

Alumni Veteran Group Wants Traveling Scholarship Fund

Letter To Graham Calls For Memorial To Send Carolina Professors Abroad

By Mary Hill Gaston

To commemorate Carolina students who have offered their services and, in many cases, their lives to gain world peace, 15 recent graduates of the University have proposed establishment of a War Memorial Fund which will aid Chapel Hill in strengthening the foundations for universal peace and understanding laid by these men.

The proposal has come in a letter to President Graham. It suggests a fund to send University professors out to study and travel in foreign countries, so that they might return to Chapel Hill invigorated with new ideas and a more intimate knowledge of problems facing other nations of the world.

Underlying idea behind the plan is that in the post-war world there will be an ever-increasing demand for teachers who have the universality the whole world will take on.

Graduate Letter

Concerning this, the graduates wrote President Graham as follows: "The academic freedom and the pursuit of happiness offered by the University seem so to magnetize the teachers that they rarely, if ever, leave. This is good; but we feel that this state of affairs does not tend to bring new and stimulating ideas to the campus. What most of the professors have to offer is brought with them when they arrive, and their subsequent intellectual growth is not proportionate to the time spent at the University. . . . The students would benefit through the classroom; and the general public through the medium of books and other literature emanating from the great liberal center of Chapel Hill."

The letter went on to say: "We fully realize how little we know of Russia, Great Britain or China; yet we are destined to share with these countries the great responsibility of world leadership. We cannot send all the students out to study these and other nations. But, to the teachers, on whom much of the responsibility for preparing future students for an international and cosmopolitan world will fall, we can give aid. From their knowledge and understanding of this 'new' world must emanate, or the future is more than doubtful. We would help them give fuel to the flame of universalism that it may not die."

No Action Yet

No action has as yet been taken by the administration, the Board of Trustees or the Alumni Association on the proposed War Memorial. Probable channel for funds will be through contacts with alumni through the Alumni Office. Any campaign for money from the alumni must have clearance from that office, according to the Alumni Secretary, J. Maryon Saunders.

Signers Listed

All of the signers, ranging in classes from '37 to '43, were campus leaders while they were students here. Ridley Whitaker, who initiated the project, was president of the Carolina Political Union in 1941-42, as was another signer, William Joslin, the year before. Others include William M. Cochran, who was student director of Graham Memorial; William T. Martin, Jr., who was vice-president of the student body in '41-'42; Charles Nice, '42, chairman of the student advisory committee; Charles W. Tillett III, '43, editor of the Yackety Yack; and Orville Campbell, '42, editor of the Tar Heel. Completing the list of signatures are other graduates, all prominent in campus activities while at Carolina: Earle Hobbs, '39; Thomas Baden, '43; Robert Magill, '38; John McNeill Smith, Jr., '38; James B. McMillan, '37; Nancy Nesbit Hatch, '38; and Lennox P. McLendon, Jr., '42.

Phi Votes To Hold Present Officers For Coming Term

By unanimous vote last Tuesday evening the Philanthropic Assembly decided to retain the present slate of officers of the society for the coming term.

These officers include: Jack Lackey, speaker; Blount Stewart, speaker pro tempore; Jean Huske, secretary; Dick Koral, treasurer; John May, sergeant-at-arms; and Alex Davis, critic. Their term of office will last through the next quarter.

At the same meeting the Phi decided that in the future no person who is a member of the Dialectic Senate will be admitted into membership in the organization. This ruling was passed by a small margin and is subject to revision by the Phi at any time.

Lackey, the speaker, announced that there would be no more meetings of the Assembly this term. The next meeting will be held on the first Tuesday next term.

Days later aboard the Santa Rosa, Captain Allen was advised later.

The Chapel Hill Victory was christened by Miss Betsy Bowman, daughter of Judge and Mrs. F. O. Bowman of Chapel Hill, in Baltimore last January 4, who received a lengthy letter from Captain Allen giving a detailed account of "her ship's" activities since it was launched.

Martha Mallory, Y Hostess Entertains At Many Parties

By Marianne Browne

"Now everybody change partners," called Martha Mallory. She was standing on a chair surrounded by dancing Naval ROTC students and university coeds.

Checkered tablecloths and candles provided a gypsy air for the party for first semester ROTCs. It was one of a series given by Martha Mallory and her YWCA recreation committee of the University. There are parties for veterans, for marines, as well as ROTCs. The sixty girls of the committee try to see that every service unit on campus is given a party just for them every now and then.

"We try to create an informal atmosphere at the parties that will make everybody enjoy themselves," says Martha. "At the party for the veterans there was ping pong and bridge for those who didn't want to dance and Hallows'een decorations all around."

Plans for this fall include a series of parties for the 600 veterans on campus, parties for the marines, suppers for soldiers from Camp Butler, and a dancing class at the high school.

When asked how she managed to give so many parties in spite of a busy school schedule, Martha smiled in her enthusiastic way and said "Everybody else does all the work. We just have a good time and make everybody get around and meet each other."

Martha Mallory is from Macon, Georgia. She attended Hollins college and is now a senior at the University and is a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority.

Not only did she help at the USO and canteen; she would go out and teach soldiers how to dance—and there were dances at the officers club. It is not only the experience gained in Macon that makes Martha such an able hostess, she is also extraordinarily able to remember names. As ten guests stride in, Martha can hear their names and manage to introduce them correctly minutes later.

Journal Club Meeting

Dr. J. W. Huddle spoke on the work of the United States Geological Survey during the war at a regular meeting of the Journal Club last Tuesday.

The Journal Club would like to extend an invitation to all students interested in Geology or Geography to attend future meetings which will be announced next term.

Fight Goes On

There can be no peace treaty with disease. The battle against tuberculosis, which kills nearly 57,000 Americans a year, must continue until the enemy is licked. Buy and use Christmas Seals to fight TB.

THE 1945 ALL-AMERICAN FOOTBALL TEAM

Selected by The 350 Members Of The American Football Coaches Association

HERE, at last, is an All-American football team selected by the men best qualified to judge—the football coaches of the nation.

It's the first time in the history of college football that any publication has been privileged to announce a selection from the top authorities in the game.

350 COACHES TO VOTE

These are the men who have set the college football stage—discovered, trained and turned out the players. Together, they have witnessed all of the good football in the entire season.

NEW METHOD OF JUDGING

During each week of the football season, coaches watched with trained eyes every man who looked like All-American material. Week after week, these reports were filed with the Association, tabulated, and returned to the coaches for a careful study and a final, end-of-season vote.

The men who made this final All-American team are the real "Who's Who" among the nation's players, as selected by the "Who's Who" among the men best qualified to judge.

Don't miss the American Football Coaches Association 1945 All-American Team in the December 29th issue of The Saturday Evening Post.

Again the Post pioneers in a sports venture of interest to millions of fans. To keep up with all that's new in the nation's favorite sports—be sure to read the Post every week.
