Expect Good Attendance For Newspaper Institute

Annual Meeting To Open Wednesday Afternoon With More Than 100 Delegates Expected.

LAWRENCE TO BE SPEAKER

Chase To Deliver Address Of Welcome With W. Carey Dowd, President of State Association, Responding.

More than one hundred North Carolina newspaper workers—including publishers, editors, advertising and circulation men, reporters, and any others who may choose to come—are expected to gather here Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week for the annual sessions of the Newspaper Institute.

The institute is being held under the auspices of the North Carolina Press Association and the University. All newspaper workers, regardless of membership in the state press association or other affiliation, are invited to attend.

The program, planned by a joint committee from the Press association and the University, is regarded as exceptionally strong and one that should appeal alike to the daily and weekly newspaper folk.

A well-balanced assortment of topics ranging all the way from editorial and news features, advertising, circulation, accounting and business management, are scheduled for discussion. And a hand-picked group of men who have achieved success in these particular fields will head the discussions.

The institute will open Wednesday. Headquarters will be at the Carolina Inn, and registration will open there at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. The opening session will be held that night at 8 o'clock in Gerard Hall. President Harry W. Chase of the University will deliver the address of welcome, and President W. Carey Dowd, Jr., of the North Carolina Press Association will make the response. Then will follow the principal address of the evening, by David Lawrence, publisher of the United States Daily and president of the Consolidated Press Association. That will wind up the program for that night.

The sessions will continue through Friday at noon.

Cotton Oil Man Here To Interview Seniors

The manager of the Southern Cotton Oil Company, Mr. Bell, visited the University Friday. The purpose of his visit was to find men interested in his organization.

While here Mr. Bell interviewed seniors from the chemical, civil, electrical and mechanical engineering departments. In December seniors in chemical engineering were also interviewed by E. C. Ainslie.

The Southern Cotton Oil Company, which produces cotton seed oil for the manufacture of soap and Crisco, is a branch organization of Proctor and Gamble Company of Cincinnati. There are at present in the employ of Proctor and Gamble Company three Carolina graduates. These men are: George Owens, '25, traveling experimental research worker; J. Gordon Simmons, '25, supervisor of soap manufacture; and R. E. Matthews, '29, engineering experimental research worker.

Education School Changes Rules For Student Teachers

According to a regulation recently adopted by the administration board of the school of education, admission to the course in practice teaching will hereafter be restricted to honor students only. An average grade of B in the teaching field, or the applicant's academic major, is the standard which student teachers must now attain.

Dr. E. R. Mosher, director of the teacher-training work, states that there are several reasons for the passage of this regulation. He says that in any school where practice teaching is permitted, the interests of the pupils taught should always be regarded as paramount. No teacher can teach effectively what he himself does not know. Hence, in justice to the boys and girls of the local high school, students of indifferent scholarship should be barred from these courses.

Other reasons for this action include a desire on the part of the school of education to raise the standard set for prospective teaching above the level now prevailing; limited practice teaching facilities; and regulations of the State Department of Public Instruction regarding teachers' certificates. Dr. Mosher states. According to these regulations, which are to go into effect on July 1, 1931, teaching is to be made a requirement for the highest grade certificate issued on graduation from any senior college undertaking teacher training work in North Carolina.

Dashiell's Book Is Widely Used

Dr. J. F. Dashiell's book entitled Fundamentals of Objective Psychology, which is being used here in psychology I and II, is receiving wide adoption throughout the country. Although it appeared late for adoptions in the fall of 1928, already there are over 75 universities and colleges that are using it. They include Harvard, Columbia, Dartmouth, Amherst, Pittsburgh, Ohio State, Indiana, Northwestern, Wisconsin, New York University, George Washington, University of Wyoming, University of California, and such southern schools as Vanderbilt, Alabama, Florida, South Carolina, Davidson and the University of Tennessee.

A questionnaire sent out by the University of Kentucky to 49 leading psychologists to determine their preference as to textbooks showed that for freshmen and sophomores they placed Woodworth's first and Dashiell's second, and for juniors and seniors they placed Dashiell's first and Woodworth's second. All other books were far in the rear in both cases.

LOCAL RED CROSS TO EXPAND SOON

Classes in Life Saving, Rural Nursing, and Police Instruction Contemplated.

Classes in first aid and life saving, so popular at North Carolina last year, will be resumed in the near future, according to Miss Elise Mulliken, state field representative for the American Red Cross, who has been at the Carolina Inn the past few days.

Policemen, traffic men, and other guardians of the public safety in North Carolina have reported the great good which they derived from the two weeks' instruction given here last year, according to Miss Mulliken. No less than 46 Carolina students have become expert in life saving methods.

The work here will be under the direction of Morgan F. Vining, instruction probably being in the hand of Raymond Eaton, who is paid by the American Red Cross to teach life saving methods. None of the expense will be borne by the University.

As a result of a successful membership roll call conducted by the American Red Cross in Chapel Hill recently, Miss Mulliken promises to have eventually a Red Cross nurse to assist poor families in the district. In this work the Red Cross will be aided by the American association for the prevention of tuberculosis and other interested agencies.

The work of a Red Cross county nurse is interesting. Families too ignorant or too poor to care for themselves properly are aided and advised by the nurse. Clinic are frequently, where as many as fifty operations are performed in a single day, at no cost to persons unable to pay.

The following resolutions will be discussed at the meeting: "Resolved, The State Executive Committee of the Democratic party would be justified in reading Senator Simmons out of the Democratic party," and "Resolved, That radio station KWKH, of Shreveport, Louisiana, which has been broadcasting against chain stores, should be deprived of its operating license."

This discussion, which supplements the work of Professor M. T. Van Hecke's course in trusts, will deal with the financial rather than the legal aspects of investments for trustees. Particular attention will be paid to investment trust certificates, equipment trust certificates, land trust certificates, and participating mortgages, as well as to land mortgages, industrial and public utility bonds, and common stocks.

The meeting will open at 2 o'clock in the first-year classroom. Anyone having any interest in the subject is invited to attend.

Car Catches Fire

An automobile, driven by two young women from Durham, whose names were not learned, caught fire at 9:10 Sunday morning while parked in front of Patterson's drug store. Defective wiring was the cause. Committee Appointed To Report On Activities Of Stores For Fall Quarter.

DORMITORY PRESIDENTS AND MANAGERS TO MEET

Editorial In Daily Tar Heel Caused Meeting In President's Office Monday Morning; Punch Boards Removed.

(By J. D. McNairy)

Yesterday morning President Chase held a conference in his office with C. T. Woollen, business manager of the University; R. B. House, executive secretary; F. F. Bradshaw, dean of students; P. L. Burch, superintendent of buildings, Jimmie Williams, assistant to the dean, and H. D. Williams of the building department, at which the question of dormitory stores, brought to the front by an editorial in Saturday's Tar Heel attacking the stores, was discussed. A representative from the Tar Heel editorial staff was also present.

In order that certain misconceptions regarding the stores may be cleared up, Mr. Burch and Jimmie Williams were directed to draw up a report of the activities of the stores for the fall quarter and to send the report to the Tar Heel and the local newspapers. In order that the limit of the stores' activity may be more clearly defined, it was decided to call a meeting of the store managers and dormitory presidents and draw up some regulations as to what types of goods may be sold in the stores.

There was general agreement among the group that the conditions stated in the Tar Heel's editorial were true before Christmas, but it was pointed out that conditions have been very greatly improved. All punch boards and games of chance have been removed from the stores; if any are now operated, then the store managers are running them at the risk of losing their jobs. Certain changes have been made in the personnel of the store managers; six were not reappointed for the winter quarter due to unsatisfactory service during the fall. The sanitary inspector has been directed to be more rigorous in his inspections of the stores.

Due to the fact that much speculation exists as to the exact amount of business done by the stores during the fall a financial statement was directed to be published. Contrary to the belief of many merchants that during the fall quarter $19,000 was turned over by the stores, the actual figures showed a business of little over $6,000. Of this one third was the commission on cleaning, pressing, and shoe repairing, which would ordinarily have been paid out by Chapel Hill firms; thus only $4,500 worth of goods were sold. Of this, 90 per cent was purchased from Chapel Hill merchants by the store managers. The managers buy out of Chapel Hill only when they can get goods at a greatly reduced price.

As the stores are in an experimental stage, plans for the continued operation are to be worked out carefully as experience directs. President Chase suggested that the stores, to be satisfactory, must be governed by three principles: a careful choice of the personnel of the stores.
