

IRC TO Hold Student Day Celebration

Hexner, Poteat To Address Group

Saturday, November 17, was International Students Day, and Carolina will observe it formally tomorrow evening under the sponsorship of the International Relations Club. In Graham Memorial Lounge, faculty and students will participate in the worldwide campus memorials to the 156 students of Charles University in Prague who were massacred by Nazi machine guns when they peacefully demonstrated against German occupation of their Czechoslovak Republic.

Carolina's observance, which includes speakers William Poteat, Assistant Secretary of the YMCA; Prof. Hexner, of the Economic Department, and L. P. McLendon, of the Veterans Association, a skit on the history of IS Day, and singing of songs of many countries, will hear reports on the International Students Congress which opened last Saturday in Prague. Called by the student organizations of England and Czechoslovakia, it has delegates from all the United Nations.

On its agenda is reports on the activities and conditions of the Universities during the war, the extent to which they were damaged, and discussions on student relief, policies of student organizations toward higher education, and on international students' cooperation in peace.

Women's Glee Club Sets New Record With 164 Singers

The addition of 41 new voices to the Women's Glee Club has made this year's group of 164 singers the largest in the organization's history. Increased membership has made it necessary to search for practice rooms which can be used in place of the choral room in Hill Hall.

At the present time membership is closed to all but exceptionally talented girls, says Jane Worrall, president. A steady growth has been shown by the club with 32 members in 1943 and 92 in 1944. Work has already begun on the Christmas concert which will be given with the Men's Glee Club. A panorama of Yuletide music ranging from sixteenth century carols to contemporary melodies will be featured.

UNC Student Guarded Atomic Bomb Secret

C. Leroy Shuping, Carolina alumnus and member of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity who held a post of great importance in the Army Counter Intelligence Corps, recently visited the campus. Shuping studied law here and later became an agent for the F.B.I. He was a member of the group of men who were given the responsibility of protecting the secrets involved in the development and production of the atomic bomb.

You can buy War Bonds at either the Bank or the Post Office.

New Kenan Professors...

S. E. Leavitt

J. N. Couch

T. F. Hickerson

Clarence Heer

F. M. Green

R. P. Vance

U. T. Holmes

UNC Announces Appointment Of Seven New Kenan Professorships

Couch, Green, Heer Among Those Named

Appointments of new Kenan professors are a major event in any University, and the announcement yesterday of the election of seven more faculty members to this highly select group will occasion widespread interest.

The new Kenan professors and their fields are Professors John N. Couch, in botany; Fletcher M. Green, history; Clarence Heer, economics; Urban T. Holmes, Romance languages; T. Felix Hickerson, mathematics; Sturgis E. Leavitt, Spanish; Rupert B. Vance, sociology.

Representing one of the highest honors the Trustees can confer on members of the University's teaching staff, the new awards were made at a recent meeting of the Executive Committee of the Trustees upon recommendation of President Frank P. Graham and Chancellor Robert B. House and the faculty.

The Kenan Professorship Endowment and Reserve Fund, which made the appointments possible, was established at the University in 1917 by the will of the late Mrs. Mary Lily Kenan Bingham, in memory of her father, William R. Kenan, and her uncles, James G. Kenan and Thomas S. Kenan, who were graduates of the University. It has not only served as a means of drawing and keeping on the University faculty men of the highest calibre, but it has also served in an invaluable manner as an award of merit for men who have distinguished themselves here as scholars and teachers. The Kenan Endowment now amounts to approximately $2,100,000.

Other professors in the University, in addition to those just appointed, who hold Kenan professorships at present are George R. Coffman, Robert E. Coker, William C. Coker, William M. Dey, John F. Dashiell, J. G. deR. Hamilton, Archibald Henderson, Edgar W. Knight, William deB. McNider, Howard W. Odum, Arthur E. Ruark, W. Carson Ryan, George C. Taylor and Berthold L. Ullman.

Dr. Cotten, Dr. MacKinney Discuss Playmaker Show

Dr. Lyman A. Cotten, English department, and Dr. L. C. MacKinney, History department, discuss in this article the next major production of the Carolina Playmakers, T. S. Eliot's "Murder in the Cathedral," to be presented December 6, 7, 8.

"Murder in the Cathedral" is a poetic dramatization of the life of Thomas A. Becket, Archbishop of Canterbury in the 12th century, up to the time and ending with his murder which King Henry II allowed to take place. It is a straightforward play, written to appeal to a wide public.

Gripping Play
Dr. Cotten, who is now making a close study of Eliot's works, says: "It should grip the audience very deeply because the incident itself is highly dramatic, because the human feelings which Eliot expresses in the play are vital ones, and finally because the language is powerful and beautiful."

Dr. MacKinney adds: "The general historical pattern is all right, and the psychological clash between the King and Archbishop, the state and church, is well portrayed."

According to Dr. Cotten, the theme of "Murder in the Cathedral" is the question of martyrdom, and Eliot tries to show all the human qualities involved. Even though the scene is laid in the 12th century, the problems are universal.

In a way the play is paradoxical as Dr. Cotten points out: "It tries to show the church as a stabilizing force on the world and also as a disrupting force." Dr. MacKinney especially likes "the statements brought forth in the play as to Becket's reversal of aims and destructive attitude on national unity and royal power."

New Literary Form
Dr. Cotten stressed during the interview that Becket was a human, dramatic figure, that Eliot was striving for a new literary form in poetry—the fusing of verse and drama more closely than has ever been done in our modern age. Dr. MacKinney feels historically "that the outcome of it all, the King's repentance and doubtless sincere regret of Becket's death, should come into the picture. Eliot perhaps couldn't include it, but these points should be kept in mind. I could pick minor flaws of omission but in general I think the presentation is a faithful modern glance into the past."

Hill Merchants Get Thank Vote For Donations

Officials of the Carolina Independent Coeds Association together with the Veterans' Organization and Graham Memorial directors have released a list of local merchants who donated prizes for Sadie Hawkins Day. It was due directly to their cooperation on so short a notice that the day proved so successful. Campus heads have agreed to begin preparations for next year's celebration several months in advance.

Merchants who contributed include: Andrews-Henninger Co., University Cafe, Campus Cafe, Danziger's, Shields and Huntley Grocery, Harry's, A&P Store, A&P Meat department, Fowler's Food Store, Hill Bakery, Varsity Soda Shop, Berman's Department Store, University Florist, Chapel Hill Flower Shop, Vicker's Riding Academy and to Lenoir Dining Hall for use of the loud speaker system.

Former Tar Heel Boss Don Bishop Pays Visit To University Campus

By Bill Rutledge

1st Lt. Don Bishop, former editor of The Tar Heel, and Cpl. Alan Waters, one-time foreign correspondent for the London Daily Mail, arrived here Monday for a combination business-pleasure visit to the University.

Both Lt. Bishop and Cpl. Waters are members of the Army Ground Forces' Public Relations Office, and came here from Fort Jackson, S. C., where they are attached to the headquarters of the 30th "Old Hickory" Infantry Division as part of a team conducting publicity campaigns on army units and personnel returned from overseas.

This is the first opportunity Lt. Bishop has had to visit Carolina since his graduation in 1941, when he was editor of The Tar Heel.

Cpl. Waters, whose home is in Surbiton, Surrey, England, is also a former student of the University, having attended college here in 1934-35. Coming to the U. S. in 1940 as Assistant North American Representative of the London Daily Mail, Cpl. Waters acted in that capacity until 1942 when he was inducted into the U. S. Army under the provisions that made non-citizens as well as citizens eligible for military service. He wears a Unit Citation awarded by the Army War College for outstanding work in the journalistic field. Lt. Bishop stated that work with the Public Relations Office had proved interesting during his service with that branch.

"Publicity trends change over a period of time in the Army," he said. "Once almost any kind of news was acceptable in army publications, when the bulk of the troops were still in the States training. When they began shipping overseas in sizeable numbers, of course only overseas news predominated."

One purpose of their visit to Chapel Hill is to check on how acceptable to civilian agencies are the news releases from Army Public Relations Offices.

The two include in their duties frequent radio work and participation in victory bond campaigns in addition to providing news for camp newspapers. After a short stay at Chapel Hill, they will go to New Bern, home of Lt. Bishop, where they will participate in a radio broadcast in connection with ceremonies commemorating the 113th Artillery Battalion, which originated in that city as a Regiment of the 30th Infantry Division.

E-type War Bonds yield 2.90 per cent if held 10 years to maturity.

Imperial Chinese Portraits Now On Display In Library

By Mary Jane Gallaher

Imperial Chinese portraits of the Son and the Daughter of Heaven Seated Upon their Dragon Throne are now being displayed in the main hall of the library of the University of North Carolina.

GM Schedules Snap Contest

Judges to Vote On Dogpatch Theme

Graham Memorial directress, Martha Rice, is planning a Sadie Hawkins picture exhibit and contest to be held in the Roland Parker lounge from November 29 to December 2, it was announced yesterday.

Campus photographers are urged to turn in their snaps for judging before November 26, so that the entire exhibit can be attractively arranged before prizes are awarded on December 1. Plans call for a four-man board of judges, including one professional photographer, to evaluate the snaps. It was pointed out that the exhibit is not limited to size, color or subject matter provided that the theme covers any part of the Sadie Hawkins Day celebration.

With the awarding of places will be a special ceremony honoring the ADPI sorority for the most participation during the Dogpatch frolics. Graham Memorial directors refused to comment on the prize except to say that "it would prove a worthwhile gift."

All pictures will be taken care of during the entire exhibit, with judges for the event to be announced in a later issue of the Tar Heel. Entries can be turned into Graham Memorial office or to Nancy Greenwall in McIver dormitory.

Year Book Beauty Section Winners To Be Announced

Highlighting festivities of the Duke-Carolina week-end will be the announcement Saturday night at the final dance of the nine winners of the Yackety Yack beauty contest.

A queen and eight attendants will be announced Saturday night. Pictures of these girls will constitute the beauty section of the 1946 Yackety Yack.

Instead of the lengthy figure and judging procedure at the dance it was decided this year that announcement of the winners would speed the progress of the dance since over fifty coeds participating in a figure consumes too much dancing time.

Pictures of 62 entries were mailed to Humphrey Bogart for judging last week.

The Grail is sponsoring the dance Saturday night and actually the affair will not be classed as the Yack beauty ball. Yack staff members were advised not to undertake the sponsoring of a dance for December 1 as was originally planned.

Editor Fred Flagler will make the announcements of the winners at the final dance. The winners will have pictures other than those entered in the contest for the yearbook, Flagler stated. Joe Denker, publications photo manager, will handle the picture taking of the winners at a later date.

Hung on either side of a stairway arch these brilliantly painted portraits attract the attention of all who enter the building. The Son and Daughter of Heaven, in magnificent robes are seated upon lacquer chairs, known as the Dragon Thrones, and look out upon the world with the enigmatic gravity which the West has learned to associate with the Far East. The size is impressive as they are about 5 by 10 feet and painted in beautifully blended colors, predominantly red and gold.

These portraits, in the form of scrolls, are called Kakemono by the Chinese, and this scroll work is their chief form of painting. They were presented to the University in 1933 by Col. Robert S. Pickens of Leesburg, Va., formerly of Charlotte, N. C. Col. Pickens is a graduate of the University.

In China such paintings are intended for wall hangings and somewhat take the place of tapestries as used in the Western world. The Kakemono are unframed and an important difference in Eastern and Western painting lies in the method of exhibition. The Chinese panel or scroll is not kept in view continuously, but is a family treasure to be brought out for a brief period of time and put in a place of honor or shown to a connoisseur. It is then rolled up and put away in a place of safety.

Chinese painting is almost invariably done on silk and once the brush has touched the fabric the stroke cannot be altered. This demands of the painter not only perfect control in handling but also careful planning of his work. Chinese painters along this line have never been excelled and their work on silk, which is especially prepared with alum, is practically indestructible. The Chinese school of painting is one of the earliest of which we have any record, and its beginnings are lost in the early days before written history began.

Choral Society Plans To Present 'Messiah' Dec. 16

The Chapel Hill Choral Club under the direction of Paul Young is holding practices in preparation for its presentation of Handel's "The Messiah," on Monday night at 1:30 p.m. The performance of "The Messiah," the greatest of all Handel oratorios, will take place on Sunday night, Dec. 16.

The Club presented this same work last year and is repeating it this year by popular request. It is expected that the chorus will number about 250 singers and that an orchestra of 30 players will accompany the work. The Club is still open for membership. Students, being urged to take advantage of the benign urgency to take advantage of the opportunity.

Mountaineer: "Doc, I want you to look at my son-in-law. I shot him yesterday and took a piece out of his ear."

Doctor: "Shame on you shooting at your son-in-law."

Mountaineer: "He wasn't my son-in-law when I shot him."
—The Communicue

Crossword Puzzle

- ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE
- ACROSS
- 1—Station
  - 6—Indian trophy
  - 11—Sea soldier
  - 12—Spiral stocking
  - 14—Turkish officer
  - 15—Evergreen tree
  - 17—Stitch
  - 18—No good (abbr.)
  - 19—In lukewarm fashion
  - 21—The (Fr.)
  - 22—Burr
  - 24—Supplement
  - 25—Bitters (Fr.)
  - 27—Costly fur
  - 29—Olivers
  - 31—Sash
  - 22—Snow runner
  - 33—Greet
  - 36—Looked closely
  - 39—Small brown bird
  - 40—Prefix had
  - 42—Squirmy
  - 43—Each (abbr.)
  - 44—Observations
  - 47—Child's word for father
  - 48—Town in Oklahoma
  - 50—Noted operatic soprano
  - 51—Merry
  - 52—Rogue
  - 54—Odes in
  - 56—Plant cell
  - 57—School officials

- DOWN
- 1—Dirk
  - 2—Period of time
  - 3—Geometric ratio
  - 4—Single time
  - 5—Indian's home
  - 6—Dig
  - 7—Ringlet
  - 8—Toward
  - 9—Lieutenants (abbr.)
  - 10—Paree
  - 11—Parish house
  - 13—Wide-mouthed jugs
  - 16—African antelope
  - 18—Roman magistrate
  - 20—New Englanders
  - 23—Soap plant
  - 25—Watered silk
  - 28—Louse egg
  - 30—Chemical suffix
  - 32—Vow
  - 34—Spanish farms
  - 35—Put on spike
  - 36—Covered, as with silver
  - 37—Older persons
  - 38—Couples
  - 41—Jest
  - 45—Coast Guard member
  - 46—String
  - 49—Tiger
  - 51—Skin growth
  - 53—Prefix: with
  - 55—Tantalum (symp.)

Drawn by United Picture Syndicate, Inc.

