

At The Carolina

The Carolina offers a program this week containing several attractions of merit, so well advertised and with stars whose names are so well known that reports of their worth have gone well before their arrival.

The feature Monday and Tuesday, Amos 'n' Andy in their first talking picture "Check and Double Check," affords an excellent example. These two radio characterizations, for that of course is how they are best known, are appearing in a picture of their radio story, and as a picture it follows faithfully in the path of action and characters that these inimitable entertainers deal with every time they broadcast. The Kingfish and Madame Queen are among the chief characters, and the audience sees on the screen that remarkable vehicle, the Fresh Air Taxicab, as well as the sacred room of the Mystic Knights of the Sea.

Supporting players include such stars as Irene Rich, Sue Carol, and Charles Morton. An added feature of interest is Duke Ellington and his orchestra, whose pieces "Three Little Words" and "Ring Dem Bells" have been in themselves extensive advertising for the production.

The attraction Wednesday is Jack Oakie in "Only Saps Work." This well known comedian has been extremely prolific in the number of his pictures, and "Only Saps Work" furnishes another vehicle for his wide diversity of characterizations.

A picture that should be of interest to everyone, not only because of its different and unusual treatment of a now common theme, the World War, but also because of the moving and dramatic realism of its entire course, is "War Nurse," coming Thursday. This production, starring Anita Page, June Walker, Robert Montgomery, and Robert Ames, is a vitaphone dramatization of the anonymously autobiographical story, under the same name, that was serialized in a popular weekly magazine only a few months ago. The serial attracted wide publicity for its frank and startling revelations of the lives led by nurses near the front during the war, and this picture that now follows in the lead of the story has shirked no realistic feature in presenting all the tragedy and bitter sacrifice, and all the unconventional and casting-aside of stilted puritanism that made for relief from and forgetfulness of horror.

William Haines' latest release, "Remote Control," is scheduled for Friday. This feature, combining a mystery plot with comedy situations (enhanced by Polly Moran as a "beauty expert"), is laid "behind the scenes" in station WPN. This novel setting is introduced to further the plot, which has to deal with the actions of a band of crooks who receive their directions over the radio from their leader.

Victor McLaglin will be seen Saturday in his newest picture, "A Devil With Women." In this, McLaglin is seen as a vagabond soldier-of-fortune, whose vocation is fighting and whose avocation is women. As a captain in the army of a little Central American republic the hero battles a bandit revolutionist-leader.

Y CABINETS WILL MEET TOMORROW

The junior-senior, sophomore, and freshman cabinets of the Y. M. C. A. will meet tomorrow night at seven-fifteen o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. Programs have been arranged for each of the meetings.

A general business meeting is to be held by the junior-senior cabinet. The committees will make their reports, and plans for the Orange County relief campaign are to be discussed. Human relations topics are the subjects for discussions. No speaker has been scheduled as yet.

An open forum discussion on international relations has been arranged for the sophomore cabinet. Special attention will be given to the United States' relations to the world. The discussions will be along the lines of the recent lectures given by Drs. Metzenthin and Woodhouse.

PLAY READING ON WEEK'S PROGRAM

The calendar for this week contains many events of interest to Carolina students. This afternoon at four o'clock Edward Eigenschenk will give an organ recital at the organ concert dedicating the Music Hall.

On Monday night at seven o'clock in room 103, Bingham hall Dr. C. L. Holmes, chief of the division of farm management and costs of the United States department of Agriculture in Washington, D. C., will address the local chapter of the Taylor society. His topic is: "Technique and Economics in the New Farm Management." This meeting will be open to all those interested in the subject. At seven-thirty, the Messiah Chorus will be heard in the Music Hall.

Friday night, November 21, at ten, there will be open house and a dance at the Graduate club.

Next Sunday at four-forty-five Nelson Kennedy will play at a vesper organ concert in the Music Hall. At eight-thirty Paul Green will read his play Tread the Green Grass. The reading will be given in the Playmakers' Theatre; Lamar Stringfield will play his music written for the play. The reading was scheduled for today, but was postponed.

GRAHAM NOT TO BE OPERATED ON

Frank Porter Graham, president-elect of the University, will not be operated on for appendicitis, it was reported yesterday. Mr. Graham has for the past few weeks undergone treatment in Watts hospital in preparation for an operation, but his condition has been found such that this will not be necessary. He will return to his home either tomorrow or Tuesday. It was not stated when he would be able to resume his duties as the University's head.

Landsteiner Wins Prize

Dr. Karl Landsteiner, of Rockefeller Institute, received the Nobel prize of about $48,000 for his work in pathology and immunology, according to an announcement by the Stockholm Faculty of Medicine. The recipients of the prizes for chemistry, physics and literature will be revealed next month.

Randall at N. C.

Greensboro, November 15.—Dr. John Herman Randall, professor of philosophy at Columbia university, comes to North Carolina College Monday and Tuesday for two lectures under the auspices of the lecture course. "Religion in the Modern World" and "Contemporary Philosophic Tendencies" are his subjects.

Carolina's Failure To Boot Extra Point Loses Game 6 To 7

(Continued from page three) advanced the ball to the seven yard line. Fraley added the point. Once again in the second quarter Davidson was placed in scoring position but lacked the power to force the ball over the final marker.

The remainder of the game saw both teams striving to score before the end of the half, with Carolina launching a fruitless aerial attack and Brohard endeavoring to break into the open on one of his sensational dashes.

Carolina	pos.	Davidson
Walker	l.e.	Pierce
Thompson	l.t.	Raker
Blackwood	l.g.	Brock
Lipscomb	c.	Mason
Fysal	r.g.	Mathis
McDade	r.t.	Covington
Brown	r.e.	Brown
Branch	q.b.	Fraley
Magner	l.h.	King
Nash	r.h.	McCall
House	f.b.	McQueen

Score by quarters: Tot.
Carolina 6 0 0 6
Davidson 0 7 0 7

Substitutions for Carolina: Houston, Gilbreath, Slusser, McIver, Hodges, Tabb, Newcombe, McCaskill, Alexander, Chandler, Thompson, Erickson, Nichols, Moore, and Maus. For Davidson: Proctor, Brohard, Mills, Parker, McConnell, Miller, Conway, and Wagner.

ALUMNUS TO HEAD LINCOLN HOSPITAL

Dr. Louis Webb, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Webb of Chapel Hill, recently received the commission of colonel, and continuing in his work with the United States Veterans' Bureau, has gone to Lincoln, Nebraska, to take charge of a new veterans' hospital there.

Dr. Webb studied medicine at the University of North Carolina for four years and finished his course at Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia. He also studied at Colorado University and at Tulane. During the war, Dr. Webb was lieutenant colonel of the medical corps, and since the war and until about a year ago, he was medical director of the veterans' hospital in New Orleans. He was transferred to a hospital in Alexandria, Louisiana, and remained there until a few months ago, when he went to Washington in connection with the veterans' work.

The veterans' hospital in Lincoln, of which Dr. Webb has just been made commanding officer, is entirely new. Dr. Webb is now furnishing the building, installing medical equipment and organizing the medical and and nurses' staff.

New Chi Psi Lodge Still Problematic

The Chi Psi fraternity is drawing up plans for building a new house to replace the one which burned during the Christmas holidays last year. At present the members have no house but are boarding at 315 Cameron avenue in the portion of the house which was not destroyed by the fire.

The members of the lodge have not yet agreed on the plans of the new house, but it may be built sometime this year. It is thought that the building will be of stone. The probable location is unknown.

Graduates of Last Year Now Engaged In Various Activities

(Continued from page one)

of the Carolina Magazine, Gabe Cohen member of the boxing and cross-country teams while at the University is now rewrite man for the Herald Post, Louisville, Ky. Henry Dry, polevaulter, is now working in an accounting firm in Greensboro. Julian Palmore, former tennis star, is with John Wiley and Company, scientific publishers, New York City. Howard Bailey, Playmaker star last year, is rehearsing for the leading part in a new musical comedy scheduled to open on Broadway within the next few weeks. William Howard Brown, baseball and basketball star is studying at Virginia Theological Seminary, Alexandria. Harry Galland, associate editor of the Daily Tar Heel, is with the advertising department of R. H. Macy's department store in New York City. John Mebane, editor of the Carolina Magazine is on the reportorial staff of the High Point Enterprise. David Nims, captain of the '30 Southern Conference championship track team, is with the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia. William Alva Perry, star hurdler of last year's track team, is connected with the cellophane plant of the Du Pont Rayon Company at Old Hickory, Tennessee. Augustus ("Mac") Covington, head waiter at Swain Hall, is practising law in Oklahoma. Travis Brown, formerly editor of the Yackety-Yack is attending the University law school and is business manager of the Yackety Yack.

Quite a few of the members of the class have gone into the athlete manufacturing business. Ray Farris, all-American guard and president of the Student Union while at the University, is line coach of the Carolina freshman team, in addition to his coaching work, Farris is taking several graduate courses. Fenton ("Pot") Adkins is head track coach and assistant football coach at Randolph-Macon College, Ashland, Virginia. Jimmie Ward, backfield ace last year, has returned to his prep alma mater, Blue Ridge School for Boys, Hendersonville, as assistant director of athletics. George Hamer is teaching English and history and is coaching at Waxhaw. C. M. Redfern Jr., is teaching history and science and is coaching football at Garner in Wake County. Minor Barkley, captain of the cross-country team and premier distance man of the track team, is teaching and coaching at Winston-Salem junior high. Walter G. Lowry, is coaching at Bethel high in Pitt County. Thomas B. Bennett, Jr., is assistant engineer with the American Bridge Company at Ambridge, Pennsylvania. Jose Rafael Martinez-Ponte is chief engineer of the department of public works of Venezuela, South America. Fred Merryfield is associate professor of Hydraulic and Sanitary Engineering at Oregon State Teachers' College, Corvallis, Oregon. Thomas Noe, Jr., is assistant engineer of the American Bridge Company at Trenton, N. J. Haywood Parker is engaged in research work at the laboratories of the Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, N. Y. Archie Uzzle, Jr., is Sanitary Engineer in charge of plants for Greenville, N. C. J. Paul Scurlock is on the staff of the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia. Richard Walford, Jr., is an assistant engineer with the Louisiana State Highway Commission. William J. Horney is assistant engineer with the National Bridge Company at Nashville Tennessee. H. O. Hill is engaged in the Reclamation Service of the United States in Oklahoma. W. E. Underhill has a position of assistant engineer for the American Bridge Company. E. L. Lowry is with the General Electric Company at Schenectady, N. Y. John J. Alexander is with the American Telephone and Telegraph company at Atlanta, Georgia. William Burnette is connected with the General Engineering department of the Southern Bell Telephone Company at Atlanta. Francis Toms is engaged in research at the Bell Telephone laboratories in New York.

GRAHAM REVIEWS PAST INFLUENCES

(Continued from first page)

Tracing the development of events which, he said, had led to "the electrification and Americanization of the world," Mr. Graham divided the last 500 years of history into three periods.

The first period, he said, was marked by the "Europeanization of the world, dramatically inaugurated in the discovery of America by Columbus and the founding of Africa by Vasco de Gama in the 15th century."

He referred to the second as "The Britainification of the world." In the 18th century the Watts steam engine set in motion "the tremendous influence of Britain, resulting in a procession of steam engines around the world."

It is now in the 20th century, Mr. Graham said, "that we enter the third period, and we have the electrification and Americanization of the world."

"One of the most powerful factors in these contemporary processes," Mr. Graham said, "is the American motion picture, as it proceeds to introduce American ideas, customs, music, and speech to all the peoples of the earth, thus paving the way for commerce and industry and international goodwill that results from understanding."

"The American movie is conquering the world. This means that the producers and exhibitors are charged with a great responsibility. We believe that standards are rising with mechanical and human technique, as you not only multiply contacts but also have the opportunity potentially to enrich the content of our lives!"

This State Spends More for Luxuries Than for Education

(Continued from first page)

ing gum, theatres and similar items for every $1 spent for schools, stated the bulletin. The nation spends $6,401,650,000 for the limited list of articles and amusements given above, while all the public schools are allotted $2,448,633,561.

"In presenting these figures," comments the bulletin of the National Education Association, "it is not implied that one should limit himself wholly to the necessities of life. We should not be willing, however," it says in effect, "to give luxuries preference over essentials in the spending of our income."

TAR HEEL STAFF TO HEAR GRAVES

(Continued from first page)

His talk to the staff tonight will be the third of a series given by journalistic men here on the campus. Oscar Coffin, head of the journalism department, was the first speaker of the series, and J. Maryon Saunders, Alumni secretary of the University, and editor of the Alumni Review, the second. Both of these speakers took up the work of the daily paper and commented on it. Suggestions were also made to remedy some of the defects in the publication. "This policy of securing journalists to speak weekly to the staff will be carried out throughout the year," stated the managing-editor. It is his plan to get not only men on this campus but also newspaper men from some of the surrounding cities to address the Daily Tar Heel staff.

All members of the staff who will be unable to attend this meeting tonight must turn in an excuse to the managing editor before the meeting is convened.

PHARMACY BOARD MEETS TUESDAY

(Continued from first page)

didate must be eighteen years old, have a general education, and have had two years experience under a licensed pharmacist. One year of college work may count for experience.

Lon Russell of High Point, who formerly worked in Eubanks' drugstore, is one of the applicants.

Watch This Column Daily

Each day two names will be placed in this column. Each person whose name appears will be given a guest ticket to the Carolina Theatre.

CAROLINA THEATRE Monday-Tuesday

AMOS 'N' ANDY ON THE SCREEN

in "Check 'n' Double Check"

BRACELET LOST
LOST — Diamond sapphire, linked bracelet about a week ago. Liberal reward offered. Notify Box 337, Chapel Hill.

P. C. IDOL

To Look Nice Get Your Hair Cut at SMITHY'S BARBER SHOP Under Johnson-Prevost

W. B. SORRELL
Optometrist

Dr. J. P. Jones
Dentist
TELEPHONES
Office 5761 — Residence 5716
Office Over Cavalier Cafeteria

E. P. DAMERON

GAS AND OILS
We invite you to try our super washing and greasing service. SINCLAIR FILLING STATION (Near fire station) ROBT. S. NEVILLE, Mgr.

Drink
Coca-Cola 5'
Delicious and Refreshing
9,000,000 Consumed Daily
DURHAM COCA COLA BOTTLING CO.