FIVE UNIVERSITY MEN APPLY FOR RHODES AWARD

Brown, Gray, Greene, Hamer and Dunn Are Accepted by Committee.

The names of five successful applicants for Rhodes Scholarship competition were announced yesterday by the Rhodes Scholarship board of the University of North Carolina.

Travis T. Brown, Charlotte; Clyde Dunn, Kinston; E. R. Hamer, McColl, S. C.; R. Gray Statesville; and R. C. Greene, Marshville, were selected from a field of eight applicants to appear before the state committee December 6.

Following the state trials, two men will be selected to represent this state to contest against students from others in the district tryouts. Six states will be included in each district, four men to be picked from each district.

Rhodes Scholars will be allowed the option of spending their third year at Oxford University or any foreign university which may prepare them for their studies. The scholars may take their third year at the close of their first years work, or after a number of years' work in the United States.

Successful applicants will enter Oxford in October, 1931, with a stipend of $2,000 a year.

Qualities which will lead to the election of Rhodes scholars will include: literary and scholastic attainments of the student, manhood, strength, truth, courage, sympathy, devotion to duty, kindness, unselfishness, and friendship.

ASSOCIATION OF COLLEGE WOMEN MEETS TUESDAY

Katharine Jocher Makes Report
Of Institute Held in Montevallo.

At the first regular meeting of the American Association of University Women Tuesday evening in the Episcopal parish house, Miss Katharine Jocher, president of the organization, gave a report of the Institute on Higher Education of Women held in Montevallo, Alabama, June 19 to 21. Miss Jocher was the representative of the University at this meeting.

Their first Institute on Higher Education of Women was called by President Carmichael of the Woman's State College at Montevallo. The work of the Institute, as Miss Jocher described it, placed emphasis on the newer trends for the education of women, including eugenics as given at Vassar, reading for honors as at Swarthmore, and experiments in coordination of women's interests as tried out at Smith. Dr. Ruth Wheeler, head of the department of eugenics at Vassar, represented that college; Mrs. Ethel Puffer Howes, Smith; Professor R. C. Brooks, Swarthmore. Mrs. Dorothy Thorne Fullerton represented the Institute of Women's Federal Relations at North Carolina College for Women.

After this report by Miss Jocher, Mrs. E. R. Mosher, who is state president of the American Association of University Women, summarized the survey of women's education in the United States.

Freshman Council Hears John Lang

John Lang, president of the North Carolina Student Federation, talked on the principles of studying before the freshman friendship council Monday night. Lang said, "The main thing to remember about studying is that you have to concentrate on one thing at a time." He also told the group to avoid the little things which came to interfere with one while trying to study. After Lang's talk a short discussion was held, in which the members asked him questions concerning their problems in studying.

A short business meeting followed the discussion, and plans were made to have a "speak-greet-week" at the University. A committee was appointed to look after the publicity on this plan.

Well Known Physicists Exchange Tokens of Friendship.

Dr. Archibald Henderson has recently received from Dr. Albert Einstein, the great physicist and author of the Theory of Relativity, two interesting photos.

One of the photos was of Professor Einstein's villa, "Caputh," at Potsdam, showing Dr. and Mrs. Einstein on the porch. It bears the inscription: "Freundlichen Gruss-A. Einstein," which is translated, "Friendly Greeting."

The other is a large photographic portrait of Dr. Einstein speaking over the radio into a queer square German "mike." It bears the inscription: "M. Archibald Henderson zum Andenken—Albert Einstein, 1930." The translation is: "A memento from Mr. Archibald Henderson from Albert Einstein, 1930."

In 1925 Dr. Henderson attended lectures conducted by Dr. Einstein at the Physikalisches Institut of the University of Berlin, and visited Dr. Einstein several times at his home. Dr. Henderson has lectured and written a great deal on the Theory of Relativity, and is now writing a treatise on that subject for D. Appleton and Company of New York.

As a token of appreciation of Dr. Einstein's gift, Dr. Henderson is sending a beautifully bound copy of his latest book, "Contemporary Immortals," published by Appleton. This book is dedicated to Professor Einstein, and the leading chapter is devoted to Einstein and his contribution to science.

MISS STARLING WEDS MR. MADRY

The wedding of Miss Thelma Worth Starling of Chapel Hill to Wilbur Dennis Madry of Burlington was solemnized yesterday at Roseboro, former home of the bride.

Mrs. Madry is the daughter of Mrs. J. M. Starling of Roseboro. For the past several years she has been secretary to Dr. T. J. Wilson, Jr., Registrar of the University.

Mr. Madry is originally from Scotland Neck and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Madry of that place. He is a graduate of the University.

Dean Carroll will meet the freshmen of the school of commerce in 103 Bingham at chapel period today.

Farrar House Includes a Theatre

Two of the rooms in the P. C. Farrars' new home, out on the hill overlooking the golf course, have been built and lighted so that they can be transformed into a little theatre at a moment's notice.

The Farrars are all interested in dramatics. Mr. Farrar is in charge of play production at the Chapel Hill school; and he is talented as an actor, as the spectators at "Agamemnon" in the Kenan stadium last year well remember. Miss Elizabeth Farrar, like her mother before her, distinguished herself in the dramatic organization at Wellesley College. She took the leading role in "Agamemnon" here, and last winter was with the Fritz Leiber repertoire company. This season she will be one of the Neighborhood Players in New York.

The Farrars' land out near the Country Club slopes steeply, and they accommodated their house to the ground by building it on different levels. Thus the topography was well adapted to the plan for a family theatre. Whether Mr. Farrar picked out sloping ground so that he could have a theatre, or designed the theatre because he had the sloping ground—this I do not know, and it is not important.

The long living room is on one level, and the dining room at the end is about one foot higher. So the living room is the auditorium and the dining room is the stage. The opening between them is like a proscenium arch and has a double curtain. And just above the arch, facing the dining room but invisible from the living room, are a row of lights. These will shine down upon the actors when a performance is on; thus, instead of having footlights—which would interfere with them when they went to and from their meals in the ordinary daily routine—the Farrars have overhead lighting.

There is abundant provision for entrances and exits. Off at one end is a porch; at the back is a terrace; and at the other end is the butler's pantry—all connected with the stage by doors.

During the progress of a meal the lights over the arch are not turned on. But suppose somebody should suddenly switch them on while Mr. Farrar was carving the chicken. Maybe, before he realized it, he would find himself rising from his chair to launch into Hamlet's soliloquy or some other appropriate speech. And if the thing happened when Miss Farrar was at home on a holiday, who knows but that she would desert the tomato salad to deliver a little talk about the quality of mercy or the inconstant moon?

THIRTY-ONE GIRLS PLEGED BY TWO SORORITIES HERE

Sorority rushing began here Monday, October the sixth and ended Saturday evening, October the twelfth. Rushing hours were from three until six o'clock in the afternoon and from seven-thirty until ten-thirty o'clock in the evening.

The time between eleven o'clock Saturday evening and the distribution, through the office of the dean of women, Monday afternoon was a period of silence. The Pi Beta Phi pledge service was held Monday, October the fourteenth.

LAW ASSOCIATION SECURES JURISTS FOR ADDRESSES

Follows Policy of Bringing
Courtroom and Classroom
Into Cooperation.

A distinguished list of lawyers and judges, to address the University law students this year, in furtherance of the law school association's policy of bringing classroom and courtroom nearer together, was announced here yesterday by Professor Albert Coates, director of the law school association.

The list of speakers for the year includes Judge John J. Parker of the United States court of appeals; Charles G. Rose, Fayetteville; C. W. Wharton, Greensboro; L. P. McLendon, Durham; J. C. B. Ehringhaus, Elizabeth City; Clifford Frazier, Greensboro; Clyde R. Hoey, Shelby; Hunt Parker, Henderson; W. T. Joyner, Raleigh; George H. Wright, Asheville; Charles T. Boyd, Greensboro; and Jones Fuller, Durham.

These lawyers will speak before the law school association in continuation of a program initiated in 1923, when the late Chief Justice Clark and the associate justices of the supreme court delivered the first series of lectures.

The plan of the association is to have several series of lectures each year, in order to bring the law school students into contact with the leading lawyers actively engaged in the various phases of the practice, and to afford the students opportunities to gain important practical knowledge.

McLendon and Wharton will speak on the drawing of pleadings and preparation of cases for trial. Ehringhaus, Frazier, Hoey and Hunt Parker will lecture on specific phases of the examination and cross examination of witnesses, and the trial of cases in the state and federal

Music Organization To Hear Grieg Pieces

The music department of the Community Club will meet this afternoon for the first time this year in Room 3 of the new music building. Mrs. A. H. Harrer has charge of this meeting and has arranged a program of Scandinavian music consisting chiefly of selections from Grieg.

T. Smith McCorkle will play one of Grieg's violin sonatas, this to be followed by one of his piano sonatas played by Mrs. George Wheeler. Mrs. George Lawrence, soprano, will sing a group of Scandinavian songs. Mrs. R. H. Wettach, contralto, will also sing.

RUSHING SEASON ENDS AT MIDNIGHT

President Ward Warns Against
Infraction of Silence
Rules.

Today marks the close of another fraternity rushing season at the University. Jack Ward, president of the interfraternity council, stated yesterday that a strict silence period will start tonight at 12 o'clock and continue until 6 o'clock Friday afternoon. Ward stated that any infraction of the silence rules will lead to very drastic measures for both the fraternity and the person with whom the fraternity man is found breaking rules. Freshmen are requested to speak to no fraternity man during this period.

Ward announced that the committee helping him with the bids will be Tom Hunter, John Cooper, Dail Holderness and Will Yarborough of the Pan-Hellenic Council and Robert B. House and J. C. Lyons of the faculty.

It was also announced that very strict silence will be expected from the freshmen when they receive their bids in Gerrard hall Saturday. All men are asked to bring a book or some form of silent entertainment to indulge in while they are waiting their turn to receive bids. All freshmen who have no classes Friday afternoon are requested to be at Gerrard hall at 2 o'clock.

BROWN SETS NEW PHOTO DEADLINE

Travis Brown, business manager of the Yackety Yack, announces that all juniors and seniors must have their pictures taken for the annual by November 10. The appointment booths are open daily, and all those who have not arranged the time for their pictures should do so at once.

It is essential that pictures be made at once in order to get the copy to the engravers on time. There will be a desk open in the lobby of the Y each day at chapel period, while booths at Sutton's and Pritchard-Lloyd will be open from 1 to 2, and 6:30 to 7:30.

Monogram President

Ned Lipscomb was elected president of the Monogram Club for the current year, at a meeting held in Gerrard hall, Friday night. Lipscomb has played regular varsity center on the football team for the past two seasons.

Other officers elected were Henry House, vice president; Pete Wyrick, secretary-treasurer; and Jim Magner, representative to athletic council.

METZENTHIN SAYS EUROPEAN WARS STILL IMMINENT

Speaks to Sophomore Y. M. C. A.
On Current German
Situation

Dr. E. C. Metzenthin of the department of Germanic languages spoke to the sophomore "Y" cabinet at the meeting Monday night on "The Present Political and Financial Situation in Germany."

"The surprise shown in America over the result of the recent German election showed," said Dr. Metzenthin, "that Americans do not know the situation over in Germany. There are twenty-five parties of which fifteen amount to something." He stated that the situation in the Reichstag now is this. The socialists have lost only ten seats. They have a total of 143 seats controlling 8,500,000 votes. The National Socialists, who are the Facists, have 107 seats controlling six and a half million votes, the communists control 4 and a half million votes with sixty-eight seats, the centrum, which is really the Catholic party, have 68 seats with four and one-eighth million votes, and the Christian Socialists have sixteen seats with one-sixth of a million votes. Thus there are a total of 576 representatives, 408 of which oppose the present government. The Socialists and the center party are the ones that are now keeping the present administration in power.

"The National Socialist, the fascist party, represent," according to Mr. Metzenthin, "the
