Peace Parleys Continue
Japanese and Chinese negotiators continued peace parleys under the auspices of neutral observers, while along the Japanese front line to the northwest of Shanghai, Japanese soldiers worked feverishly on new trenches, barbed wire barricades, and sand-bags redoubts. Japanese political authorities yesterday stated that there was an outside possibility that the government of Premier Tsuyoshi Inukai might collapse, following the closing of the Diet, Friday.

Leaders Boost Sales Tax
House leaders yesterday used the final hours of the week-end truce on the revenue, in an attempt to turn back sentiment against the sales tax. Authorities at Washington doubt that the bill will pass.

Kidnaper Sentenced
John De Marko of Youngstown, Ohio, the second of two men indicted in connection with the kidnaping of James De Jute, Jr., of Niles, Ohio, yesterday pleaded guilty to a charge of harboring and concealing a kidnaped person. He was sentenced to one to twenty years in the state penitentiary.

than of the United States. Repeatedly during the last seven weeks Great Britain and France, whatever their intentions, have in fact put themselves in a position perilously close to tacit support of Japan.”

Looks to Public Opinion
An editorial on February 24 stated, “We can only hope that British public opinion will yet force the British government to join in the American declaration refusing to recognize any settlement imposed by force or in violation of the treaties, and to join in international economic action making such protests effective.”

“Effective League action is impossible without the full cooperation of the three great powers, America, France, and Britain. Because of her unique position in the League and in the Far East, Great Britain is the key to that international cooperation.”

“The United States government, which has compensated in part for its earlier blunders by its leadership during the last two months in support of the treaties, cannot alone preserve the treaties if the British government continues to give tacit support to the Japanese militarists.”

The Stimson Doctrine
An editorial, “The Stimson Doctrine,” the following day commented, “Again America has assumed moral leadership in world affairs. Secretary of State Stimson’s declaration of policy in defense of the peace treaties violated by Japan is an expression of high statesmanship. It throws the weight of the United States not only against the Japanese militarists, but against the imperialists and militarists of other countries.”

“... It is also a fact that if the British and French governments will follow America’s leadership in defense of the world’s peace machinery, Japan in the end will be forced to conform to those treaties.”

“... We believe all the prestige and the power of American public opinion and government is behind the Stimson doctrine. It is a decree to enforce the Kellogg Treaty outlawing war everywhere.”

“War cannot be outlawed by statements alone. But as long as the United States, the most powerful nation on earth, upholds the Stimson doctrine the nations will not lack leadership towards a warless world.”

“BEHIND THE MASK” IS OFFERING AT CAROLINA

The perpetrator of evil in “Behind the Mask,” Columbia Pictures’ production showing at the Carolina theatre today, is a suave-appearing individual with the soul of a demon. Not until the last few minutes of the film are the features of this person revealed. For the most part, he is a phantom-like, but the illusion built up by the demoniacal acts of the character are as terrifying as if he were endowed with the most horrible features.

LOCAL MERCHANTS BUY SPRING LINES OF GOODS

The approach of Easter has stirred the local merchants to renewed activity and to buying new goods that are in keeping with the season. Alfred Williams and Company has just received an entirely new stock of Easter greeting cards and they are waiting, attractively displayed, for students’ inspection. The company extends a “blanket bid” to the student body to come in and look over the greetings, and not to neglect any of your friends and acquaintances.

of Nations to settle the controversy would necessarily terminate the usefulness of the League. That organization is doing all that can be done with the extremely limited facilities at its disposal.

Regarding the settlement of the present situation the following excerpts are taken from an editorial of February 14: “Unacceptable as are the counter-proposals of Japan, in their present form, to the four-power plan for the restoration of peace in the Orient, the suggestion of the Tokio government looking toward friendly intervention by the world powers for stabilization of China has in it the elements of a practicable solution—perhaps the only solution—of the tangled troubles not only of that distracted nation, but of the whole Far Eastern problem. “... Now, as then, it is of the first importance to the welfare not only of China but of the world that help for China shall be just and untainted by any effort by any power to exploit that country’s plight for its own selfish benefit.

“... China is the sick man of Asia and China’s ills are an enduring and increasing threat to its continued existence as a nation and to the peace of the world. For their own sake as well as for that of a fellow nation in trouble, the powers cannot afford to withhold any practicable help which they can offer.”
