

DAILY UNDERGOES STIFF SHAKE-UP

Twenty-One Suspended and Three Dropped for Non-Attendance at Meeting.

The staff of the Daily Tar Heel experienced a surprise shake-up yesterday afternoon following a called meeting at three-fifteen, when six editors and fifteen reporters were temporarily suspended from their work on the publication. Three reporters were dropped from the staff permanently. All members of the staff who failed to attend yesterday's meeting were automatically suspended together with all who missed two consecutive weekly meetings of the paper.

Bob Madry has been secured to be the speaker at the regular meeting of the staff next Sunday night December seventh, at seven-twenty in room 104, Alumni building. The managing-editor states that no one will be excused from this meeting next Sunday due to the fact that it will be the last meeting this quarter. On Sunday, January eleven, the first staff meeting of the winter quarter, a chance will be given for new reporters to get on the staff.

Eleven more issues of the paper will be published before the close of this quarter, the managing-editor stated yesterday.

The following men are requested to meet with Jack Dungan this afternoon in the Tar Heel office at one-thirty p. m.: E. C. Daniel, J. C. Williams, W. M. McKee, Beverly Moore, Ed Yarborough, Virginia Douglas, W. A. Allsbrook, A. Alston, Alex Andrews, Bob Betts, McBride Fleming-Jones, Wm. Farmer, Phil Liskin, E. R. Oettinger, L. L. Pegram, Charles Poe, Jack Riley, Karl Sprinkle, Frank Hawley, Robert Novins, A. Jacobs, and Sam Silverstein.

BRADSHAW TALKS TO FRESHMEN AT CHAPEL MEETING

Advises Them Against Staying Up Too Late at Night Studying for Examinations.

Dean F. F. Bradshaw in addressing the freshman chapel group yesterday told them to guard against staying up late at nights in studying for the quarterly examinations. He warned the students that after studying all night they would probably know less about the subject than if they had not studied at all. He ventured that a review of past work would help to keep the subjects fresh in their minds, and suggested that the work of the last two months be divided into fourteen groups so that students might study one of these groups each night until the examinations.

Dean Bradshaw told the group some of his own experiences in studying for examinations and advised the students to keep themselves physically fit during the examination periods.

Business Staff

There will be an important meeting of the Tar Heel business staff at 8:30 tonight in the basement of the Alumni building. All new men interested in advertising are urged to attend.

GRAHAM ELECTED TO O. D. K. AT DUKE

President Frank P. Graham was elected as an honorary member of Omicron Delta Kappa, national leadership society, Saturday. The Rho chapter of the society at Duke had charge of the initiation. Others elected were Governor O. Max Gardner and Chief Justice Walter P. Stacy.

At a luncheon after the initiation each of the new members made brief addresses. Joe Caruthers, student president of the Duke circle, presided. One of the Duke faculty members, Dr. Frank C. Brown, an officer of the national organization, also spoke.

ENGINEERS MEET IN SHORT SESSION

Mechanical Group Appoints Committees and Moves to Buy Famous Portraits.

More than forty members attended the business meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers last Tuesday evening. The business session was conducted in 206 Phillips hall, and after its conclusion refreshments were served in the mechanical engineering laboratory.

After the reading of the minutes and the treasurer's report, chairman R. C. Plummer appointed the following men to serve on the program committee for this year: R. K. Cowhig, J. S. Adams, R. I. Burnett, Aubrey Parsley, and R. C. Plummer, chairman ex officio.

Another committee was appointed to select a number of famous engineers, whose pictures are to be purchased by the chapter. The committee was instructed to prepare a short biographical sketch of each engineer chosen, to be read before the chapter previous to the purchase of the portraits. This committee included Professor E. G. Hoefler, chairman, Professor N. P. Bailey, J. Allan McLean, and D. Allen Harold. This committee will meet with Professor Hoefler in his office this afternoon at four o'clock.

Honorary Chairman E. G. Hoefler made a short talk on the awards open to A. S. M. E. student branch members this year. Professor Bailey joined him in urging that a large number of students compete for these awards.

The meeting was adjourned after discussion of minor matters.

SHORT SESSION ON SENATE'S PROGRAM

Due to the scheduling of the Mary D. Wright debate at 7:15 tonight, the meeting of the Di Senate will last only fifteen minutes, beginning promptly at 7 o'clock. Important business, including arrangements for the banquet, will be discussed, and all active members are urged by the president to be present to receive cards for the banquet. Discussion of bills will be deferred until later meetings.

Polity Forum

The polity forum for the year will be organized this evening at 9:00 o'clock in the assembly room on the second floor of Saunders Hall. All students, undergraduates and graduates, who are interested in national politics and foreign affairs are invited to attend.

LAW GROUP LAYS FOUNDATIONS FOR NEW STATE CRIMINAL CODE

University Criminal Law Professor and Some Younger Members of North Carolina Bar Cooperate on Draft to Be Submitted to 1931 or 1933 Legislature.

By Albert Coates
(Professor of Criminal Law and Procedure in the Law School of the University of North Carolina.)

The gradual development of procedural rules in criminal cases in North Carolina is recorded (1) in statutes scattered through the Session Laws from 1915 to 1929, (2) in decisions scattered through the Reports from Volume 1 in 1797 to Volume 199 now in the press, (3) in the practices of courts and officials which have not found their way into printed pages, but which reflect no less the habitual processes of the law.

From time to time digests have been made of the decisions: by Iredell in 1839, Jones in 1854, Battle in 1866, Buzbee in 1880, Walsler in 1899, Michie in 1916. From time to time compilations have been made of statutory changes, with the judicial constructions placed upon them: The Revised Statutes in 1837, the Revised Code in 1854, Battles Revisal in 1873, The Code in 1883, Pells Revisal in 1905, Jerome's Criminal Code and Digest in 1916, The Consolidated Statutes in 1918, The North Carolina Code in 1927. The decisions represent the traditional common law as it has continued into the life of our time. The statutes represent merely patch-work changes in the common law made in scattered moments to meet obvious evils as they raised their heads. No comprehensive study of these decisions, these statutes, and their relation to each other or to the unwritten practices of administrative officers, has yet been carried through. In short, no critical analysis of the theory and the practice of our criminal procedure has yet been made.

In 1848 the Field Code of Civil Procedure was completed. It furnished the basis for a complete codification and revision of civil procedure in North Carolina in 1868. In the spring of 1929 the American Law Institute completed its Model Code of Criminal Procedure. It is based upon an intensive study of the procedural systems in the different states of the union and the leading countries of the world, by a group of distinguished law teachers, judges and practitioners. It furnishes the basis for a complete codification and revision of criminal procedure in North Carolina today.

Plan of Procedure

This work has been undertaken by the teacher of Criminal Law and Procedure in the Law School of the University of North Carolina, together with a number of the younger members of the North Carolina Bar living in different parts of the state. Each lawyer is (1) studying one or more chapters of the Model Code in terms of its common law and statutory background, (2) tracing the North Carolina law bearing upon it as it has developed through our statutes and decisions from Colonial days to the present, and (3) comparing its present status in detail with the provisions of the Model Code so as to indicate the similarities and differences between them.

As the first draft of each chapter is completed it will be rotated among the lawyers who have been working on the other chapters and then rewritten in the light of the criticisms of all who are associated in the work and the greater grasp derived from a study of the Code as a whole. As each chapter is rewritten it will be circulated among the Judges and Prosecuting attorneys of the Supreme, Superior and Intermediate Courts for the invaluable criticisms and suggestions which can come from men daily engaged in the administration of

CHRISTMAS SEAL DRIVE CONTINUES

Jack Ward and Friendship Council in Charge of Sale of Seals on Campus.

The annual Christmas seal sale sponsored by the National Tuberculosis League has begun in Chapel Hill. Each year this society sells Christmas seals in order to get funds with which to combat tuberculosis. The society provides food and camps for tubercular children and in many other ways renders a great service in fighting the disease.

House-to-house canvassing started yesterday, continues today, and will finish tomorrow. Mrs. M. S. Breckenridge, Mrs. G. B. Logan, and Mrs. H. D. Carter entertained the canvassers at a luncheon on November 28. Mrs. Breckenridge, chairman of the Chapel Hill Tuberculosis Committee, spoke of the unusual demands likely to be made this year to carry on preventative health work.

Jack Ward has charge of the sale of the Christmas health seals in the fraternities. Students appointed by the freshman Friendship Council are responsible for canvassing of the dormitories.

MANY STUDENTS USE LOAN FUNDS

Dean Bradshaw Requests Early Applications for Next Quarter's Loans.

As financial depression continues to make both credit and employment difficult, the University loan funds, managed by the office of F. F. Bradshaw, dean of students, are in great demand. Many students who have borrowed to remain in college this quarter are having to continue borrowing in order to complete the year.

Other students who were able to arrange for the fall quarter without a University loan find it necessary to apply for such help as they make their plans for the winter quarter. Dean Bradshaw urges that all students who plan to request loan fund assistance for the winter and spring quarters notify his office as soon as possible.

Juniors and seniors, who will register before going home, will need to take such steps immediately since fees are collected at the time of registration as was the case this fall. Loan application may be made at any time between the hours of nine and five in 205 South.

AUSTRALIAN DEAN WILL LECTURE ON SOCIAL POLICIES

On Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock in the auditorium in Bingham hall (103) Dr. R. C. Mills, dean of the faculty of economics in the University of Sydney, Australia, will lecture on Australian economic and social resources. In particular, after a brief description of the economic resources, the people and the government of Australia, Professor Mills will examine the ideas underlying Australian social (or socialistic) policies and show how successful they have been in practice.

The North Carolina State Art Society will convene tonight at 8:00 P. M. in the Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh. An exhibit of paintings and sculpture from the Grand Central Art Galleries of New York City will be offered.

Henry House, E. C. Funderburk, and C. C. Hamlet were the only three patients confined to the infirmary yesterday.

GUSTAVE BRAUNE SUCCUMBS HERE

Dean of Engineering School Dies of Pneumonia Following Brief Illness.

Gustave M. Braune, dean of the school of engineering succumbed to an attack of pneumonia, at six o'clock last Wednesday evening. The late Mr. Braune accomplished a great deal in raising the University's engineering school to the rank of one of the most prominent in the country, and was also active in research in engineering fields.

The community was shocked by the suddenness of the Dean's demise. He had been about the village apparently healthy Saturday before his death but a cold with which he was seized Sunday developed into pneumonia and proved fatal. So quickly did the disease reach its conclusion that few of his friends and associates even knew that he was ill until they heard of his death.

Mr. Braune was born in Eutaw, Alabama, fifty-eight years ago. After his graduation from Spring Hill College, Mobile, he attended the Royal Polytechnic Institute in Dresden, Germany, and completed the course leading to the degree of civil engineer. From 1897 to 1903 he was engineer for the Southern Bridge company in Birmingham, and thereafter was for several years, connected with construction enterprises as designer and consultant. At one time he was a member of the engineering staff of the New York barge canal.

Dean Braune's first venture as a teacher was made when he joined the faculty of the University of Cincinnati in 1912. He had become head of the engineering department there when he accepted the position at the University in 1921. In the next year he was appointed dean and organized the engineering school. One of the innovations which he favored was the system whereby the students spent part of their time away from the University at work for transportation, manufacturing, construction, and power companies.

In research, his best known achievements were concerned with the determination of earth pressures on culverts. Some of his experiments were conducted in cooperation with the North Carolina highway commission. He contributed frequently to engineering journals, and for three years he was a director of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

Mr. Braune was a member of

DI-PHI MEET IN ANNUAL DEBATE

Society Teams Clash on Subject of Luxury Tax.

The Mary D. Wright debate, annual forensic clash between the Dialectic Senate and Philanthropic Assembly, will occur in Gerrard hall tonight at seven-fifteen.

The query this year is: Resolved, That the state of North Carolina should levy a luxury tax for the support of institutions of higher learning. W. E. Uzzel and H. H. Hobgood of the Assembly will support the affirmative while C. A. Shreve and McB. Fleming-Jones of the Senate will uphold the negative. Decision will be by vote of three judges from the faculty.
