Persian Revolt

Azerbaijan, a province of Iran, has revolted against Iranian government. The province is temporarily occupied by Russia. Troops which the Iranian government sent to quell the uprising were stopped at the border by Russia. The Iranian government accuses Russia of instigating the revolt and arming the rebels. Moscow denies both charges. Great Britain is displeased at what may be Russian political activity in Iran because of British-Russian oil rivalry in that area.

Mrs. Napier Has Taken Care Of News For 8 Years

By Mel Cohen

Elizabeth Napier is one of the best reasons that news items about the University are published throughout the state. For eight years Mrs. Napier, assistant head of the University News Bureau, has worked clearing hundreds of dispatches daily to newspapers, radio stations, and presses in North Carolina and other states.

Every day she is busy verifying and writing stories and preventing the office from becoming chaotic. At the same time Mrs. Napier efficiently and methodically keeps the news flowing. She's the woman "behind the scenes."

She graduated from the Columbia School of Journalism in 1933, one of the last to be admitted there with undergraduate standing. Shortly after graduation she married and came to the University where her husband was doing graduate work.

Only twice has she left the campus for any great length of time. When her husband earned a scholarship from the Belgium-American Foundation to study in Europe, Mrs. Napier went abroad with him for six months. Two years ago, while getting some material for a story at the airport outside Chapel Hill, she became interested in flying and started taking lessons.

She obtained a student license and when Jacqueline Cochran, the famous woman flyer, organized the Wasps, Mrs. Napier applied. In April she was in. She took the regular physical and other tests at Fort Bragg and entered training for the ferrying command at Sweetwater, Texas.

The training was patterned after the Army Air Corps except for combat training and was plenty tough, but Mrs. Napier firmly believes that it did her good. The only complaint that she registers is that the first time she flew upside down "I couldn't get my feet out of my mouth."

She returned to the News Bureau last fall. Her interest in flying hasn't diminished one iota. When she heard that the neglected airport outside Chapel Hill might be rejuvenated, she exclaimed, "I hope they do. I've been waiting for this."

Lyons Helps Speed Yanks Home In Work In China

Due to the amazing amount of accurate information obtained throughout the war by military intelligence agents, the American Army was able to begin the job of rescuing their countrymen from Jap prison camps in China within a week after Japan's peace terms were accepted, Major J. Coriden Lyons of the Department of Romance Languages of the University told the Faculty Club of the University in an address this week.

Major Lyons, who was recently discharged from the Army and has resumed his University post, was with the Military Intelligence Division of the Army in China at the time the Japs capitulated.

Intelligence agents had done their job so well that when the war ended the American Army knew fairly well where each prisoner of war camp was located and approximately how many prisoners each camp held, said Major Lyons.

Major Lyons told of a sad experience of one American airplane outfit that attempted a premature rescue. After landing, the plane was surrounded by Japs who permitted the fliers to spend the night but sent them away the next morning, although the war had ended. The Japs at that camp hadn't got their orders from their headquarters.

So effective were these propaganda leaflets that between 85 and 90 percent of all American fliers and Chinese airmen working with Americans, who had to make forced landings or bail out, eventually found their way back to Allied lines, Major Lyons said.

Lilly Visits Campus

Col. E. J. Lilly, class of 1915, visited the campus this week-end. Col. Lilly was with Generals MacArthur and Wainwright on Bataan and was imprisoned with Wainwright following the death march on Bataan.

Dr. Koo To Speak Y Supper Forum At Baptist Church

Dr. T. Z. Koo will highlight the Religious Emphasis Week program at the regular bi-monthly "Y" supper tonight in the Baptist Church, Mr. Harry Comer, YMCA secretary, announced.

All campus and town representatives of the coming World Student Service Fund drive are especially encouraged to be present at this supper meeting. Dr. Koo will speak on the principles of the WSSF, that for the past several years has supported universities all over the world, which in many cases were operating "underground" and in caves and dens. Having recently worked with a number of these organizations, Koo is well qualified to speak on this subject, which will be of special interest to all WSSF cabinet members.

Supper begins at 6 o'clock in the basement of the Baptist church, and will be over in time for students to attend the evening forum of Religious Week, to be led by Chaplain S. J. Meany in Memorial Hall at 7:30. Tickets may be purchased for 35 cents from "Y" cabinet members, or in the YMCA office.

Music Department Adds Violinist To Faculty Staff

Willis C. Gates, violinist, has been added to the Music Department faculty. Mr. Gates, who has been in the Army Air Forces for the past four years, has been a music instructor at Livingston State Teachers College in Alabama and in the Baltimore public schools.

He received his B.M. degree and Teacher's Certificate, cum laude, from the Peabody Conservatory of Music in 1930. Later he studied Music Education at Penn State College and Johns Hopkins University. Such masters as Frank Gittelton, pupil of the late Leopold Auer and Concertmaster of the Baltimore and National Symphony Orchestras, Carl Flesch and Russell Gerhart have been Mr. Gates' teachers.

While serving in the armed forces, Mr. Gates played in and did solo stints for the Ellington Field Band, Houston Texas, and was a Special Services officer at Selman Field, Monroe, La., where he also directed the glee club.

In addition to teaching violin, Mr. Gates plans to work on his M.A. degree while at the University. He is serving as Concertmaster in the University Symphony Orchestra and will also appear on various programs throughout the year to be presented by the Department of Music.

Versatile Vivacious Vance Versed In Various Ventures

By Elaine Patton

"Still waters run deep," and when we look in on our new student body president, Charlie Vance, we find him stirred by a restless urge—an urge that drives him to not only do well, but to excel in everything he undertakes. We aren't surprised to learn that he has been on the honor roll with an average of 93 ever since he has been here. Yet, his complex nature shows his love for contrast, as he is particularly fond of night life (and we don't mean "books open all night").

Tri-Delt Sorority Gives Scholarship

Up to $200 will be awarded by the national Delta Delta Delta sorority next February to Carolina coed Juniors and Seniors who apply and qualify as women of "fine character," valuable citizens in the post-war, and who need financial assistance because of "economic dislocations resulting from the war."

Applications must be in by the first of the new year. Full information may be obtained from Dean Stacy. The Delta Delta Delta Committee on Awards shall be the sole judge of the respective merits of the applicants.

Candidates Heard

At the beginning of the meeting, Morrison asked the Assembly to hear speeches by Bill Walker and Charlie Vance, candidates for president of the student body. These two men presented their views on student government, and stated what they would do for student government if elected.

Lackey, who was chairman of the temporary constitution committee, presented a constitution which was ratified by the Assembly. The constitution was amended to the effect that it could be changed at any time by a majority vote of the Assembly, a quorum being present. There was a divided discussion of the manner in which future members should be elected into the Assembly, but a compromise was reached by adding the majority stipulation to the constitution. It was understood that at a future date a more binding constitution would be presented for ratification.

Honor Council Bill

A motion by Stewart, chairman of the temporary program committee, was introduced and passed to place a bill concerning the honor system first on the calendar in the discussion period at the next meeting.

Perhaps it is because of his versatility that he has difficulty in deciding upon any one field. Or perhaps, it is because his greatest talent lies in music, as he is not only an excellent pianist but has played the French horn and the trombone for the band in Winston-Salem, his hometown. However, his musical talents aren't limited to "following in the footsteps" of others. His favorite hobby, that of collecting bottles (anything from castor oil to whiskey bottles) developed into quite an art when he began testing them for tone, and by suspending them in a wooden frame and using a metal rod to bring forth sound, he formed a musical instrument similar to xylophone that made him quite popular for performances in the Kiwanis Club, Lions Club, Rotary Club, and was drawn to the attention of the public by the English Department Journal.

Among his numerous enthusiasms (including blondes, brunettes and redheads), are tennis and swimming, while his most enduring qualities are his sincerity and deep sense of loyalty.

A former student of Carolina, he has always been active in campus activities. Before entering the army, he served as Speaker of the Student Legislature, chairman of Board of Directors of Graham Memorial, chairman of Ways and Means Committee, a member of Student Welfare Board ("loads of fun"), scribe of Order of the Grail, member of Golden Fleeca, Treasurer of Interfraternity Council, member of House Privileges Board and football manager.
