COMMENCEMENT PLANS FINISHED

Class Day Is June 7 and Commencement Day June 10; Drs. Finley and Lingle to Speak.

Plans for the 1930 commencement have now been completed. The exercises start with Class Day, Saturday, June 7, and end with Commencement Day, Tuesday, June 10.

The commencement address this year will be given by Dr. John Finley, who is editor of the New York Times. The baccalaureate sermon will be held in the Methodist church, and will be given by Dr. Walter L. Lingle, president of Davidson College.

The feature on class day will, of course, be the class exercises. Members of the senior class who will take prominent parts will be Bob Graham, lawyer; Johnson Alexander, historian; John Mebane, poet; Bill Bobbitt, statistician; and Cy Edson, prophet. That evening the last class banquet will be held in Swain hall, at which it is hoped that Governor Gardner will be the speaker.

The complete program for the commencement exercises is as follows:

SATURDAY, JUNE 7 CLASS DAY

9:45 a. m.—Seniors form around well and, preceded by marshals, march to Davie Poplar.

10:00 a. m.—Senior class exercises. Exercises end with procession down Senior Walk.

2:00 p. m.—Senior rehearsal at Gerrard hall. All seniors must be present.

3:30 p. m.—Mangum medal contest, Gerrard hall.

5:30 to 6:30 p. m.—Reception to seniors and their guests at the president's house.

7:00 p. m.—Senior class banquet, Swain hall. Election of permanent class officers.

SUNDAY, JUNE 8

11:00 a. m.—Baccalaureate sermon in the Methodist church, by Dr. Walter L. Lingle, president of Davidson College.

4:00 p. m.—Band concert on campus.

7:30 p. m.—Vesper services under Davie Poplar, by Rev. William D. Moss.

MONDAY, JUNE 9 ALUMNI DAY

10:30 a. m.—Alumni meeting, Gerrard hall.

1:00 p. m.—Alumni luncheon, Swain hall.

TUESDAY, JUNE 10 COMMENCEMENT DAY

10:30 a. m.—Procession forms at Alumni building.

11:00 a. m.—Commencement exercises. Address by Dr. John Finley, editor New York Times. Presentation of diplomas, Hon. O. Max Gardner, governor of North Carolina.

* All seniors wear caps and gowns.

President Greene recommends that each senior clip the above and save for commencement week.

Carr To Be Entertained

The Carolina Theatre will entertain the residents of Carr dormitory at the evening screening tonight. Carr men must be identified by their president. Admittance will be made at 7 o'clock.

Student Recital

Mrs. G. Richard Trott, Soprano, Will Sing Monday Night

The last of the student recitals of this college year to be given by the University department of music will be given Monday evening at 8:30 in the Methodist church auditorium. Mrs. G. Richard Trott, soprano, accompanied by Mrs. Ruth Sissom Bynum, will give the recital.

Mrs. Trott came to Chapel Hill last September, and has been a student of voice throughout the year with Harold S. Dyer. Mrs. Trott has had two years training in the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music as a voice major. She has appeared during the past year as Soloist with the University symphony orchestra. Her program consists of two operatic arias, a group in French, and two groups of well-chosen songs in English. The public is invited, and there is no admission charge.

DAILY TAR HEEL WINS APPROVAL

Has Wide Circulation for College Newspaper; Receives Favorable Comments From Notables.

Attracted by the work of the Daily Tar Heel, many persons throughout the entire United States have sent in requests for copies of this paper. Dr. A. Herbert Gray of England, Governor Sweet of Colorado, and Kirby Page, editor of the "World Tomorrow" are only a few who have made requests for copies of the Tar Heel.

Dr. Herbert Gray, noted for his work with Ramsay MacDonald, has visited probably all of the larger universities and colleges in this country. After seeing a copy of the Daily Tar Heel, Dr. Gray stated that of all the college papers he had seen he had never seen one with such mature thought and sound reasoning as the Tar Heel.

Another request came for a copy from ex-Governor Sweet, of Colorado. When here, Governor Sweet was highly impressed with the fine calibre of the Tar Heel, and before making one of his talks, he stopped long enough to comment on the paper itself. He spoke very highly of the work of the paper.

Kirby Page, editor of the "World Tomorrow," is another who has sent in requests for copies of the Daily Tar Heel. In a letter to H. F. Comer, general secretary of the local "Y," Mr. Page was also very much astonished at the fine brand of work that was being done by the

Robertson Says Today Is Last Day for Registration of Voters

Today is the last day upon which voters may register for the primary on Saturday, June 7.

Paul Robertson is the registrar. Today he will be at the public school building all day. The books close at sunset this evening.

Anybody who has already registered and was qualified to vote at the last election is not required to register again. In some communities in the state a new registration has been decreed, as allowed by law, but this is not true of Chapel Hill.

The primary contest of chief interest is that between F. M. Simmons and J. W. Bailey for the Democratic nomination for United States senator. Simmons has been a senator for about thirty years and until recently he was undisputed boss of the Democratic organization in North Carolina. His hold up on the organization was weakened by his bolting the ticket when Smith was nominated in 1928, and it is now said that most of the organization leaders, great and small, are supporting Bailey. Bailey was internal revenue commissioner for this district under Woodrow Wilson, and he ran against A. W. McLean as an anti-organization candidate for governor in 1924. He put up a creditable struggle in that contest but was defeated. Since then he has devoted himself to the practice of law in Raleigh. He took an active part in the 1928 presidential campaign in support of both the national and state Democratic tickets.

The contest of most local interest here is the one between John W. Umstead of Chapel Hill and J. Clyde Ray of Hillsboro for the Democratic nomination for the state senate. Mr. Umstead is well known and popular here, and there is no doubt that Chapel Hill will give him a rousing majority.

L. J. Phipps and Sam Gattis, Jr., are running for the state house of representatives, S. W. Andrews for register of deeds, W. T. Sloan for sheriff, A. W. Kenion for clerk of the court, and Dr. S. A. Nathan for coroner.

Chapel Hillian Signs Contract For Ferdinand Foch's Memoirs

Cable despatches from Paris bring the news that Ralph H. Graves, native of Chapel Hill and alumnus of the University, has obtained the American rights for the publication of the memoirs of the late Marshal Ferdinand Foch, generalissimo of the Allied armies in the World War. Representing Doubleday, Doran & Co., he signed the contract with Mme. Foch, widow of the marshal, last week in Paris.

The memoirs, about 150,000 words in length, will be published serially in several newspapers before appearing in book form.

Mr. Graves went to Europe several weeks ago. His friends, in Chapel Hill and elsewhere, understood that he had been sent there by Doubleday, Doran on some important mission, but they did not know what it was until they read the cable despatches about the Foch memoirs.

"The late marshal's design in writing his memoirs," says the New York Times, "was to make a book which would be interesting for the general reader and which would not be just a technical handbook or as dry recital of events. His style is in all his military orders, is clear, terse and brief. On the reader the impression left is one of perfect clarity and truth."

"The book is written dispassionately—it was done before other publications gave rise to the posthumous Clemenceau-Foch controversy—and is full of flashes of humor and anecdotes about all the leading figures of the war, such as King George, Earl Kitchener, Sir John French, who later became Earl of Ypres, Lord Roberts, Lord Milner, General Bliss, David Lloyd George, Colonel House, General Plumer, Marshal Petain, General Mangin, Marshal Joffre, General Pershing and General Sir Douglas Haig, later Earl Haig. As much attention is given to the operations of the American and British armies as to the French and Marshal Foch is generous and just to his colleagues and to the men who fought under his command.

"The Marshal's manner of writing was curious. The memoirs were almost entirely written in his own hand. Such parts as were retyped were carefully corrected and interlined. When a correction or addition was long the Marshal marked the place for the insert and wrote on the back of each sheet.

"The Marshal deals fully with all his controversies with General Pershing, Marshal Haig and Georges Clemenceau and it will be found that his own account differs in some cases from those which have already been given to the public—in each case he explains his decisions and tells why he stuck to his own view or yielded to the opposing arguments.

"The book will be illustrated with facsimile letters and orders not hitherto published on some of the crises of the war and the rivalries of the leaders. Marshal Foch's meeting with General Pershing, their varying opinions and plans, their compromise and conclusions and on the whole their united efforts are the subject of many pages.

"Colonel Bentley Mott, Military Attache of the American Embassy here, whose life of the late Ambassador Herrick was published recently, has consented to translate the memoirs. During 1918 he was a liaison aide to Marshal Foch."

Alumni Plan Banquets

Four of the 11 alumni classes convening here at commencement have decided upon a place for their reunion dinners, all of which are to be held at 6 o'clock on the evening of June 9.

At the Carolina Inn will be the classes of '98, with R. H. Lewis as official secretary; '97, with Lawrence MacRae as chairman of the arrangement committee; '14, with Oscar Leach as secretary. The class of '29 will hold its banquet at the Cabin; G. E. Sheppard is acting as the chairman of the reunion committee for this group.

Gift to Gimghouls

Italian Presents Hickerson With Fixture for Castle

A well-dressed and smiling stranger halted his car at T. F. Hickerson's gate one day last week, walked up the path, and knocked at the door. Mr. Hickerson, responding to the knock, saw that the man held in his hands an object made of iron.

"I have brought this to you—a gift," said the stranger.

He was A. Germino, an Italian craftsman who lives in Durham.

"I came over here and saw your Gimghoul castle," he explained. "It reminded me of buildings in my own land, Italy, and I want to give you this for your big door."

The object was a cleverly fashioned wrought-iron fixture constituting a frame for a lock. The Gimghouls had been wanting just such a thing for a long time, and it was gratefully accepted by Mr. Hickerson.

Mr. Germino came to this country thirty-five years ago and has been living in Durham about three years. He is interested in art and literature as well as in his craft. One of his sons is named Romeo and the other Dante.

GRADY LEONARD RESIGNS FROM Y

Self-Help Secretary Goes to Greensboro; Has Secured Jobs For Hundreds of Students.

Grady H. Leonard, for three years self-help secretary of the University Y. M. C. A., has resigned his position, effective June 1. Mr. Leonard is to become a special agent of the Pilot Life Insurance Co. of Greensboro, and will have his headquarters here in Chapel Hill.

Mr. Leonard became affiliated with the local "Y" three years ago, coming here from Hickory where he was district secretary of the state Y. M. C. A. His work has been mainly in behalf of self-help students. He has also been advisor for the sophomore cabinet and director of the several deputation teams the Y. M. C. A. has sent out over the state.

Mr. Leonard during his connection with the "Y" has been instrumental in securing jobs for hundreds of students, who without working their way would have been unable to pursue their studies. During his tenure of office the position of self-help secretary has become one of the most important official positions on the campus.

Besides his official duties, Mr. Leonard has been manager of the Carolina Handbook, in which he has helped present the features of University campus life. He has also represented the "Y" at a number of conventions.

FLORIDA ALUMNI PLEDGE SUPPORT TO UNIVERSITY

On May 20, twenty alumni of the University pledged themselves to a system of annual contributions to the Alumni Loyalty Fund at a meeting in Jacksonville, Florida.

Felix A. Grisette, director of the fund at the University, was principal speaker at the meeting, and it was largely through his efforts that the University alumni living in Jacksonville were rallied in the love of their Alma Mater.

PLAYMAKERS CUT CAPERS TONIGHT

Annual Night of Educated Tomfoolery To Take Place Amid Mock Solemnity.

The Carolina Playmakers will cut their annual caper tonight at eight o'clock in their theatre. The frolic will be featured by an unusually interesting program of original sketches, songs, dances, and improvised comedy. Members of the group both past and present will combine in making this the best caper ever to be held.

The caper tonight will not be open to the general public, only to persons who have ever participated in the dramatic activities of the Playmakers in any capacity—acting, play-writing, stagecraft, or committee work being invited to attend.

Besides the regular program, the Playmakers' gold mask will be awarded to those who have done outstanding work during the year in playwriting, acting, or stage arts. Cakes and ale will be served in the Green Room after the performance and a dance on the stage will end the hilarious evening.

The program which has been planned by the committee of which Milton Wood served as chairman follows:

"An Italian Tragedy," an expressionistic dance, by Grace Williams. Characters: Trezio, Mary Marshall Dunlap; Madios, Margorie Good and Grace Williams; Cana Soupio, Pete Henderson; Sofa-Pillio, Ruth Newell; Spagettio, Henry Wood, III; White-Haired Daddio, New burn Piland.

"Folk Music for Folks" by the "Bobs" (House and Dawes) Harmonica and Banjo impressarios. "A Scratchata of our Dixie's," dramatic monologue to the Playmakers' dog, by A. P. Hudson.

"Ballads," sung by Jack Connolly, Wofford Humphries, and John Miller.

"The Moving Bush," a mystery melodrama by H. T. Browne. Characters: Betty, Louise Thacker; John, Herbert Browne; Henry, Doug Potter.

"Pome" by Nora Del Smith Gumble.

"Suspended Damination," a drama of locality by Margaret Vale. Scene: A Desert(ed) Stage. Time: Hot. Characters: Proff, Foxy Joe; Hubert, No Count Bryson; Elmer, Mayor Henderson; The Dressmaker, The Old Maid, Bob Sellers; The No Count Boy, Bob House; The Miserable Mother, Helen Dorch; The Granny, Bobby Koch; The Show-Off, Mercutio Koch; The Butcher, Tybalt Cruiser; The Scotty, Friar McKie; The Child, Merry Marshall Dunlap; The Keynote, Dixie-Vale-Howe; The Fryer, A. Muse Curtis; The Nurse, Capulet Ward; The Lov-ers, Howard and Lois; The Folk, The Actors; The Wood, Death Valley Scotty.

"Tap Dance" by Philip Padgett.
