

PLAN PROPOSED TO COMBINE TWO ECONOMIC CLUBS

Branson and Hobbs Would Combine North Carolina Club and N. C. Social Conference.

Professors E. C. Branson and S. H. Hobbs, Jr., acting for the North Carolina Club, have proposed a plan to Hugh MacRae, president of the North Carolina Social Conference, which has the idea of effecting a consolidation of the two organizations this year. The plan has not yet gone through, but is under consideration and will probably materialize.

They have in mind the block-out of a complete program and choosing people to be responsible for each section. Assignments will be made and the respective speakers will be invited to report before the North Carolina Club, one speaker every two weeks during the academic year. Papers will be discussed at the club meeting which the speakers will revise before presentation at the annual conference meeting. The proceedings will be published in the year book. They think cooperation could be obtained from State College, North Carolina College for Women, the state department of agriculture, the University schools of commerce and public welfare, and from the North Carolina unit of the Southeastern economic Council.

The chief object of the year's work is to analyze thoroughly the agricultural and rural life situation in North Carolina and work out a long-time construction program.

PHI SOCIETY HAS SECOND MEETING

Holding its second meeting of the year, the venerable Phi Society started off with a burst of enthusiasm. After the meeting had been called to order by Speaker Albright, the roll was called and the minutes read by Secretary McDuffy. Speaker Albright welcomed the new members and extended a special invitation to any would be members. Representatives Pratt and Kelly were then appointed to serve on the refreshment committee. Mention was made by Treasurer James of the fact that initiation fee is two dollars and dues one dollar per quarter.

The resolutions discussed during the evening were as follows:
Resolved:

That the Phi Assembly go on record as favoring Monday holidays instead of Saturday holidays;

Resolved: That the Phi Assembly go on record as favoring night football at the University;
And resolved: That the Phi Assembly go on record as favoring admission of freshmen to all dances.

Quite a few speakers expressed their opinions on these resolutions pro and con, provoking much interest. When the vote was taken, the first resolution was defeated; the second resolution was adopted; and the third resolution having aroused so much interest, due to a lack of time was carried over to the next meeting. Speaker Albright again invited all prospective members to be on hand for initiation next Tuesday night, and he especially invited the co-eds to become members of the forensic body.

Cheerleaders

The cheerleaders will meet with George Brown at Kenan stadium this afternoon at 3:30 for practice. Any new men desirous of trying out for the squad are invited to attend.

COFFMAN ISSUES BOOK OF PLAYS

New English Head Has Volume Brought Out by Thomas Nelson and Sons.

Thomas Nelson and Sons have published a volume of Five Significant English Plays, edited by Dr. George R. Coffman, new head of the University of North Carolina English Department. This collection, invaluable for a sophomore survey course, contains Marlow's Dr. Faustus, Dekker's The Shoemaker's Holiday, Steele's The Conscious Lovers, Sheridan's The School for Scandal, and Pinero's The Second Mrs. Tanqueray.

There are several methods of becoming acquainted with English drama. In any case, Shakespeare must be in a separate and distinct course. That is a fact that can be denied for no sensible reason. It would be sacrilege to include him in any survey course. But for the rest — It is possible to study everything, the result of which is neither order nor perspective. It is possible to study a little in detail and much in outline. There is order but not perspective. It is possible, and best, to concentrate on some few representative plays. Dr. Coffman must have borne that fact in mind, for he begins with the man who, when there were two types of drama, stiffly starched tragedy and ragged clowning, brought some order into the theatre. He continues logically and chronologically until he comes to a man who, born into a well-ordered world, does not make the theatre less ordered, but only less conventional than it was a decade before him. The whole is no cycle; it is a development.

Year Book Photos Must Be Made Now

Individual pictures of all juniors and seniors for the class sections of the Yackety-Yack will be taken during the next two months. Desks will be set up in Sutton's, Pritchard-Lloyd, and in the lobby of the "Y" Apartments may be made at the "Y" during chapel period, or at the downtown booths between 1 and 2, and between 6:30 and 7:30.

The desks will be open beginning today, and Travis Brown, business manager of the annual, requests all juniors and seniors to have their pictures made immediately. The senior section must be completed by November 5, while the deadline for the junior section will be December 1. The business staff is not yet complete, and any new men desiring to try out for positions should see the business manager at 304 Old East.

Record Enrollment

The Registrar's office today set the total number of students enrolled at 2749. This is an increase of more than a hundred over the enrollment of three years ago, which was, until this year, the largest in the history of the University.

Figures on the enrollment in the different schools have not been compiled yet.

Education Department Emphasizes Important Aim of Teacher Training

By R. W. Madry

"No other professional body of men and women can possibly affect so profoundly the entire civic, industrial, and spiritual well-being of a state as can a competent staff of teachers, supervisors, and administrative officers in the public schools. These institutions reach and serve all the children of all the people."

This statement was made by Nathan W. Walker, acting dean of the University's school of education, which for all practical purposes is the teachers' college division of the University. When he made the statement, he must have had in mind the high purpose of the School of Education, which is to educate teachers and to train them for their profession in accordance with the demands of the highest modern University standards.

That this division of the University is keenly alive to the needs of the schools and the school workers, and carries on many lines of work designed to meet their particular needs, is evidenced by its steady growth.

Purpose to Train Teachers

Teachers and undergraduate students who intend to teach, register in this division of the University for the degree of A.

B. in Education just as those who intend to become engineers register in the school of engineering and those who intend to follow some line of applied science register in the school of applied science. It is that division of the University to which teachers and other school people look when they desire the services of the institution that are peculiar to their profession.

On the graduate level education is organized as a department of the graduate school and is administered by the education staff in accordance with the regulations governing the requirements for the higher degrees.

Undergraduate students in the school take three-fourths of their work in the usual academic departments of the University. In other words, the various departments serve all the undergraduate schools, the introductory courses being the same for all, with the more specialized and advanced courses designed to meet the needs and requirements of specialized interests and professions. The standards for passing courses and for graduation are the same as in the other undergraduate schools.

The school of education was organized in 1913, although

DR. G. G. JOHNSON WRITES OF LIFE ON SEA ISLANDS

Social History of Islands Published by Social Science Institute.

If a writer fully intends to do a brief study, finds undreamed-of material, becomes interested enough to have the archives of the United States Treasury opened, and writes a volume instead of a paper, there is the assurance that a reader can find an absorbing interest. And the reader is not obliged to handle old family papers with the dust and mold that always attend.

Dr. Guion Griffis Johnson of the institute for research in social science of the University of North Carolina is the first person to make a finished drawing of the Sea Islands of South Carolina and Georgia under the Federals from 1863 until the close of the Civil War. A Social History of the Sea Islands, with Special Reference to Saint Helena Island, South Carolina was written under the authority of the institute for research in social science of the University of North Carolina and the social science research council. There are other books to cover the period not treated by this volume.

The book begins with a single chapter of leading-up-to history. The other chapters, eight of them, form a chronicle of an imported group of settlers, most of them forcibly imported. It does not single out individuals. It records the cultural development until the end of Reconstruction of that part humanity that lived on the Sea Islands and was black. White influences are taken into account, but it is not a history of white culture. There are the results of plantation culture, which results, by the way, seem indelible in that part of the world. There are the results of the teaching of earnest and conscientious negroes and, if you will, abolitionists.

GRADUATE CLUB CHOOSSES RALPH LYON PRESIDENT

Other Officers Elected at Organization Meeting; Plans For Year Discussed.

At the organization meeting of the Shirley Graves Graduate Club which was held in the lobby of the Smith Building on Monday night, Ralph Lyon of Abbeville, S. C., was elected President; Frank Cauble, High Point, Vice-President; Ned Coker, Columbia, S. C., Secretary; and George Metz, Fayetteville, Treasurer.

Briefly, but masterfully the history of the club was explained along with a picturesque survey of the social life of the body by J. Willis Posey, manager of the Shirley Graves Graduate Club, who has just returned from an extended visit to the state of Texas. Posey was called there by the sickness of his mother some time ago, and returned home this week to be present at the funeral of his aunt, who had been ill for some time.

After the club's history and social functions were described by J. W. Posey, a house committee was elected. This committee will be composed of W. O. Puckett of Davidson, N. C., as chairman, with W. E. Fort and Cecil Abernathy of Birmingham.

An entertainment committee was then elected by the members of the club. S. J. McCoy of Holly Hill, S. C., was elected chairman with three assistants, who are D. F. Martin, Jr., of Flemington, Ga., H. N. deWick of New Haven, Conn., and E. C. Morgan of Spartanburg, S. C.

A finance committee was elected, and after counting votes, it was found that George Metz of Fayetteville, N. C., was chosen as chairman with two assistants, Hugh Campbell of Waynesville, N. C., and W. J. Mattox of Clinton, Mississippi.

The work of the club is to be

Rah Rah Election

The election for a chief cheerleader will be held Monday, October 6. The polls will be open in the lobby of the Y. M. C. A. from 10 to 5.

Any one may run for this office, and every student registered in the University is entitled to vote. All candidates will please turn in their names to Red Greene at his office, 205 South building, before Friday night, October 3.

ODUM PLANNING S. S. CONVENTION

Local Professor First Southern To Head Organization Convening in Cleveland.

Professor Howard W. Odum, University of North Carolina, is now completing the program for the twenty-fifth anniversary meeting of the American Sociological society of which he is president.

The society will pass the quarter century mark this year with a southern professor as president for the first time. Cleveland, O., has been selected as the convention city of the organization.

Previous presidents have been selected from Columbia University, University of Kansas, Brown University, University of Pennsylvania, Indiana University, Ohio State University, University of Missouri, University of North Dakota, and the University of Minnesota. Three have come from the University of Chicago and two from the University of Wisconsin.

The tentative program provides for the presidential addresses on Monday evening. Meeting with the American Sociological Society will be the American Political Science Association and the American Economic Association for the presidential addresses. On Tuesday evening President Hoover is scheduled to address the joint meetings of all societies, or in case there is some emergency intervening, there will be an appropriate substitute. On Wednesday evening the annual dinner of the American Sociological Society will feature a sort of twenty-fifth anniversary with representatives of other social sciences in joint discussion of the development of sociology and its prospects.

Country Club Board Of Directors Meets

The board of directors of the Country Club held a meeting last Sunday evening, at 7:30 o'clock, at the home of Mr. H. D. Meyer, who is president of the club this year. The board discussed plans for the academic year, but no definite decisions were reached.

Some time ago, the entertainment committee of the club planned a club supper which will be given Friday evening at 6:00 o'clock for the entertainment of members and new people. Mrs. Louis MacMillan and Mrs. H. C. Nolen will be hostesses.

To Speak To Alumni

Felix A. Grisette, director of the Alumni Loyalty Fund, Coach "Chuck" Collins, head football coach, and Bill Cerney, coach of the football backfield, will speak this evening in Greensboro before the Greensboro Alumni Association, which will meet at the Hotel King Cotton at 6 p. m.

ENTERTAINMENT TO BE STAGED IN NEW MUSIC HALL

New Chimes Not To Be Installed Until Thanksgiving 1931.

The committee in charge of the Entertainment Program for this year is confronted with more than its usual difficulties. The new Auditorium is not yet ready for occupancy, so that the chief problem is that of securing a hall.

While the Committee has not yet held an official meeting this fall, Professor Harold S. Dyer of the Music Department reports that the members he has consulted consider it feasible to use the Music Auditorium during the fall quarter. Since this hall has only about half the required capacity, the committeemen plan to divide the ticket-holders into two groups, A and B. Those holding A tickets would, if this plan is adopted, be admitted to first-night performances, and the B patrons to a second night program. While this system necessarily entails a repetition of all entertainments, still it offers the only practical solution to the problem. It has been tried with success at such prominent institutions as the Universities of Chicago and Michigan and Ohio State.

Orders for seats went in yesterday, and their delivery is expected sometime after October 15th.

The committee rightly feels that the Student Entertainment series should be continued, since it constitutes the chief musical, lecture, and dramatic events on the campus. In addition to the policies already mentioned, the Committee will probably decide at its next meeting upon a plan to group the larger events during the winter quarter, when the new auditorium will probably be available. A fine musical or dramatic event will be provided as an opening feature.

The new chimes are even more distant in the future than the auditorium. Charles Woolen, business manager of the University, hopes, however, that they will be installed by Thanksgiving week of the next school year.

PRIZES OFFERED AT STATE FAIR

The North Carolina State Fair, to be held in Raleigh during the week of October 13-18, will offer many features for the women of North Carolina. A number of prizes will be offered at that time for exhibits of canning.

A premium of $250 is offered in the Division of Home Economics for a Live-At-Home exhibit, under the direction of Mrs. Jane S. McKimmon and Mrs. Cornelia C. Morris, Superintendents of the Department. The exhibits in this contest will be made by the Home Demonstration Club assisted by the County Demonstration Agents.

Mrs. W. W. Shaw, of Raleigh, will be in charge of the culinary department, where prizes are offered for all kinds of canned fruits and vegetables. The Home Economics Department offers a prize in a canning contest for girls.

Another prize is offered for exhibits of rugs and quilts. Entries in all departments must be in by October 11.
