

New Library Addition By Fall

 Administrative offices will move to the northwest corner of the old building, the site previously occupied by the commerce library, and the new School of Business Administration library will be situated in the west wing of the first floor.

 The Southern Historical Collection, containing almost 2,000,000 letters, diaries, plantation records and other manuscripts covering the entire range of the social and economic life of the South, will be located on the ground floor of the east wing with a new vault and special workroom.

The North Carolina Collection of about 134,000 titles will remain on the ground floor, but will receive new stack, vault and special workroom facilities, in addition to a suite of three "Early Carolina Rooms" to be equipped and furnished in the style of a pioneer North Carolina home (pre 1750) with paneling secured through gifts of two members of the Friends of the Library, John Sprunt Hill, retired Durham industrialist, and Paul Green, author of "The Lost Colony" and other dramas.

The School of Library Science, now located in the old filter plant beside Phillips hall, will move on September 1 to its new quarters on the west side of the top floor of the new library addition.

On the same floor with the library science school will be several conference rooms, seminars and individual studies for faculty members, graduate students and visiting scholars.

On the east side of the main level will be provided a current affairs reading room with newspapers, periodicals, documents and other "up-to-the-minute information" about world affairs and events.

And on the second floor a staff workroom for ordering, cataloging, and periodicals work will be set up.

The October 12—University Day—formal opening of the addition will be marked by brief ceremonies, prominent guest speakers and an open house.

(University Day is the traditional celebration of the laying of the cornerstone of Old East building on October 12, 1795—the first building of the first state university.)
