

CAROLINA CHATTER

By
CARROLL POPLIN

This afternoon's football classic between Carolina and Wake Forest in Kenan Stadium will mark the 41st time the two teams have met in one of the oldest rivalries in the nation. The first game dates back to 1888, the year that football started at Carolina and the Tar Heels were beaten by the Deacs, 6-4.

Since then Carolina has gotten her share of the victories and the record now stands with the Blue and White clad team holding 30 wins against nine setbacks and one contest resulted in a scoreless tie.

Last season Wake Forest, which had one of the strongest all-civilian teams in the country, gaining a 7-0 decision over the Tar Heels in the opening game of the 1944 campaign.

During Coach Carl Snavelly's two-year stay at Carolina back in 1934 and '35, the Tar Heels rolled over the Deacons 21-0 and 14-0. Today the "Silver Fox" will send an underdog Carolina team on the field as far as the ratings go, but the master of the grid game has been tuning his forces for an upset today, so watch out.

Don't sell the Deacons short, because they have nine veterans back that held first string posts last season and on top of that they have been enjoying a two-week lay-off, which means that they should be in top physical condition for today's battle, despite the recent flu epidemic that hit the Wake Forest camp.

This afternoon's contest may turn out to be a pitching duel between Carolina's Tom Gorman and the Deacons' Nick Sacrinty. Sacrinty made All-Southern tailback in 1943 and has been the spark-plug for Wake Forest this season. He personally accounted for three touchdowns against both Duke and State and has been hitting his receivers with an average of .644 to place him among the top fingers in the nation.

Rattling Off Prattle: Vieing for a position on the Tar Heels' starting backfield is Chuck Simmons, son of Floyd Simmons who was assistant coach to Dr. Otis Lamsen back in 1907. . . . Simmons is due to see a lot of action today, so keep your eyes glued on this fast and shifty runner because he might pull a Norcross feat of last Saturday.

Buster Stevenson, first stringer on the 1943 cage outfit, has been discharged from the Navy and plans to enter school on Monday. This should be a big boost to Coach Carnevale's hopes of producing another Southern

Locals Battle Deacs Today

an afternoon of hard-fought football, with Wake Forest's Sacrinty and Carolina's Tom Gorman locking horns in passing duels. Norcross will take care of most of the running for the Tar Heels, and Sacrinty will do the same for the Deacs.

Norcross to Start
Coach Snavelly's starting Norcross at the tailback spot today is by no means an indication that Gorman is being replaced. On the other hand, it appears to be the object of the "Silver Fox" to hold Gorman back until the psychological moment. Gorman is much more experienced than Norcross, and he undoubtedly will see plenty of action during the course of the afternoon.

It will be the first time this season that the Baptists have put in a performance in this section, and at the time of this writing, it appeared that the standouts of both aggregations would be ready to take the field at game time.

Advantage for the Deacons comes in the fact that they have been idle for two weeks, and really three with a breather in the slate two weeks ago. This, of course, is in addition to their superiority in experience and possession of really outstanding individuals offensively.

Band Will Do Fancy Marching Today

With majorettes Bettie Gaither and Jane Peete and drum major Don Robinson doing some dynamic stepping, the University band will present some fancy marching this afternoon during the Wake Forest game. The Wake Forest band will join them on the field during the half.

The band has been practicing until dark getting ready for that big weekend in Durham next week. This will be their first trip this year. Since a number of old members are returning, there has been great improvement in the 60-piece band, says director Earl A. Sloum.

After furnishing most of the spirit for last night's pep rally the band will glorify the field this afternoon with some precise marching and formations, highlighted by the victory march.

Cross Country Men Tackle State Today

Ransomen Topple Duke by Score of 20-39
On Carolina Course; Cold Rain Interferes

By Bob Friedlander

Racing through a sea of mud over the three and one-half mile cross-country course last Wednesday afternoon the Tar Heels defeated Duke by a 20 to 39 score in a return engagement with the Blue Devils.

Coach Ranson is fielding an eleven man squad in this afternoon's meet with State. Starting during the first quarter of today's football game, the race will begin and finish at Kenan Stadium. Only one more contest remains on the schedule after the meet today, the Virginia fray December 1. To date only the defeat at Annapolis has marred an otherwise perfect record.

In view of the treacherous condition of the track, the times that were turned in Saturday were excellent. Duke's Jim Davis, in beating Bob Dodson by over twenty yards, covered the distance in 19:54, one of the fastest collegiate times ever recorded for the course. Charlie Beetham, former National track champion and once attached to the Pre-Flight School here, is credited with the best time ever performed over the Carolina trails.

Four more Tar Heels, Art Lamb, George Harris, Frank Hatch, and Bill Chafin finished close on Dodson's heels. O. A. Allen, Jack Strait, and Jack Hester finished eighth, eleventh and fourteenth respectively, to round out the eight-man team. Unofficial runners for Carolina were Bob Eagle, Mack Hobkirk, and Jim Bolch.

The rain, which had been coming down steadily before the race, turned into a downpour just before the start. It is doubtful that the runners ever ran under more unfavorable conditions. The mud was ankle deep as the soaked tracksters negotiated the final lap of the course. Only about a mile and a half, though, is along the trails, the rest of the route following dirt roads.

Daily practice for the indoor season is continuing, with Coach Ranson still on the lookout for promising material. It is too early to make any predictions for the campaign, but if past Carolina track teams are any indication, the cindermen should be in for a good season.

Varsity Cagers Will Accelerate Work Next Week

The 'A' squad of the basketball White Phantoms was about chosen as the week's practice ended yesterday afternoon, and accelerated work is on deck for next week with the season opener less than three weeks away.

"We are still on fundamentals," Coach Ben Carnevale said yesterday. "We have had half-court scrimmages, and have been working on passing, shooting and defense, but next week we plan to get down to harder work, including full-court scrimmage sessions."

Included on the probable varsity squad are five lettermen and three old Carolina players who have just returned from the armed service. Monogram men are Jim Jordan, high scoring second string All-American last year, John Dillon, hook shot artist, Bob Paxton, Don Anderson and Ira Norfolk. Jim White, Jim Hayworth and Taylor Thorne played for the Phants back in 1942 and 1943.

Several new men also occupy tentative berths on the roster, Vinny DeLorenzo, Roger Sholbe, John Fields and Miles. Red Hughes and John Gregory, 'B' team men last season are also included. Buster Stevenson, from Winston-Salem and another former Phantom, is expected to enter school next week, as is Ralph Dayvault, a Kannapolis boy who did some freshman playing for Wake Forest before entering the service.

Coaches Carnevale and Pete Mullis send their charges into action for the first time December 5, against Camp Lee, Va. The game is set for Woollen gym and will be the first of 13 already scheduled home encounters.

Mat Recruits Meet Monday In Gymnasium

Quinlan to See
Group at 4:30

All men interested in varsity wrestling this winter will meet in the wrestling room of Woollen gymnasium Monday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock for an organizational meeting, head Coach Chuck Quinlan announced to the Tar Heel yesterday. All candidates are asked to report in street clothes Monday.

This meeting is an all-important affair, as it is hoped that regular practice sessions will be started Tuesday or Wednesday afternoon. All classes are wide open, with but few squad members from last season back.

Quinlan, in his 20th coaching year at Carolina, embarks on his first anywhere near big season since the war, Monday, and in reporting to the Tar Heel yesterday he made it clear that it was essential that all students interested show up at the meeting Monday afternoon.

Gone this season will be big Laurie Hooper, captain of the crew last year, the top-notch grappler having received his commission in the October graduation of the NROTC. However, several men will be on hand who saw some action last year and some who were out but failed to make the team. Too, Art Bleuthenthal, regular for Quinlan in 1941, is back from the armed service, as is Wiley Long, a squad man from a couple of years back who is also just recently discharged from the army air forces.

The season this year will be a considerable bit more active than last, with an already six-meet slate replacing the three-contest agenda of 1944-45. Duke and Navy were the only foes last year, but Duke, Georgia Tech and Virginia are now on the schedule on a home and home basis.

There is a good possibility that two or more meets will be added a little later, but there is nothing definite as yet. Virginia Military Institute is a prospect for more meets, as are several of the other North Carolina schools if they resume the mat sport this season.

Last year the Tar Heel wrestlers lost all three of the matches, two to Duke and one to Navy. This was the worst showing in history of a Carolina wrestling team, but it is anticipated that the squad this year will be able to do a considerable bit better.

Coach Quinlan will be on hand to get a look at all the prospects, and the regular drills should be well underway by the end of the week. Workouts will be held five days a week to start, and the practice hour will be decided upon at the meeting Monday.

ton, Notre Dame will be met November 24 and Tulane December 1. The contests are carried on through postal service, and Lt. (jg) R. C. Marker is supervising officer for Carolina. Gunner's Mate 2c Joe Grich is coach of the team.

NROTC Rifle Team Meets Washington

Carolina's NROTC rifle team got back into action last week, firing against the University of Washington crew. Results of the meet were not available as the Tar Heel went to press.

The Tar Heel riflemen were without the services of four of their best men, Blant Belk, Paul Ludwig, Ralph Bryan and Robert Comet, these men having graduated with commissions the last of October. A. H. Toothman, high scorer for the UNC lads in several meets earlier in the fall, Log Whaley, D. F. Ryder, J. A. Walters, C. H. White and J. R. Wilkinson comprise the team this term.

Following the meet with Washing-
