BIG WATERMELON SHINDIG FRIDAY

Intramural Play Underway; Cage Slate Released

GOLF—Crowded conditions out at the Golf Course have resulted in a postponement of the deadline for entries in the intramural golf tournament until June 25.

Players have been limited to the 18-hole course and nine holes while extensive repairs kept the back nine closed. This procedure will be repeated next week, with the front nine closed for renovation.

Approximately 40 entrants have qualified in the qualifying rounds. The low score posted to date is a 71, by George Heaton.

Registration dates for the intramural tennis tournament have been set as follows:

1st round by June 27; 2nd round by July 3; 3rd round by July 10; consolation by July 13; and 4th round by July 15. Doubles—1st round by July 10; consolation by July 14; and 2nd round by July 14.

Match play shaped on time will be held as a double forfeit. Coaches are responsible for contacting the other team for their match; winners should inform the Intramural Director (Room 2-1224) of each result.

BASKETBALL—With prospects of considerable team improvement, basketball has stepped up its cage activities for the 1954-55 season.

Games listed on the 18-game schedule just released include L.S.U. and Alabama, while Washington and Lee, Davidson, and The Citadel have been dropped.

In addition to regular games the schedule shows 4 open dates and 2 for the Dixie Classic and Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament.

Coach Frank McGuire has high hopes of bettering last year's won-lost record even though the Tar Heels will face stiffer competition. Last season's record was 12-10.

Past Tense, That Is!

Morning newspaper accounts of the fight last Thursday night generally agreed that most of Rocky Marciano's punches missed their mark. However, one excited radio listener left the unmistakable impression that Fazzari Charles was absorbed in the fight after round, a continuous stream of laughter. Two Graham Memorial listeners, perhaps taking the subject too much at face value, moved to comment during the 10th round.

"Man alive! What's holding Charles?" He must be in wonderful condition!"

"Well he was, anyway!"

Visiting Political Scientist Says Hawaii No Different

By Ellen Brauer

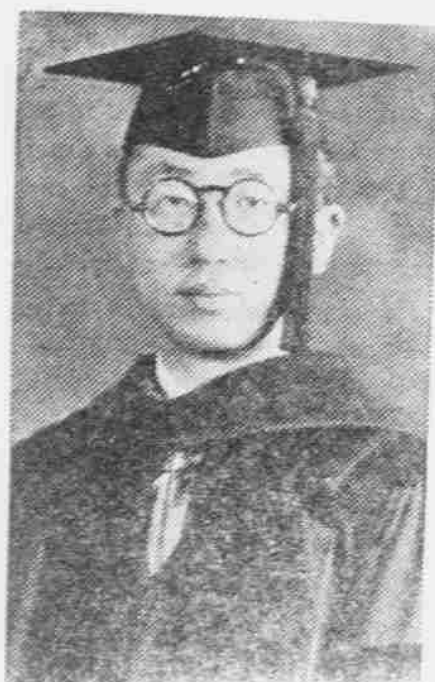

The students in Dr. C. K. Cheng's class on social and political trends in modern China are truly getting information from a top source, for the visiting professor in sociology and political science has wide knowledge of the Orient.

Born in China, Dr. Cheng completed his undergraduate studies at Yenching University in Peiping. For several years he held the secretarial post in the China Branch of the International Labor Office in Shanghai. He also taught sociology at the University of Amoy and at the West China Union University in South and West China.

Dr. Cheng traveled extensively through Free China during the two years preceding the attack on Pearl Harbor and also took trips through Japan, the Philippines, Indo-China, Siam, and several islands in the Pacific. In 1947 he visited again the coastal provinces of China, where he helped reorganize the National University of Shantung in Tsingtau.

He has written a well-known book, "The Dragon Sheds Its Scales", dealing with the economic, political and social problems of China as they influence world affairs today. In this book, Dr. Cheng advocates aid in the form of training and equipment for the Chinese National Government.

TAR HEEL DELIVERY

Notice to students and faculty residing in Glen Lennox and Victory Village: Copies of the summer "Tar Heel" can be picked up at the DTI boxes on the corner of Country Club and Raleigh roads and at the entrance to the Village. Those desiring delivery of bulk copies to other central locations should contact the Tar Heel office or the Dean of Students.

Education Workshop Enters Elementary Teaching Phase

Improvement of leadership in the elementary teaching field will be the theme of the North Carolina Elementary Education Committee Workshop which will meet here Thursday, June 24.

Dr. Carl Brown, UNC Professor of Education, announced final plans for the program which includes four prominent educators.

At the morning session delegates will hear J. Everett Miller, assistant superintendent of public instruction, Raleigh; Albert J. Geiger, executive secretary-treasurer, Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools; and Dr. Eva Williamson, East Carolina College.

Father Cuthbert Allen, Dean of Belmont Abbey College, will give the invocation.

The three main speakers will explain the new program of the elementary education committee's work and the future functions of the group. Geiger will present the views of the Southern Association toward professional improvement.

During the afternoon Workshop participants will hear reports on what other organizations are doing toward the improvement of elementary education. A. D. Kornegay, superintendent of Hendersonville City School, will talk on "Planning District Workshops."

Approximately 125 white and Negro teachers and persons interested in this work from throughout the state will come to Chapel Hill for the Workshop, which is sponsored by the State Committee on Elementary Education, in cooperation with the Southern Association.

The executive committee, which planned the Workshop, is composed of L. R. Wootton, Graham, chairman; Maurice F. Woods, Mooresville, vice-chairman; Miss Madeline Tripp, Raleigh, secretary; Jack Horner, Charlotte, treasurer; and H. Arnold Perry, UNC School of Education, adviser.

King and Queen To Be Crowned At Festivities

Talented Students And Faculty To Perform

The sixth annual Watermelon Festival of the UNC summer school will get under way tomorrow at 7 p.m. between Davie Poplar and the Old Well. Talented students and faculty members will be featured as dancers, singers, musicians, comedians, and actors; and a "surprise symphony" will make its first showing. Topping off the festival will be the crowning of the King and Queen of the Watermelon Festival by Chancellor House.

The festival will open as the watermelon cutters, serenaded by Bob Cole and His Country Boys, begin working on the 400 prime watermelons hauled up from the world's largest watermelon market, Columbia, S. C.

The master of ceremonies will be "Nose" Jones, law school student and former UNC cheerleader. Among the featured numbers will be a skit by Ed Cohen, entitled "The Stand-in"; an operetta solo by Jim Wallace called "Will Tell All", about university life; special numbers by Bob Cole and His Country Boys; many other numbers of singing and dancing including "E. J.", the singing guitarist; Bo Thorpe will sing popular ballads; Jean Parsons has the role of a comedian; and Purabi Bose will do an Indian dance.

One outstanding event will be the watermelon eating contest in which 10 members of the faculty will compete with 10 students for the gour-

'School Of Prayer' To Be Conducted

An event of special interest next week will be a "School of Prayer" that will be conducted by the Rev. Charles F. Whiston, D. D., S. T. D., at the Chapel of the Cross. The School will hold general sessions at 8:00 P. M. each night Tuesday through Friday, June 29 - July 2.

The idea of "Schools of Prayer" has been growing all over the United States in the last ten years. Dr. Whiston has been in demand to lead such schools because of his rare ability to help people deepen their prayer life. Dr. Whiston is professor of Moral Theology at the Church Divinity School of the Pacific in Berkeley, California. He has achieved wide recognition for his book, "Teach Us To Pray", which is considered the outstanding modern treatise on the subject of prayer.

The "School of Prayer" is open to all interested persons.
