

NEW Y OFFICERS ARE INSTALLED BY PARSON MOSS

Jimmie Williams and Old Order Gives Way To President Hamer.

At a joint meeting of the Y cabinets last night the new officers of the Y were installed. Parson W. D. Moss of the Presbyterian church read the seventeenth chapter of St. John's gospel and based his installation address on this scripture. He showed how important it was to give oneself to the truth in order to succeed in any task. He gave examples of great men in this country who owe their success to this quality. After his speech on the way to success, he gave a brief history of the Y. M. C. A. organization in America and in this University.

It was shown that the present Y building is inadequate for the needs of the student body. After having charged the out-going president, James Williams, to keep up his work, Parson Moss gave the new president, Ed Hamer, the formula to success as portrayed in the seventeenth chapter of St. John.

The ex-president emphasized the importance of the Blue Ridge

ANNUAL AWARDS FOR GRADUATES

Social Science Council Announces List of Rosenwald Fellowships; Includes Three University Graduates.

The first annual awards of fellowships to southern graduate students in the social sciences, made possible by a grant of $50,000 from the Julius Rosenwald Fund, were announced yesterday by the Social Science Research Council.

Out of 125 applicants, representing practically all the states of the south, twenty-six were chosen. Ten of the new fellows are women and sixteen are men. Five are negroes. All were chosen on a competitive basis, and will spend the next academic year at some accredited graduate school working on social science problems of special interest to the south.

"The major purpose behind these new fellowships is to attract a higher quality of scientifically trained personnel to work on important social problems facing the southern section of the country," said the announcement of the Southern Fellowships Committee, of which W. W. Alexander of Atlanta, Ga., is chairman.

"The fields represented by the fellowships include sociology, economics, government, history, psychology, and social work. It is hoped that one of the important by-products of this new series of fellowships will be to build up a more enlightened social and economic leadership in the south."

The list of 28 Rosenwald fellows includes: Miss Virginia Denton, A.B., University of Mississippi, and a graduate student here at the University.

Waller Wynne, Jr., A.B., University of Richmond; M.A., Duke University; graduate student, University of North Carolina.

And Howard W. Odum, head of the University Institute Research for Social Science.

Magazine Staff Meeting

Contrary to an announcement which appeared in Sunday's issue of the Daily Tar Heel, the new Carolina Magazine staff will not become operative until the issue of May 18. The present staff will put out the issue of May 4, the remaining issues of May 18 and June 1 being left for the new staff.

As announced, however, there will be an organization staff meeting Thursday evening in the Tar Heel-Magazine offices, at 7 o'clock. The staff will be picked largely upon the basis of material submitted for the issues of May 18 and June 1, which will be published by the new editor.

Garrett Will Speak Before Math Seminar

R. L. Garrett, graduate student in mathematics and a candidate for a master's degree, will speak on "The Reduction of Quadratic Forms to a Canonical Form" at the mathematics seminar Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Garrett is the second candidate for a master's degree to give his report. The first candidate, J. J. Slade, has already given three reports upon his subject.

WILL INVESTIGATE STATUS OF SENATE

Owing to the recent agitation in the Di senate arising out of the assertion that the senate is on the verge of extinction, president-pro-tem Medford, presiding last Tuesday night in the absence of President Rector, appointed a committee to investigate the present standing of the senate on the campus, and to draw up a list of recommendations for its improvement. This committee which is composed of Senators Dratler, Wood and Williams will make its report at the regular meeting of the senate tonight.

When the report of the committee has been heard, the senators will discuss it and make amendments accordingly. Working through this committee on reconstruction, the officials of the Di hope to accelerate the present amount of interest in its work.

Phi To Debate Co-eds

The bill coming before the Phi Assembly at its regular meeting tonight is "Resolved, That the co-eds should be admitted into the Phi Assembly with full privileges of that institution." This bill is one of five recommendations that former Speaker Lang submitted to the assembly in his final address.

The first degree of M. D. to be given at the main commencement exercises was awarded in 1909.

TAU BETA PI TO CONDUCT TAPPING SERVICES TONIGHT

Dean Braune To Deliver Address At Eight O'clock In Phillips Hall.

Tonight the robed and hooded figures of Tau Beta Pi, national honorary engineering scholastic fraternity, will stalk among those present at the annual spring tapping and pounce upon chosen members of the group, thus signifying that these men have shown scholastic excellence and character development which fits them for membership in this organization which recognizes these qualities in engineering students throughout the country.

In this impressive way, Tau Beta Pi, the engineering organization corresponding to Phi Beta Kappa, will make known to the campus those men who have been particularly successful in their work in engineering.

G. M. Braune, dean of the school of Engineering, will be the principal speaker at the tapping Tuesday evening, which will be held in Phillips Hall at 8:00 o'clock.

Twice each year, tappings are held; once in the spring when seniors and rising seniors are eligible for membership, and again in the fall, when members of the senior class alone are qualified.

The chapter of the fraternity at Carolina, Beta of North Carolina, is one of over 60 chapters in the United States. Since its organization at Lehigh University in 1885, 45 years ago, more than 16,000 engineers have been tapped for membership in the group, and many of the most prominent engineers in the country have been initiated and wear the symbol of the fraternity.

Tau Beta Pi is one of three national honorary fraternities on the campus. The other two are Phi Beta Kappa, the universally-known scholastic fraternity, and Sigma Xi, the honorary scientific research society.

Last year, with a ceremony similar to that which will be used again this year, the fraternities

Senior Dance

Dave Nims, chairman of the senior dance committee, has announced that negotiations are underway with several well-known out-of-town orchestras to play for the dance on May 16. It is expected that this affair will be the most outstanding class dance of the year since it is being staged during a week-end full of social activities, including a Grail dance, several houseparties, and two tea dances. In view of this fact the members of the class of 1930 are urged to invite a large and beautiful group of girls in order to assure the success of the dance.

LOCAL FORENSIC ARTISTS VICTORS IN BOSTON TILT

One of the best intercollegiate debates of the year took place in Gerrard hall Saturday night when the Tar Heel debaters tackled the Boston University aggregation on "Resolved, That the nations of the world should adopt some plan of complete disarmament of all forces, except those which are needed for police purposes." The local team, composed of J. M. Baley, G. P. Carr and J. A. Wilkinson, upheld the affirmative side of the argument.

The Boston team stopped in Chapel Hill for a debate with the University in the course of a tour of the south which will have lasted for 16 days when it has been completed. From here they went to Gainesville for a debate with the University of Florida.

After an hour and one-half of heated argument, which seemed hotter as each succeeding speaker held forth, the Carolina team was awarded the decision. It is interesting to note that this was the first time that the Boston team had lost on the tour despite the fact that they had debated the same question a dozen times on the trip. This was also the first loss recorded against the Bostonians since the opening of the present collegiate year.

Early in May Carolina will send a team to Boston to debate the same question.

Three Celebrities Form Art Colony In Village

William Steene, Mary Graves Rees, and Mary Screven Nash Form Nucleus Of an Expanding Group of Artists—Find University Ideal Place To Work.

(By Peggy Lintner)

From somewhere there has evolved itself the vague and popular conception that art is born in that atmosphere garnished with the odor of oil paints, beefsteak and onions, wet clay, Caron's Narcisse Noir, and the subtle Arabic incense and that it is ushered into being to the tune of Chopin's nocturne in E flat. That is the exaggerated Greenwich Village art colony of O. Henry.

If Greenwich Village can lay claim to the title of artists' rendezvous of New York, Chapel Hill can without reserve lay claim to that title in North Carolina. Only recently has it been noted that the nucleus of a colony of portrait painters has distributed itself throughout the picturesque quaintness of this well known village.

So quietly and unobtrusively have these painters merged with the host of celebrities in Chapel Hill that the growth of the movement has scarcely been observed, much less mentioned. Ten years ago there was not one known or unknown portrait painter in the immediate vicinity. Today Chapel Hill boasts of three artists who are widely known for their fine work. The names of William A. Steene, Mrs. A. C. Nash and Mrs. Mary Graves Rees are fast becoming familiar to national art circles.

Why He Likes Chapel Hill "Chapel Hill," says Mr. Steene who is a well known portrait painter in and about New York and through the south today, "is conducive to any work requiring leisure, quiet, time for observa-

SIX FRATS MAKE PLANS TO STAGE MAY FROLIC SOON

Biggest Program Of The Spring Season; To Include Three Dances.

On the week-end of May 2 and 3, six of the fraternities on the Hill are to stage probably one of the biggest dance programs of the season. This program is to consist of three large dances; two of them are to be given on Friday and Saturday nights in Bynum gymnasium and the third is to be a tea dance in the Washington-Duke hotel in Durham on Saturday afternoon.

Music for the two dances to be held in the gymnasium is to be furnished by "Jelly" Leftwich and his orchestra. So far no one has been engaged for tea dance. The committee in charge of the dances stated that although no one has yet been secured for this dance, someone will be engaged in due time and good music may be expected.

The six fraternities that are giving these dances are Beta Theta Pi, D. K. E., Sigma Nu, Sigma Chi, Phi Delta Theta and Zeta Psi. The Sigma Nu and Phi Delta Theta fraternities are the only ones that have planned so far to have house parties for

HANDBOOK WILL HAVE NEW STAFF

Six Editorial Positions To Be Filled; Staff Tryouts Tomorrow At Seven.

The first call for staff members of the Carolina Handbook was issued by the editor yesterday. All aspirants who desire to become associated with this publication should attend the 15 minute meeting of the staff which will be held in the Tar Heel office Wednesday night at seven o'clock. No previous experience in journalistic work is necessary.

The purpose in increasing the size of the editorial staff is to lessen the responsibility of the present editors, distribute the work of the publication among a larger group, and at the same time give valuable experience and training to those engaged in this work.

There are six positions open for occupancy. These include: associate, assistant, organization, town, athletic and Y. M. C. A. editors. The work consists mainly of make up, arrangement of copy, and the verification of athletic and scholastic honors, letters, numerals, etc. Next year's editor will be chosen from this group.

The Carolina Handbook is unique in size, make up, and the number of pages. In no other southern school is the Handbook as large. The majority of them are merely vest-pocket editions. The use of illustrated pictures is another distinguishing feature of the University publication.

The unusual excellency of the Carolina Handbook is verified by the fact that many northern schools have begun to edit and pattern their publications in a similar manner.

The 1930-31 edition of the Handbook, which goes to press May 15, will include ten additional pages and a new change in typography.
