

WEEK OF WORK ON OFFENSE FOR TEAM UNDERWAY

First Eleven Scrimmages Against Reserves to Remove Rough Spots in Attack.

INJURY LIST DECREASES

Rip Slusser, George Thompson and June Underwood To Be Ready for 'Cats.

A week of football practice which promises to be stiff and last until dark every day got underway yesterday afternoon on Emerson field when Coach Chuck Collins sent the Tar Heels through a long session at correcting the rough spots in the offense.

Signal drills by four teams took up more than half an hour, and the first team scrimmaged a reserve eleven at Kenan stadium to top off the afternoon's work.

The scrimmage at the stadium was concentrated on going down under punts and on running plays from within the thirty yard line. Coach Collins said that much of the work this week would be on carrying the ball over from within the twenty and thirty yard lines, because of the fact that scoring punch has been badly off in the last three games.

The first team lineup yesterday showed: Brown and Walker, ends; Hodges and McDade, tackles; Fysal and McIver, guards; Lipscomb, center; Branch, quarterback; Magner and Nash, halfbacks; and House, fullback.

During the afternoon Coach Cerney took the backs and ends over in a corner of the field and sent them through a short and brisk drill on taking on ends. Blocking was emphasized for tackles and guards during the afternoon also.

The Tar Heels' injury list last night was shortened when Trainer Chuck Quinlan announced that Rip Slusser's injury to his leg is coming around nicely and that he will be able to play in the Davidson game should he receive the call. George Thompson's cut over his eye is not causing him a great deal of trouble, he being out for practice yesterday. June Underwood should be back in shape for the Davidson game also, since his hand injury is getting along nicely. These were the only casualties on the injury list after the State game, and unless someone is hurt during the practices of the week, the Tar Heels will be able to hurl their full strength against the Presbyterians.

CATAWBA HOLDS LEADERSHIP OF N. S. CONFERENCE

Guilford College, Nov. 10.—Standing of North State conference teams remained unchanged this week as Guilford and Elon scored victories over Lenoir-Rhyne and High Point respectively, while Moran's Catawba Indians were walloping an outsider. The Salisbury team remains in the lead with three victories and no defeats.

Guilford and Catawba meet this week in what promises to be one of the best games of the North State conference season. This contest is booked for the Greensboro Memorial stadium and is to be played Saturday afternoon. Catawba, by virtue of her outstanding showing in games to date, rules a big favorite to down the Quakers in this game.

Williams continues far in front of other scorers in the conference with 8 points added to his previous mark of 45. Tom Cheek added seven against Lenoir-Rhyne to bring his total up to 31 to hold second place by a CAROLINA'S VICTORY OVER State College admittedly was quite unimpressive. Any team's showing is unimpressive when it gains consistently at midfield and fails to come through when the opponents have their backs to the wall, but there is no denying that the Wolfpack has a stubborn, fighting and aggressive line. Red Espey, Captain Mac Stout, Coon Silver, Charlie Cobb and Milo Stroupe would give any man a fight for his position.

Nevertheless the fact remains that the Tar Heels are lacking in scoring punch. Coach Collins sent his charges through a long scrimmage last Wednesday at running over touchdowns from the 10 and 15-yard lines on power plays. The very same drills on power plays probably will take up a large portion of the menu for the Tar Heels' work this week. There is a difference in being kept away from the goal line by the heavy, bruising and powerful line of Georgia Tech and, being treated in a similar fashion by the Wolfpack line, which is admittedly lighter and as a whole unseasoned. ONE TAR HEEL IMPRESSED the crowd at the game in spite of the fact that the team's showing was not so good. Captain Strud Nash was in there Friday to make up for a rather poor season so far, and when he retired from the game at the end of the third quarter, the Wolves were aware of the fact that he had romped all over them. The Tar Heel captain has hit his stride, and we believe that this means trouble for Davidson.

Our barrister seemed to be dissatisfied with the showing that he has made so far this season, for Jim Magner's passes have never been more accurate than they were last Friday. Eight yards per try is good ground gaining, too. WE SAW THE DUKE BLUE Devils, or rather Gallopin' Bill Murray, as our fellow staff writer calls him, race around Kentucky's ends for the 14-7 victory. We have seen Duke give two stellar performances this year, and will say right here that they have a great ball club over there. State, Wake Forest, and Washington and Lee should cause the Blue Devils little trouble for the next three weeks. According to information received over THERE last Saturday their last game of the season also will cause them little trouble.

THE TEAM WHICH DEFEATED the Tar Heels 26-0 seems to be just as strong as it was said to be early in the season. Many lost faith in the Georgia Bulldogs when they were tied by Florida, but their impressive victory over N. Y. U. puts them and Southern football even more to the front. They should be able to handle Tulane's Green Wave this Saturday, and their Thanksgiving booking with Alabama will be a great game, even though the Crimson will be conceded the edge.

DAVIDSON COLLEGE WILL be putting everything that they have against the Tar Heels this Saturday at Davidson, and they seem to have a rather strong eleven. Their victory over Wofford was quite impressive, defeating the South Carolina Methodists by 13 to 0. This was only an extra point short of the drubbing which the Duke Blue Devils handed the Terriers a few weeks ago when they dedicated their new athletic field at Spartanburg.

THE THANKSGIVING GAME with Virginia, comparing the two teams to date, should go to

WILDCATS HAVE TRIO OF STELLAR ENDS

The Davidson Wildcats will present a team Saturday that is strong on the flanks. They had so many good ends at the Presbyterian institution that they moved a star flankman from last year, Thad Brock, to a guard post. The trio of ends shown above are Steve Brown, Skinny Pierce, and Jim Proctor.

TAR BABIES TO PLAY BLUE IMPS AT DUKE TODAY

Carolina Freshmen Ready for Armistice Day Contest With Duke Yearlings.

Last night eleven Tar Babies went off the freshman field after a spirited drill, with a strong determination to do what no other team has been able to accomplish this year; cross the goal line of the Blue Imps. The game is to be played today in Durham as part of the Armistice Day celebration and promises to be a hard fought and very exciting game. It will be remembered that last year the Blue Imps won by the slender margin of a safety, in a game packed with thrills. The Tar Babies of this year are out to avenge this defeat and will put all their energy into annexing a victory.

The Duke team has been schooled in the Wade system, being coached by two former Alabama players. These two coaches were sent by Wade to get his system started and, from the success they have had so far, seemed to have done their job. They have not only won all their games to date but have kept their goal line uncrossed. They are just as determined to keep the slate clean as the Tar Babies are to mar it, so a real fight will be on hand.

The Tar Babies will have lunch tomorrow at eleven o'clock at Swain hall and will leave here from Emerson field. The game is scheduled for two-thirty.

The Carolina freshmen are crippled by the fact that their star backfield speedster, Alex Weisker, will be unable to play, his leg not having responded to the treatment. Rankin and Mathews, two stellar ends, are also incapacitated due to injuries. With these handicaps and the fact that Duke will present an exceptionally strong team, the Tar Babies will have to play much better ball than they have shown at any time this year if they expect to cross the goal line, much less win. Undoubtedly, there are some excellent performers in the line as Barclay, McIver, Mulligan, and Gardner, but these must work together to make the attack run smoothly. With the line functioning well, Hackney, Whitener and Phipps should get loose, as all these men are good, hard runners.

WILDKITTENS TO MEET WOLFLETS RALEIGH TODAY

Davidson, N. C., Nov. 10.—The Davidson College freshman football eleven tackles its first of the Big Five Freshmen teams on Armistice Day, when it engages in combat with the N. C. State freshmen at Raleigh. The Davidson outfit will leave today in a badly crippled condition, four of the hitherto players of the first string being injured or sick.

These men are Redi Brown, fullback and alternate captain, who broke an ankle bone several weeks ago; Tong, guard, whose arm is carried in a sling as a result of a shoulder hurt, and Goodykoontz and Cochran, tackles, who have been sick. Goodykoontz has been in the infirmary for the past week, but was out Saturday. He will make the trip, but it is doubtful if he will participate. Cochran, who had an attack of influenza, was ordered by his physician to stop football for this fall.

news as to the team that would start for Duke. Coach Enright announced his probable lineup as: Jones and Adair, ends; Crane and Strickland, tackles; McIver and Barclay, guards; Gardner, center. The probable backfield will be Hackney, Phipps, Whitener, and Woollen.

TULANE UNDEFEATED

Maryland, Clemson, Mississippi and Tennessee Run up Large Scores Over Week-end.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 10.—Alabama's Crimson legions removed another obstacle—Florida—from their path toward the Southern conference football championship yesterday, as their mightiest remaining foe, Georgia, scored an impressive intersectional victory over New York university.

Tulane, the only other team unbeaten in conference play, which meets Georgia next Saturday in a game which will eliminate one from championship consideration, had its hands full with a fighting Auburn eleven, winning 21 to 0 after a hard battle.

Jimmy DeHart's final gridiron editon at Duke offered something of an upset in trouncing Kentucky 14 to 7 at Durham.

In a game of fumbles and wild passing, Vanderbilt won its annual game from Georgia Tech 6 to 0. Six times Vanderbilt was presented with scoring chances but only on one occasion were the Commodores able to punch across the goal line. Penalties robbed both teams of a touchdown.

Flashing a rapid-fire attack, Maryland scored three touchdowns in the first quarter and added three more in the second and third periods to trample Washington and Lee, 41 to 7. Berger made three touchdowns and Poppelman two.

Clemson struck its stride again against Virginia military and gave the Cadets a 32 to 0 beating. Harvin accounted for two of the touchdowns and three were scored on passes.

In addition to Georgia's win, Dixie teams were successful in four other intersectional tilts. Mississippi college won from the Special to The Daily Tar Heel.

Davidson, N. C., Nov. 9.—For the third consecutive year, Davidson College's football team will play host to the University of North Carolina eleven on the former's home plot, Richardson Field at Davidson. The Tar Heels and Wildcats' coming together next Saturday will have material bearing on the standing of the Big Five members of the state.

Carolina has a perfectly clean slate within the confines of North Carolina, having taken the measure of the Wake Forest Demon Deacons in the opening
