Giant Smoker And Pep Rally Scheduled For Lenoir Tonight

New Students To Be Guests Of Campus Organizations

Varsity Quintet, Fetzer, Carnevale, House To Appear On Evening Program

A combined smoker and "Beat Duke" pep rally will be held tonight at 8:30 p. m. in Lenoir Hall, Charley Vance, student body president, announced. New students will be special guests at the rally, sponsored by the University Veterans' Association, Student Council and the University Club.

Many campus and faculty leaders have been invited to participate in the gala program. The list, headed by Chancellor R. B. House and Comptroller William Carmichael, includes Director of Athletics Bob Fetzer, Assistant Director of Athletics Chuck Ericson, Head Basketball Coach Ben Carnevale, Assistant Basketball Coach Pete Mullis, Wrestling Coach Chuck Quinlan, Swimming Co-Captains Snookie Proctor and Ben Ward, Jule Medwin, new boxing coach, and the starting Phantom quintet.

Ice cream, punch and cookies will be served and it is hoped that free cigarettes will be available. Tonight's rally is the first in a series planned for the basketball season.

Student Union Music Concert Wins Acclaim

Graham Memorial lounge was filled to overflowing capacity Sunday night as the first of the popular Fireside Concerts for the winter quarter was held, featuring student talent from the Music Department.

Gwen Hughes and Rex Coston sang on a program of American music, accompanied by Miss Durema Fitzgerald, graduate assistant in the Music Department, at the piano. Among the favorite numbers on the program were "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," "Chloe," "Sylvia," and "Night and Day," all solos. "Always" and "Tea for Two" were two of the popular duets on the program.

Miss Hughes, Chi Omega, and Mr. Coston, Pi Kappa Alpha, are voice students of Paul Young in the Music Department. They both have leading parts in the student entertainment operetta "The Chimes of Normandy" to be presented.

Before and after the vocalists, the recorded music of "Rhapsody in Blue" and "Show Boat" was played in the lounge.

Star of next Sunday night's student union concert will be a pianist, Charles Johnson, a veteran now enrolled in law school.

During the fall quarter Johnson initiated the first in the series of Sunday night programs, upon request of Martha Rice, GM Director. Playing in a lilted style distinctly his own, he delighted his listeners by playing popular classics and present day hit tunes for over 90 minutes without pausing.

After the program refreshments of punch and cookies will be served in the rear of the lounge.

Panhellenic Dance Slated Saturday

In Student Union

The Panhellenic dance, annual social event for campus sorority women, will be given Saturday night. The dance is to be held in the lounge of Graham Memorial from 9 until 12.

Music for the event will be furnished by Freddie Johnson and his orchestra. Following the intermission, three representatives from each sorority and two Stray Greeks and their dates will form the figure.

Invitations to the dance have been sent out all over the state. The sorority members will each send out a date bid and two stag bids. Block military and fraternity bids will be issued.

The dance is one of many Student Union activities this week.

Wilson Takes Directorship Of UNC Press

Former Navy Man Succeeds Couch

Dr. Thomas J. Wilson, III, who was recently discharged from the Navy with the rank of commander, has taken up his new duties as director of the University Press. He succeeds William T. Couch, who resigned last fall to become director of the University of Chicago Press.

Dr. Wilson has been in the Navy since 1942. He took part in the battles on Santa Cruz, the Solomons, Russell Islands, and other engagements in the defense and capture of Guadalcanal. He was hangar deck officer on the USS Enterprise which was awarded the Presidential Unit Citation, the only Pacific Fleet carrier to be so honored.

Before going into the Navy, he was vice-president and director of the publishing firm of Reynal and Hitchcock, Inc., in New York. He has had wide experience in the book publishing field.

He was foreign language editor of Henry Holt and Company from 1930 to 1934 when he became director of the company and head of its college textbook department. In 1937 he was appointed vice-president and acting head of the trade department which he reorganized. He was also chairman of the executive committee of the Board of Directors.

Dr. Wilson resigned from Henry Holt and Company in 1939 to become vice-president and director of Reynal and Hitchcock where he founded and developed an educational department, primarily in the college field, and served as consultant on trade books, particularly in non-fictional fields.

In returning to Chapel Hill, he is carrying on a family tradition. He was born and reared in Chapel Hill. His grandfather of the same name was a practicing physician here in the 1880's and 1890's. His father, Dr. Thomas J. Wilson, Jr., was reared here, was a member of the faculty for 46 years, and was Registrar and Dean of Admissions for many years.

Dr. Thomas J. Wilson, III, was graduated from the University here in 1921, became a student assistant in French, and took his master's degree in 1924. He won a Rhodes scholarship at Oxford University, and after taking his Ph.D. degree there came to the University faculty as assistant professor of French and secretary of the Department of Romance Languages.

Veterans To Hold Hop Friday Night

A dance for University veterans and their friends will be held in the main lounge of Graham Memorial from 9-12 p.m. Friday night, it has been announced. The Veterans' thirteen piece orchestra will supply the music for the occasion.

Only veterans may purchase tickets which will be fifty cents per couple, but they may buy as many tickets as they want for students outside the Veterans' Association. Tickets will be on sale daily in the Y.

The program director and manager of station WDNC in Durham will audit the orchestra in view of a possible radio program shortly.

Dr. Frank Welcomes You . . .

The University welcomes the new students and the returning veterans to the life, traditions, work and comradeship of this campus and community. You come with the New Year to a historic old University to prepare yourselves for the making of a new world. The years just gone were devoted to the winning of the war against the most monstrous threat to human freedom in modern times. Hundreds of you had a sacrificial part in the victories so that this University and all the democratic and spiritual institutions of the people can now continue to advance the frontiers of freedom, knowledge and humane service to all mankind. The years just ahead, through all of you and the hosts of youth who refuse to yield to despair in many lands are to be dedicated to the winning of the now crucial struggle for food and freedom, justice and peace in the world.

The critical turn of affairs and hopes in our own country and the desperate juncture of desolation, hunger and opportunities in the wide world call for the best which the youth of America has to give. To fail to discipline the will to work, to waste body and mind, substance and spirit, is to betray the freedom purchased with blood. It is to trade in the temple of the world's heroic dead. When you do well your day's work in the classroom, laboratory, and library, carry your part of the citizen's life in this campus democracy, uphold the standards of honor in the classroom and honest work in all relations, respect the sacredness of your own body and mind, have a decent respect for the rights, opinions, and differences of other human beings, and learn to cooperate in work, play, and aspirations, you are preparing for that better part in the making of a nobler self and a fairer society.

It is in our welcome to you and in our faith in you in these times, critical with the cruel sufferings and dauntless hopes of men, women, and children in many desolate lands, that you, the privileged youth of fortunate America, will seize the hours here for hard work, through study, and all-around development of body, mind, and spirit, so that you will play a creatively cooperative part in making a better University, a nobler America, and a world a little happier for all people.

Dr. Frank P. Graham.

And So Does Your Student Body Head

On behalf of the student body I want to welcome all new students to the University of North Carolina. Those of you who are entering college for the first time, I want to congratulate you on your choice of Carolina. How well some of us remember when we arrived here as freshmen how strange and unfamiliar everything seemed, but that feeling soon passes. We want you to realize that you are one of us, and that you are just as much a part of the University as any upper-classman. After you've stayed in Chapel Hill just a little while, I am sure that you will feel as I do now—that you couldn't have chosen a better place to spend the next few years. Those of you who are transferring from some other college or university we are especially appreciative of the honor of your selection. We hope that you will not hesitate to take part in our many campus activities, and to join in Carolina's spirit of friendliness and cooperation.

To those of you we proudly call "Carolina's returning veterans," I can't say in words how glad we are to have you back. I hope you will find Carolina the same wonderful place you have dreamed about all of those past months. I wonder if being away from Carolina for a long time has made you appreciate all the more the many privileges and freedoms we enjoy here. I want all of you to realize that the one thing that makes possible these many privileges is our form of government—student government. People do not like to be regimented, and most people think that the ideal form of government is self-government. We come nearer to this ideal in our student government at Carolina than at any place I know.

Just before Christmas, our President, Dr. Frank Graham, boldly defended the freedoms which we enjoy as Carolina students. He explained what is meant by University freedom, and he stated that the freedom of the University does not mean the approval of ungentlemanly conduct or dishonesty of any sort.

We must realize that with freedom comes responsibility, and we students shoulder a greater responsibility because of the greater amount of freedom we are allowed. Now is the time for all of us to renew our pledges to the Honor System and the Campus Code. Under the Honor System, every student is on his honor not to cheat, lie, or steal, and to report any student he sees cheating, lying, or stealing. Under the Campus Code every man is bound by his responsibility as a gentleman to conduct himself as a gentleman at all times, and to see to it, in so far as appropriate, that his fellow students do likewise. Because of the great responsibility invested in each individual student, we have no monitors, no proctors, no police system of any sort. Students themselves must act spontaneously upon honor violations and report such violations to the Student Council.

Some students still come to the University with the childish notion that they will be tattling or breaking faith with the gang if they report anyone. We must help them realize that almost every Carolina student has signed a pledge in support of the Honor System and the Campus Code, and that they

Coed Carroll Cone Feted In Orange Bowl Activities

The biggest thrill experienced by Carroll Cone, senior psychology major, during her Christmas holidays was a parade before 300,000 spectators preceding the Orange Bowl classic in Miami.

Miss Cone, who was chosen as one of four maids in the Orange Bowl festival, arrived in Miami December 29. The next day Miss Cone, the Orange Bowl queen and the three other members of the court were honor guests at a cocktail party given by the press. Other guests included Ted Husing, sports commentator, Mayor Frank Kelly of Chicago, Governor Millard Caldwell of Florida and Governor Ellis Arnall of Georgia.

The float of the queen and her court led the parade Monday afternoon through downtown Miami. A dance at the Indian Creek Country Club followed that night. The queen and her court were crowned at the New Year's Eve dance.

Between halves of the Orange Bowl game between the University of Miami and Holy Cross Miss Cone and other members of the court participated in the show. The dance that night was at the Coral Gables Country Club.

Sunday afternoon the queen and her court attended the races at Gulf Stream track and decorated the winners.

Miss Cone, who is from Tampa, Fla., is house president of Delta Delta Delta sorority here. She attended Sweetbriar her first two years. After her graduation she has tentative plans for psychological work in a veterans' hospital.

Early Tabulations Show New Enrollment of 3800

900 New Veterans Increase Total To 1500; Civilian Mark Doubled

By Mary Hill Gaston

Approximately 900 new veterans registering Thursday at Woollen Gymnasium swelled Carolina's enrollment this term to a near pre-war peak level, according to unofficial South Building estimates. Though no official count of the enrollment has been compiled as yet, indications are that there are 3700 to 3900 students now on campus.

Housing Setup Solution Due Very Shortly

Priority Expected On New Materials

Pre-fabricated housing units expected to be released by the government in the very near future will probably be the answer to Carolina's housing problem, according to a statement from Chancellor Robert B. House.

"The situation looks hopeful," says Chancellor House. Top University and state officials are working to get the government houses here at the earliest possible date.

General shortage of building materials makes it impossible to erect new housing any time in the near future, but the government has promised priority on pre-fabricated units to state institutions.

Houses to be put up here would come from outside Portsmouth, Virginia, where they have been used by defense workers. Chancellor House says these are four-room houses on good foundations, with kitchen refrigeration and overall insulation. They could house both married veterans and their wives or groups of men students.

All available space in dormitories has been filled. Nash and Eaton Halls, built as Army barracks in 1943 to house Pre-Meteorology A.S.T.P. students but unused for a number of terms, are both now filled with men.

Graduate Student Fatally Injured In Cab Collision

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon for Miss Mary Sue Caldwell, graduate student who died at Duke hospital Saturday morning from injuries sustained Friday afternoon when the bicycle she was riding collided with a Carolina cab.

Miss Caldwell was riding her bicycle out from the medical building when the accident occurred. The taxi driver, John L. Kirkland, is under bond to appear before Recorder's Court January 22.

Miss Caldwell was born in Wilmington and lived in Petersburg and Richmond, Va. She is a graduate of Mary Baldwin College. She was working here on her master's degree. Surviving are her parents, Rev. Dan T. Caldwell and Mrs. Caldwell of Richmond, and one brother.

University Student Dies In Sleep Sunday

Sid Appel, junior in the University from Miami Beach, Florida, died in his sleep early yesterday morning. Dr. E. McG. Hedgpeth, University physician, stated that the cause of death was undetermined. Fraternity brothers talked with Appel as late as midnight Sunday night and said that he appeared to be in perfectly good health at that time.

Appel was majoring in accounting and was a member of Tap Epsilon Phi fraternity.

Some guesses range as high as 4,000. Peak enrollment at Carolina was 4,098, during the fall quarter of 1940.

Increase Of Vets

Incoming veterans account for by far the greater part of the quarter's new registrants and bring the total number of ex-servicemen here up to approximately 1500. At the end of last term there were 667 veterans on campus.

Dormitories Full

The number of students admitted this term has been determined by capacity of the dormitories, according to the Admissions Office. Every room in men's dorms has been filled, with three men put in almost all of them and four in the rooms in Battle, Vance and Pettigrew.

Quite a number of students showed up for registration Thursday without having previously been accepted by the Admissions Office, and many of these had to be turned away due to lack of facilities to house them.

Military To Remain

Advance registration indicated that the civilian enrollment for the new term would be the largest in five years. Navy and Marine enrollment at the end of the past session was 420, and it was expected that all these military students would remain here throughout the winter quarter.

Civilian enrollment this term is almost double that listed for the September-October term of 1945, when 1,961 civilians and 512 V-12's were registered. The enrollment jumped to 3,040 at the beginning of the six-week term just past, when civilians numbered 2,591 and military students 449. Over 800 new students, including approximately 400 veterans, registered last term.

The November registration brought the number of veterans here to 640, and a number of late-comers swelled the numbers even more. Prior to the beginning of the 1945-46 school year there were little more than 100 veterans enrolled here.

No Record Set

General opinion in South Building is that enrollment this term has not gone beyond the 4,098 peak reached in 1940, but with a hopeful outlook on the housing situation now in evidence, speculation is that Carolina will go far beyond this level in succeeding terms.

The opening of this quarter, the first such term since the University's decision to return to the quarter system, indicates that Carolina is swiftly returning to its pre-war status. Enrollment now is, at any rate, a far cry from that of the spring of 1944, when wartime registration hit the bottom with only 1,501 civilian students.

Council Report

Charlie Vance, President of the Student Body, announced that two students have been placed on three-months probation for talking during an examination. The students were accused of cheating but this was not confirmed.

Yack Staff Meeting

Yackety Yack staff members are asked to attend an important staff meeting in the Roland Parker lounge of Graham Memorial next Thursday afternoon at 2:15. Students wishing to assist in the publication of the yearbook who have not attended previous staff meetings are also invited to the Thursday meeting.
