

Alumni Day Program Is Set For Commencement

Reunion Committee of General Alumni Association Meets During Week End.

ARRANGE PROGRAM

The program for Alumni Day of Commencement will in general follow that of last year. This decision was made by the reunion committee of the General Alumni Association, meeting at the Carolina Inn during the week-end.

Dr. Hubert Haywood of Raleigh presided at the meeting of the reunion committee, and officers of eight of the 11 classes scheduled to reunite this June were present. Dr. Haywood, chief alumni commencement marshal, is a member of the class of 1905, which observes its quarter-century reunion June 9.

Dormitory rooms will be assigned alumni who return for commencement. The central alumni office is caring for these arrangements. Headquarters will be established at the Y, or, possibly, if the weather permits, near the Well.

The main events of Alumni Day will include a meeting of the alumni in Gerrard hall at 10:30, presided over by Judge Francis D. Winston; the alumni luncheon at 1 o'clock in Swain hall; class reunion suppers at 6 o'clock; President Chase's reception, and the annual alumni ball probably in the Tin Can at 9 o'clock. This latter event has generally been held in Swain hall, but there are plans now to change both the alumni ball and the commencement dances to the Tin Can.

Eleven University classes will observe reunions. These are 1880, holding its 50th year reunion; 1895, '96, '98; 1905, celebrating its 25th year out; 1914, '15, '16, '17; and 1929, coming back for its first year gathering. The president of the class of 1880 has reported that at least six of that class's nine living graduates are planning to be back in Chapel Hill for the reunion.

Those attending the meeting of the committee here Saturday evening were: Dr. Haywood; Dr. R. E. Coker, '96, Chapel Hill; Lawrence MacRae, '97, Greensboro; R. H. Lewis, '98, Oxford; W. T. Shore, '05, Charlotte; Oscar Leach, '14, Raleigh; G. Wallace Smith, '16, Chapel Hill; H. G. Baity, '17, Chapel Hill; Bowman Gray, Jr., '29, Winston-Salem; and G. E. "Bo" Shepard, '29, Chapel Hill. Those from the University who attended the Saturday meeting were: C. T. Woollen, R. B. House, W. S. Bernard, F. A. Grisette, and Maryon Saunders, alumni secretary.

Hinshaw Issues Capias

A capias warrant for the return of Luther Alston to Chapel Hill recorder's court was issued by Judge C. P. Hinshaw Monday when the negro failed to appear to answer a charge of public drunkenness.

Luther came to the attention of the public for the first time about a year ago, when, after having been sentenced to a month on the roads by J. T. Harris, local justice of the peace, the prisoner asked permission to pray. The negro prayed so fervently and so long and so eloquently that Justice Harris reconsidered and allowed him to go free.

Executive Committee Senior Class To Meet

Red Greene, president of the senior class, announced last night that there would be a meeting of the Executive Committee of the class tonight at 9 o'clock on the second floor of the Y. M. C. A. All members of the committee are urged to be present as it is very important.

DR. WILSON TO BE ENTERTAINED BY ANTON LANG

University Librarian Is Notified That He Will Be Guest Of Famous Passion Play Actor This Summer.

Several years ago the University village experienced a mild sensation when a band of Hopi Indians from out West came to Chapel Hill for a performance and became so fond of Professor Fred Koch, guiding genius of the Carolina Playmakers, that without further ado they elected him honorary chief of their tribe.

Now along comes Dr. Louis Wilson, University librarian, and goes Chief Koch one better. For, believe it or not, Dr. Wilson is to be entertained in the home of Herr Anton Lang, the Christus of the famous Oberammergau Passion Play, when he visits Germany this coming summer.

It is not exactly a formal invitation that Dr. Wilson has received from the famous Lang, but it serves the same purpose. It happened this way: The village of Oberammergau is so small that most of the visitors who go there to see the great Passion Play, which is given only once every ten years, are entertained in the private homes of the natives. It is the custom. The company that booked for Dr. Wilson for his European itinerary notified him several days ago that during his stay there he would be the guest of Anton Lang. Naturally he was immensely pleased, but he is at a loss to offer an explanation as to why it should have fallen to his lot to be placed in such good company. He is going to be the last to raise a row about his predicament, however, and he has already half-way promised to do an article on the famous Lang from the close-up point of view.

Since the first of the year Dr. Wilson has been enjoying a much deserved leave of absence. He and members of his family spent the months of January, February, and March in Florida. Today he left for New York, and tomorrow night he will sail for Naples aboard the Italian steamship Roma. He will be away until August, during which time he plans to visit Italy, Switzerland, Germany, France, Belgium, Holland, and England.

While abroad Dr. Wilson expects to visit the principal libraries of Europe. He especially looks forward to a visit to the Vatican library at Rome, which is being reorganized along American lines under the direction of Dr. W. W. Bishop, librarian of the University of Michigan. As

Y GETTING READY FOR BLUE RIDGE

Campaign To Be Waged Shortly For Delegates To Summer Camp.

The Blue Ridge Conference, which is to be held June 14-23, was the main subject of discussion at the meetings of the Y cabinets last night. Grady Leonard spoke to the freshman group about the conference, H. F. Comer to the sophomore cabinet and President Jimmie Williams to the junior-senior cabinet.

After the program of the freshmen had opened with short devotional exercises, E. R. Rankin of the extension division, asked for volunteers to act as secretaries of debate sections at the high school debates that are to be held here next Thursday and Friday. Grady Leonard then made a short talk on the Blue Ridge Conference. "Besides the sports, fine speeches, good eats, and vocational guidance that one will find at this conference, the greatest part of the program is the contact with students from other schools in the 'south,'" stated Mr. Leonard.

Jimmie Williams, president of the Y, spoke to the junior-senior group on this same subject. He urged that as many members as possible try to plan this trip in their summer vacation. Many advantages of the conference were pointed out by the president. The cabinet also held a discussion of the North Carolina Conference for Social Service which is to meet April 13, 14, and 15 in Charlotte. For the first time a student section is to be introduced into this conference.

Sentence prayers opened the program of the sophomore cabinet. Jack Dungan, president of the group, then called on H. F. Comer to talk to the cabinet on the Blue Ridge Conference. Quite a few students indicated their desire to go to this conference, and it is hoped by the Y authorities that a large delegation can be sent to the conference from the University. F. M. James served as chairman of the meeting, following a new plan inaugurated by the president.

Former Carolina Student Wins Prominent Diplomatic Position

Being the second alumnus of the University of North Carolina to be appointed to a prominent diplomatic office since President Hoover's election, the Hon. Gilchrist Baker Stockton, of Jacksonville, Florida, has recently been chosen to represent the United States as minister to Austria.

The new consul was born in Jacksonville in 1890 and lived there during his early education. He entered the University of North Carolina in 1909 as a member of the class of 1913. However his stay on the campus lasted only one year, and he finished his college courses at Princeton, whence he graduated in 1914, with the honors of Phi Beta Kappa. He was a Rhodes scholar from the state of Florida, and obtained his law degree and Master of Arts at Oxford.

In 1915 he was appointed to a membership in the Commission of Relief to Belgium, of which Hoover was then chairman. Later he was appointed special assistant to Walter Hines Page,

Magazine Editor

J. C. Williams, who won a heavy majority for the editorship of the Carolina Magazine in Friday's elections, has served the Magazine as book editor and the Daily Tar Heel as reporter, columnist, and assistant-editor. Williams is also president of the Debate Council, ex-president of the Di Senate, winner of the Bingham and Wright medals, and has represented the University in 11 intercollegiate debates.

CAMPUS IS MOWED

As the students went to their eight-thirty classes this morning they were greeted by the sound of self-propelling lawn mowers which have been silent since last autumn. Two negroes under the direction of Mr. Alf Pickard were piloting the machines over the beautiful stretch of campus between Old South building and the Library.

Mr. Pickard says that it will take the two men about one week to cover the entire campus. These men followed by others whose job it is to take a small hand scythe and cut all the bunches and sprigs of grass left by the machines. They cut around the trees and buildings where it is impossible to carry the machines. The grass is left on the ground after it is cut. No pushing and pulling of lawn mowers, no raking and carting away of grass after it is cut—these should make lawn mowing a pleasure at Carolina.

Visitor Is Fined

Ernest Hicks, a visitor in Chapel Hill, paid $5 and costs to Chapel Hill recorder's court Monday upon his conviction of public drunkenness. Hicks had been so boisterously intoxicated when arrested that four men were required to convey him to the jail.

ANNUAL CONTEST IN JOURNALISM CLOSING JUNE 1

Rankin Announces Journalism Contests for North Carolina High Schools.

The seventh annual contests in journalism for North Carolina high schools, conducted under the auspices of the extension division of the University, were announced yesterday by E. R. Rankin, secretary of the committee in charge of the contests.

These contests are known as the Hume Cup high school newspaper contest, so named in honor of the late Dr. Thomas Hume, for a number of years head of the English department of the University, and the annual high school magazine contest. They were inaugurated by the extension division in the hope that through them excellence of attainment in the field of high school journalism might be encouraged in North Carolina high schools.

Schools which plan to enter their publications in the contests should send their files for the year 1929-30 to the central committee at the University by June 1, 1930.

In all cases, according to the announcement, the publications submitted are to have been edited by students and to have appeared at least eight times during the year. There is no objection to some degree of faculty supervision.

In the case of the newspaper contest, the school winning the Hume Cup the greatest number of times in ten years is to keep it as a permanent possession; while the school winning the magazine award is to receive as a permanent possession a trophy cup presented by the University extension division.

The judges in making their decision will consider news values, editorial values, and the general make-up and typographical appearance of the publications entered in the contests.

Winners of the magazine and newspaper contests, respectively, in the past were Raleigh and Greensboro in 1924; Asheville and Durham in 1925; and Greensboro for both magazine and newspaper contests in 1926, 1927, 1928, and of the Hume Cup in 1929.

The committee in charge of the contests is composed of N. W. Walker, chairman, E. R. Rankin, secretary; Addison Hibbard, L. R. Wilson, O. J. Coffin and R. W. Madry.
