

JITNEY PLAYERS TO PRESENT "THE WONDER" TONIGHT

"A Trip to Scarborough" Presented Last Night; Conclude Engagement Here Tonight.

The Jitney Players presented Sheridan's "A Trip to Scarborough" last night at the Playmaker theatre. Shepperd Strudwick, former member of the Playmakers, starred in the role of Tom Fashion. Tonight the company will present Suzanne Centlivre's "The Wonder." The performance will be given at 8:30 in the Theatre.

"A Trip to Scarborough" was written by Richard Brinsley Sheridan. It was first produced in Drury Lane in 1777. The Jitney Players are producing it for the first time in America. The play is typical of the eighteenth century.

David Elliott, a nationally known actor, played the part of Lord Foppington. Ada Cafagna took the part of Mrs. Calico, and Harrison Dowd the part of Lovell.

The Jitney Players stage their productions after the manner of the original presentations. The costumes are correct in detail, and the eighteenth century atmosphere is carried throughout.

Bushnell Cheyney, well-known actor, organized the Jitney Players seven years ago. The company is organized after the fashion of the strolling troupes of Renaissance Europe, traveling about the country in trucks. They appeared at the Cherry Lane theatre in New York for over five weeks. Their work has received praise from eminent critics, their plays being produced by actors with professional training.

"The Wonder," which is to be produced tonight, is a comedy written by Suzanne Centlivre. It was first produced in Drury Lane in 1714. The story centers about the domestic difficulties and the love affairs of two girls who seek to escape the restrictions of their harsh fathers.

Band Goes On Tour

The University band departs today for a two-day tour during which they will appear four times in two towns.

Tonight at Shelby under the auspices of the high school music department, the group will give a concert in the high school auditorium, from which place it will proceed to Charlotte.

Tomorrow morning in Charlotte the band is booked to appear at the junior high school while in the afternoon it will play at the senior high school. The series of concerts will be closed by a general concert given tomorrow night in the Charlotte high school auditorium.

As in Shelby the Charlotte concerts will be under the auspices of the local high school music department.

The music supervisor in Shelby, Mr. Sinclair, is a former member of the Carolina band, and L. R. Sides, Charlotte superintendent, was former band director here.

Buccaneer Notice

The last regular meeting of the art and editorial staffs of the Buccaneer will be held in the Buccaneer office tonight at 7 o'clock, states Cy Edson, editor.

Engineers To Meet

The student chapter of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers will hold its regular monthly meeting in room 201 Venable hall this evening at 7:30. This will be a very important meeting as officers for next year will be elected.

STATE DRAMATIC FESTIVAL ENDS

Many High Schools and Colleges Compete For Prizes in Annual Tournament.

The state dramatic tournament closed Saturday night with the announcement of winners in all the contests, and the presentation of awards. High schools, colleges, and community clubs throughout the state had contested for supremacy in the writing and producing of plays and in various phases of stage technique.

The contest in play production by city high schools was won by the senior high school of Asheville with the presentation of Cottman and Shaw's "Submerged." The Wayne Community Players of Goldsboro won in the contest for community clubs, with Ada Carver's "The Cajun." The contest for junior colleges was won by Mars Hill College with the presentation of James O'Brien's "Marching Men." Jackson high school, presenting Booth Tarkington's "The Travellers," was the winner in the contest for eastern county high schools.

Authors' prizes for original plays went to Kneale Morgan of Asheville senior high school for his play "Clippings"; to Esta Roush of the R. J. Reynolds high school, Winston-Salem, for her play "Death Comes to Sonia"; and to Helen Miller of Lenoir-Rhyne College for her play "Rising Martyrs."

"The Elopement," by Mrs. C. H. Griffin, presented by the Seaboard Women's Club, and "Song in the Wind," by R. C. Robinson, presented by the Wayne Community Players of Goldsboro, were the winners in the community group.

Prizes in the form of three-volume set of the Carolina Folk Plays were presented in the following special contests: stage model, Newbern; costume, Greensboro College; poster, Louisburg College; program, Asheville high school; and make-up, Asheville high school. Similar prizes were presented to the winners in the authors' contest.

DYER MEETS WITH STATE MUSIC SUPERINTENDENTS

Professor H. S. Dyer, serving in capacity of chairman for the executive committee of state music superintendents, attended a meeting in Raleigh with other committee members last Saturday.

Some of the problems discussed were the recodification of the present plan dealing with the certification for music teaching, standardization throughout the state of credit systems for school entrance study, the making uniform of courses of study outside school, and the setting of a date for next year's association meeting.

Four members of the class of 1862 attended the class reunion in 1911.

LINGLE TO GIVE BACCALAUREATE ADDRESS JUNE 8

President of Davidson College To Be Commencement Speaker; Active In Church.

Dr. Walter Lee Lingle, president of Davidson College, distinguished clergyman and educator, has been secured to deliver the baccalaureate sermon at the Commencement on June 8, it was announced yesterday.

Dr. Lingle has long been prominently identified with educational movements. Graduating from Davidson College in 1892, he took his master's degree there the same year and his doctorate in 1906. He was graduated from the Union Theological Seminary in 1896 and ordained the same year. He did postgraduate work at the University of Chicago in 1896 and at Southwestern University in 1920.

His first pastorate was at Dalton, Ga., whence he went to Rock Hill, S. C., and then to the First Presbyterian church of Atlanta in 1907.

From 1911 to 1924 he was professor of Hebrew Language and Church History in the Union Theological Seminary. He has been president of the Presbyterian General Assembly's Training School for Lay workers since 1924.

In the field of publications and newspapers, he edited the Union Seminary Review from 1912 to 1922 and has been a constant contributor to religious periodicals. He was elected moderator of the Presbyterian Synod in North Carolina in 1915 and moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States in 1920.

Dean Of Students Speaks On Morals

That the key to success in life or any of its undertakings is character was the opinion expressed by Dean F. F. Bradshaw in speaking to the freshmen in chapel yesterday. While showing at the same time the importance of character in any activity, the dean pointed particularly to its place in business affairs.

The working value of a good character, the dean explained, depends on the fact that the man who achieves something must have the cooperation of others and that the necessary cooperation can be obtained only by the man of character. People hesitate to trust or to deal with a man who is lacking in the qualities of a good character.

In discussing the requirements for business success Mr. Bradshaw quoted a statement by John D. Rockefeller, Jr. Mr. Rockefeller holds that good morals and obedience to law, as well as consideration of others and loyalty, are fundamental necessities for the business man. The man who is without them is a detriment to his firm.

Phi Meets Tonight

The resolution, "Resolved, That Josiah W. Bailey should be the Democratic nominee for the United States senate," will be discussed at the regular meeting of the Phi Assembly tonight, Bill Speight of the ways and means committee announced. Speaker Carr stated that a number of business matters will be discussed.

SOCIAL SERVICE CONFERENCE TO CLOSE TONIGHT

Governor Gardner, Dr. W. L. Poteat and Frank Graham are Among Prominent Speakers At Charlotte Meeting.

The annual meeting of the North Carolina Conference for Social Service, which has been held for the past two days in Charlotte, will come to a close tonight. Governor O. Max Gardner and David Coker of South Carolina will be the speakers at this final mass meeting tonight.

Dr. W. L. Poteat was the first speaker of the conference, speaking at the opening meeting Sunday night at 8:00. Monday morning a business meeting and a discussion were presided over by Frank Graham, president of the conference, and H. F. Comer, respectively. Dr. Elbert Russell of Duke University and Professor Wiley Sanders of the University delivered addresses during the afternoon session, and at 8:30 last night President Frank Graham delivered the annual address of the president.

The program for today will be opened with a forum led by Dr. C. C. Taylor of State College, after which will be held an important business meeting. At 1:00 a luncheon meeting is to be held at which time Kemp Battle of Rocky Mount will speak. Then at 2:30 this afternoon Clarence Poe will make an address on the subject of "Live at Home." The final mass meeting at 8:30 will conclude the program.

This conference was organized some 18 years ago by a small band of prominent men in the state for the purpose of studying some of the human problems of the commonwealth and to do all possible to remedy them. Some of the things that this group has done are to help child life, create the State Board of Charities and Public Welfare, established the Juvenile courts in North Carolina, abolish flogging in the state prison, establish tubercular prison camps, and numerous other such deeds that have proven beneficial to the general welfare. At present this small group of men is a large, well-organized group composed of committees on which are men well-suited for the type of work that has been assigned to them.

For the first time in the history of the conference a student section was organized this year. Several of the larger universities and colleges in the state sent delegates to this conference. This student section is to be a separate division of the conference and will have its own problems to deal with just as the other divisions.

Eclipse Is Observed

Dr. Karl Fussler's class in Physics 14, the new astronomy course, met on Saturday night from twelve until one o'clock in order to observe the partial eclipse of the moon through the telescope on the top of Phillips hall. The eclipse when full only darkened about one tenth of the surface of the moon, but could easily be seen through the telescope and to a lesser degree with the naked eye.

There were 240 members of the University "Y" in 1911.

Senior Invitations

Orders for invitations may be placed today and Wednesday at Sutton's, Patterson's and the Y. M. C. A., with members of the committee composed of Stacy Grant, chairman, "Red" Greene, president of the class, and "Red" Williams.

Despite added features of the invitations this year the price will remain the same as last year. The invitations will commemorate the dedication of the new library.

PLAYMAKERS TO LEAVE ON TOUR

Bill Consists of Same One-Act Plays That Were Produced On Northwestern Trip.

Leaving here Friday the Carolina Playmakers will begin the third tour of the present season. This trip will carry them to many towns in the western portion of the state, and to at least one town outside the state. Their bill will as usual consist of three one-act plays, the same three that they produced on their northern tour last fall, and the southern tour during the winter.

The cast for these plays, "The No 'Count Boy" by Paul Green, Loretto Carroll Bailey's "Job's Kinfolks," and Gertrude Wilson Coffin's "Magnolia's Man," will be the same casts playing on the southern tour and practically the same as that making the northern tour.

"The No 'Count Boy" is a fantastic comedy of negro life. One of Paul Green's best works, it was awarded first prize in the National Little Theatre tournament in 1925, when produced in New York by the Dallas Little Theatre Company.

Loretto Carroll Bailey presents an episode from the life of the average mill family in "Job's Kinfolks." The play has received wide commendation, and was used as the basis for the highly praised three-act play of the same name. The author takes the leading role herself, the character of Kizzie, the grandmother, providing an excellent part for the young actress.

The manners and foibles of the early twentieth century small town are brought to the stage in Gertrude Wilson Coffin's mountain comedy "Magnolia's Man." The efforts of a spinster to obtain a husband form the basis of the play, which has been produced by the Playmakers several times. The author takes the role of Miss Tish, the laughable and philosophic village dressmaker.

Band Concert Successful

The University band appeared in concert Sunday afternoon at the Carolina theatre before an enthusiastic audience.

"Close Harmony," a Nancy Carroll production, was shown following the 45-minute concert.

A silver offering was taken at the door, the proceeds of which will be used in connection with certain band expenses.

CHAIN STORES TO BE DISCUSSED IN DEBATE TONIGHT

Uzzell and Wilkinson To Show Faults of Chains In Meet With Northwestern University.

Teams representing the University of North Carolina and Northwestern University will meet tonight at 8:30 in Gerrard hall to debate "Resolved, That the principle of the chain store is detrimental to the best interests of the American public." The Tar Heel debaters—Billy Uzzell and John Wilkinson—will uphold the affirmative side of the question. There will be no decision.

The debate tonight marks the first time that Carolina and Northwestern have met in inter-collegiate rivalry in a number of years. Reports from the western university show that the visiting debaters have excellent records in the field of debating and oratory.

Carolina's team is composed of two men who are experienced debaters. Wilkinson is a veteran of three intercollegiate debates and winner of the 1927 edition of the Mary D. Wright debater's medal. Uzzell has had considerable experience both in freshman and varsity competition.

The chain store question is one which is being debated the nation over. Nearly every college and university in the United States has scheduled at least one debate on this subject. The Carolina debaters met Maryland's debaters here a few days ago on the subject of the chain store and its relation to the welfare of the American public.

On Saturday night in Gerrard hall Carolina will meet Boston University on "Resolved, That the nations of the world should adopt some plan of complete disarmament of all forces except those which are needed for police purposes."

Lieut. Col. Crosset Honored At Banquet

An informal dinner was held last night in the ballroom of the Carolina Inn in honor of Lieutenant-Colonel F. M. Crosset of New York City, who is the guest this week of the Sigma Delta fraternity. Several prominent University officials were present at this dinner, including Dean Bradshaw, Dean Hibbard, Dr. Henry, Dean Carroll, R. B. House, Mr. Heath and Dean Brown of State College, Raleigh.

Colonel Crossett, who is vice-president of the national Delta Upsilon fraternity, has traveled extensively within the last few months and has visited many of the colleges and universities in the country. He arrived here Sunday afternoon from Washington and Lee University where he was the guest of one of the fraternities there, and from here he will probably go to Duke University for a few days. His present itinerary includes a number of places to be visited yet, and extends as far as Orlando, Fla.

Wilson At Convention

Dr. T. J. Wilson, Jr., University registrar, is now in Memphis, Tenn., attending the annual meeting of the American Association of University Registrars. He left the University Saturday of this week.
