

Shakespearean Players Will Give Presentation Of Julius Caesar Tonight On Campus

Carolina Playmakers Presenting Well-Known Troupe As Part Of Regular Season Program.

SHOW BEGINS AT 8:30

Organization Specializes In Showing Before College and School Audiences; University Students To Take Small Parts.

As a particular feature on the regular program of the Carolina Playmakers, the Shakespeare Players will offer their production of Julius Caesar in the theatre Saturday night at 8:30 o'clock.

Known originally as the Stratford Players, this troupe, which is a traveling organization, is in the third year of its existence. Appearing chiefly before school and college audiences, these players have had as their outstanding productions Julius Caesar and Macbeth.

Composed of seven experienced players, the group is under the direction of James Hendrickson and Claire Bruce. Although they give all due credit to the dramatic genius of the Stratford bard for the success of their productions, the Players have reason to be proud of the personnel of their troupe.

Mr. Hendrickson has had ten years of varied experience, including two years with Mr. Fritz Leiber's Shakespearean company. More recently he had the honor of appearing with Mr. Robert B. Mantell in his last two seasons. Mr. Hendrickson played the part of Brutus during Mr. Mantell's illness.

Miss Bruce, also for two seasons in the Mantell company, has appeared in many New York companies, notably those of John Cort, Maurice Gest, and a season with the far-famed Theatre Guild.

Other of the players are Webster Patterson, who has appeared with prominent companies in New York and San Francisco; Miss Mary Glover, another artist from the Mantell company; Stanley Copley, who is in his second season with the players; Emmet Shields, a former member of the Barbizon Players of

SIX ENGINEERING SENIORS OFFERED ELECTRICAL JOBS

Through L. H. Means, a factory representative who was in Chapel Hill Thursday, the General Electric company has offered positions to six members of the senior class in electrical engineering. If the students accept the offered positions, they will enter the one-year training course which the company gives to graduates of technical schools. In the training school the students, all of whom will graduate this spring, will take advanced training in electrical engineering, specializing in so far as is possible in the field of their special interest.

During a period of approximately five years 26 graduates of the electrical engineering department have accepted positions with the General Electric company. Last spring the company offered positions to nine men, and of these several accepted and are now taking the advanced instruction offered in the training course.

Bingham Debate Query Is Being Considered

At present the Bingham debate committees of the Di and Phi are considering the following queries: "Resolved, that the United States should recognize the present government of Russia," "Resolved, that the Prohibition Act should be repealed," and "Resolved, that modern science tends to destroy theistic faith." Immediately after the meetings of the Di and Phi Tuesday night the committees will meet jointly and decide upon one of these queries, and the side which each will uphold.

The Bingham Debate is always held during the commencement week. The contestants are representatives of the Di and Phi literary societies and are limited to the junior class.

The Bingham medal was first awarded in 1899, being given by the late Colonel Bingham. Since that date it has been awarded annually at commencement. Relatives of the original donor now sponsor the contest. The medal was won last year by J. C. Williams, of the Di.

Carolina Magazine To Appear April 6

The next issue of the Carolina Magazine which will appear April 6 will feature a one-act play, "The Mask: A Fantasy," by Richard A. Chace, and an article, "Rupert Brook: The Great Lover," by Jay Curtis. Arthur Riding also has a story, "Prometheus" in this issue.

Other features to appear will be "Psaltery," a sonnet sequence by Margaret Beaufort Miller; "The Ending of a Letter Written Between Midnight and Dawn," by N. C. B.; and verse by Lewis Alexander, Dorothy Mumford and others.

Following this issue will appear the annual Negro Number, edited with the help of Lewis Alexander, who in preceding years has secured the material for this particular issue. The editors have received this year numerous requests for copies of the Negro Numbers of 1928 and 1929 from libraries and colleges over the entire country.

Sometime in May will be published an issue to which former contributors and University alumni now successfully engaged in writing have promised to submit material.

DeGrouchy Visiting Wilbur Daniel Steele

Mr. DeGrouchy, one of the editors of the Curtis Publishing Company in Philadelphia, is here on a visit to Wilbur Daniel Steele. He is a distant relative of the celebrated French general of the same name who defeated part of Blucher's army at Wavre June 18, 1815, and whom Napoleon would have been glad to welcome at Waterloo.

Mr. Steele has embarked upon the writing of a series of stories for the Curtis company, and Mr. DeGrouchy came to Chapel Hill to confer with him about them. They commune through the day and far into the night upon literature and philosophy, sometimes calling in O. J. Coffin and Paul Green to pass upon disputed points.

MOVEMENT BEGINS TO START SCOUT FRATERNITY HERE

Meeting of Former Scouts To Be Held Next Thursday Evening.

A meeting of students who were boy scouts prior to their coming to the University was held Thursday evening at the Y. M. C. A. to make plans for incorporating on the campus a chapter of the Alpha Phi Omega fraternity. It was decided that on the next Thursday evening a meeting should be held again at the "Y" for all those students who desire to join the local chapter and those who have already designated that they have decided to join.

The object of the coming meeting, which will be presided over by R. B. Hubbard, temporary chairman, will be to elect the officers of the local chapter, to appoint a committee to draft a constitution, and to discuss further plans for the development and progress of the local chapter.

Alpha Phi Omega is not a social fraternity, but an honorary-professional national college fraternity. There are no local or national dues which might limit the membership, but only a membership fee of ten dollars after the local chapter has received its charter from the national organization.

The purpose and nature of this organization are incorporated in the following quotation: "The honor of membership in this fraternity is granted only to those who at some time have come under the scout oath and law as a registered scout of the rank of Tenderfoot or higher, or a scout leader. The purpose of the fraternity is to assemble those who have experience and training under the scout oath and law, to develop friendship, leadership, character building, citizenship, good college spirit, and strong manhood in general."

The following students have already become members of the local organization: A. D. Kornegay, Charlie Powell, Harold Smith, Henry Welland, Welland, Wellard Hayes, J. G. Zaglin, D. C. McClue, J. W. Long, Donald Sewell, R. H. Hubbard, and H. F. Beam.

Work on Glandon Road

Glandon Road driveway is being resurfaced by the Chapel Hill Public Works department. Besides the resurfacing of the road, a new drainage system is being planned, for which pipes have already been ordered.

Chapel Hillians Should Go To Bed Early Says U. S. Executive

The belief of the Post Office Department that all good Chapel Hillians should be in bed by nine o'clock is the interesting discovery of John A. Livingston, Washington correspondent of the News and Observer. In response to a letter from Louis Graves, Charles Woollen, Mayor Council, and other notables of Chapel Hill relative to obtaining longer hours for the remaining open for the local post-office, the executive assistant to Postmaster-General Brown advanced the belief that the closing of the lobby two and a half hours after the last dis-

SCHOOL DEBATES SET FOR FIRST WEEK IN APRIL

Annual Triangle Affairs Will Be Held Next Thursday States Rankin.

FINALS TO BE HELD HERE

The triangular debates in the contest of the High School Debating Union of North Carolina will be held in participating high schools throughout the state on April 4, it was announced yesterday by E. R. Rankin, secretary of the High School Debating Union.

The high schools which win both sides in their triangular debates on April 4 will send their teams to the University to compete on April 17 and 18 in the final contest for the Aycock Memorial Cup, the trophy provided by the intercollegiate debaters of the University of North Carolina.

The query which will be discussed by all schools in the state-wide contest this year is: "Resolved, that North Carolina should adopt the proposed constitutional amendment, authorizing the classification of property for taxation."

It is expected that the annual debating contest on the question as to whether North Carolina should adopt the proposed constitutional amendment, which comes up for decision on the part of the voters next fall and which would authorize the General Assembly to classify property for purposes of taxation, will be one of unusual interest.

The high school debates on Friday evening will bring to a culmination several months of steady effort which has been put forth by the representatives of the various high schools which are entering the contest. The youthful debaters have engaged in a careful study of all available material bearing on the subject of the classification of property for purposes of taxation. For the use of the debaters the University Extension Division has published a 93-page debate handbook, Volume 9, No. 4, of the University of North Carolina Extension Bulletin, entitled "The Classification of Property for Taxation." This handbook contains a brief history of the High School Debating Union, a statement of the query with explanations and limitations, selected articles on the Four University Professors Will Feature Call Meeting of Sigma Xi.

TO MEET TUESDAY NIGHT

Cards Mailed To All Local and State Members of Organization; Special Program Is Arranged.

The Sigma Xi, national honorary scientific fraternity, will hold a special meeting next Tuesday night, April 1, at 6:15 o'clock. Cards are being mailed to all local members and members throughout the state.

A special program has been arranged and four of the most noted Geologists at the University will give talks. The principal speakers are Drs. Collier Cobb, W. F. Prouty, J. H. Schwartz, and G. I. MacCarthy.

Dr. Cobb will speak on the Dome Structures in the Coastal plains of North Carolina, and Deflections of Streams toward the right. Dr. Prouty will discuss the Structure and Characteristics of the Triassic Deposits of this state, and Occurrence, and Origin of Certain Serpentine Deposits in Maryland and Pennsylvania. Dr. Swartz will talk on the methods of determining Geological structures with Geophysical instrument. The last speech will be given by Dr. MacCarthy, who will discuss the Beach sands of the Atlantic coastal plains in respect to their Origin and relation to shore currents.

All of the speeches of this occasion pertain to problems which the members of the Geological departments have spent much time in research. Dr. Prouty has worked several years doing research work on the Triassic deposits in North Carolina and the other states between here and the New England states. He is said to have a more thorough understanding of this subject than any other one man.

The local chapter of the Sigma Xi is the only one in this state, and its members are scattered throughout the state and in the south. This scientific society functions in the field of Geology as the Phi Beta Kappa does in the scholastic field. Meetings are held regularly every month, but this is to be the largest meeting yet held. Plates for the occasion are seventy-five cents.

Boy Scout Activities

The Boy Scout troop of Chapel Hill held a meeting last Friday evening. A contest in first-aid splints and slings was on the schedule. Dr. R. B. Lawson, the judge, was unable to attend, but this (Friday) evening he will pass decision on the performance.

In the inter-patrol contest the standings are as follows: Eagle, 710; Fox, 676; Panther, 617; Wildcat, 578. The patrols are judged for attendance, for behavior, for the wearing of uniforms, for the payment of dues, and for skill in various kinds of tests.

Judge Winston Is Here

Judge Robert W. Winston is in Chapel Hill. He is on his annual hegira from the golfing grounds of South Carolina to the golfing grounds of New England. This year, as usual, he is writing a book in the intervals of golf.

PRE-LAW SCHOOL ASSOCIATION TO HEAR WOODHOUSE

Organization of Students Planning To Enter Law School Will Gather Monday Night.

MEET IN MANNING HALL

"The regular meeting of the Pre-Law School Association will be held Monday evening, March 31, at 7:30 in the 3rd year class room in Manning hall. Mr. E. J. Woodhouse, professor of government in the University faculty, and who is also a member of the bar, will speak on 'The Study of Government as a Preparation for the Legal Profession.' An open forum discussion by the audience will follow. Please be on hand. Program committee: W. W. Speight, W. H. Jarman, Chas. H. Whedbee."

The above notice is being mailed to all members of the Pre-Law Association during the week-end. President Speight extends an invitation to all who have registered in the pre-law course, those who intend to enter the law school, and those who may be interested in the work, to be present at this and other meetings. The purpose of the association is to acquaint the prospective law students with the law school and the study of law, and to aid them in planning courses of study in preparation. The first meeting was held during the winter quarter, at which time Professor Connor, of the history department, inaugurated the series of talks, and officers of the organization were chosen. Much interest has been shown in the activity of the group, and it is hoped that the membership of all interested members of the student body may be gained.
