

Mighty Wildcat Eleven Defeats Tar Heels

Carolinians' Failure To Boot Extra Point Loses Game 6 To 7

Nash Scores Lone Tar Heel Touchdown On Pass Over Goal Line from Magner.

BROHARD DAVIDSON STAR

Fraley Makes 'Cat Touchdown on Line Buck; McQueen Rips Off Great Gains.

By Don Shoemaker
Davidson College met and defeated the University today by a score of 7-6, but the numerical margin of victory fails to tell the tale of how a beaten and broken Wildcat eleven was driven into its lair in the first period, and emerged to claw a strong Tar Heel aggregation all over the soggy gridiron in one of the most spectacular offensive drives ever recorded in the annals of North Carolina football. Failure to add the extra point after touchdown spelled defeat for the Heels.

The Wildcat line was puncture proof and a wet field rendered the Carolinians' aerial attack inconsistent. Davidson's superiority on a wet field was demonstrated in the first few seconds of the game when McCall seized Branch's kickoff on his own twelve yard line and ran the ball to the Carolina twenty-nine yard stripe. However, the Carolina forward wall held, and Davidson was forced to relinquish the ball on downs.

After an exchange of punts in the middle of the initial period, Carolina took the ball on her forty-five yard line and began the fifty-five yard march down the field to the first score. Nash netted eleven yards on two tries at the end of the line and Magner carried the ball thru tackle to the 23 yard line. After seesawing around the twenty yard line, first gaining and then losing, Magner shot a pass to Nash across the line for the touchdown. Branch's kick failed.

Branch placed the ball in scoring position near the end of the quarter when he received Brock's punt on his twenty yard line and streaked up the side line for sixty-six yards. Magner and Nash punctured the line to the three yard stripe where Houston added a yard. With the oval on the three yard line after Nash had been cut down in his tracks a yard behind the line, the quarter ended.

Forced back to the nine yard line, Branch passed over the goal and the ball went over to Davidson on their own twenty yard line. On a beautiful off tackle smash, McQueen broke thru the Tar Heel forward wall for forty one yards to the Carolina eighteen yard marker. Unable to net more than a yard in three tries at the line McCall dashed around the end to the Carolina nine yard mark where Fraley drove over tackle for the touchdown after McQueen had

(Continued on last page)

Emory University Student Body Abolishes Track Team

Atlanta, November 15.—Emory University students ratified the vote of the athletic council of the institution for the abolishment of intercollegiate track last week. The vote was 410 to 297 for dispensing with track this year and came after the Athletic council had gone on record at the suggestion of the E Club to remove the sport from the university. Paramount among the reasons advanced for the action was the financial status of track activities which was said to be in poor circumstances.

Football Scores

Michigan 7	Minnesota 0
Iowa 19	Penn. State 0
Maryland 13	V. P. I. 0
Army 7	Ky. Wesleyan 2
N. Y. U. 2	Georgetown 0
Harvard 0	Holy Cross 27
Yale 10	Princeton 7
Chicago 0	Illinois 20
Missouri 0	Nebraska 0
Northwestern 20	Wisconsin 7
Colgate 36	Syracuse 0
St. Mary's 20	Fordham 12
N. Carolina 6	Davidson 7
State 0	Duke 18
Florida 27	Clemson 0
Ga. Tech 7	Penn. 34
Georgia 0	Tulane 25
Alabama 33	L. S. U. 0
S. M. U. 20	Navy 0
Notre Dame 28	Drake 0

SPURTS IN SPORTS

Jack Bessen

In addressing the Chicago alumni at the annual banquet before the Chicago-Purdue football game last Friday night, President Edward C. Elliott of Purdue said, "Public interest in intercollegiate athletics is waning so rapidly that the time may be near for the restriction of its field. Except possibly where a championship is at stake, we may no longer count on the enthusiastic and emotional public support that we have enjoyed in the last eight years." This statement is just a polite way of taking a crack at professional football, which has undoubtedly taken away some of the color and thrill of the intercollegiate sport. It seems as though football stars are entering college in order to get a suitable background for the professional sport. But fortunately, after a few years of unbounded popularity, professional football is distinctly on the wane, and judging by the gate receipts and attendance figures at intercollegiate games, college football seems to be more popular now than ever. In spite of the "hard times" that are sweeping the country, attendance records for nearly all the big games have been broken, and the increase in strength of the small college teams have also led to an increase in their attendance figures.

It seems as though the University of Maryland is going to have undisputed claim to the title of "Iron Men of 1930." The Old Liners will engage in three games, all hard ones, in eight days, a big piece for any team to bite off. On November 22, they will meet the strong Navy outfit; on Thanksgiving the annual game with Johns Hopkins, and with only two days of rest, will take on Vandy to complete their "suicide schedule." With good luck, the Old Line eleven ought to beat the Navy and John Hopkins, but great doubt is expressed at their chances of including Vandy on the right side of the ledger.

Two of the most colorful figures that have ever donned American League uniforms have been cut loose from the Philadelphia Athletics' roster and it looks as though their major league careers are at an end. The players in question are Wally Schang, catcher, and John Picus Quinn, pitcher. Both of these veterans were largely responsible for Connie Mack's great machine of 1914 becoming the class of baseball. With the

STARS IN 'CAT LINE AND BACKFIELD

TOM BROHARD - FULLBACK THAD BROCK - GUARD

Brock by his spectacular punting and blocking, and Brohard by his sensational long dashes were the main factors in the Davidson victory. Brohard proved a constant threat to the Tar Heels, and Brock with his effective punting kept the Wildcats' goal out of danger through a large portion of the game.

Four Fraternities To Clash For Right To Tackle Ruffin

The regular schedule of intramural tag ball was completed on Friday and the powers of the intramural office will make a check up on the standings of all teams engaged in the struggle. On Monday Shelton, first lieutenant to Gray, Intramural head, will announce the play-off schedules for the four undefeated fraternity teams. The outfits that fight it out for the right to take on Ruffin, dormitory champ for the campus title are Phi Gams, A. T. O., Dekes, and the Betas.

On Monday the fraternity group will be narrowed down to three when the Dekes meet the Betas. Ruffin, has still one postponed game to play before they enter the finals. Law School with only one defeat on their record are determined to upset the ambitions of the Ruffin club. The savants declare that Ruffin has the title sewed up, but should Law School win, the dormitory race will be thrown into a triple tie among New Dorms, Ruffin, and Law School. The Phigees and the A. T. O.'s will be on the sidelines scouting the Deke-Beta Game. The Betas,

NEW SEWER INSTALLED

A new storm sewer has been installed along main street of Chapel Hill. The sewer was constructed so as to enable the water which collects along Fraternity Row to be drawn off. It is made of large clay pipes one foot in diameter and has its junction, which is made of brick and cement, at the end of Fraternity Row.

Negro Butlers Organize

At the University of Georgia, negro butlers have organized a fraternity to be known as the Silver Kings. Requirements for initiation are: Butlership at a Greek letter fraternity, wearing of clothes acquired only from fraternity men, and the attending of every football game.

release of Quinn, the rapidly decreasing list of spitball pitchers takes another on the chin, cutting the active list to three, Burleigh Grimes, St. Louis Cardinals, Clarence Mitchell, New York Giants, and Urban Faber, Chicago White Sox.

CAGLE RESIGNS AS GRID COACH

Former Army Ace Leaves Mississippi A. and M. Post to Join New York Pros.

New York, November 15.—Self-admittedly a failure at football coaching, Cris Cagle, former Army grid star, announced Wednesday that he had signed to play with the New York Giants, professional team, for the remainder of the season.

In a letter which accompanied Cagle's signed contract the All-American back stated that he was dissatisfied with his efforts at Mississippi A. and M. where he has been coaching since his resignation from the military academy last year. His Mississippi team has lost five out of six games played so far this season.

Cagle is to leave Starvill, Mississippi, by airplane today and will arrive here in time for the game between the Giants and the Chicago Bears.

PING-PONG KNOCKS AT INTRAMURAL PORTALS DEMANDING RECOGNITION

Dormitories and Fraternity Houses Have Dedicated Rooms in Which Strenuous Campaigns and Even Tournaments Are Waged in the Interest of Rising Game.

In those little by-ways and highways in which the students congregate, there has been heard, in increasing volume during the past several weeks the insistent demands that ping-pong be recognized by the intramural athletics department of the University; plans have been verbally formed with which to petition "Bo" Shepherd to satisfy the indoor athletes who spend hours at the ping-pong board. To the observant bystander of this rapidly rising feeling on the campus, it appears that it will not be long before the adherents of the ancient and mystic order of Ping-Pong will take measures in their own hands in order to instigate a campus-wide tournament, or at least, an inter-fraternity contest.

Several of the dormitories have dedicated what was formerly known as the social room, or general lounge room of the dormitory to the modern sport, and Aycock dorm prides itself upon the fact that as early as last Spring quarter no one but ping-pong enthusiasts were permitted in the general social room of that building. But at this writing, the center of the new pastime finds itself in the fraternity houses; in the newer houses, where there are side-porches, and several living rooms, there have been set up tables and nets, as well as referee chairs and places for spectators. In the older houses, where the finance committee has not as yet learned the various schemes of floating new, bigger, and better lodges, the group who are yearning for the resounding smack of the racquet upon the celluloid ball, the boys who dash in after classes, regardless of letters, work or even the "show" and scramble for "next" at the ping-pong table—those boys have converted the largest available bed-room into a sacred shrine and place of worship at the altar of Parker Bros.' game.

Practically every fraternity has held a ping-pong tournament, or are in the middle of one now. These elimination contests are not the innocuous things that the casual reader may believe they are, merely because they are played indoors with a ball that weighs almost nothing, and with a racquet the size of a well-done hotcake. No, indeed, all the zest, all the fire, all the fight that goes into a football game, or a tennis match are present at one of the ping-pong games. In one house's back room, a trunk has been pulled up near the table, and a chair placed upon the trunk, and in that chair much like the umpire at an international tennis match, sits the referee, calling each shot, and keeping accurate scores. The excitement that is an integral part of every sport worthy of the name is present in the ping-pong games—participants get sore, try to "kill" the ball, sometime they doubt the accuracy of the referee's judgments, and there is much yelling and screaming, etc., etc. Occasionally two persons who have never been well-disposed towards each other are pitted against one another in the round-robin, and although they begin passively enough, it isn't long before one of them lets forth an acrimonious howl, and it does happen that the loser, who feels that another lost point won't matter anyway, will carefully slam the ball with all he has in the general direction of his opponent's face.

Yes, indeed, there are all sorts of little knicks and knacks in this gentle sport that is sweeping the former yo-yo fans, and professional non-athletes from their former almost-impregnable positions.

Another pretty good memory test is to try to remember the names of as many as two of the 59 titans who rule this land of the free and the home of the Noble Experiment.—Macon Telegraph.

Large Crowds Watch Civic Clubs Bowl

There was a large crowd of loyal rooters on hand Monday night, Nov. 10, to watch the city's Civic Clubs battle in their first league game of the season.

The Lions Club team displayed championship class, taking all three games from the Kiwanians with a total of 1339 pins as against a total for the Kiwanians team of 1162 pins.

The A. B. C. Club captured high honors for the evening in pins gathered, their total for the three games being 1355, to beat the Monarchs two games out of three. It has been officially announced that the American Legion will enter the Civic League during the next few days, and it is interesting to note that at the University of North Carolina an Inter-Fraternity League will be started. This league is now under way and will start in the next few days. Bowling is now fast becoming a recognized sport among the collegians at the up-to-date colleges. The formation of this league is being looked forward to with eager anticipation. This entire league is being sponsored by the Durham Bowling Center.

STANDINGS OF THE CLUBS
	1st	2nd	3rd	Total Pins
LIONS
Cox	93	95	113	301
Lockwood	98	87	92	287
Ashby	80	76	79	235
Watkins	91	00	89	180
Isaac	00	79	00	79
Baker	88	89	80	257
Total				1339
KIWANIS
Weatherly	46	83	97	226
Bennett	68	71	88	227
Hardee	68	79	65	212
Hoge	73	71	91	235
Rea	87	93	82	262
Total				1162
A. B. C. CLUB
Potts	82	00	93	175
Martin	88	76	00	164
Hinton	96	82	91	269
Reade	91	102	79	272
Hunter	109	84	92	285
Robertson	00	110	85	195
Total				1355
MONARCH CLUB
Cagle	103	86	75	264
Sorrell	81	99	102	282
Quinn	85	87	113	285
Farthing	78	69	00	147
Coman	84	83	85	252
Issacs	00	00	96	96
Total				1326