intramural department, he can't say as yet; but he comments that there is no school in the country which is quite so well fitted for intramurals as Carolina is.

Our returned friend doesn't seem to ever have much free time away from his daily work but he says that if he ever does have any extra minutes to spare that he usually spends them playing some kind of a sport. The nearest thing to a hobby which he has seems to be reading books, although not too much time is spent in this capacity either. Besides being head of a department, Marvin Allen teaches a Hygiene class and also two physical education classes. (Incidentally, he never likes to use the expression physical ed. (abbreviated) because he says it just doesn't do the term justice.)

UNC is proud and happy to welcome back another of her fighting sons and feels certain that he, like all the rest, will carry on the work in the spirit in which they left off—eager to do all they can for the glory of the white and the blue.

After Four Years In Service Marvin Allen Returns To Job

By Hardinge Menzies
Carolina welcomes back this semester an old friend and an old instructor. Marvin Allen, the intramural sports director here in 1941, returns once more to the tedious job of heading this phase of the physical education department after four years of service in the Navy.

Allen, who is just moving into his old office down in Woollen, is taking over where he left off in the years before the war. Walt James has served as temporary head of the intramural department during the past few years. Obviously in a state of transition between military and civilian life, Allen was busily straightening up his old home in "civvie grey" pants and regulation Navy shirt. A new fluorescent lamp gave his office a business-like air and the bare bulletin boards reminded one of the great new future which lies open to UNC's athletic department.

Having left the Navy as a lieutenant, Allen served forty-two months sea duty on a mine-sweeper in the Bering Sea and also on submarine patrol duty on the east coast at the first of the war. He graduated here in '38 and while getting his Masters, he worked with the intramural activities and with the required physical education program. He is married and now makes his home here in Chapel Hill at 308 Cameron as a boarder of Mrs. Wootten. Of course he loves this place and he says it feels "very good and quite a relief
