

Doty appointed swimming coach

by Bill Kay

Paul Doty, who guided the UNC lacrosse team to a high national ranking this spring, has been given additional duties as interim swimming coach of the Tar Heels.

Homer Rice, Carolina Director of Athletics, announced this week that Doty will succeed Pat Earey, the veteran swimming coach who resigned recently to devote full time to his position as professor of physical education.

Rice said that Earey has agreed to serve the swimming program in an advisory capacity until a permanent new coach is named. Doty will continue to serve as head lacrosse coach.

Doty is a candidate for a Ph. D. in physical education. He has an undergraduate degree from Denison College in Ohio.

While at Denison, Doty was a three sport star in lacrosse, swimming and soccer. He twice was named to the All-America team as an attackman, and made All-

America in swimming as a diver.

He coached the Tar Heel lacrossemen to a record of 6-5 against some of the toughest opposition in America. The Tar Heels were ranked 14th nationally. A closing victory over Duke gave Carolina a third place in the ACC behind defending national champion Maryland and powerhouse Virginia.

After his graduation from Denison, Doty taught for four years at Tabor Academy in Massachusetts before coming to Chapel Hill.

Rice delighted

"We're delighted that Paul Doty has agreed to be interim swimming coach," Rice said in making the announcement. "He's an outstanding young man who has done an exceptional job with the lacrosse team and I'm certain he will do equally well in the swimming program. We have a great tradition at Carolina in swimming and will take every step to see that it is continued."

Doty, 27, is married to the former Carolee Dawson of Long Island, N.Y., and they have a daughter, Kimberly, a year and 10 months old.

Carolina gets new woman's director

by Bill Kay
Sports Editor

There is a new women's athletic director at UNC, but her name is hardly obscure to the University community.

Frances Hogan, longtime women's tennis coach at the University of North Carolina, has been named director of intercollegiate athletics for women at UNC.

The announcement was made this week by Dr. Carl Blyth, chairman of the University Department of Physical Education.

Hogan, an associate professor of physical education, will assume her new duties immediately.

She will continue to coach the women's tennis team.

The women's tennis program at Carolina has made remarkable strides under her able and skilled guidance over the years. Laura Dupont, one of Hogan's tennis players, was the national collegiate women's champion in 1970.

This past season's version of the women's tennis team reached its peak in intercollegiate competition as its went undefeated and swept all the individual and team titles at the Middle Atlantic Lawn Tennis Association Championships for Women.

Hogan was instrumental in the awarding of the first athletic scholarship to a woman at Carolina. That was given this spring to Camey Timberlake, an incoming freshman from Lexington, N.C.

A graduate of Winthrop College, Hogan obtained her Masters Degree from Iowa State University. She originally joined the UNC staff in 1946.

The women's athletic program at Carolina is one of the largest in the South, fielding teams in eight sports—field hockey, volleyball, swimming, basketball, fencing, gymnastics, golf and tennis.

Maryland cops the Carmichael Cup

by Bill Kay
Sports Editor

The University of North Carolina failed by 1½ points to capture the coveted Carmichael Cup, emblematic for excellence in all athletics in the ACC, as the University of Maryland fought off a courageous bid by UNC to win the 13th annual Atlantic Coast Conference award.

The Carmichael Cup, presented as a memorial to the late William Donald Carmichael, Jr., of Chapel Hill, is awarded to the school which leads in this all-sports power rating in conference championship athletics. Each power sport counts equally, points based on seven for first, six for second, five for third, four for fourth, etc. A team must be fielded in a particular sport to obtain points. Points in basketball and baseball are awarded on the basis of the regular-season standings instead of the tournament finish.

Maryland's margin after the fall and winter season was needed to survive North Carolina's strong rally, the Tarps compiling 72 points to the Tar Heels' 70½ in the final tabulation announced by Commissioner Bob James through the conference service bureau.

The Tarps built up a four-point lead during the fall season and increased it to seven at the close of the winter period, but the Tar Heels outscored Maryland, 30 points to 24½, during the spring competition to close the final margin to one and a half points.

Each ACC school won at least one championship during the year. State led the way with four—football, basketball, swimming and baseball—while Maryland won three, UNC two and each of the remaining four schools one each.

The final 1973-1974 Carmichael Cup standings: Maryland: Football 6, Soccer 6, Cross Country 6, Basketball 5½, Wrestling 6, Swimming 5, Indoor Track 7, Fencing 6, Baseball 3½, Track and Field 7, Golf 4, Tennis 3, Lacrosse 7-72.

North Carolina: Football 2, Soccer 5, Cross Country 5, Basketball 5½, Wrestling 4, Swimming 6, Indoor Track 6, Fencing 7, Baseball 6, Track and Field 6, Golf 6, Tennis 7, Lacrosse 5-70½.

N.C. State: Football 7, Soccer 2½, Cross Country 4, Basketball 7, Wrestling 3, Swimming 7, Indoor Track 5, Fencing 4, Baseball 5, Track and Field 5, Golf 5, Tennis

1, Lacrosse 3-58½.

Duke: Football 3, Soccer 4, Cross Country 7, Basketball 1, Wrestling 5, Swimming 3, Indoor Track 4, Fencing 5, Baseball 2, Track and Field 4, Golf 2, Tennis 4½, Lacrosse 4-48½.

Virginia: Football 4, Soccer 2½, Cross Country 3, Basketball 4, Wrestling 7, Swimming 4, Indoor Track 3, Fencing 2½, Baseball 3½, Track and Field, Golf 1, Tennis 4½, Lacrosse 6-46.

Clemson: Football 5, Soccer 7, Cross Country 2, Basketball 2½, Swimming 1, Indoor Track 1½, Fencing 2½, Baseball 7, Track and Field 3, Golf 3, Tennis 6-40½.

Wake Forest: Football 1, Cross Country 1, Basketball 2½, Swimming 2, Indoor Track 1½, Baseball 1, Track and Field 2, Golf 7, Tennis 2-20.
