One Of Toughest Encounters Of Season Set For 8 O'clock

Matmen Open Season Soon

With Christmas holidays well behind, the Carolina wrestling candidates are hard at the job of getting in shape for the onrushing season, the opener resting just one week from Friday night. The local matmen will meet Appalachian here.

Coach Chuck Quinlan, who was head trainer of the football team, is devoting all his time now to the grapplers, and according to the veteran coach of the Tar Heels, "a lot of hard work lies ahead if we are to make any kind of a showing when Appalachian comes here a week from Friday." Al Crawford, national champion at Appalachian before entering the army, took care of early fall drills, but the heavyweight is conditioning himself for the six meets on tab. He is now matriculating at Carolina and will be on the roster this year.

Workouts are being held daily from 4:30 in the afternoon till about 6 o'clock.

Mat Tourney Starts Today; Mural Leaders Meet Tonight

The intramural sports program under the direction of Marvin Allen will get in full swing today with the wrestling tournament which starts this afternoon. The draw will be posted today at 2 o'clock at the gym.

Weighing in took place yesterday and a large field of entries is expected to participate in the event. The wrestling tourney will be divided into two divisions, a fraternity and a dormitory. Separate points and medals will be given in each division.

A student who has participated in varsity or freshman wrestling at any college or university will not be eligible for participation.

Forty points will be given to each team entering, but it will be necessary to have at least five men to participate in order to receive these points. Eighty points will be divided by the number of matches won by the winning organization and each team will receive points according to the number of matches won. Place points will be 10, 7, 5, 3, and 1.

There will be an important meeting of all intramural athletic managers tonight at 8 o'clock in 217 Woollen gym. All managers must be present at the session to enter their respective teams in the basketball tournament which starts on Monday, January 14th.

Marvin Allen, intramural director urged that all students interested in officiating intramural basketball games meet in 217 Woollen this afternoon at 4 o'clock. An examination will be given at this time.

In order to participate in the basketball tournament a student must have an "A" medical rating or have an okay from the University infirmary.

Plans are being formed for a boxing event to be staged on January 28th. All entrants must take five workouts under the supervision of Coach Jule Medwin before they enter the meet. A swimming meet is scheduled for the latter part of February.

Town students are encouraged to organize teams to participate in the dormitory leagues.

Twining Sets New Pool Mark In 100 Free

By Carroll Poplin

Carolina's perennial swimming champs of the South opened their 1946 tank campaign by sinking Georgia Tech's mermen crew in Bowman Gray pool last Saturday with an impressive 60-15 victory which marked the 17th straight dual meet triumph for the local splashers.

The Yellow Jackets proved no match for the Southern conference titleholders, as Carolina scored first place wins in every event to completely outclass the top swimming team from the Southeastern conference.

Twining Sets Mark

Dick Twining, tank star from Charlotte and holdover from last year's team, chopped four seconds off the old record of 52.8 for the 100 freestyle to set a new pool mark of 52.4. Twining also held the old record which was set last season. The new time was three seconds faster than the time that won the National Outdoor championship.

The Blue Dolphins, who have won 42 out of their last 45 meets and undefeated for the past two seasons, jumped to a quick lead in Saturday's meet as Bo Jenkins, Ira Abrahamson and Mike Morrow won the 300-yard medley relay with a time of 3:09.

Miss Records

Jack Zimmerman fell short by a few seconds of breaking the pool record in the 220-meter freestyle race, while Co-Captain Ben Ward missed the 50-yard freestyle record by a matter of seconds.

Bo Jenkins, swimming his first regular season for the Blue Dolphins, finished ahead of two Tech swimmers in the 150-yard backstroke event. Co-Captain Snooky Proctor outraced the Yellow Jackets' Captain Rolfe to take first place in the 440-yard freestyle.

Shumate Wins

Carolina scored first and second places in the 200-yard breaststroke as Ed Shumate swam the distance in 2:46.2, followed by Jack Davies who finished ahead of Brock of Georgia Tech.

Mas Erle, sensational diver at Carolina in 1942, scored a total of 229.2 points to walk away with div-

The White Phantoms went to New York accomplished their mission, and now they are back to tackle the gigantic job of retaining their Southern conference crown. Tomorrow night, what will probably be the toughest test in SC competition faces the charges of Coach Ben Carnevale—that a skirmish with Duke's fast improving Blue Devils. The game begins at 8 o'clock in Woollen gym.

JOHN (HOOK) DILLON

To put it in the words of one of the state sports editors, "Carolina will rate a big favorite," but according to Coach Carnevale, "it will be a much closer game, probably our toughest of the season. If Carolina doesn't play its regular game," Carnevale continued, "we will get beat."

Duke is an up-and-coming basketball crew, with three top-notch performers in Dick Whiting, Ed Koffenger and Bubber Seward. Whiting played in Madison Square garden last season with Mullenburg, Koffenger was outstanding in conference play last year, and Seward starred for Duke back in 1942. The Devils last smothered Davidson 55-27, giving an excellent exhibition of defense.

Carolina's last appearance on the hardwood was last night when they met Maryland, and results were not available to the Tar Heel at press time. The game tomorrow night will be the third in five days for the UNC five, having breezed past the Ft. Bragg Airborne detachment team 65-33 last Saturday night.

The Tar Heels are fresh from a Christmas holiday northern swing, where they added a little national recognition to their already impressive Southern record, knocking off the east's two major unbeaten quintets, NYU and St. Joseph's of Philadelphia.

Commenting on the successful venture into the nation's best basketball, Coach Carnevale said "the Phantoms had a job to do, and they went to New York and Philadelphia to play ball and did just that. The boys didn't let the big city scare them, and it was just a case of superb teamwork and defense that gave us the 43-41 and 47-36 triumphs."

"Dillon, Jordan and Paxton were outstanding, true, but it was the whole team that won, according to the Tar Heel mentor, "the work feeding the ball and under the baskets being tops."

Pete Mullis, little assistant coach who has been invaluable to Coach Carnevale since he took over for Bill Lange last season, was pleased as punch with the wins, too, commenting in the locker room at Philadelphia: "It really felt fine to beat them. You see, I was playing for Carolina when we last beat St. Joe up here, and it made it seem like old times." Not to be left out of the trip, too, was an outwardly insignificant man, but a man who was busy from beginning to end—R. A. "Doc" White. Doc, the head trainer, was on hand for all occasions, and he too was "very happy" over the showing of the Phants.

This inter-sectional play is concluded now, until the locals go to the Naval Academy, February 9, anyway, and the big task ahead is to take care of the Southern conference opposition, something which is going to be far from easy. The first big bulwark comes tomorrow night, and to cope with this, Coach Carnevale intends to start his Jim Jordan, Johnny Dillon, Bob Paxton, Don Anderson and Taylor Thorne combine, with Red Hughes and Jim White his first reserves on deck.

Leading the Carolina scoring thus far has been Dillon, who, incidentally, was ranked as the 14th scorer in the nation last week, with something like a 17-point-a-game average, with Jordan close behind with something better than a 10-point average.

Defensively, the leader has been Paxton, his backboard snatching being tops all through. Taylor Thorne, the little guard who made such a good showing against St. Joe, also comes in on a word of commendation on the defensive side of the picture, as does Jordan, Hughes and Anderson. Anderson, who is the all-around fastest man on the squad, has been a stand-out in floor play, and the veteran cager sunk three straight buckets in Philadelphia to set the Tar Heels off in the lead.

In the game with Ft. Bragg Saturday night, Jordan and Dillon were co-high men for Carolina, each getting 15 points. Paxton threw in 10 in playing a good defensive game as usual. Red Hughes bucketed six, and DiIorenzo got five.

Trackmen Resume Daily Workouts

Following the Christmas break, daily practice has again been resumed by the indoor trackmen.

The board track in the Tin Can has been set up, thus affording a permanent place for the runners to work out in. In addition it will serve as the site of the fourth annual Invitation track and field indoor games to be held on February 23. Invitations were sent out today to colleges, service camps and high schools throughout the South.

Last year Carolina placed third in the college division behind Carolina Pre-Flight and Cherry Point. Due to the war the Southern conference championships are not to be held as a special division instead of being combined with the non-conference schools and service teams.

The Bell System plans an extensive trial of two-way radio in providing telephone service to vehicles in a number of large cities.

Connections with other telephones will be made through the nearest of several receiving and transmitting stations operated by the telephone company. It is generally similar to the existing ship-shore radio telephone service for vessels in coastal and inland waters.

The main job right now is making more telephones available for those who have been waiting for regular service. But as soon as the new equipment can be built the Bell System will begin extending-telephone service to vehicles.
