Pilotless Plane To Be Demonstrated Monday In Orange County Victory Loan Drive Show

Public Is Invited To Emerson Field

By Bill Corley
The Army's radio-controlled target plane, a closely guarded wartime secret, will be publicly demonstrated on Emerson Field, Monday at 4 p. m., as part of the Orange County Victory Loan Drive, J. M. Saunders, committee chairman, announced today. The target plane, officially designated the OQ-1, is 9 feet in length and has a wing span of 12 feet. Catapulted into the air from a 36-foot launching ramp, the model proceeds to put on a spectacular performance including deep banks, loops, spins and rolls.

Gasoline Engine

Powered by an eight horsepower two-cycle constant speed gasoline engine, the plane develops a maximum level speed of slightly over 100 miles per hour, and a diving speed of approximately 150 miles per hour. With its normal fuel load of 1 1/2 gallons, the plane can remain in the air about an hour and five minutes.

A sending station on the ground sends out frequency modulated waves which actuate a servo unit in the plane, thus controlling the elevators and rudder. Five different audio frequencies are generated and modulated by the control unit, of which, four are used in guiding the plane while the fifth keeps the parachute in position for the landing.

When the demonstration is completed the "ground controller" cuts the engine by radio and opens a hatch on the ship's fuselage releasing a parachute by which the model is lowered safely to the ground.

Lt. Johnny E. Gambill heads the seven-man team coming from Fort Bragg to stage the demonstration.

Morrison, a former president of the Dialectic Senate, to serve as temporary speaker until the election of permanent officers. Lackey was elected chairman of the membership committee and Jean Huske, Howard Merry, Morrison and Bill Hight, members of the committee. Blount Stewart was elected chairman of the program committee and authorized to select a four-man committee to work under him. It was ordered that his committee contain at least one coed.

The special committee of the Tar Heel staff was authorized to work with Stewart to draft a constitution to be presented at the regular meeting in the Phi Hall Tuesday night at 7:30. This committee is headed by Lackey, and consists of Al Lowenstein, Fred McNider, Merry and Stewart.

Lawrence Berry is acting as temporary secretary, and Morrison has appointed John May temporary sergeant-at-arms.

Hall Returned

Donald Shropshire, president pro tem of the Dialectic Senate, stated that the Di was very happy that the Phi is being re-organized. Chancellor House said the University administration will give full support to the Phi, and will return to the Phi all the property which it owned when it was disbanded. This includes the impressive Phi Hall on the fourth floor of New East, and a portrait collection which, together with the Di's portrait collection in North Carolina. The archives of the Phi, which are intact for the 150 years of the Phi's existence, are being stored in the University library together with a valuable autograph collection of signatures of governors, presidents, authors, judges, justices, congressmen and legislators.

The program committee under Stewart is charged with the responsibility of arranging for the first meeting Tuesday night. At that time the charter members will be initiated and permanent officers will be elected. According to the proposed constitution, these officers will serve for the remainder of this term, and officers will be elected for each subsequent quarter, there being no limit of the time an officer may serve.

The ninth annual exhibition of North Carolina Artists, sponsored by the University Art Department in Person Hall Gallery will be held this year in Chapel Hill from December 2 to 30, it was announced today by Miss Helene Tiranoff, Curator of the Gallery.

Deadline for entries, Miss Tiranoff said today, is November 24, when all exhibits must be in Person Hall.

Different Mediums
Exhibitors must be North Carolina residents and works to be shown must have been done since January, 1944, she explained. Four works may be submitted in any one of several of the following media: oil, water color, pastel, drawing, print, and sculpture. Oils should be framed and water colors, drawings or graphic arts should be matted.

It is expected that this year's exhibits will include a number of works by returning veterans who have been unable to enter in the last several years.

After December 30, the exhibit will be shown during the month of January in the State Art Gallery in Raleigh. From there it will be shown at the Community Center in Greenville.

The jury of judges to select works to be exhibited are, in addition to Miss Tiranoff, John Rembert, head of the Meredith College Art Department, and Miss Katherine Morris, head of the St. Mary's Art Department. Miss Morris is former director of the State Art Gallery.

Chapel Hill Girl Sings In Concert

Miss Johnnie Bason, talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Bason of Chapel Hill, who has had singing roles in the two recent Broadway hits, "Helen Goes to Troy" and "The Seven Lively Arts," will appear as the soprano soloist with the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra when it makes four appearances at the Marine Base at Camp Lejeune today and tomorrow. The other soloist for the four concerts is Mrs. May Jo Perky, pianist, from Asheville, who, according to Director Benjamin F. Swalin, is a "remarkably versatile musician."

Miss Bason is now rehearsing for the new Broadway musical show, "Nelly Bly." She is a graduate of Salem College and Mrs. Perky received her degree in music at the University.

Dr. U. T. Holmes Will Preside At Language Meeting

Dr. Urban T. Holmes Jr., Kenan professor in the University Department of Romance Languages, will preside over the 15th annual meeting of South Atlantic Modern Language Association to be held at the University of South Carolina in Columbia next Friday and Saturday, Dr. Holmes is president of the Association this year.

Dr. Sturgis E. Leavitt, Kenan professor of Spanish in the University, is a member of the executive committee of the Association and editor of the South Atlantic Bulletin, official publication. He is also a former president of the organization.

Sessions will get under way on the South Carolina campus Friday morning at 10 o'clock when departmental section meetings are scheduled, and will continue through Sunday noon.

politicos gave up trying to predict returns, and just waited like the common people.

Next on the order of business came a violent period of hand-shaking, back-slapping, and consoling losers. It was then that the fun really started; this was the culmination of over a month's activity, and bitter rivals once again became big buddies.

Just as the Tar Heel party started, it came to a halt. All ten of the Frosh Executive members were finally selected, the crowd had filtered out until all that was left were a few big-wigs still huddled together discussing plans for next Wednesday's run-off election.

So as we left two small groups of campus leaders busy plotting strategy, we went away, having marked another in the long line of Carolina elections.
