

Tar Heels Overwhelmed By Georgia 26 to 0

Georgians Rip Carolinians' Forward Wall To Shreds As Stellar Backs Run Wild

Invaders Are Forced on Defensive Throughout Contest.

ROBERTS STARS IN VICTORY

Defeat Dashes Carolina Hopes For Southern Conference Championship.

By Don Shoemaker

Sanford Stadium, Athens, Ga., Oct. 18.—Twenty-five thousand enthusiastic home coming fans saw the mighty University of Georgia Bull Dog sink his fangs into the University of North Carolina Tar Heels here today and trot into his kennel with a 26 to 0 victory. Elusive off-tackle plays and tricky reverses kept the Blue and White in a flurry from the outset of the contest, as Georgia backs crashed through the withering Carolina forward wall for repeated gains.

Battling through the opening minutes of the initial quarter on an even basis, the Collins charges displayed a peerless brand of defensive ball, after Roberts had knifed through the line for the first score, and continued to repulse the Georgian advances in the second quarter.

After a hectic third quarter which found the ball in the shadow of the Carolina goal posts time and again, the mighty offensive guns of the Georgia hosts cut lose in the final period. Roberts and his running mate, Dickens, carried the pigskin across the Carolinians' goal for three scores, scattering the rapidly tiring line in the dust.

Bearing the brunt of the Georgia attack, Dickens and Roberts forced the ball to the Carolina one yard marker at the outset of the final period where Roberts plunged across. Smith kicked the goal.

Via two long passes from Branch to Maus for 27 yards and from Maus to Branch for 13 yards, Carolina carried the oval past the Georgia forty-yard line. Marching for what appeared to be a certain score, Dickens dashed the Tar Heel hopes by plucking a pass out of the air and carrying it to his own forty yard line. On a tricky spinner play, Dickens pierced the line for forty yards, sinking the ball deep into the defenders territory. After failing at the line twice, Roberts hurtled over the center for the touchdown. Roberts added the goal.

After an exchange of punts near the center of the field, Dickens and Downes carried the attack to the Carolina ten yard line where Dickens swept the ends and scored. Smith's kick was blocked.

Carolina resorted to the aerial attack successfully on four occasions, twice in the fourth quarter. The ultimate victors chose to keep the ball on the ground during the greater part of the contest, attempting only three passes, one of which was successful for a short gain.

Only one spectacular punt was recorded during the fray, when Chandler returned Branch's kick from his own 40 yard line in a sensational 65 yard boot over the goal line.

Carolina was forced to assume the defensive for the greater part of the struggle as the Georgia line demonstrated its marked superiority over the weak Blue and White frontier. Branch was given little opportunity to advance the oval in one of his usual sensational runs, as Smith and Maffet stopped the deadly

SONS OF FORMER STARS PROSPECTS FOR CHICAGO

Chicago—(IP)—Two names famous in University of Chicago athletic history, Stagg and Page, probably will be seen in the line-ups of the Maroon football squad this season.

Paul Stagg, son of the veteran A. A. Stagg, coach of Chicago elevens for 38 years, appeared in several varsity games last year and may win a regular berth this season.

But Harlan Orville Page, Jr., son of Pat Page, former Maroon star and now football coach at the University of Indiana, is only a freshman.

Young Page is a quarter, as is Paul Stagg, and next year may see them fighting for the same post. Bert Cassels, son of an end on the 1899 champion Chicago aggregation, is another Maroon prospect this year.

Tar Heels to Turn Out For Big Tennessee Game

Special trains and pullman cars to be operated from all parts of North Carolina at round trip rates, are expected to increase the North Carolina delegation to the Carolina-Tennessee game to a maximum. The old grid rivals clash in Knoxville Saturday in what is billed as one of the biggest battles of the Dixie season.

quarter-back in his tracks under high punts.

On four occasions the ball was worked into the danger zone, but the Tar Heel line stiffened and held the Georgia lads for downs.

McDade and Gilbreath were among the stars on the Carolina line, the latter intercepting a pass from Dickens on his thirty yard marker.

TAR BABIES FALL BEFORE MARYLAND ATTACK

WRESTLING SQUAD LOOKS FORWARD TO GOOD SEASON

Eight Monogram Men and Several Likely-Looking Rookies Report for Practice.

With only three letter men missing from the flock, the state championship Tar Heel wrestlers are planning their most successful season in recent years. Peyton Abbott, assistant coach, who was undefeated during his college career, is hard at work getting the men into shape and has a squad of forty going through its paces daily in preparation for the winter schedule.

The eight monogram wearers who are eligible for another year of competition will be bolstered by a promising group of reserves and freshmen from last season who will be ready to step into varsity berths at the first opportunity. Besides these experienced campaigners several men who are making their first attempt at the game have possibilities and may develop into varsity material before the season is over.

Captain Fred Stallings will be in the 125-pound class again this year and will provide the Tar Heels with a brilliant and capable leader. Last year Stallings was undefeated in all his regular matches and won by falls against both Princeton and Navy.

Pete Usher, a letter man, will be back in the 115-pound class with Clay Bell of last year's varsity squad and Clyde Deitz, a sophomore. Marion Cowper, a dependable veteran now out for football, and Bradley of last year's freshman team will be in the 165-pound division, while Wayne Woodard, former captain, and Mayne Albright are the veterans in the 135 class, making this weight one of the strongest.

The 155-pound class, left open when Dick Moore completed his third year of competition, is the only position without a letter man, but Greer, John Stallings, and Parks are the best prospects so far and should make dependable men. There is a possibility that Harry Tsumas, who worked in the 145 last year, may move up a weight this season, leaving Whitener and Don Conklin, a brilliant sophomore, to fight it out for his old position. Tsumas is not on the campus this quarter, but will return in the winter and will be eligible as he is now doing cooperative work in engineering.

The 175-pound class with Fred Ferguson, Houghton, and Percy Idol should be another strong weight. Houghton is a veteran and Ferguson was a consistent star all last year while Idol, as captain of the 1930 frosh, turned in an exceptionally good record.

George Thompson, big Tar Heel tackle, who expects to return to the mat after a one-year lay-off, will add another veteran performer to the list. Thompson was a star during his sophomore year, but was out of school most of last winter and did not make his letter. He will find competition in Auman, Liberstein, and Harrell, all of whom are big men but without previous varsity experience.

Peyton Abbott will continue to handle the squad until the conclusion of the football season when Coach Chuck Quinlan will be able to take charge of activities.

Wrestler's Notice

All men interested in wrestling are asked to report to Coach Abbott in the Tin Can Monday at four o'clock. Fundamentals have featured the training up to the present time. The rest of the squad is not so far advanced that any new men can not catch up. Experience doesn't count—all that is necessary is the desire to learn to wrestle. Coach Abbott urges anyone interested to come out and try.

DRIBBLERS START PRACTICE MONDAY

Many Basketball Candidates Slated to Report for Initial Workout Tomorrow.

Coach Ashmore has announced that varsity basketball will swing into action tomorrow evening. This announcement was made at the meeting for basketball candidates held at Kenan stadium Thursday afternoon for the benefit of those interested in making the squad. Twenty-five men turned out for this meeting. Among them were hard-boiled veterans, ambitious sophomores such as Hines, Markham, and Lineberger, and also several new faces. Smith who made his last appearance in college basketball in '26 was among those present.

This unusually early call for candidates is due to the fact that Coach Ashmore is in dire need of forwards. Captain Marpet, who was high scorer for the Tar Heel outfit last season, will be kept at a guard position again this year not only because of his ability as a guard but because Coach Ashmore believes Marpet can drop more shots from this position than he could playing a forward position. The practices will be held every Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday evening in the Tin Can. The workouts for some time will consist of hard drill in the fundamentals, development of technique, and the initiation of the sophomore candidates into the mysteries and ways of varsity basketball.

Coach Ashmore before going into intensive practice will probably take time out for a few days to prevent his proteges from going stale in the long grind that will last from early December to the middle of March.

The end of the football season will bring out more material in the persons of Alexander, Allen, Henry, and Chandler.

Coach Ashmore requires that anybody interested in making the squad this year, unless he is engaged in some other varsity sport, be on hand for the first work out on Monday evening.

Since shortly after the opening of school, Captain Marpet and several other veterans have been taking unofficial workouts in the Tin Can in order to sharpen the eye and regain the master touch that was acquired last season.

Tar Heels Have Fine Pass Offense for Vols

The much-praised offense Magner to Branch passing combination that has been so valuable to the Tar Heels this season should be a big threat against Tennessee at Knoxville Saturday. These boys have one of the strongest passing duets in the South.

OLD LINE FROSH TAKE CLOSE GAME BY SCORE OF 13-12

Maryland Uses Eleven Men, of Whom Knott, Sothoron and Brenner Are Stars.

TEAMS CLOSELY MATCHED

Woolen, Phipps and Harrington Are Responsible for Two Carolina Scores.

Coach Faber of Maryland used only eleven of his freshman football squad to defeat the Carolina Tar Babies by a one-point margin, 13-12, in Kenan Stadium yesterday afternoon. Knott, quarterback, Sothoron, fullback, and Brenner, end, were the principal ball carriers for the victors. Among the 28 men which Coach Farris sent into the fray for Carolina, Woolen, quarterback, Phipps, at half, and Harrington, at end, showed up best.

In the first half, the teams appeared about evenly matched. During the first quarter neither team made any considerable effort to score. A series of punt exchanges left the ball in Carolina's hands on their own 40-yard line at the end of the period.

In the first minute or so of the second quarter, Phipps broke loose and, after a speedy run across field, was finally halted on the Maryland 10-yard line by Sothoron. Maryland then took the ball on downs on their own 15-yard line. Knott, for Maryland, kicked out to midfield, and from that point, in the next series of downs, a pass from Phipps to Harrington brought a touchdown for the Tar Babies. The kick for goal was high and wide. Score, 6-0, Carolina.

Carolina kicked to Maryland and the ball was brought back to the visitors' 33-yard marker. Then, a Maryland punt, a Carolina first down, offset by a penalty on Carolina for moving the ball, and a short kick by Woolen, Tar Baby quarter, gave Maryland the pigskin on the 50-yard mark. First Sothoron advanced the ball on an end run to Carolina's 34, and again to their 25. A pass from Sothoron to Wright, Maryland left end, who scooped the ball up from below his knees, accounted for the visiting team's first score. Brenner kicked the extra point. Score, 7-6, Maryland.

Maryland kicking off, the ball rolled over the Tar Baby goal line, and the half ended with the ball in Carolina's possession on their own 20-yard line.

In the third quarter, a Carolina rally appeared imminent, the Tar Babies running over three first downs with passes, end runs and fake bucks, and the close of the quarter found Carolina with the ball on the 18-yard line, where it was carried by Woolen on the receiving end of a pass.

The danger of the Tar Baby threat passed, however, when Maryland took the ball on downs at the beginning of the last quarter. A Maryland punt was returned to the 50-yard line by Carolina. Two first downs placed the oval on Maryland's 34; a run by McGill, of Carolina, was stopped just within the limit of the final marker by Knott, of Maryland; but an extended jaunt around right end that sent Phipps from one side of the field to the other also carried the pigskin over the goal. The ball hit the goal post on the try for point. Score, 12-7, Carolina.

Shortly after the Tar Babies' final score, the Old Line freshmen took the ball on downs on their own 30-yard stripe. Then a high pass, good for 40 yards, soared from Sothoron to Brenner, who carried it over for the winning touchdown. The kick failed. Score, 13-12, Maryland.

There followed a hectic two-and-a-half minutes in which Clabaugh and Sothoron both intercepted Carolina passes and carried the ball to the 8-yard line. It was the Tar Babies' ball, 94 yards from Maryland's goal, at the end of the game.

The following men were substituted for Carolina: Kaahn, Horney, Shore, Wilson, Strickland, Crane, Rankin, Eames, Finkle, Snead, Jones, Mathison, Priest, Tatum, Guthrie, McGill. McGill replaced Hackney, who was injured in the third quarter.

The officials were Sermon, of State College, referee; Perry, umpire; Young, head linesman.

Tar Heels Have Edge On Tennessee Series

Carolina and Tennessee, who will revive a grid rivalry in Knoxville Saturday dating back to 1893, have clashed on the gridiron eight times, with Carolina winning four, losing three, and tying one. The Vols, however, have won the last two games, in 1926 and 1927 by big margins, and the Tar Heels will be fighting for any revenge they can get on such a formidable team.

Tar Heel Band Likely To Play at Tennessee

The North Carolina band, classed as the "snappiest" college band in the country last year by a New York Herald-Tribune reporter, will probably lead the Tar Heel invasion to the Tennessee game Saturday at Knoxville.
