

FINAL GRAIL OF QUARTER AT GYM 9 P. M. TONIGHT

Engineers And Grail Dances Closing Events Of Brilliant Winter Social Season.

Following the engineers' ball of last night, the Order of the Grail will have its third and last dance of the quarter tonight beginning at 9 o'clock. The engineers had quite a successful affair last night according to those attending. The ballroom of the Inn was attractively decorated in a color scheme of blue and gold, an unusually good crowd of girls were present, and the music was declared to be excellent. "Ty" Sawyer and his Carolina Buccaneers will again be heard at the Grail dance tonight.

Because of the success of the plan of giving boxes of candy to the first five girls attending the last Grail dance, this feature will again be carried out tonight. However, this offer is open only to those arriving before 9:30 o'clock.

The gymnasium will be decorated by Frazier Glenn and Baron Holmes who have long ago demonstrated their ability at this important feature.

As usual, tickets will be placed on sale for stags at 8:30 at the rear entrance of the gym. Boys bringing girls are allowed to purchase their tickets at the door.

This will be the last dance on the Hill this quarter due to the nearness of exams, and quite a large crowd is expected. Many visitors are now in Chapel Hill due to the presence of the two dances this week-end. Members of the Grail predict that this will be their best dance of the quarter.

Staff Meeting

There will be a meeting of the Tar Heel staff tomorrow night at 7 o'clock at the offices, basement Alumni building. All reporters unless excused by the editor or the managing editor are expected to attend this meeting.

DEBATERS BREAK EVEN IN GEORGIA

J. C. Williams And John Wilkinson Win From Georgia Tech Thursday.

EMORY DEBATE IS LOST

Carolina's varsity debating teams broke even in a double engagement at Atlanta, losing to Emory University Wednesday night and winning from Georgia Tech Thursday.

Both teams upheld the affirmative side of the question "Resolved, That modern science tends to destroy theistic faith." W. W. Speight and McB. Fleming-Jones represented the University case against Emory, while J. C. Williams and J. W. Wilkinson competed with Georgia Tech.

Emory and Georgia Tech are both old debating rivals of Carolina and the competition among these three institutions is so keen that non-decision debates, which are rapidly supplanting the old decision debates, could not be agreed upon, and three judges were selected to render the decision. The University debaters won and lost by the same vote, two to one in each case.

The subject of the debates was of interest owing to the fact that Emory is a strong church school while Carolina is distinctly liberal in thought. This loss to Emory evens things up in the long forensic history of the two institutions. Previous to this contest Carolina held a margin of one in the series.

Williams, Wilkinson and Speight are veterans of intercollegiate debating and Fleming-Jones, while a newcomer, has shown enough ability to win a berth on the team over several experienced debaters. Williams and Wilkinson are both winners of the Wright medal. Williams in addition has received the Bingham medal and has competed in 10 intercollegiate debates. Speight has debated for Carolina against Marquette and Virginia, and Wilkinson has numbered among his opponents the British National Union of Students.

Famous Book Dealer Visits New Library

Mr. Paul Gotterschalk, German dealer in rare books and periodicals, made a business visit to the University library this week. Mr. Gotterschalk is of international fame, and is well known throughout Europe and America.

Nearly every year Mr. Gotterschalk visits the large college and university libraries in the United States. He also calls on the owners of the large private libraries.

Mr. Gotterschalk was very favorably impressed with the size and beauty of the library building. He was well pleased with the interior of the building, and especially with the decoration scheme which is carried out throughout the building.

Mr. Coney, the assistant librarian, conducted Mr. Gotterschalk through the building, who examined the Hanes Collection, which is located in the Seminar rooms. He declared this collection to be very valuable and interesting.

He came to Chapel Hill the early part of the week. He also visited the Duke University library.

GREENE GETS SIX POINTS

Sanford Leads Scoring Of Bulldogs With Ten Points; Carolina led at half 10-8, But Failed To Hold Pace.

After setting the pace for Georgia in the opening minutes of play and leading 10-8 at the half, Carolina's White Phantoms weakened and fell before the onslaught of Sanford and his teammates 26-17 in the first round of Southern Conference tournament play at Atlanta last night. With State also losing to Sewanee, Duke remains as the sole standard bearer of the Old North State in the 1930 race for the title.

The Tar Heels played their usual steady game, but failed to hold Sanford down, and the speedy Georgia forward rolled in 10 points to give his team the necessary margin of victory and the right to go on in tournament competition. Carolina as a dark horse found the track too fast and Tar Heel hopes for a fifth conference title were relegated to a future season.

Lineup:

- Carolina (17) Georgia (26)
 - Greene (6) Sanford (10)
 - L. F.
 - Neiman (2) Palmer (6)

SURVEY REVEALS MANY STUDENTS ARE SELF-HELP

North American Student Federation Investigates Number of Students Working in 723 Colleges and Universities.

The North American Student Federation recently made a survey of 723 colleges and universities in the United States. The results reveal that these institutions enroll 84 per cent of all college students in America and that 46 per cent of the men and 23 per cent of the women are earning part or all of their way through college. Figures on self-help show that the earnings of these students are approximately $82,500,000.

Students are working at jobs and trades of all kinds characteristic of the community—automobile jobs, office jobs, specialty selling, semi-professional work, tutoring, printing and publishing jobs, public service work, transportation employment, hotel and eating house-jobs, and a variety of odd-jobs too numerous to mention. Over 200 different types of employment for college students are listed. Some of the more original are making their own opportunities. Those gifted in color and design create artistic novelties and decorations which find ready sale among students and citizens. Talented students give lessons in music, bridge, golf, or are employed as entertainers, readers, soloists, and orchestra members to provide entertainment at dinners.

Tar Heel Captain And Star Lightweight Get Off To Good Start At The University Of Virginia.

ARE DEFENDING TITLE

Warren, Davis And Sheffield Lose In Preliminary Scraps Of Boxing Tournament; Finals To Be Held Monday Night.

Captain Archie Allen and Noah Goodridge came through the preliminary boxing bouts at the Southern Conference tournament at Charlottesville last night and the Tar Heel hopes for a third successive conference title are tied up in the performances of these two men in the second round of the tournament tonight and the finals Monday.

Allen scored a technical knockout over Fean of V. M. I. in the third round after submitting him to heavy punishment for the first two periods. His showing last night classes Allen as a formidable contender for the welterweight crown. Last year Allen annexed the lightweight crown, but this year he stepped into the welterweight class and went through an entire season without a defeat.

Goodridge, in winning a decision over Phierot of Tulane, who was considered one of the most formidable contenders for the lightweight crown, established himself as one of the foremost candidates for the conference title in that weight. The shifty, skilful style in which Goodridge handles himself in the ring gives him a good chance of coping a title. His only defeat of the season came at the hands of Captain O'Connell of Florida, who fought his way to a featherweight championship last year, but switched over to the lightweight class this season.

Warren lost a decision to Harland, another of Tulane's hopes, in a close, hard-fought scrap. Davis and Sheffield also dropped decisions to their opponents. The outcome of Koenig in the heavyweight division had not been ascertained at the time of going to press. The result of the bantamweight bout was not available either.

Ambitious Reporter Learns Cause Jones' Bandaged Eye

(By Lucious Nelly)

Many have been the speculations that have arisen lately over the condition of Howard Jones' eyes. Indeed, so many letters and individuals have applied for information that it was found necessary to institute a thoroughgoing investigation.

The results—like the investigations in Congress—are scarcely to be termed productive. The bearer of the colored glasses and bandaged eye could not and would not be interviewed. The only other person who would throw light on the matter was Mrs. Howard Mumford Jones. After much pleading on part of your correspondent, the only information that could be elicited was that the inflammation, if it can be called that, of the left orb of the English professor was caused by a pine needle late last Sunday afternoon while riding in an automobile. The story is obviously not quite clear but Mrs. Jones would speak in only the very vaguest of terms.

Mrs. Jones made it very clear—without being asked—that her husband was not under the influence of intoxicating beverages. She expanded a bit and told in more detail that while Mr. Jones was entering the car, an overhanging limb of a pine tree got in the way of Mr. Jones. Thus did the pine tree's needle chance to spear the optic of the learned Southern
