

Washington And Lee Meets Carolina Today

Infield Play Of Carolina Team To Be Feature Of First Tri-State Contest

Three Veterans Will Perform For Carolina Infield Positions.

FLEMING LIKELY HURLER

First Southern Conference Opposition to Be Met on Emerson Field This Afternoon at 4 O'clock.

Opening their Tri-State League season against Washington and Lee here this afternoon at 4 o'clock, the Tar Heel baseball team will show one of the snappiest infields put out at Carolina in years.

Last year's splendid infield was one of the big reasons for Carolina's Tri-State title. Captain Maus, Marshall Rand, Burgess Whitehead and Nap Luffy are veterans back for four of five infield posts, and Phil Jackson is coming along nicely at first, to give prospects of another fine combination.

The select quintet started the season with a bang when it pulled a snappy triple play in its opening 18-7 game with Springfield. The combination worked brilliantly again in two games with Cornell, Whitehead's work in accepting 15 chances without a flaw in the first game proving an especial feature.

The Tar Heel pitching force seems fairly well settled also. The veterans Wright and Fleming have both looked good in opening games and will probably carry the brunt of the season's hurling. Supporting them will be a corps of rookies, any one of whom may come through, including Longest, Tom and Paul Edwards, Park and Hinton.

A galaxy of talent is out for outfield posts, including four right-handed batters and three outstanding left-handed hitters, so that Coach Ashmore will probably juggle his outfielders considerably to meet different brands of hurling.

The Tar Heels came through their opening 18-7 win from Springfield and through their two-game series with Cornell in fine shape, and are well set for today's Tri-State opener with Washington and Lee.

Frank Fleming, who worked the splendid 3-2 victory over Cornell on Monday, will have had two days of rest, and will probably draw the important hurling assignment for the Tar Heels.

Golf Tournament Begins Saturday

The third of the series of spring golf tournaments will begin Saturday afternoon at 2:30, according to an announcement made by the golf committee of the Chapel Hill golf club.

Each entrant is to play 16 holes—twice around the present eight-hole course—and subtract his handicap as posted on the bulletin board at the club house from his total score, turning in the score to the chairman of the golf committee.

Merchants of the village have contributed prizes to make the play worth while, and the golf committee will determine by the number that enter the play Saturday whether or not to continue the tournaments. Stetson "D" offers a sweater to the one making the lowest score on Saturday, the Student Supply store a dozen golf balls to second lowest scorer, and Pritchard Patterson Co., a pair of golf hose to the third lowest scorer.

Looking Them Over

by Browning Roach

Dissatisfied Duke alumni are beginning to pat themselves on the back now that Wallace Wade of the University of Alabama has signed the five-year contract to direct the Blue Devils in their athletic affairs. An unsuccessful football season always elicits dissatisfaction from grid fans, and as soon as the Alma Mater drops two or three games in succession alumni begin to set up a howl for another coach. The responsibility for the success may or may not rest largely with the coach, but invariably he gets the lion's share of the blame, and only a small portion of the credit.

Lack of cooperation between the coach and his players and a hostile attitude on the part of team supporters does much to mar the smoothness with which a football team carries out its part on the gridiron, but the comparatively poor showing made by the Blue Devils last fall may be attributed in a large measure to the over-ambitious schedule undertaken by a squad somewhat deficient in veteran material. To take on such outfits as Pitt, Villanova and the U. S. Naval Academy and expect to get anything other than a sound drubbing denotes superlative optimism in an eleven that has yet to establish its supremacy, or even prestige, in Southern Conference circles. Inter-sectional games are all right for a team striving to build up a name for itself if that team is able to put up a good enough scrap to justify a clash with an ostensibly superior opponent.

Bringing with him a record such as Wade has for building up championship teams, and given a year's advance notice to get out of a slump, future prospects for Duke on the gridiron take on a more hopeful aspect. Through a period of seven years, Wallace Wade has coached the Crimson Tide to the Southern Conference gridiron title on three successive years, won one and tied one Rose Bowl game, went through a Southern Conference schedule undefeated and unscored on one year, and in 65 games played lost only a scant dozen. In his first year at Alabama, 1923, Wade's proteges lost only two games, one to Florida and one to Syracuse, and in the next three years came through victorious in every contest except one with Centre in 1924—the same Centre college eleven that was hailed as national champion. If Wade can turn in anything like such a good record at our sister university, we are ready to grant that the impossible has been accomplished.

Since the anti-DeHart element has manifestly accomplished its purpose in putting DeHart on the shelf—that is, he will be replaced after the coming season—it is not too much to expect that he will be granted a little more cooperation next fall. The Blue Devils are taking on a slightly less difficult schedule this year, and should be able to come through with a better showing than they made in 1929.

A Texan accused of wife desertion won a postponed sentence when it was shown that the lady beat him, snapped a pistol at him and slept with the butcher knife under her pillow. In the great open spaces, where men are men, they ought to be allowed at least a half-mile start. —Minneapolis Journal.

Georgia Tech Is Expected To Bring Strong Track Team Here For Carolina Meet Saturday

Freshmen to Hold Quadrangular Meet With Wilmington, Charlotte and Greensboro.

HAMM IS TECH LEADER

Loud Speaker Being Installed For Use at Track Pageant on Emerson Field This Week-End; Hamm and Graydon Tech Stars.

Simultaneously with the Carolina-Georgia Tech track meet here Saturday afternoon will be held a meet between the Carolina freshmen and the track teams from Wilmington, Charlotte and Greensboro high schools, it was announced here.

Three high school teams against whom the Carolina frosh will compete regularly present the leading high school cinder teams in the state. The freshman meet is an annual affair. Its scheduling in connection with the Carolina-Georgia Tech varsity meet assures a continuous program of action, promising a rare treat for the epicurean track fan on Saturday.

Field events will begin at 2:30, track events at 3 o'clock. The whole meet will be run off on definite time schedule of 1 hour 45 minutes. The University's loudspeaker set is being added to make the meet doubly enjoyable for spectators.

Georgia Tech, led by the redoubtable Ed Hamm, who holds three southern records and a world record in the broadjump, is this year regarded as one of the strongest teams in the south. The Techmen, too, will be shooting to break the enviable record of no defeats in dual meets for eight years.

Carolina was weakened considerably by the graduation last year of such stars as Cowper and Harper, who placed first in the vault and discus at the Southern Conference meet, but still has another strong team. There are 11 veterans on the Tar Heel roster, covering every event but the javelin, and a number of fine youngsters. These include Brodie Arnold, who has already this spring set a new University vaulting record, and Charlie Farmer, who beat the south's best sprinters at the recent Southern Conference indoor games, and Theron Brown, high-point man in the last meet here.

Both the varsity and freshman-high school meets are expected to produce their thrills, but the forecasters are expecting one of the biggest from the Hamm-Farmer race.

Tennis Finals To Be Held Friday

The finals of the varsity and freshman tennis tournaments will be played off on the Carolina courts Friday afternoon at 2:30. The varsity finals were postponed from yesterday afternoon until Friday afternoon and will immediately follow the freshman meet to be held first. Yeomans and Hendlin will meet for the varsity title, while Hines and Grant will contest for the freshman laurels. Yeomans defeated Graham in the semi-finals in straight sets, and Hendlin trimmed Merritt in two straight duced sets, 7-5, 7-5. Hines won over Abels by an easy margin in the freshman semi-finals and Grant trimmed Wright to advance.

Unemployment is increasing rapidly in Australia.

Postal savings in Japan now total nearly one billion dollars.

Penn Boxing Captain Dies Result Injuries

Oliver Horne, captain of the University of Pennsylvania's boxing team, died Saturday night as a result of injuries sustained when he was knocked out in his bout in the middleweight division of the national intercollegiate tournament at Philadelphia March 22nd, by William Struble, member of the Penn State team. Horne never regained consciousness despite the administration of all medical aid possible, but seemed to be holding his own until the 28th, when he began to weaken under the effects of the concussion, and died Saturday night. His fraternity brothers in Lambda Chi Alpha acted as pall bearers at his funeral.

Struble was ordered to appear in magistrate's court to answer a formal charge of manslaughter immediately preferred against him, but it was stated that this charge is a mere formality and has been lodged only to carry out the law and to establish testimony on the records as to how the youth met his death.

It will be remembered that Struble is the boxer who defeated John Warren here in a four round bout in the light-heavyweight division on the Penn State-Carolina match held in the Tin Can February 22, exactly one month before the accident at the intercollegiate.

Frosh Subs to Report

All freshmen desiring to try out for sub-assistant track manager are asked by the manager to report at Emerson field this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Frosh Tennis Team To Enter Tournament

The Tar Babies will represent Carolina in the North and South tennis tournament to be held in Pinehurst beginning April 14 and lasting through April 19. At present there are five leading freshman netmen contending for positions on the team to make the trip. The fourth position on the freshman squad is the most hotly contested of any with Burnatt and Abels the two leading candidates for this position. The other three men that will probably make the trip are Grant, Hines and Wright.

The varsity will be unable to make the trip to Pinehurst because of other meets that interfere. The season for the varsity will begin with the Alabama meet here on April 15 and the Davidson match on the following day. The state intercollegiate tournament will be held at Carolina beginning April 17 and lasting through the 14th. Yeomans, Hendlin, Merritt and Graham will probably be the Tar Heels entered in these meets.

Pi Kappa Phi's Win

Pi Kappa Phi doubled the score on Kappa Alpha yesterday afternoon, 8-4, in the first day of the intramural baseball season. There was no accurate box score kept, but the feature of the game was the pitching of Barker Williams, Pi Kappa Phi freshman. Only seven men faced him in the first two innings, six striking out and one getting a walk. After the third he began to tire, and the K. A.'s garnered four runs.

Daniel, K. A., called to the first two innings, six striking box after two disastrous innings, pitched well for the remainder of the game. Davis, Martin and Oliver led the hitting.

Pi Kappa Phi Kappa Alpha Vann, lf Trotter, ss Davis, 2b Carpenter 2b, p

Martin, 3b Mann, 3b McInnis, 1b Oliver, p, 3b Slater, ss Wells, lf B. Williams, p Cromartie, c J. Williams, c Hughes, 1b Dixon, rf Hamilton, rf Powell, cf Perkins, cf Gilbreath, rf Daniels, p

Housewives in Australia are taking rapidly to the use of electric ranges.

When You Think of Having Friends Down for the Week-end

Think of The CAROLINA Inn

Dining Room and Cafeteria Service

USED CARS WE HAVE 20 In Stock, Each One a Bargain Prices from $35 to $500 All Tire Prices Reduced Strowd Motor Company Ford Products Since 1914 WE APPRECIATE YOUR BUSINESS