

Cyprus peace talks open in Geneva on Wednesday

LONDON — Greece, Turkey and Britain will open peace talks on the Cyprus crisis at the European headquarters of the United Nations in Geneva on Wednesday, British and United Nations officials said Monday.

British Foreign Secretary James Callaghan announced in London that he won approval from the Athens and Ankara governments after intense consultations with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Greek and Turkish government leaders.

In Geneva, the officials said the talks would probably be held in the same room at the Palais des Nations as negotiations earlier this year between Israel and Egypt and then between Israel and Syria.

Callaghan said "a great deal has to be done to ensure the return of constitutional rule in Cyprus. The British government will continue to work strenuously and urgently in every way to achieve it."

The conference will be at the foreign ministers level with Britain represented by Callaghan, Greece by Constantine Kypraios and Turkey by Turhan Guner. The U.N. will act as a neutral observer.

Callaghan said the Greek Foreign Minister informed him Monday morning of his willingness to attend the proposed conference with Britain and Turkey.

In the afternoon the Prime Minister of Turkey indicated his agreement with Geneva as the meeting place.

A key issue in the negotiations will be whether Archbishop Makarios will be restored to the Presidency, U.N. sources said in Geneva. But the immediate consideration was to safeguard the future relationship between the island's Greek and Turkish communities.

Meanwhile, at the United Nations, Secretary General Kurt Waldheim asked for more troops Monday for the U.N. Peace Force to police the shaky cease-fire on Cyprus, where he reported continued fighting.

Waldheim told the council that the 2,187 men from seven countries were insufficient to supervise the cease-fire. The authorized strength of the force is 7,000, and Waldheim said he would ask the participating countries to send more troops.

Callaghan announced that Britain will send 400 soldiers and two squadrons of armored cars to Cyprus to help bolster U.N. forces there.

Waldheim told the council that 75 minutes after the truce was to have gone into effect at 10 a.m. EDT the Turkish Air Force made a second attack on Nicosia.

He said a report filed by Maj. Gen. D. Phrem Chand of India, commander of the U.N. force, said a bomb fell within the U.N. compound adjacent to Nicosia Airport, wounding a British soldier.

Turkish Ambassador Osman Olcay said U.N. forces "have not succeeded in preventing the massacre of Turks by Greeks."

"There will not be a ceasefire in the sense we all hope there will be unless the massacre of Turks is stopped," Olcay said. "Until the Turks are not fired at, the Greeks will continue to be fired at."

Olcay reported a squadron of eight Greek vessels were trying to land Greek troops at the port of Paphos. Greek Ambassador Constantine Panayotacos denied the charges.

"Now as I am speaking," Olcay said, "massacres are taking place" at Paphos, Famagusta and other Cyprus towns.

Panayotacos reported that the Turkish air force was bombing hospitals and civilians. Cypriot Ambassador Zenoh Rossides charged that the Turks were using napalm bombs.

Reinecke connects Mitchell with offer

WASHINGTON — In direct reversal of his earlier sworn testimony to a Senate committee, California Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke said Monday he told John N. Mitchell in May, 1971 of an ITT offer to help finance the 1972 Republican convention.

Reinecke is charged with lying to the Senate Judiciary Committee in 1972 when he said that he had not told then-Attorney General Mitchell until September, 1971, of the ITT pledge of up to $400,000.

In answer to questions from his attorney at his perjury trial, Reinecke said he discussed with Mitchell the offer from the Sheraton Corp., an ITT subsidiary, two months before the Justice Department reached an out-of-court agreement on an antitrust suit against ITT.

Reinecke said he saw nothing wrong with the offer since there was a lot of competition for the convention. The Sheraton offer was based on the convention being held in San Diego, Calif.

Reinecke's testimony also contradicted earlier sworn statements by Mitchell before the Judiciary committee that the discussion in question did not occur until September. Mitchell has not been charged in the case.

Mitchell also testified before the Senate panel in 1972 that the discussion did not come until September. Mitchell has not been charged in the case.

Reinecke originally was charged with three counts of lying to the Senate Judiciary Committee in 1972 during confirmation hearings for former Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst, but one count was dropped last week at the request of the prosecution.

Gesell overrules jury in perjury conviction

WASHINGTON — U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell, overruling the trial jury, Monday threw out one of the three perjury convictions returned against John D. Ehrlichman 10 days ago in the Ellsberg break-in case.

Gesell declared President Nixon's former No. 2 aide innocent of lying to the FBI, ruling that the statute under which Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski obtained the indictment "was improperly invoked in this case."

But he denied Ehrlichman's motions for a new trial or acquittal on all charges, letting stand the jury's verdict finding Ehrlichman guilty of conspiracy and two counts of lying to a grand jury about the case.

Ehrlichman, Liddy, Bernard L. Barker and Eugenio R. Martinez were found guilty July 12 of conspiring to violate the civil rights of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, Dr. Lewis J. Fielding of Beverly Hills, Calif., by burglarizing his office on Labor Day weekend of 1971 in search of Ellsberg's medical records.

Besides conspiracy, Ehrlichman was indicted on four counts of lying. The trial jury acquitted him on one count of lying to a grand jury, and Gesell's action erased the conviction for lying to the FBI.

"After considering the evidence presented at trial and the arguments and briefs of counsel, the court concludes that Congress did not intend that statute to be applied to statements given to the FBI voluntarily and without oath or verbatim transcription during an interview initiated by the Bureau in the course of a criminal investigation," he said.

The judge said the problem is that the law permits a person to be punished as severely — a 5-year prison term and a $10,000 fine — for lying at an informal FBI interview as for lying under oath.

Before the trial Gesell had expressed doubts about the constitutionality of the statute, but reserved judgment on a motion the indictment be dismissed.

Joint airlift evacuates 4,400 refugees

WASHINGTON — The helicopter evacuation of Americans from Cyprus has been virtually completed, a Pentagon spokesman said late Monday.

American helicopters ferried Americans out of Cyprus to the Sixth Fleet aircraft carrier Coranado Monday, and a round-the-clock British airlift flew hundreds more European and Cypriot refugees to two English airbases.

In Stuttgart, Germany, Lt. Cmdr. George

R. Kolbenschlag said the American rescue effort started in the early afternoon with helicopters flying U.S. citizens out of the British base of Dhekelia in southeast Cyprus.

"There were about 350 Americans, there, tourists and embassy personnel, and they were lifted to the helicopter carrier, one of our smaller ships," he said.

A Pentagon spokesman indicated the British had requested the evacuation by the U.S. 6th Fleet because a flood of more than 4,000 refugees was overwhelming the base.

In Washington Secretary of State Henry Kissinger said the U.S. helicopters will remove Britons and Soviets as well as Americans.

Impeachment debate to be shown on TV

WASHINGTON — The House Judiciary Committee voted 31 to 7 Monday to permit live television of its final debate on impeaching President Nixon and left it to the networks to figure out how to do it without commercials.

Live broadcast coverage is expected to start Wednesday as the panel opens the final round of its historic debate before a final vote expected before Aug. 1.

The committee acted within a few hours after the House approved, 346 to 40, a resolution permitting television. The committee rejected, 29-8, a move by Rep. John Seiberling, D-Ohio, to prohibit supplemental lighting in the meeting room.

Rep. Joshua Eilberg, D-Pa., said network experts told him "without extra lights they won't even be able to move a picture in black and white."

It is now up to television networks to determine how they will comply with a House rule that any televised committee proceedings cannot be commercially sponsored.

Also to be determined by the networks is how time will be equally divided between Republicans and Democrats.

Meanwhile, the committee heard its new GOP counsel argue Thursday that impeachment must rest on whether removing Nixon would serve the public interest.

Sam Garrison said the yardstick should be not whether Nixon appeared guilty of "complicity in a crime," but whether his impeachment would be in the public interest.

Garrison, former deputy minority counsel elevated over the weekend to become chief representative of the Republican side in the impeachment inquiry, met privately with the members to present a balanced summary of the evidence and the arguments against impeaching Nixon.
