

NEW PLAY BILL IS PLAYMAKERS' TWENTY-SEVENTH

Presentations Last Three Days Of the Week; Inaugurates Thirteenth Year.

Tonight, Friday, and Saturday, The Carolina Playmakers will present their twenty-seventh bill of original plays in the Playmakers Theatre. The Carolina Playmakers begin the thirteenth year of their existence with this production. And so far prosperity and success have chimed in with their activities. They have had difficulties as any organization will, but each time they have successfully hurdled their troubles and gained in the long run. The recent exodus of Mr. Heffner at first caused some anxiety over affairs which were quickly dispersed when it was learned that Ralph Westerman had accepted the managerial responsibility vacated by him. Added to this piece of good luck came the welcome news that Samuel Selden had returned to the Playmakers after a year's sojourn in New York, and was to assume the position of Associate Director. This is the way the thirteenth year began and from the evidence it seems that luck was with them rather than "again 'em." Of course no one is going to run over thin ice because he has a rabbit's foot around his neck, and maybe there is a little bit of superstition behind the fact that they have painted the theatre instead of going on tour.

The bill consists of three plays. "Samuel Hinkle, Fireman," is a comedy of New England village folk by Joseph P. Fox, of Massachusetts. "The sturdy pride of the women of the Grange and the town fathers is amusingly set forth in the incident of their sending their local fireman, Samuel Hinkle, to the general convention of all the fire chiefs of Massachusetts held annually in Boston."—Professor Frederick Koch.

"Cloey," is a romantic Carolina folk play by Loretto Carroll Bailey, author of "Job's Kinfolks," and a native of Winston-Salem. The play is con-

HOWE SPEAKS TO COMMUNITY CLUB ON POET VIRGIL

Dr. George Howe of the University faculty talked on Virgil at the meeting of the literature department of the Community Club in the first floor social room of the Methodist church on Tuesday evening. Mrs. P. C. Farrar, chairman of the department, presided over the meeting.

Dr. Howe spoke of the period in which Virgil lived as a momentous one in the history of the world. He then sketched the life of the Latin poet and discussed his works, the Eclogues, the Georgics, and the Aeneid. Dr. Howe thought that it was the humanity of Virgil that made his works live in literature for two thousand years and that Virgil was the first in literature to write of common man and the ordinary things of nature. Because of this he was the first great romanticist.

The department will meet again in the social room of the Methodist church on Tuesday November 18 at 8 o'clock. Miss Nora Beust will talk on "Books for Children" and will have books on exhibit.

Reporters' Schedule Arranged By Editor

The assignment editor of the Daily Tar Heel announces the following schedule for staff men to report to the office of the publication. These men are requested to call at the office between the hours of 1:30 and 3:30 on the afternoon that their names appear. Reporters failing to appear will be dropped from the staff unless some reasonable excuse is offered in advance.

This afternoon: Jack Riley, W. E. Davis, Karl Sprinkle, T. W. Lasley, and Robert Novins.

Friday afternoon: W. A. Allsbrook, T. Herring, George Vick, E. R. Oettinger, and W. R. Woerner.

Saturday morning: (10:00 to 12:00) George Malone, Otto Steinreich, Mary Buie, I. H. Jacobson, and E. M. Spruill.

BUCCANEER BILL DEFEATED BY DI

Argument Heated, But Resolution Condemning Sports Writers Also Fails to Pass.

At the regular meeting of the Dialectic senate Tuesday night a bill to abolish the Carolina Buccaneer was defeated 28-22, and a bill to condemn sports writers for exaggerating the value of football stars was defeated 48-2.

The first bill, Resolved: That the Carolina Buccaneer should be abolished, was upheld by senators Dungan and Rector, and attacked by McIver and Brown. Discussion of this bill was intense and was ended only by a call for a "show-down" from the floor.

The second bill, Resolved: That the sports writers of North Carolina are largely responsible for the inferior condition of the Carolina football team, and that they are, therefore, deserving of condemnation, was debated by Senators Williams and Fleming-Jones for, and Newland, Ramsay, McIver, and Deitz against. Debate on this question threatened at times to become personal but when the vote was taken the bill was decisively defeated. Several senators failed to vote because the bill contained the words "inferior condition." They registered as not voting.

The early part of the meeting was occupied with the election of Senator Charles Rose as sergeant-at-arms. Nine men were proposed for membership, George Cocke, C. F. Crum, J. H. D'Alemberte, Marion W. Glenn, John T. O'Neill, J. H. Whitton, Robert R. Reynolds, and Marshall W. Thompson. These men along with four others taken in then formally initiated.

Dean C. T. McCormick of the law school was admitted to honorary membership in the senate.

Infirmiry List

Four people on the infirmiry list yesterday were suffering from colds; they are: E. P. Cahoon, J. P. Jenrette, Albert Oettinger, and Alex Snead. J. T. Ramsaur was confined with a pain in the stomach. B. F. James was having his face and hands treated for burns, Humberto J. Umana was having a cut on his forehead dressed, and James W. Ward was confined with a sprained ankle.

Dean and Mrs. D. D. Carroll announce the birth of a nine pound son at Watts Hospital in Durham, November 5.

New Plan Is Inaugurated For Awarding Rhodes Scholarships

Since the state committee will meet December 6 to select the state candidates for Rhodes Scholarships, it might be well to explain the new plan of selection and distribution going into effect this year.

Formerly, two scholars in three years were selected from each state. Four years ago, however, President Aydelotte of Swarthmore College began agitation for a new plan. He worked on the theory that there were not enough candidates in some states to create adequate competition. According to the new plan, each state enters candidates each year. The country is divided into eight districts of six states each. This state is in a group with Virginia, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, and Tennessee.

Aydelotte discussed the arrangement with old Rhodes scholars, with the Association of American Universities, with the Association of Urban Universities, and with the National Association of State Universities.

The National Association of State Universities was divided in its opinion; the other three groups favored the plan. The trustees of the fund agreed to the proposal for re-arrangement. Philip Kerr, Marquess of Lothian, in an article in the Christian Science Monitor, explained that the Aydelotte plan seemed the means of raising the qualifications in the United States. The Marquess in his capacity of secretary of the Rhodes Trust spent nearly five months in the United States in 1928 investigating conditions that might make amendment advisable.

In May 1929 Parliament authorized an amendment to Cecil Rhodes' will that would in a manner break the will. In July at the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the establishment of the fund, over ninety former American scholars discussed the amendment.

According to the amended will, the two best candidates in each state will appear before their district committee, which each state will select the four best of the twelve. The resulting four will represent the district at Oxford University. It is possible for one college or university to furnish all four men. According to the amendment, a student may spend his third year at Oxford, or at another British University, some years after his two at Oxford. With special arrangements, he may spend the third year in any country other than his own.

A number of the provisions remain the same. The yearly stipend of four hundred pounds has not been changed. The general individual qualifications have not been changed. A prospective Rhodes man, representing the United States, must be a citizen of the United States with a five-year domicile, must be unmarried, must have finished his sophomore year in an accredited college or university, and must have passed his nineteenth but not his twenty-fifth birthday by October 1 of the year for which he is selected.

Annual Pharmacy Scholarship And Prizes Reward Excellence

Annually eight awards are given to the students in the pharmacy school who do the best work during the previous year. These awards are given in an attempt to encourage good work among the students as well as to benefit those who are sometimes unable to meet their expenses.

The Bradham prize, offered by C. D. Bradham, of New Bern, is given to the student making the highest general average during the three years' study leading to the degree of Ph.G. The Lehn and Fink gold medal is given annually for excellence in research work.

Besides these two prizes, six scholarships are given. The Howell scholarship of $60 is given for good work during the second year of the pharmacy school. Three scholarships of $75 each are given by H. S. Richardson, of Greensboro, to members of the first, second, and third year classes for excellent marks in scholarship.

Another scholarship of $75 is awarded to a deserving student who will be selected by the dean of the pharmacy school and the donor. This is known as the Council Scholarship.

The Fairchild Scholarship given by S. W. Fairchild of New York City to the high school graduates of the United States who wish to follow pharmacy as a vocation. This scholarship of $300 is awarded on the basis of a competitive examination given to candidates who are high school graduates and who have successfully finished their first year's work in a school or college of pharmacy or department of pharmacy of a university which is a member of the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy.

Debaters Will Try For Places on Team

The regular meeting of the debate squad in Murphey 201 tonight at 7:30, will be devoted to try-outs for the contest with State College on November 20 and December 9. This will be a dual debate with both schools upholding each side of the question.

Since the debate team from the University of Cambridge has found it necessary to curtail its schedule it is possible that they will find it impossible to engage the University. For this reason, competition for places on the team which will compete against State is expected to be very heavy and keen.

Armistice Program

Armistice Day program will take place next Tuesday in Gerrard hall between the hours of 10:30 and 11:20. The speaker will be Dr. Archibald Henderson, professor of mathematics. All eleven o'clock classes will begin at 11:30.

Bailey Leads in County

According to the results of the votes from two of the precincts of Orange county, Josiah W. Bailey is far in the lead of Congressman Pritchard. The final votes will be received soon and will be published in a later edition of the paper.

Draper Will Speak To Taylor Society

President B. A. Sieder announces that the Taylor Society will hold its second meeting of the year tonight at 7:30 in 103 Bingham hall. Mr. Ed S. Draper, a prominent engineer and landscape architect of Charlotte, is to be the speaker of the occasion, and his topic is "Southern Textile Mill Village Planning." To illustrate his lecture, Mr. Draper will distribute photographs showing the conditions of certain villages before and after he assumed control. He has designed some of the most attractive mill villages in the South and has some very constructive ideas concerning the needs of mill workers in general.

The local branch is one of the few American student chapters of the Taylor Society, which is an international organization for the furtherance of the principles of scientific management.

POLITICS DEBATED BY PHI ASSEMBLY

Tuesday Night Meeting Given Over to Praise of National Democratic Party.

The discussion at the meeting of the Phi Assembly Tuesday evening took the form, for the most part, of praise for the national Democratic party. The bill tabled from the last meeting, Resolved: That the present business depression in the United States is a result of the high tariff, gave rise to an analysis of the primary doctrines of the two major parties in the United States. Many of the representatives denounced the high tariff as suicidal and unnecessary, but the Assembly was unwilling to go on record as holding it to be the direct and only cause of the economic depression.

The only other bill discussed during the session, Resolved: That in voting the party should be considered rather than the man, became a discussion of party principles. Representative Uzzell opposed the voter who would be an "independent," and lauded the party system. The bill was passed by a majority of one—24-23.

Representative Uzzell, committeeman appointed to confer with the Di Senate representation on the matter of the Mary D. Wright Debate, reported that the Senate had not chosen the subject. The Phi will choose the side when the Di makes its report.

Teachers Will Hear Bradshaw Talk On Freshman Troubles

The eighth annual convention of the north central district teachers of the State Education Association will meet in Raleigh Friday afternoon and Saturday morning of this week.

All of the general sessions will convene in Hugh Morson high school while the departmental programs are to meet in the Tabernacle Baptist church, Christ Episcopal church, and the Sir Walter hotel.

Several Chapel Hill high school instructors as well as those of the University are expected to attend. Dean Francis F. Bradshaw will address the county and city superintendents on "Handicaps That Hinder Freshmen Progress." A. K. King, teacher of history in the Chapel Hill high school, will also address a department.

PROCEEDS OF THE MESSIAH WILL GO TO COUNTY POOR

Benefit Performance To Be Given in Music Auditorium December 15.

Dr. Harold A. Dyer of the music department announces that the second performance of the "Messiah" will be given in the music auditorium on December 15. There will be a performance by the Chapel Hill community chorus, a quartet of professional soloists, and the university symphony orchestra. Professor Nelson O. Kennedy will be at the organ, Mrs. A. S. Wheeler at the piano, and Dr. Dyer will direct.

When given last year on December 16, 1200 persons crowded the Methodist church, the largest assemblage that has ever gathered there. The executive committee of the community chorus, composed of George Lawrence, president; A. J. McHale, vice-president; Mrs. A. S. Wheeler, accompanist; Mrs. T. S. McCorkle, and Billy Hunt, voted to put on the performance this year in the interest of the poor of Orange County.

A small admission fee will be charged, with the understanding that all who attend will be contributing directly to the charity fund of the county. The ticket sale will open December 1. The quartet of soloists will be announced at an early date.

The need for charity assistance is greater this year than last year due to the lack of employment. The chorus, numbering 125, voted unanimously to utilize this opportunity to assist the cause. None of the officers, nor anyone connected in any way with the chorus, receives any pay at all. The chorus has been practicing for the last three weeks in the music hall. This organization has retained the best of the vocal talent in the county and among the townspeople.

LEGION BENEFIT SHOWS WILL AID LOCAL CHARITY

The Chapel Hill Post No. 6 of the American Legion is sponsoring a movie to be given at the Carolina theatre Sunday afternoon at three o'clock, and again Sunday evening at nine o'clock. Mr. E. C. Smith, manager of the Carolina theatre, has chosen a Ruth Chatterton picture as the offering. The evening performance has been set at nine o'clock so that the showing of the picture will not conflict with church services. As it is against the state law to charge admission on Sunday, a silver offering will be taken at the door.

The proceeds from the show will go to charity. As winter approaches, need for charity becomes greater and greater, and the American Legion hopes to acquire enough money to help needy persons in the township and county.

This movie on Sunday offers a splendid opportunity to the students of the University and the people of Chapel Hill to donate money to a worthy cause; the people who attend the show will derive enjoyment from two sources, first, they will enjoy a fine picture and secondly they will have the pleasure of giving. It is strongly urged that all for whom it is possible attend this show on Sunday.
