

Work on new projects begins

SCAU to operate this summer

The Student Consumer Action Union (SCAU) will be operating this summer, providing some of its normal services and working on several new projects.

The SCAU phone lines will be manned throughout the summer. Anyone with consumer complaints, problems or suggestions should call Isabel Millikovy at 933-8313.

The Food Co-op, still in the planning stages, is expected to operate on a trial basis this summer. Fresh produce, canned goods, bread, potato chips, soft drinks and possibly cheese and natural foods will be available to co-op members for 10 per cent above wholesale price. Full details of operation have not yet been announced.

The Franklin Street Gourmet, a guide to restaurants and eating places in Chapel Hill and Carrboro, will be revised and updated this summer. A section on area bars and taverns may be added. The Gourmet will be published in August.

SCAU members are working on a new publication, The Merchant's Guide, a guide to all stores in Chapel Hill and Carrboro whose goods or services are of use to students. The guide will contain descriptions of the merchandise each store carries, the types of services it offers, its check and credit card policies and some information on prices. Research for the guide will be completed in early August, when it will be published.

The University is currently accepting bids on its utilities. SCAU, with the help of faculty members and concerned citizens, will compile a study of these bids during the summer. The study will focus on the long-range plans and objectives of the companies submitting bids, and the effects these plans may have on the consumer.

Arrangements for the 10 per cent discount program for students, which will be operating again this fall, will be made by SCAU this summer. The program, in its third year, will operate during the first three weeks of the fall semester, providing students with 10 per cent discounts from participating merchants.

SCAU is undermanned this summer and urges anyone interested in working to come to an organizational meeting at 5 p.m., Thursday. The SCAU office is located in Suite B of the Student Union.

CGC to sponsor Open House

The Student Government will sponsor an Open House from 1-4 p.m. this Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, in Suite C of the Union.

The Open House is intended to promote interest and involvement in student government this summer. All students are invited. Student government, summer activities will be discussed and free refreshments will be served.

Student Body President Marcus Williams said he and his staff need student input and ideas to give direction and impetus to the policies they are trying to implement. According to Williams, there are several directions student government can take in the coming year. Some idea of what students on campus want is needed.

Williams included among possible an orientation toward services, such as the rides coordinating program, typewriter rentals, and mini-courses in practical affairs.

Another possibility is a concentration on ideals, on bringing people together, as for instance exchange programs with other campuses.

But Williams says he doesn't know what to do until he finds out what students want from him, something he hopes to learn from this Open House.

Cooperation

Neither of these fellows is quite sure how their saw works, but they are both determined to find out. They have discovered which side is the blade and where the handle is, so ultimate success can't be far off.

Let us brighten your environment with very special lighting.
