

PRESS PROGRAM FOR CONVENTION NOW ANNOUNCED

Well-Balanced Program Planned By State Press Association And Local Committee.

The complete program for the ninth annual newspaper institute, to take place here January 18, 19, and 20, was announced yesterday.

As in previous years, the institute will be conducted under the joint auspices of the North Carolina Press Association and the University. Duke University will share in the program.

The program that has been arranged is the result of several meetings of the executive committee of the North Carolina Press Association and a committee from the University. The program follows:

Wednesday, January 18

4:00 p. m.—Registration at Carolina Inn.

8:00 p. m.—Opening of institute—Carolina Inn ball room.

Address of welcome—Dr. F. P. Graham, president of the University.

Response—John A. Park, president N. C. P. A.

Address—"Looking Ahead in North Carolina." J. C. B. Ehringhaus, governor of North Carolina.

Musical program—Featuring North Carolina music arranged by Lamar Stringfield.

Thursday Morning

9:30 a. m.—North Carolina in pictures. Photographic display by Mrs. Bayard Wootten, Chapel Hill.

10:00 a. m.—Address—"New Sources of Revenue," Albert S. Keister, professor of economics, Woman's College of University, Greensboro.

Address—"1933 in the News," Karl Bickel, general manager United Press.

11:00 a. m.—Discussion of topics.

12:30 p. m.—Adjournment.

Thursday Afternoon

2:00 p. m.—Group meetings. Weekly group, R. E. Price, presiding.

The audit. Advertising representation.

Daily group, Hiden Ramsey, presiding.

4:30 p. m.—Adjournment at Chapel Hill to go to Duke University.

At Duke University

5:30 p. m.—Organ recital in chapel.

6:30 p. m.—Dinner at union—Guests of Duke University, Dr. W. P. Few, president of Duke University, presiding.

Music by Duke orchestra during the dinner.

Address—Louis Jaffe, editor of Virginian-Pilot, Norfolk.

Address—Dr. Frank Hickman, Duke school of religion.

Musical program—Duke glee club.

Carillon program.

Friday

9:30 a. m.—Judging of newspaper display. B. A. Lowrance in charge. (Papers to be mailed to R. M. Grumman, Chapel Hill).

10:00 a. m.—Address—"Candles in Our Windows," Dr. W. W. Ball, editor of Charleston News and Courier.

11:00 a. m.—Discussion of topics.

12:30 p. m.—Adjournment.

Seventeen Confined

The following were confined to the infirmary yesterday: W. H. Rankin, Henry C. Bridgers, Lewis Barnes, Henry Roberson, Jr., Sherwood Githens, Milton Lozowick, Raleigh Allsbrook, Edith Wladkowsky, C. G. Rawls, Hugh Primrose, W. R. Edna Coleman, Herbert Hartgrove, R. O. Ward, Herman Rogerson, W. G. Coletrane, and H. E. R. Yewens, Jr.

Yackety Yack Staff Will Gather Monday

Work on the Yackety Yack will be resumed tomorrow afternoon. All members of the staff are asked to report at the office between 2:00 and 4:00 o'clock. Assignments will be made at that time and work scheduled for the quarter. A preliminary meeting for division heads will be held tonight at 7:00 in Graham Memorial. The following men are asked to be present at this meeting: Andrews, Pitt, Drane, Steinreich, Woerner, Long, Manning, Pool, Alexander.

Much of the work on the publication was completed during last quarter. It is further hoped that the material will be practically complete by the end of the present quarter in order to assure prompt delivery of the annuals in the spring.

Many Openings Found For Trained Women

(Continued from first page)

Academic training for the girl who is going to enter business should include as the most important courses: economics, finance and accounting, psychology, statistics, and commercial law. The practice prevailing in large corporations of transferring workers within the organization rather than employing new workers has resulted in a curtailment of the demand. Consequently, such openings as develop come from small organizations which make versatility and flexibility necessary qualifications.

Wide Field of Activities

Women with a medical education find a wide range of activities open, including: general medical practice with accompanying specializations, research in the medical sciences, laboratory work, public health work, teaching and salaried positions in industrial organizations, state hospitals and other institutions. Individuals trained in the different fields of health education are required in educational institutions, in editorial rooms, and as state and city supervisors of health education in national and local organizations. The average salary for this type work is estimated at $3,000 and the demand for workers has decreased proportionately less during the present economic depression than in other fields.

The field for women in the profession of dentistry is found largely in the pre-school and school group, oral hygiene and preventive work for adults. For success in this profession, training, mechanical aptitude, and psychological balance are essential.

Religious Field

The religious field normally furnishes employment for thousands of women in over thirty types of vocation, few of which are definitely professionalized. The extent of unemployment among women religious workers is unknown. The demand is increasing due to the tendency to have fewer churches but larger ones. This means more staffs of workers in secretarial, pastoral, educational, and institutional activities.

There are innumerable opportunities for women in the uses of design. Among these are interior decoration, mural decoration, landscape architecture, illustration for books, magazine and fashion, costume design, advertising, textile design, styling, and theatre arts.

Openings in museum work include secretarial positions, curators, librarians, technicians, and journalists. For curators, a college degree, special technical training, and a broad cultural background are essential.

The number of jobs open to women in radio broadcasting is limited since there is little op-

H. W. CHASE GIVES ACADEMIC SPEECH ON TECHNOCRACY

Former President Here Says Shorter Hours, Not Changed Philosophy Needed.

President H. W. Chase, former president of the University, now president of the University of Illinois, recently expressed his views on technocracy in one of a series of articles written for the Chicago Daily Times by prominent men throughout the country.

President Chase is of the opinion that every relation of the individual to the economic order is to be a matter of prescription. He thinks that this is in opposition to philosophy that has characterized American thought about such matters.

Chase is unwilling to believe that our situation at present is so desperate as to call for a reversal of our entire philosophy of thought.

To enable all those that are at present unemployed to obtain work even if the peak of production were reached, Chase says that the hours of labor would have to be reduced. As a plan to keep from further complications in unemployment Chase suggests that the period of education be lengthened.

"The greatest need of the moment," says Chase, "is an increased sense of personal responsibility on the part of those in industry and finance beyond the question of immediate profits, and responsibility on the part of us all in the operation of the government."

Alumni Active In State Government

(Continued from first page)

E. Thomas, Anson; T. C. Bowie, Ashe; W. A. Thompson, Beaufort; J. W. Rourk, Brunswick; Julius C. Martin and William A. Sullivan, Buncombe; Luke Leary Stevens, Camden, Luther Hamilton, Carteret; G. A. Barden, Craven; H. D. Williams, Duplin, R. O. Everett and S. C. Brawley, Durham; W. W. Eagles, Edgecombe; P. C. Fronberger, Gaston; Thomas Turner, Jr., and T. C. Hoyle, Jr., Guilford; J. Robert Young, Harnett; J. H. Howell, Haywood; R. P. Bender, Jones; Robert H. Rouse, Lenoir; Harris Newman and L. Clayton Grant, New Hanover; S. M. Gattis, Orange; Julius G. Dees, Pamlico; Jack R. Edwards, Pitt; J. S. Massenburg, Polk; D. E. Scrabrough, Richmond; Walter Murphy, Rowan; Charles B. Aycock and W. Brandley Womble, Wake; and Thomas O'Berry, Wayne.

Bridge Tournament

A quartet of graduates from the dormitories defeated a quartet of the graduate club in a bridge tournament, nine to seven, at Smith building, Friday evening, 7:30 o'clock. Players for the dormitories were: M. H. Williams, T. P. Reynolds, W. T. Logan, and L. G. McNairy. Smith players were: J. D. Watson, C. S. Mangum, J. G. Hamilton, and R. M. Wallace.

Diet May Be Wet

Roy L. Wescott, superintendent of the dining halls at Harvard, has announced that light wines and beer may be served if the eighteenth amendment is repealed or modified.

Opportunity for women as announcers. However, a large number are employed to write and edit skits, direct performances, arrange programs, produce sound effects, and hold auditions in addition to those employed as musicians and dramatic artists.

CAROLINA OFFERS VARIED NUMBERS FOR WEEK'S BILL

Program Headed by "Flesh," With Beery, and "No Man of Her Own," With Gable.

The Carolina this week offers a well-balanced program headed by such hits as "Flesh," "No Man of Her Own," "The Match King." The other attractions are all excellent productions with fine casts.

The week opens with the feature play "Flesh," starring Wallace Beery, supported by Jean Hersholt and Karen Morley. Beery plays the part of a German wrestler, who rises to heights through his efforts, only to be deserted by the girl, Karen Morley.

Tuesday the Carolina offers "Fast Life," with William Haines in the role of a mechanical-inventor who develops a new engine. Cliff Edwards supports Haines in the comedy role as the assistant mechanic who is always bawling things up. Madge Evans is cast as the daughter of the boat builder who ruins himself financially trying to build craft for international races.

"The Half-Naked Truth" comes to the Carolina Wednesday with an all-star cast headed by Lupe Velez and Lee Tracy, and supported by Eugene Pallette and Frank Morgan.

Match King Thursday

Thursday the Carolina theatre offers Warren William in a strong supporting cast containing Lili Damita in the famous screen play, "The Match King" based on the recent life of Kreuger, the match heir. Warren William is portrayed in another fine role which will substantiate his claim to a fixture among Hollywood's select colony although he rose to fame like "one climbing the back stairs while news hounds slept" (to use the phrase of one dramatic writer).

The featured star in Friday's presentation is Clark Gable, who is admired by every feminine cinemadict, in "No Man of Her Own." The plot is based on the career of a big-time gambler who operates among Wall St. millionaires. Gable is torn between two loves, his wife, Carole Lombard, and another dame, Dorothy Mackaill, all causing much exciting drama.

"The Cabin in the Cotton" returns to the Carolina theatre for another run Saturday, featuring Richard Barthelmess, Bette Davis, and Dorothy Jordan. The screen play is based on the scenario work of Paul Green, member of the University faculty.

Magazine Deadline

The deadline for articles and stories for the first Carolina Magazine of the new year has been set for Tuesday afternoon, according to an announcement by Editor Robert Barnett, yesterday. The editor is desirous of obtaining a number of feature articles for this issue and urges that all members of the staff confer with him before the deadline.

Don Peden Will Remain At Ohio Next Season

Don Peden, Ohio University grid coach, announced Thursday that he would coach at that institution again next year.

There has been quite a bit of speculation as to whether or not Peden would succeed Amos Alonzo Stagg as coach at the University of Chicago; but his decision to remain at the Ohio institution has squelched all rumors. Also, Peden denied reports to the effect that he had received an offer from Michigan State College.

CALENDAR

TODAY

Museum opening—3:00. New East.

TOMORROW

Assembly—10:30. Memorial hall.

Co-eds vs. High School—4:00. High school gymnasium.

Glee club practice—5:00. Hill music hall.

Y. M. C. A. cabinets—7:00. Y. M. C. A. building.

Playmaker tryouts—4:30, 7:30. Playmakers theatre.

Freshman executive com.—8:00. 215 Graham Memorial.

Debate squad—8:30. Gerrard hall.

With The Churches

Baptist

Rev. Eugene Olive, Pastor
9:45 a. m.—Sunday school.
11:00 a. m.—Sermon, "At the Cross."
7:00 p. m.—Young people's service.
8:00 p. m.—Sermon, "The Brow of the Hill."

Chapel of the Cross

Rev. Alfred S. Lawrence, Pastor
8:00 a. m.—Holy Communion.
11:00 a. m.—Sermon, "Gifts."
8:00 p. m.—Organ recital.

Methodist

Rev. Albea Godbold, Pastor
9:45 a. m.—Special Bible classes for students.
11:00 a. m.—Sermon: "Leaving for Nowhere."
6:45 p. m.—Wesley Student Association.

Presbyterian

Rev. Ronald J. Tangblyn, Pastor
9:45 a. m.—Church school and college classes, Professor W. H. McKee, teacher.
11:00 a. m.—Morning worship. Sermon: "The Peril of Misdirected Virtues."
7:00 p. m.—Student forum.

United (Christian-Congregationalist)

Rev. C. R. Dierlamm, Pastor
9:45 a. m.—Sunday school.
11:00 a. m.—Sermon: "Continued Presence With God."
7:15 p. m.—Young people's service.

Deputation Teams To Visit Three Places

A deputation team representing the University and organized by the Y. M. C. A. will visit Fayetteville, January 19-22. The group will be led by Bill McKee, president of the Y. M. C. A., and will consist of several campus speakers and a musical arrangement.

Dunn high school has repeatedly invited the local Y. M. C. A. to send a team to their town. Last year a University group made a similar trip, and according to plans, a visit will be paid some time this month. The team will consist entirely of sophomores, and will be led by Edwin Lanier.

A deputation trip that will include a fellowship program with the Davidson College Y. M. C. A. cabinet will be conducted January 28-29. Several speakers and entertainers will go from Carolina to Davidson, and will include among its other activities of the trip the leading of the vespers services at the college chapel Sunday evening, January 29.

Committee to Meet

President Frank Rogers of the freshman class announced yesterday a meeting of the class executive committee to take place in 215 Graham Memorial Monday night at 8:00 o'clock.

BEARD RECEIVES PROOFS OF BOOK

New Book, Edited by Local Dean And Committee, Was Prepared by National Group.

Dean J. G. Beard, of the school of pharmacy, has just received from the printers the fourth edition of the National Pharmaceutical Syllabus. This volume of 200 pages sets forth in synoptical form a model curriculum of study covering a minimum four-year course in pharmacy.

Edited by Dean Beard and a committee of twenty-one members, the Syllabus is published under the joint auspices of the American Pharmaceutical Association, the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy, and the National Association of Boards of Pharmacy. Fifty teachers and state board examiners collaborated in the preparation of this fourth edition.

The subjects of study embraced in the Syllabus are outlined in synoptical form and to each is assigned the time (didactic and laboratorial) required for its effective presentation. The subjects are indicated either as required or optional courses. Subjects that are basic or cultural in nature, as physics or English, are not outlined in detail, but statements are appended indicating the character and time requirements of each such course included in the Syllabus curriculum. There is a separate section devoted to state board examinations.

The Pharmaceutical Syllabus is intended to indicate the subject matter that schools of pharmacy may profitably teach and set forth the minimum amount of time that should be spent in presenting such material to students. The Syllabus is intended also as a guide to state board examiners in that it indicates the nature and extent of professional and applied knowledge that a graduate in pharmacy may be expected to possess.

Oriental School Head To Speak On His Work

Dr. William F. Albright, director of the American School of Oriental Research in Jerusalem, will lecture at the Hill Music hall next Saturday night, January 14, at 8:30 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend. No admission will be charged.

Dr. Albright is one of the leading Palestinian archaeologists. He has spent the last four years in digging at Tell Beit Mirsim in Palestine, and has had ten years' experience in excavation in and around that famous city. His lecture here will be one of his most interesting recent discoveries.

The visit to the campus of Dr. Albright, who obtained a Ph.D. degree at Johns Hopkins University, affords interested students a chance to hear an extremely interesting lecture by one of the most qualified speakers in that scientific department.

ROOMS FOR RENT

Bedroom and study, for men, on edge of campus. Apply at office of Chapel Hill Weekly.

Chapel Hill Movie Guild

Presents

"WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND"

With

LEE TRACY
CONSTANCE CUMMINGS
WALTER CONNOLLY

Also

Comedy—Review
Doors Open at 1:30