Spivak Here For Concert, Dance Today

Band to Give Open Concert In Afternoon

Tickets Available For Dance Tonight

Climaxing German Club Mid-winters, Charlie Spivak and his band will play this afternoon at a concert in Memorial Hall and tonight at a semi-formal dance in the Tin Can. The band made its initial appearance last night at a formal dance for members of the German Club.

Tickets are still available for this afternoon's concert which will begin at 4 o'clock. They may be bought at the YMCA or at the door for $1. Anyone who wants a ticket for the dance tonight, which will begin at 9 o'clock, may get one by contacting a member of German Club. The price is $4.

Jimmy Saunders, recently discharged GI, will be featured as vocalist with the Spivak band. Before entering service Saunders sang on the radio and with Harry James. He became a singer by accident when a friend secretly entered him in a contest while he was a student at the University of Pennsylvania.

Top Sweet Band
Rated as the top sweet band of 1945 by Downbeat, musical trade magazine, Spivak topped such well known orchestras as Harry James, Duke Ellington, Sammy Kaye, Hal McIntyre and Vaughn Monroe. The band recently appeared at New York's Paramount Theater for ten weeks, the longest run in the history of that theater. Charlie Spivak, billed as "The Man Who Plays The Sweetest Trumpet in the World," is noted for his effortless playing. When performing in "Pin-Up Girl" he was told to puff his cheeks and feign strenuous activity because the director felt that the ease with which he played did not look authentic. He never uses a mute even while playing with the bell of his trumpet only two inches away from the microphone.

Chaperones are Capt. and Mrs. E. E. Hazlett, Capt. and Mrs. Donald W. Loomis, Commander and Mrs. H. W. Carroll, Mrs. Martha Vandever, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Carmichael, Chancellor and Mrs. R. B. House, Dr. J. M. Lear, Mr. O. K. Cornwell, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey White, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Pritchard, Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Mackie and Dr. J. L. Godfrey.

Smith Selected Speaker of Phi

By acclamation, A. B. Smith was elected Speaker of the Phi Assembly last Tuesday night. On nomination by present Speaker Jack Lackey, the assembly voted to accept Smith as the new speaker. Alex Davis was the only other nominee for the position. The election came as a result of speaker Jack Lackey's resignation several weeks ago.

Denobilization of the armed services, debate topic for the night, was discussed at length. Debate reached a stalemate with regard to the participation of Phi members parliamentary procedure classes. The finance committee announced that dues for members of the Phi would be $1.50 per term.

S&F Entries Due

Deadline for the Sound and Fury song and skit writing contest is Monday afternoon, February 3. Entries must be turned in by that time at the Y office or Graham Memorial office. Further tryouts for the winter quarter will be announced through the Tar Heel.

IRC Meeting

The International Relations Club will discuss British economic policy in its meeting Monday at 7:30 p. m. in Roland Parker Lounge.

CHARLIE SPIVAK, top-flight nationally known dance band leader who will be featured this week-end in a concert this afternoon and the winter quarter open German Club dance tonight.

Woman's Senate Make Plans For Coming Coed Elections

Washburn Named To Edit '46 Handbook; Number Of Important Issues Cleared

In an unusually long session Tuesday night the Coed Senate made plans and set dates for the coming WGA elections, named Bettie Washburn editor of the 1946 Woman's Handbook, appropriated $150 for May Day expenses and cleared a number of other issues from its docket.

High School Group Will Be Featured In Union Concert

Something new in the regular Sunday night fireside concerts will be featured in Graham Memorial this Sunday night when the series will be highlighted by a talented group of performers from the Chapel Hill High School, Martha Rice, director, announced yesterday.

The program will be featured by piano numbers, singing, and dramatic interpretations, preceded by classical recordings in the main lounge beginning at 8:30 p. m. As usual, there will be dancing by recordings in the Grill after the concert until midnight. Stars of the program will be Jo Bissell, singer, and Barbara Garrett, pianist. Twins Carrie Jean and Gloria Wherry will render dramatic interpretations.

In the future it is hoped that student talent from neighboring institutions will be featured on these regular programs, Miss Rice stated.

Kenan dormitory entertained last Friday night at a semi-formal dance.

Southern Conference to Hold "Students and Labor" Forum

The Southern Conference for Human Welfare will hold an intercollegiate conference here Wednesday entitled "Students and Labor," according to an announcement by Blount Stewart, chairman of the local chapter.

"We have invited representatives from all neighboring colleges," said Chairman Stewart, "to join us in what will be a crystallization of student opinion on present labor strife."

The conference will begin at 4 p. m. Wednesday with two simultaneous panels in Graham Memorial, "Students and Today's Strikes," and "Students and Political Action." Delegates may attend either one of the panels.

Outstanding southern CIO and AFL representatives will lead these discussions. They will be chaired by Miss Julia Moody of Atlanta, Georgia, and Raikes Slinkard of Murfreesboro, Tennessee. Both are graduate stu-

According to the Senate's decision, spring coed activities will get under way Tuesday, February 19, at a mass meeting at 5 p. m. in the Pharmacy Auditorium, when candidates for major W.G.A. and W.A.A. offices will be nominated. That night in separate compulsory house meetings nominations for next year's house presidents will be made. All these candidates will be introduced to the coed student body at a Coed Hour program Thursday, February 21. Coeds will vote to fill these offices on Tuesday, February 26.

On the following Thursday night, February 28, nominations for dorm representatives to the Coed Senate will be made in separate house meetings. Senators will be elected Tuesday, March 5.

Bettie Washburn, associate editor of the Yackety Yack and Tar Heel reporter, was elected editor of this year's Woman's Handbook by a large majority Tuesday night. It was decided the handbook would be very much like last year's, with one major change. The Senate voted to incorporate the social rules book, distributed among incoming coeds at the beginning of each school year, in the handbook, so that new students might become acquainted with the rules before.

Tuesday Set For Beginning Daily Paper

Comics, World News Other New Features

This is the last issue of the semi-weekly Tar Heel. Starting Tuesday morning the Daily Tar Heel will be delivered to dormitories and other distribution points every day in the week except Monday.

Included in the daily will be detailed coverage of all newsworthy campus activities as well as international, national and state happenings. A United Press teletype and radio wire will supply such news. "I'll Abner," the comic strip by Al Capp, is promised to readers of the Daily Tar Heel and there also will be frequent crossword puzzles.

Offices Expanded

The Tar Heel offices have been expanded into what was formerly Horace Williams lounge of Graham Memorial. Present plans call for the editorial and sports departments to be located in the reconverted lounge while the news department will remain in its present offices. A new night office is being constructed in the Orange Printshop where the Daily Tar Heel will be printed. All persons wishing to contact the newspaper after 6 p. m. should call the night office. The United Press teletype machine will be located in the managing editor's office in Graham Memorial.

Tuesday's paper will be the first Daily Tar Heel since May, 1943, when wartime conditions forced the paper to become a weekly. In January, 1944, under the editorship of Kat Hill, the paper became a semi-weekly, which it has remained until the present time.

The present Daily Tar Heel is operating only on a trial basis, but the editors are confident that the two month test period will be successfully completed and that the Daily Tar Heel will again become a well grounded campus institution.

The main problem in reconvertng to a daily basis was the shortage of labor in the Orange Printshop. However, returning workers have solved that and the trial contract has been signed between the printshop and the Publications Union Board.

Election Slated To Fill Position In Student Body

Nominations for secretary-treasurer of the Student Body must be in by February 9, announces Walt Brinkley, chairman of the elections committee. Elections for the office, left vacant by the resignation of Joe Mallard, will be held February 14.

Brinkley said that nominations for and by independents will be welcome. Coeds may vote, but may not be nominated for an office in the student body.

Residents of the five dorms in the lower quad will vote at a place to be designated later. Navy men will vote in Lenoir, and all other students in the Y.

Maximum expenditure for each campaign is $8. An itemized statement is to be turned in to the elections committee prior to the election.

Coed Struck Down In Auto Accident

Annette Fulton, student, was struck down by an automobile driven by Fred Farrow, Athletic Department employee, last Saturday night. She suffered lacerations and bruises and was taken to Watts Hospital in Durham. Her condition is improving and she returned to the Infirmary at Chapel Hill Friday. Miss Fulton is a member of the Playmakers.

Hearing of the case will be at Chapel Hill Recorder's Court Tuesday.

Delta Psis, ADPis Head List of Campus Sponsors

Lewis, Carr Tops In Dorm Donations; Tar Heel To Plan Parties For Winners

The March of Dimes drive has gone over the top. Early figures tabulated at the close of the drive at midnight Thursday night indicated that a total of $1209.18, $209.18 over the $1,000 quota, was already in with several campus chairmen yet to be heard from. "A considerable amount is still expected to be turned in and final figures will be given out the first of the week," Trudy Walton, student chairman of the campus drive, stated Thursday night.

Highest single percentage of contributions was turned in by Delta Psi fraternity which contributed a total of $45 for its fourteen members or an average of $3.21 per person. Sigma Nu ranked second in the fraternity column with a total of $21.10 among 30 members.

Lewis dormitory walked off with the honors in their class, collecting a total of $165 among 151 residents while Everett dorm, representing 136 residents, contributed $105.68.

The Alpha Delta Pi sorority had a narrow margin over Alpha Gamma Delta, the former raising a total of $15.20 among 15 girls while the Alpha Gams made $8.95 among 10 girls.

Carr walked off with top honors in the women's dorms with a total of $46.71 among 19 girls with Alderman contributing $40 representing 125 girls.

Present plans call for the winning organizations to have a party, money for which would be donated by the Tar Heel, sponsors of the student drive. The Alpha Delta Pi sorority will entertain the Delta Psis, while Carr dorm will entertain the men of Lewis. Final arrangements will be announced in the next few days.

Cuban Art Exhibit To Open Tomorrow At Person Gallery

Special features of a new exhibition, entitled "Cuban Painting Today," to open in Person Hall Gallery tomorrow, will be a gallery talk at 4 p. m. on the artists and their works in Spanish by Dr. Federico G. Gil of the department of romance languages and the playing of Cuban guitar music by Eduardo A. Bello, Jr., a native of Cuba.

The exhibit which is being shown by the art department in cooperation with the University's Inter-American Institute, will continue for several weeks. Gallery hours are from 10 to 5 daily and from 2 to 5 on Sundays.

First of its kind to be shown in this country, "Cuban Painting Today" comprises 61 paintings, watercolors, gouaches and drawings by 11 of Cuba's leading artists. It is being circulated throughout the country by the Museum of Modern Art in New York where it was originally shown.

Indications are that returns yet to be received will increase the total by another hundred dollars.

Gay Costumes and Scenery Mark Playmaker Production

Gay, stylized costumes executed by Irene Smart and colorful scenery designed by Foster Fitz-Simons will be dominant in the production of "The Chimes of Normandy" to be presented in Memorial Hall Friday and Saturday, February 8, 9, at 8:30 by the Carolina Playmakers and the Department of Music for the Student Entertainment Series.

Dramatic Art students taking leading roles in the comic opera are Phyllis Sullivan as Serpolette, the lost Marchioness, and John Bridges as Henri, Marquis de Corneville. Both had major roles in the Playmakers production of "The White Steed" this year.

Other Playmakers cast in important parts are Ed Easter as Grenicheux, Jim Geiger as the Notary, W. P. Covington as the Registrar and Harvey Bumgardner as the Assessor. The stage manager is Suzy Marden, and James Crutchfield is master electrician and lighting designer.

Robert Douglas Hume, the production director for "The Chimes of Normandy," has been assistant director of the Carolina Playmakers for four years. Since he has been at Carolina, he has directed "The Eve of St. Mark," "The Boss of Bar-Z," (a melodrama) and "Polyphonic Pastimes" (a musical variety show).

Before Mr. Hume came to the Dramatic Art department here, he was director of the First Theatre in Monterey, California. Among operas he directed in California were "The Bohemian Girl" and "The Gypsy Rover."

The admission for "The Chimes of Normandy" is by student entertainment ticket, or Playmakers season ticket, or $1.25. All seats should be reserved at Ledbetter-Pickard's or the Playmakers business office in Swain Hall.
