

Tar Heel Trackmen Meet Princeton Tigers In Spring

Impressive Schedule for State Champions Arranged by Athletic Authorities; First Bid For Eastern Honors.

The University of North Carolina track team, Southern Conference champions once recently and State champions for the past eight consecutive years, today announced the addition of the Princeton Tigers to an already impressive 1930 schedule.

The first meet announced was a dual affair with Penn State. Scheduling of the Princeton meet is taken to mean that the Tar Heel cindermen, long famous for a great line of distance aces, are ready to tackle the best teams in the land.

Princeton produced one of the East's strongest track outfits last year, including such individual stars as Ben Hodges, who placed second in the high jump at the Olympic games, and Rosner, great half-miler.

Seventy men are working out daily in fall track practice at the New Jersey institution, and all reports indicate the Tigers will present an equally strong and well-rounded team this year.

Exact dates have not yet been announced for either the Penn State or Princeton meets. Both, it is understood, are to be on a home and home basis. The dates, along with the remainder of the Tar Heels' 1930 schedule, are to be announced soon, according to Charles T. Woollen, Graduate Manager of Athletics.

NEIMAN HAS GOOD RECORD IN TRACK

Meets with Penn State and Princeton promise to put the 1930 Tar Heel track team to an acid test, but such outstanding performers as Dave Neiman are mitigating the worries of Coaches Fetzer and Ranson no little bit.

Neiman, as a sophomore, piled up 45 points for the Tar Heels last year, just one point shy of what the best Tar Heel scorer did.

He shattered a University broad jump record of 22 feet 5 inches, better by inches than the then state record, that had stood for 13 years, and showed great promise in the pole vault as well, reaching 11 feet 6 inches consistently.

Neiman placed second in the broad jump in both the state and Southern Conference meets. With his great speed, his activity, and his quickness to respond to tutoring, the coaches expect him to reach new high marks and to be one of the principal mainstays of the Tar Heel team. He is from Charlotte.

The Tar Heels are working hard in fall practice in anticipation of this hard schedule, for the Tar Heels have an enviable record to maintain. They have not lost a dual meet, and have won one Southern Conference and eight state titles in the last eight years. They placed second at the Southern Conference meet last year.

Collins Uses Many Men As Tar Heels Trample State's Wolfpack 32 - 0 field exhibitions seen on Kenan field this year. The quarter ended with the score 13-0 in favor of Carolina.

Following the kickoff, Coach Collins substituted an entire new eleven. Two passes Ward to Fenner brought the ball to State's 15 yard line. The passes were both in the same place, and good for 35 yards. Slusser shot through right tackle for nine yards. It was first down on the four yard line. House rushed center for the third touchdown. The half ended with the ball in Carolina's possession in midfield.

The superiority of the Tar Heel aggregation over the Tech men was easily apparent. Thirty-two men entered the fray for Carolina during the first session. To the observer there was no visible difference in the different combinations used. State offered enough resistance to make it a football contest, but the Carolina eleven rarely extended itself.

The second half was a repetition of the first half. Once or twice State carried the ball into Carolina territory, but each time the Carolina line held for downs. A State threat was turned back in the last quarter when Carolina repulsed four thrusts on its own four yard line. This was the only time the Tar Heels were called upon to display strength.

Near the end of the third period Erickson intercepted a pass on his own 25 yard line and twisted his way to State's four yard line. Harden carried the ball across for the touchdown.

Another Pivot Star

Red Gilbreath, sophomore center, proved that Carolina is well fixed in the center of the line. Yesterday he played great football against State, breaking up passes and getting tackles. Red has played in one or two games as a guard this season, but his real position is center.

60 Yard Run

Taking one of State's punts on his own forty yard line, Strud Nash, halfback, exhibited one of the neatest bits of running seen in Kenan stadium this year in returning the punt for a touchdown. Half a dozen State tacklers had their hands on him but none seemed able to hold him.

Furnishes Big Thrill

Chuck Erickson, halfback, has the knack of furnishing big thrills in football games. Yesterday he intercepted a State pass and ran 70 yards before being pulled down on State's four yard mark. He is one of the fastest men in the Carolina group of halfbacks.

Intramural Standings

The race for intramural honors in tag football is very close, with several undefeated teams in the lead at present. The marked decrease in the number of forfeits is held by intramural officials to be the reason for the close competition.

Two of the leaders will meet this week. Beta Theta Pi and Zeta Psi will fight it out on Wednesday afternoon. Delta Kappa Epsilon and Pi Kappa Phi both have two games scheduled for the coming week.

The standings to date are as follows:

Snell Active in Sports

Chester D. Snell has been active in tennis since he went from here to become director of extension at the University of Wisconsin. He and Bruton, a Carolina alumnus now at Wisconsin, won the doubles tournament of the city of Madison this last summer, and Mr. Snell has won two of six tournaments in which he has played since May. He has also found time for fishing, and he writes to a friend here: "On a trip to the northern lakes country we caught eight large wall-eyed pike, some pickerel, and all the perch we wanted. As soon as I get fully on to the art of casting we are going after the muskies, which have to be over 30 inches long before they can be taken."

TAR HEELS MEET GAMECOCKS NEXT

Battle Of Carolinas To Be Played In Columbia; Palmetto Team Has Won Only Two Games In 17 Game Series.

The annual "Battle of the Carolinas," when North Carolina "Republicans" will renew their quarter-century grid feud with the South Carolina "Democrats," is carded for the Gamecocks' stadium in Columbia, S. C., next Saturday.

The Tar Heels displayed drive and flash against N. C. State yesterday, and with South Carolina showing great power against Citadel, conquerors of the Oglethorpe team that beat Georgia, prospects are for a hard, close battle.

The series history is a different story, for the Tar Heels hold a lop-sided edge of 12 victories to two losses and three ties, one of which was last year's scoreless affair. The Tar Heels also hold a wide edge on points scored, having countered 236 points for the series to the Gamecocks' 46.

The two teams held their first meeting in 1903, and it took the Gamecocks 21 years to win a game, with just two tie scraps in between. The Tar Heels won the first five games by margins of from three to five touchdowns, with South Carolina registering its first score in the 27 to 6 game of 1910.

The first of three tied battles came in 1912 when each team pushed over one touchdown, but the Tar Heels won in 1913 and 1914, with the latter victory counting a 48 to 0 margin.

Since resumption of the rivalry after the World War, North Carolina has won five, lost two, and tied two games. These figures show the series is waxing warmer. The close scores show the same thing. Even the famous 1922 Tar Heels, undefeated South Atlantic champions, barely nosed out the Gamecocks 10 to 7 in a game featured by Snipes' 67-yard run for South Carolina.

Bill Dodderer, fleet end and great Tar Heel basketball star, recovered a blocked kick and ran 20 yards for a North Carolina touchdown and a 6 to 0 win in 1925. Tom Young, Tar Heel halfback, did the same thing to give North Carolina a victory the next year. The Tar Heels lost 14 to 6 in Columbia in 1927, and last year's game, played on a mud-soaked Kenan field here, ended in a scoreless tie.

HARRIERS ROMP OVER WOLFPACK IN EASY STYLE

Jensen Leads Freshmen to 17-39 Win; Five Varsity Men Join Hands As They Finish.

With five Carolina men breaking the tape at the same time, the Tar Heel varsity cross country team defeated Coach Alex Redfern's N. C. State proteges at Kenan stadium yesterday afternoon, scoring the lowest possible number of points. Clarence Jensen, freshman captain, also led his team to an overwhelming victory over the State freshmen, breaking the tape more than a hundred yards ahead of the nearest man.

Barkley, Baucom, Pierce, Wrenn and Phoenix of Carolina, coming in together, covered the distance of four miles in 22:24. Redfern and Alexander of State followed these men, with Cohen of Carolina not far behind. In the freshman meet, Jensen of Carolina, first to cross the line, was followed by Cox and Cordle, also of Carolina. Troutman of State came in fourth and closely behind him were Lumpkin and Zolley. Jensen's time in covering the three mile course was 18:54.

The final score for the varsity teams was Carolina 15, State 45. The score for the freshmen was Carolina 17, State 37.

Lowry, varsity harrier, was unable to run in yesterday's meet because of an abscessed tooth. However, he is expected to be in good shape for the meet with Duke, which is scheduled to be held next Friday, November 8.

Club Dinner-Dance Next Week

There will be a dinner-dance at the Country Club, for members and their house guests, from 7 to 11 o'clock next Friday evening, November 8. The charge is $1 per plate and checks should be sent to Mrs. Otto Stuhlman, P. O. Box 630. No fee is required from the members who want to come for the dancing but not for the dinner.
