W4WE Communicates With 16 Foreign Stations During Contests

(By Beaumert Whitton)

During the two weeks of the international long-distance message handling contest, the University radio station, W4WE, carried on communication with 16 foreign stations on four continents, and amassed a total of 400 points in the contest, which is sponsored annually by the American Radio Relay League.

The farthest station with which contact was made was VK6FL in Perth, Australia, which is almost 12,000 miles from Chapel Hill, and which lacks only a few degrees of being on exactly the opposite side of the world. However, the station in Perth is not the only far distant station worked during the contest, for communication was also established with VK6SA at Victoria Park, Australia, and K6ALM, in Honolulu.

The operators of the station, Stanley Preston, Bill Adams, and Jack Houston, maintained watches at the station practically continuously during the contest period, and as a result of the early morning watches the station in Perth and the one in Victoria Park were picked up on consecutive days.

In Europe the station communicated with two French stations, one at Paris, F8KZ, and one in the southern part of the country, F8EX. Because of the fact that the European stations had to be worked during the late afternoon and a high frequency of electric current the machine was operated on the campus during most of the afternoons, no other European stations were contacted. Considering the fact that there was a great amount of local interference, the local operators were lucky to communicate with even these two French stations.

While amateurs generally consider South America a harder continent to communicate with than Europe, the operators were able to exchange messages with stations in four countries on that continent proper and on four islands in the Caribbean.

Brazil, Ecuador, Argentina, and Peru were the South American countries with which the University exchanged messages. Of the islands, Cuba, Jamaica, Porto Rico, and Virgin Islands were the ones with which contact was established.

For W4WE, probably the most rapid exchange of messages was with station NJ2PA, in Jamaica. The entire operation of calling the station, giving a message and taking one in return occupied slightly less than two minutes. In addition to being the most rapidly handled message during the contest this message was said by one of the operators to be one of the fastest transmitted by the station in quite some time.

In addition to the stations in South America and the Caribbean Sea, the station communicated with a station in Newfoundland, the only one in North America which counted as a foreign station.

Presenting their final performance last night, the Carolina Playmakers closed a three-day run of their new bill of one-act plays at the Playmaker theatre.

The plays presented were: For Auntie's Sake, a college comedy by John Patric; Hollyhocks, a New England folk play by Joe Fox; Suspended Animation, a comedy in playwriting by Kent Creuser; and Death Valley Scotty, a California folk play by Milton Wood.

Elmer Hall, technical director of the Playmakers, constructed an elaborate set for Death Valley Scotty, in which play the scene is laid in the California desert. All of the productions were first plays. In three of them the authors took a leading role. Suspended Animation, presenting the efforts of a young playwright to create his first play, was unusual in that the participants in the original "bull session" from which the idea came took part in the play.

Generals Nose Out Tar Heels 29-27; Georgia Tech and Maryland Tie for Third Place.

TWO THOUSAND ATTEND (By Marion Alexander)

In a thrilling finish, that hinged on the outcome of the final relay run, Washington and Lee nosed out North Carolina and carried off honors in the varsity division of the first games in the Tin Can last night.

Washington and Lee, by virtue of a first in the relay, had 29, while North Carolina finished just two points behind, with 27. Other Conference teams finished as follows: Georgia Tech and Maryland, 13; Tulane, 11; Virginia and Georgia, 10; N. C. State, 6; South Carolina, 5½; Duke, 4½.

The North Carolina freshmen led their field with 21 points, followed by Duke with 8 and Washington and Lee with 7. Augusta Military Academy carried off honors in the scholastic division with 22 points, followed by Tech high of Atlanta with 8, and Raleigh with 7.

The final relays of the meet brought to a climax a great track meet that held 2,000 spectators rooted to their seats to the last minute, and drew a participation of 230 athletes from ten Southern Conference institutions, eight freshman teams and 12 high and prep schools.

The Tar Heels jumped into an early lead when Bagby tied for first in the high jump and Arnold took first in the pole vault. Charlie Farmer, sophomore sprinter, put five more points in the North Carolina larder with a first in the 60-yard dash in 6.4 seconds, time that equalled the best in this year's Millrose games.

Washington and Lee began forging ahead at this point by the great performance of its sprinters and hurdlers. Sandifer and Finklestein accounted for four points in the 60-yard dash. Speer added five in the high hurdles, Sheppard five in the 440, Finklestein five and three on first and second in the low hurdles.

At that point the score stood North Carolina 25 to Washington and Lee 24, with the mile relay to settle the issue, and with Washington and Lee with a relay team that swept away all opposition in last year's Southern Conference, and boasted such a star as Williams, individual Conference 400 champion.

Weil, in the mile relay, ran Washington and Lee's leadoff man to a tie on the first lap, but Garrett, running second, fell on a curve and lost valuable yards that could never be regained, despite fine running by Captain Nims and Farmer. Washington and Lee took first, and thus nosed the Tar Heels out, 29-27.

Fast times and stellar performances featured the meet all along the route. Brodie Arnold, Tar Heel vaulter, approached the southern outdoor record and broke a University record with a 12 foot 7 inch vault that is believed to be the best indoor mark ever made in the south.

Farmer, Tar Heel sophomore phenom, equalled the Millrose games' time, 6.4 seconds, on the 60-yard dash. Young of Georgia, Southern Conference cross country champion, set the fast
