

261 ENTRANTS IN ACADEMIC TRIALS

Greensboro Boy Is Winner In Math Contest; Pantego Places Second.

The Greensboro high school, with a paper submitted by Douglas Cartland, has been awarded the first place in the annual North Carolina high school mathematics contest for this year.

First honorable mention in the contest went to the Pantego high school, with the paper submitted by F. Harris, and second mention went to Charlotte high school, with the paper submitted by William Walker.

The committee judging the papers was composed of Dr. Archibald Henderson, chairman, Dr. J. W. Lasley, Jr., and Dr. A. W. Hobbs.

This contest brings to a close for the year the various annual academic contests for North Carolina high schools which the University extension division and the various University departments concerned conduct. In addition to the mathematics contest, high school contests have been held in Latin, French and Spanish.

E. R. Rankin of the University extension division yesterday gave a summary of enrollment figures for the academic contests: seventy-six high schools, represented by 1283 contestants, participated in the sixth annual high school Latin contest, which was held February 28, 1930. Durham high school, with the paper submitted by Miss Catherine Isenhour, won first place.

One hundred and seventeen high schools, represented by 2152 students, took part in the fifth annual high school French contest which was held on March 14. Greensboro high school, with the paper submitted by Bill Wedgerton, won first place in the contest.

Thirteen high schools represented by 190 students, entered the fifth annual high school Spanish contest on March 28. Albemarle high school, with Steuben Austin's paper, won first place.

Fifty-five high schools, represented by 1311 students, participated in the fifth annual high school mathematics contest conducted on April 25.

The total number of high schools entered in the various academic contests was 261. The total number of individual entrants from the various schools was 4,936.

OIL COMPANIES IN VENEZUELA KEEP CAROLINA GRADS

Due to a tariff revision on petroleum, the oil companies from the United States now operating in Venezuela have curtailed operations to a 50 per cent basis.

The decreased activity has been largely made in the prospecting and developing divisions. This decreased operation has necessitated the laying off of a large number of men in these divisions, and it is greatly to the credit of the department of geology of the University of North Carolina that of the three men now acting as geologists for different companies in Venezuela, all have been retained.

STATE FINALS TO LAST FOUR DAYS

Precede Carolina Dances; Roy Ingram Will Play.

Starting Friday, June 6, the German Club of North Carolina State College will give their final dances, which will last through Monday, June 9. There will be three formal night dances, two dansants, and a tea dance Saturday afternoon. Roy Ingram and his radio broadcasting orchestra from New York will furnish the music. Ingram's orchestra has gained quite a reputation throughout the country, and should draw good crowds.

William Garibaldi of Charlotte is president of the German Club which is putting on the dances.

With the Carolina final dances featuring Guy Lombardo, starting the day after the State dances end, a large number of students from the University will spend the four days that elapse between examinations and the dances here by attending the Raleigh festivities.

With the two dance sets coming so close together, a large number of the girls that attend the State finals will be at those on the Hill. With the majority of the girls schools adjourned for the summer, the attendance should be large, especially with two orchestras of the calibre of Lombardo and Ingram playing.

Playmakers To Hold Annual Caper Night

The Carolina Playmakers will cut their annual Caper on Saturday evening in their theatre, from eight o'clock on. This is an informal frolic in which all Playmakers, old and new, are invited to participate. The program, as usual, will be one of original sketches, songs, dances, and improvised comedy.

The Caper is not open to the public, but anyone who has ever had a part in the dramatic activities of the Playmakers in any capacity—acting, play-writing, stagecraft, or committee work—is invited. Milton Wood is chairman of the program committee.

One of the features of the Caper is the awarding of the Playmakers' gold Mask to those who have done outstanding work during the year in playwriting, acting, or stage arts.

After the program cakes and ale will be served in the Green Room, and there will be dancing on the stage.

NATIONAL EXAMS FOR DOCTORS TO BE OFFERED HERE

The National Board examinations for medical licenses will be held here June 24, 25 and 26. This examination has been held here several times before. It was led by Julian G. More (U. N. C. '16, U. of Pa. '17, '18) in 1919 and J. H. Wall (U. N. C. '25, Jefferson '27) manager to come eighth in 1928.

The examination will be given in three parts, the local med students being eligible for the first part only. There are several applicants who will take this examination among the local med students.

and it appeared from this time until 1923.

In 1923 the Tar Heel underwent a change in management. The Publications Union, just organized, took control, and the editor was to be elected by the student body. With this move, it left its parent of thirty years and, fostered by the Publications Union, became "the official newspaper of the Publications Union of the University of North Carolina."

In the spring of 1925, the students decided by ballot to make the Tar Heel a tri-weekly, appearing Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday instead of Wednesday and Saturday. Thus, in keeping with the growth of the University, the paper grew also.

No other change occurred until a year ago, when the students of the University voted to make the Tar Heel a daily. In addition to this the Carolina Magazine, which had welcomed thirty-six years before a brother publication, was absorbed and became a Sunday Supplement of the Daily Tar Heel.

During this year it has been much discussed whether the Tar Heel should exist as a daily. The Di Senate favored continuance last fall and now the student activities committee has determined that the Tar Heel should exist as a daily.

STUDENT COUNCIL REPORTS CASES

Cases Nos. 9, 10, 11—X, a junior, and Y and Z, sophomores, were dropped from and denied credit in their courses for the spring quarter 1930 for slight (and confessed) breach of honor system in connection with the last mid-term quizzes.

Case No. 12—X, a freshman, was suspended from the University for the spring quarter 1930 for irregularity in connection with a recent quiz in Spanish 2.

Spearman, Charlotte, on staff of the Charlotte News; and Glenn Holder, Greensboro, who will probably follow a journalistic career.

Second in importance, with only two less members of the group choosing it, comes the profession of law. Those who have entered upon this kind of career are Walter Murphy, Salisbury, former speaker of the N. C. house of representatives; Thomas B. Lee, Idaho, justice of supreme court of Idaho; David B. Smith, Charlotte; Samuel S. Lamb, Elizabeth City; Willis J. Brogden, Durham, teacher, justice of N. C. supreme court; Paul C. Whitlock, Charlotte, trust officer of American Trust Co.; Whitehead Klutz, Washington, D. C., N. C. senator; J. C. B. Ehringhaus, Elizabeth City, former legislator; Seymour

W. Whiting, Jr., Raleigh, law annotator for Edward Publishing Co.; William T. Polk, Warrenton; William H. Stephenson, Texas; Forrest Miles, Winston-Salem; Marsden Bellamy, Wilmington, member of firm of Bellamy & Bellamy; H. M. London, Raleigh, librarian of the legislative reference library.

Next come the educators, among the names being those of Edward K. Graham, Chapel Hill, president of the University; Nathan W. Walker, Chapel Hill, professor of history at the University; O. W. Hyman, Tenn., professor at University of Tenn.; Frank Hough, Miss., school superintendent; Thomas Wolfe, New York, professor at New York University; R. D. W. Connor, professor of history at the University.

The fourth group, composed of teachers and authors, includes the names of: Charles Baskerville, New York, also a chemist; W. Frank Bryan, Ill.; Charles P. Russell, author of Benjamin Franklin: First Civilized American and John Paul Jones, etc.; William H. Jones, Biltmore; Lawrence N. Morgan, University of Oklahoma; C. B. Colton, N. H., Tilton Academy.

Three entered the field of medicine: William A. Graham, Hillsboro; Frank McLean, New York; and George L. Carrington, Burlington. Two became engineers: Edward W. Myers, Greensboro; and Brent S. Drane of Charlotte. Two took up a business life: Herbert B. Gunter, Greensboro, newspaper man, with Pilot Life Insurance Co.; and Henry N. Parker, Raleigh, manager Southern School Supply Co. The remaining two became associated with the University Alumni Association: Daniel L. Grant, Chapel Hill, director of the University Alumni Loyalty Fund; and J. Mary Saunders, formerly teacher at Georgia Tech, now University alumni secretary.

Such, in brief, is the roll of distinguished men who have controlled the policies and fate of the Tar Heel, under whose guidance it has reached its present enviable position among college papers of the south. Indications point to an even greater development to take place in the future.

Haywood Parker has accepted a position with the Eastman Kodak Company of Rochester, N. Y. He will do research work in moving pictures.

Graduate to these new patterns in Super-Shorts

Among the important studies at school is dress . . . and that goes from underwear out. But you don't need a college education to graduate to Super-Shorts.

Any under-grad can't help liking their new designs, for instance the three here shown: Medicine Man, Rainbow, God's Eyes. Taken from the Indians, they are mannish and harmonious. Sponsored by Wilson Brothers Style Committee, they are indisputably correct.

Every college man is certain to appreciate their exclusive comfort feature, the back panel that eliminates the wedging, binding center seam.

Ask your college haberdasher about Super-Shorts and their equal when it comes to night-time comfort, Super-Seat pajamas. They are something to write home about.
