

Students Injured in Accident

Miss Martha Barber of 213 Spencer Dorm, a junior enrolled in summer school, suffered a compound fracture of the left femur and lacerations of the head in an auto accident last Friday night on Page Road.

Thomas White, Jr., Sigma Nu from Raleigh, who was driving the car, was treated for lacerations of the forehead.

Highway Patrolman B. D. Burge, who investigated the accident, said White's car failed to make a curve and plunged off an embankment about a mile from Nelson. The couple were returning to Raleigh from a dance at Chapel Hill.

Burge said it was a case of traveling below the legal speed limit but going faster than the safe limit for the road.

An ambulance carried the pair to Watt's Hospital in Durham where Miss Barber was immediately given a blood transfusion. White was released after treatment.

Miss Barber is the daughter of J. Marshall Barber of Raleigh. Mr. Barber, an insurance broker, has been associated for some time with an effort by the Student Government to institute a Student's Accident Insurance Plan at Carolina.

At last report, Miss Barber was doing well and in fine spirits at Watt's Hospital.

Modern Art

(Continued from page 1)

A group of skirts, playsuits, coverlets, and draperies decorated with original designs by the arts and crafts class.

Altogether, the exhibit gives a comprehensive picture of art work at NC, and shows the wide variety of fields covered.

Graduate Students Receive Special DuPont Awards

Twelve graduate students in the University of North Carolina's Summer Session are working under a special duPont Corporation program aimed at improvement of science and mathematics teaching at the high school level.

Dean Guy B. Phillips, Summer Session director, has announced that the duPont awards, which cover full tuition and expenses, are being held by the following students: Betty Jean Altman, Valdosta, Ga.; Thomas Carey Kressler, Prospect, Tenn.; Mary Thomas Carswell, Spring Lake; Catherine Elizabeth Clay, Louisburg; Frederick Thomas Corbin, Charlotte; William Charlton Foil, Winston-Salem; John T. Hatten, McRae, Ga.; Robert Neal Keefner, Huntersville; Lynn Harold Ledden, Southern Pines; Viojet Dolores Martindale, Mullins, S. C.; Edgar E. Sellers, Mountain Home; and Robert McNeill Sims, Tuscaloosa, Ala.

These students are distributed in various classes in chemistry, zoology, botany, mathematics, physics and geology, Dean Phillips said.

Some are specializing in these subjects and others are majoring in education, but the entire emphasis is on improving the high quality of high school instruction in science and mathematics.

Dean Phillips announced additional scholarship offerings: "There are still two very attractive scholarships for the regular academic year, September, 1954, in the fields of science and mathematics which are to be assigned. Applications from recent graduates qualified in the area of teaching in these fields are eligible."

University Receives National Publicity; Article By Holsten

The University of North Carolina received national publicity recently when it was featured with a front cover picture of the South Building and in the lead article, illustrated with 12 campus scenes, in Santa's Greek Exchange, a panhellenic journal published quarterly at Menasha, Wisconsin, in the interest of the college fraternity world.

The University's "distinguished record of service to the State and nation," with emphasis on the development of student government, is portrayed in the magazine's leading article, by Roy W. Holsten, UNC Assistant Dean of Students. The article is entitled "Student Life at Chapel Hill."

The historic Old South Building is featured on the cover, and there are other photographs presenting views of the Health Center, Kenan Stadium, Morehead-Patterson Bell Tower, typical fraternity homes and group scenes, the Library, the Old Well and Graham Memorial Student Union. A photo of Dean Holsten is also carried with his article.

In an introductory statement the editors said: "The Old Well and the shaded brick walks may have their counterpart on campuses all over America, but Chapel Hill has a unique charm that makes it a truly unforgettable place."

Pointing out that student initiative and self-government have been traditional at the University, Dean Holsten in his article says: "One tradition has remained intact throughout the fluctuation which has been characteristic of the University, its faculty and students—the tradition of student freedom and the acceptance of its inherent responsibilities. For if there is a dominant tradition at Chapel Hill which has strengthened the academic processes and the ideals it is the tradition for student expression and learning by doing."

Summer Scenario

(Continued from page 1)
moment, we've got to go over to Y Court for our No-Doz pills.

There's something about the sonorous sounds of male voices from the dorm showers as you pass by on the way to supper in the evenings.

Maybe, it's the curious combination of vocal cords and showers. The two sounds combine in somewhat of a delightful manner. Only request we can make at this point is for those guys up on the top floors just to sing in tune.

Headline in Chapel Hill News Leader: "Seven Cows Shot When Herd Wanders On Neighbor's Property." Duke cows, we presume.

Crash Prevention Course Will Begin Monday

A short course on "The Community Approach to Accident Prevention" will be held in the Health Education Workshop at the University of North Carolina July 19-23, it was announced today by Dr. Charles M. Cameron, Chief, Accident Prevention Section, N. C. State Board of Health, who arranged the program.

The Course will be sponsored by the Accident Prevention Section of the State Board of Health and the Department of Health Education, University School of Public Health.

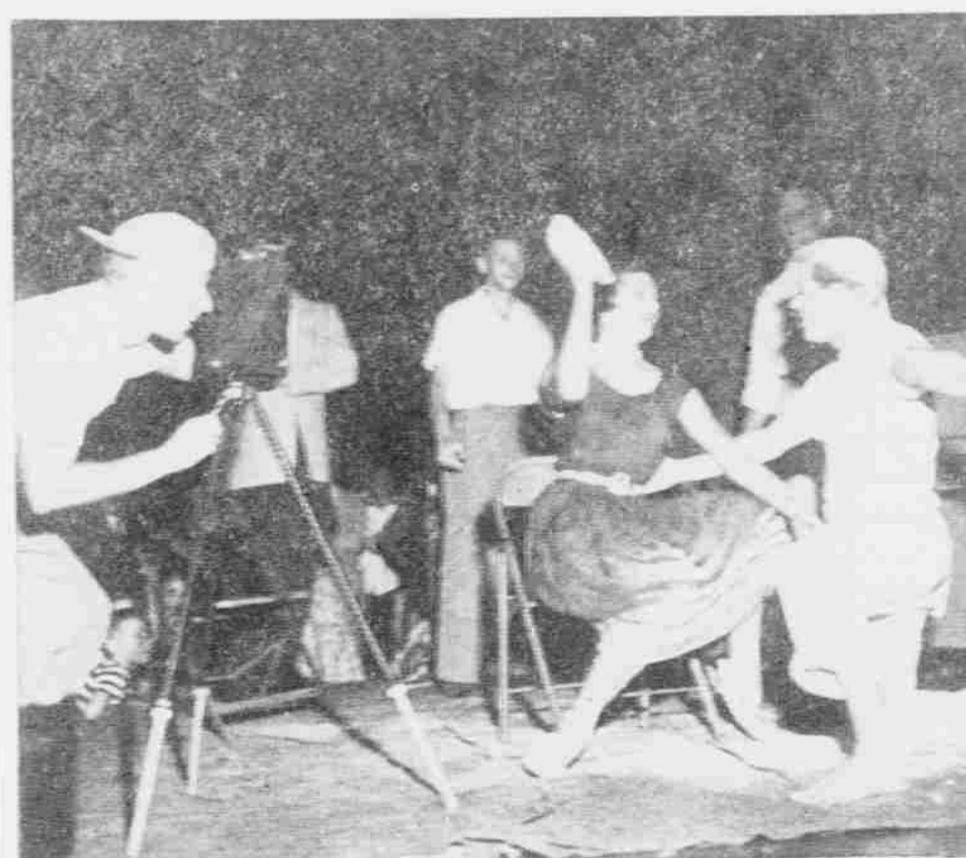

Designed primarily for public health officers, nurses, sanitarians, educators and health education students, the Short Course will cover highway, home and farm, and in-

(Continued on page 4)

Melon Festival Sparks First Session

WHO WOULDN'T SMILE—King of the Watermelon Festival Marvin Bass, UNC line coach, did not conceal his emotions upon winning the crown and the congratulatory kisses of the Queen, Barbara Stone, and her attendants Louise Coffey (on the left) and Frankie Jeunker. The crowning climaxed the very successful Festival.—Photo by Cornell Wright.

COMEDY SKIT "THE STAND-IN" BROUGHT DELIGHTED LAUGHTER—An audience of 1500 especially enjoyed this part of the lively Festival program. Players, left to right, Seymour Geisser, cameraman; Dick Painter, the fastidious star; Martin Roeder, the director; Mary Lee George, pie-slinging actress; and Bo Thorpe as the stoical stand-in.—Photo by Cornell Wright.