

TAR HEEL WILL INSPECT ANNUAL STATISTICS '30-'31

No Person To Be Permitted to List Honor Unless Earned.

The two staffs of the Daily Tar Heel will meet tomorrow night as is usual. Last Sunday night Oscar J. Coffin spoke to the staff about the work done during the week prior to his talk.

The meeting Sunday will be shorter than usual but very important due to the fact that the managing editor will re-assign all beats for the first time this year. A review of the work done to date will be made, in addition to announcements concerning the editorial board.

In past years a person in composing his statistics for classification in the Yackety Yack was allowed to credit himself with work on the Tar Heel for any period of time that he was a member of the staff. This year, for the first time, a very rigid inspection will be made of all Yackety Yack statistics and those who have not served a full year will not be allowed to credit themselves with Tar Heel service.

A special Sunday edition is being considered which may possibly contain a science article somewhat similar to the "Believe It Or Not" series by Ripley.

In the future, beginning this week, four reporters will be "star" reporters of each week on a basis of the total number of inches printed in the paper, enthusiasm and attitude regarding their work, and the punctuality with which they attend meetings. In addition, it is expected that valuable prizes will be awarded besides the regular course credit which may also apply to freshmen this year.

The editorial men will meet in the Tar Heel office at seven o'clock, while the general meeting will be held in Room 104 Alumni building at seven-fifteen.

FEDERATION MEN APPEAR AT DUKE

E. R. Murrow, president of the National Student Federation of America, and John Lang, president of the State Federation, addressed the entire student body of Duke University during the chapel period Thursday morning. The two speakers were introduced and welcomed by "Bill" Murray, president of the Duke student body.

As well as describing the work and purposes of the two federations, Murrow and Lang urged the Duke student body to preserve and perfect its honor system which is just now being restored.

These two officers and Red Greene, president of the Carolina student body, attended the Eastern Convocation of Student Government Officials in Raleigh Wednesday, and have had other appointments during Student Government week, at the North Carolina College for Women, Friday night, and are to speak at Davidson tonight.

BUCCANEER NOTICE

All students who have not received their Buccaneers should call by the Buccaneer office and get them today from two to four o'clock, according to James C. Harris, business manager.

UNDERGRADUATES ARE WARNED OF FACULTY RULING

Dean A. W. Hobbs wishes to call to the attention of the students the following ruling by the undergraduate faculty:

A freshman must pass five courses in the first three quarters. After the freshman year, a student must pass at least one course each quarter, four courses in two successive quarters and seven courses in three successive quarters. Deficiencies may be made up by correspondence or in summer school, in which case only credits exceeding one course credit so obtained shall count for readmission.

By two successive quarters is meant the last two quarters of residence, and by three successive quarters is meant the last three quarters of residence.

REES AND SMITH SCHEDULED FOR LUNCHEON TALKS

"The College Graduate and Southern Industry" is the topic to be discussed at a luncheon meeting at 12:30 Friday, October 31, at the Carolina Inn.

General R. I. Rees, assistant vice-president, American Telephone & Telegraph Company, and W. Henry Smith, junior vice-president and personnel manager, Retail Credit Company, Atlanta, will speak. (Mr. Smith is taking the place of Cator Woolford, who had expected to be here.) Frank Page, former highway commissioner of North Carolina and recently elected chairman of the Southeastern Council, will preside at the meeting.

Mr. Smith will discuss "The Georgia College Placement Bureau and Its Value to Industry," and General Rees will talk on "The College Graduate's Value to Industry." Both of these men will give the viewpoint of industry toward college people and show how business assimilates college men. A general discussion will follow the talks.

A number of prominent educational and industrial leaders from this section are expected to be present for the meeting. Members of the University faculty, students or people of the community are cordially invited to attend. It is absolutely necessary, however, that such people who want reservations made get in touch with R. M. Grunman, University extension division, not later than Tuesday, October 28.

Male Teachers Are Increasing In State

The number of men school teachers has been increasing until the percentage of male teachers is now even with that of the year 1920, according to the State Department of Public Instruction.

Before 1920, women had replaced the male pedagogues of the nineteenth century that only 15.8 per cent. of the total number of teachers included men.

The percentage of male instructors in North Carolina compares favorably with that of other states. The North Carolina figures show the state slightly lower than that of the entire United States.

Among sixteen southern states, North Carolina ranks tenth in this respect. Elementary schools employ 54 men out of every 100, while high schools employ the remaining forty-six in this state.

MOTION PICTURES TO BE TAKEN OF N. C. TRACK MEN

Grantland Rice Has Arranged to Have Staff Here Monday Afternoon.

Having so decisively won the Southern Conference track meet this spring, nation-wide attention was attracted to the University. As a result of this great interest, Grantland Rice, well known sports writer, has arranged to have motion pictures taken of Carolina's relay teams Monday. At least four relay teams will be used in the filming of the picture. The picture will stress the important phases of running a relay, the exchange of batons especially. Any men interested in running should see Coach Ranson as soon as possible.

The men who will probably run in the relays Monday are: Charley Farmer, one of the best sprinters in the United States; L. Weil, stellar quarter miler; K. A. Gay; J. K. Smith; K. L. Marland; C. G. Stafford, outstanding hurdler on last year's freshman track team; W. C. Mitcham, member of the record breaking two mile freshman relay team; T. Watkins, winner of last year's cake race; R. W. Drane, star sprinter of the freshman team last spring; J. F. Geiger; H. R. Garrett; R. B. Brock; W. C. Medford; and J. C. Goodwin, winner of the 120 yard high hurdles in the prep school meet last spring.

H. W. Odum's Book Wins Position Of Honor In The New York Times

One of the many reviews in praise of Howard W. Odum's new book, An American Epoch, has the place of honor—the front page—in last Sunday's issue of the book section of the New York Times.

"No one who writes of the South as it was and as it is," says the reviewer, Arthur Krock, "no outsider who wants to work among its people, and no Southerner who would like to see his own background cleared of its cluttering fictions, should neglect to own this book. For a great many years there has gone out from Chapel Hill, the seat of the University of North Carolina, a vibrant wave of light and healing fully comparable to that which shone in another day from the library windows of Monticello. No resident of this Athenian settlement has done more credit to its enlightening mission than Mr. Odum. He must have known that, for all the enthusiastic jactance of his publishers, for all his cover array of Northern endorsements, he was writing for limited royalties and for the dust of libraries—to be disturbed frequently by the hands of students, but not to pass often through the hands of train butchers. Yet that devotion, that will to spread knowledge which is responsible for most of the useful writings of man, he gave for long years to a worthy task. And, partly because of him, posterity will be able to shake off the drenching scents spread by the romantic writers, dissipate the smell of the 1928 campaign, and see what the South was, what it is, and why."

Here are some other passages from the Times review:

ESSAYS ON WAR BETWEEN STATES TO BRING PRIZES

Graduate and Undergraduate Students Have Chance to Win Baruch Prize.

For the purpose of encouraging research in the history of the South, particularly in the Confederate period, the United Daughters of the Confederacy are offering the Mrs. Simon Baruch University Prize of One Thousand Dollars which will be awarded biennially.

The prize will be awarded for an unpublished monograph or essay of high merit in the field of Southern history, preferably in or near the period of the Civil War or bearing on the causes that led to the War between the States. Any phase of life or policy treated will be considered. If no essay of high merit is not submitted in any competition the prize will not be awarded for that year.

According to the requirements, essays must be in scholarly form and must be based, partly at least, upon the use of source materials. Important statements should be accompanied with citations of the sources from which the data have been drawn and a bibliography should be appended. It is expected that essays will be not less than ten thousand words in length and it is preferred that they be of considerably larger.

In making the award, the com-

COMER AND HAMER TO ATTEND STATE Y CABINET TODAY

H. F. Comer and Ed Hamer left this morning to attend the first meeting of year of the State Student Y. M. C. A. Cabinet, which begins this morning at 10:30, at the Greensboro Y. Ed Hamer, president of the local Y, is also president of the state cabinet.

The program for the meeting includes devotional exercises to be led by Leroy Clarke of State College, discussions of the exchange of deputations, and consideration of common problems. The state cabinet will endeavor to found Y associations at colleges and Hi-Y groups in schools that do not now have them. Each college will be made responsible for the Hi-Y's in its section of the state.

The State Student Cabinet meets as the guests of different associations once every two months.

EHRINGHAUS WILL LEAD DEMOCRATIC RALLY NEXT WEEK

J. C. B. Ehringhaus of Elizabeth City, one of the most eloquent of the Democrats of North Carolina, will speak in Chapel Hill on Saturday evening of next week, November 1. Whether in the Tin Can or the public school auditorium will be announced later.

The occasion is a Democratic rally arranged by Ray Farris. Members of the Orange county executive committee and other prominent men and women in the party are co-operating with him to make the affair a success. John W. Umstead and Samuel M. Gattis, Jr., respectively, candidates for state senator and assemblyman, will be on the platform and will probably speak. It may be that the University band will lead a march down the main street of the village and across the campus just before the rally opens.

Mr. Ehringhaus, who is one of the aspirants to the governorship in 1932, was in the University here thirty years ago, has come back many times since on visits, and is remembered with affection by members of the faculty and other citizens. Since leaving the University he has achieved prominence as a lawyer and in the political life of the state.

TOWN ENDORSES DRIVE FOR FUNDS

The Town of Chapel Hill is backing the King's Daughters, woman's organization, in its drive for charity funds, according to a letter from City Manager J. M. Foushee to the organization's president, Mrs. F. P. Brooks. Mr. Foushee's letter follows:

"I understand that the King's Daughters are making their annual canvass of Chapel Hill to obtain funds for carrying on the work of this organization. This association has been a great help to the town. Numerous cases of charity come to the town office each week, and these are referred to a committee of the King's Daughters. Your committee has carefully investigated these cases sent to them, and aid has been rendered where necessary.

"I know that the work of the King's Daughters is necessarily limited on account of the lack of funds, and I trust that the people of this community will respond generously to this worthy cause."

PHILOSOPHER TO ADDRESS SELECT CAMPUS GROUPS

New York Professor Will Be Brought Here By School Of Education.

Professor Reinhold Niehnd, of the Union Theological Seminary in New York City, will speak to an especially invited group of students and faculty in the Sunday school room of the Methodist church on Sunday afternoon, November 2.

Written invitation are being sent to members of the Y. M. C. A. cabinets, certain graduate students and faculty members, a select group from the Duke faculty, the International Relations club, and the Amphotheron club. All others, however, who desire to attend the address are asked to call at the Y office and leave their names. This is done so that a sufficient number of seats will be available for the audience.

The speaker was born of German parents, and can speak both English and German fluently. At present Professor Niehnd is Editor of the World Tomorrow and is also a member of the Editorial staff of the Christian Century. He has a reputation of being the most popular of the modern day philosophic speakers. For the past several years Mr. Niehnd has been professor of ethics at the Union Theological Seminary.

During the summer of 1930 Mr. Niehnd made a tour of Europe, and his address will be a discussion of the economic, political, and social situation and problems which he observed in Germany and Russia. Following his lecture, the speaker will discuss any question along the line of his subject.

The education school is bringing Professor Niehnd here for a convention which is to be here on October 31 and November 1. He is being held over for his speech Sunday afternoon by the local Y. M. C. A.

The Y hopes to be able to secure Mr. Niehnd for another speech on Saturday night, but at present no plans have been made in this regard.

REVIEW TO HAVE EXTRA EDITIONS

Following the policy inaugurated this fall, the Alumni Association is issuing a weekly football edition which is a supplement to the regular monthly review.

The plan was first carried out this year and seems to be meeting with the approval of the readers of the Alumni Review. The supplement appears every Wednesday except on weeks when the regular Review is published.

There are ten issues of the Alumni Review and seven issues of the football supplement, which contains football news only. The football news includes a detailed account of the latest football game of the preceding week and a discussion of the prospects for coming games.

There will probably be no supplement for sports other than football. The extra editions are sent to members of the general Alumni Association and to the subscribers of the Alumni Review.

Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Kutz and Miss Abilene Kutz of Fayetteville are visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Kutz.
