MONOGRAM CLUB REORGANIZES AT SPECIAL MEETING

Sincere Group of NC Wearers Pledge Itself to Promote Cleaner Sportsmanship.

Voting unanimously to support sincerely and further to the best of their ability closer adherence to training rules, cleaner play on the field, higher standards of scholarship among athletes, and better examples for the student body to emulate as to conduct at sporting events, seventy-three wearers of the NC gathered last night in the reorganization meeting of the Monogram club.

The monogram men were guests of the Order of Grail at a banquet in Graham Memorial. At a strictly business meeting, after the meal, a constitution was adopted and the officers of the club were elected. John Phipps is the new president of the club, Stuart Chandler, vice-president, Vergil Weathers, secretary, Percy Idol, treasurer, and George Brandt as representative on the athletic association. Dr. Charlie Mangum and Dale Ranson were elected to serve on the advisory board as representatives from the monogram men of the faculty, and from the coaching staff respectively.

Spirit of Meeting

The theme of the meeting centered around the sincerity with which the men assembled faced the question of elevating the spirit of the University both as to athletes and student followers. Nearly every member present expressed his profound hope that the club advance from the enthusiastic beginning of last night toward placing Carolina at

STUDY OF SOCIAL REPORT WILL BE MADE BY Y. M. C. A.

After Two Weeks, Dr. Howard Odum Will Address Joint Cabinet Meeting.

A cumulative study on recent social trends as reported by President Hoover's committee on social survey has been initiated by all Y. M. C. A. cabinets. Copies of the review of findings by the research committee, of which Professor Howard Odum of the University was assistant director, have been distributed to the cabinet members for study.

The plan to be followed by the Y. M. C. A. groups will allow a two-weeks study of the report and other social research developments, at the end of which period Dr. Odum will address a joint cabinet meeting in an analysis of the situation.

Extra Copies Available

The research committee has conducted a national survey in an effort to supply a basis for the formulation of large national policies looking to the next phase of the nation's development. Dr. Odum was one of seven famous sociologists chosen to make the survey, and served as associate director of the group.

According to Harry F. Comer, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. here, a limited number of extra copies of the report are available for students not members of the cabinets, and can be obtained from the main office in the Y. M. C. A. building.

Freshman Publication Distributed Yesterday

Freshmen in English 1 and 2 yesterday received copies of the new publication issued by the English department, called Themes. The publication is expected by the department to stimulate interest in composition work among the freshmen. The first issue of Themes contains four articles. "On a Denominational Boarding School," by Lewis Puckett; "A Strange Animal," by George H. Dickinson; "On Freshmen English Themes," by William Howard Wang; and "Sick Once," by Phil Hammer, make up the contents of this issue.

PLAYMAKER TOUR PLAYS TO PACKED HOUSES IN STATE

Professor Koch Considers Tour One of Most Successful in Recent Years.

After playing to enthusiastic audiences in Greenville and Wilmington, Thursday and Friday nights respectively, the Carolina Playmakers concluded their 29th tour playing to an appreciative audience in Goldsboro, Saturday night. They returned home Sunday.

Performing to over 1,000 people in the auditorium of Eastern Carolina Teachers College in Greenville, and to packed houses in Wilmington and Goldsboro, the tour was regarded by Professor Koch as one of the most successful ever made by the Playmakers. The Playmakers, according to Professor Koch, found the audiences particularly interested in the variation of the productions from the usual type of plays presented on the tour, this being the first time that folk-plays of other than a traditional type have been presented by the Playmakers on tour. Commenting on the plays rendered by the group, the Wilmington Morning Star, in a front-page review of the productions, says: "They were offered in a manner that strengthened every drama-

Alpha Kappa Delta Entertains Faculty

The North Carolina Alpha chapter of the Alpha Kappa Delta sociology fraternity will be the hostess to the sociology faculties of the Woman's College of North Carolina and North Carolina State College tonight at a dinner in Graham Memorial at 6:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Chase Going Woodhouse, of the faculty of the North Carolina Woman's College, will preside over the meeting. The program will feature the reading of a paper, "Recent Trends in Industrial Relations in North Carolina" by Dr. Sanford Winston of the State College faculty.

DI WILL DISCUSS MOVE FOR LOW RENTAL FEES

The Dialectic senate in its regular meeting tonight will discuss two bills. The first is: Resolved: That the University should rent Graham dormitory to self-help students at cost until such time that it is needed for people who are willing to pay the regular rates. The second resolution is: Resolved: That the plan for election of editors proposed by the Buccaneer and sponsored by THE DAILY TAR HEEL should be adopted.

Members Of Faculty State Views On Proposed Plan Of Staff Elections

Majority of Men Interviewed Are Whole-Heartedly in Favor of Selection of Editor for Daily Tar Heel by Staff Members Who Are Fitted to Choose Their Leader.

In order to determine faculty opinion on the recent proposal to permit the staff of THE DAILY TAR HEEL to elect its editor, a member of the feature board interviewed several representative members of the faculty. Statements varied from hearty endorsement to distinct rejection of the suggestion, but a majority of the opinions expressed favored the change. The men interviewed were largely faculty members who have maintained a close contact with the publication.

Said Dean Hobbs, dean of the college of liberal arts: "I am in favor of the change. Without criticism of anyone or of the existing method, I think that a position of that kind demands a certain amount of technical skill, and should not be a matter for public election."

Coffman Favors Plan

Dr. George R. Coffman, head of the University English department, declared himself heartily in favor of the plan, stating that "The men best equipped to know the most capable man for the highly specialized position of the editorship are those who work on the staff with him, and can observe the extent of his initiative and ability. I am emphatically in favor of the proposed change."

Robert W. Madry, director of the University news bureau, said: "As a general rule in the past the nominee of the TAR HEEL staff has been elected. Nine times out of ten, in my opinion, the members of the TAR HEEL staff are better qualified to select the editor than is the campus at large."

Francis Bradshaw, dean of students, expressed his opinion thus: "Some years ago the associate editors of all campus publications were popularly elected. The present method of electing an editor-in-chief with power of appointment and suspension was adopted to give the editor-in-chief real power to stimulate and direct his board. When this change was made it was proposed that the editor-in-chief also be elected by the board. This was rejected on the grounds that since the TAR HEEL is financially supported by the campus and spokesman for the whole student body, its chief editorial writer should be elected as is the President of the student body, its executive representative. I am inclined to believe that there is validity in that point but can see no great objection to letting the student body try the proposed plan, if they so desire."

Carroll Suggests Compromise

The head of the school of commerce, Dean Carroll, declared himself in favor of a compromise: "I believe that the nominations should be made by the TAR HEEL staff and elections from this group of nominees by the student body."

Dr. R. D. W. Connor, head of the University history department, had this to say: "I think the election of the editor of the

SAM SELDEN TO TAKE STAR ROLE FOR PLAYMAKERS

Instructor Will Play Lead Part in "You Never Can Tell" Scheduled for Week-end.

Samuel Selden, associate and technical director of the Carolina Playmakers, takes the lead in Shaw's You Never Can Tell, which is being presented by the Playmakers Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

This is the first role he has agreed to take in a Playmaker production although he has been connected with the group for the past six years. While playing at Columbia University on a tour, one of the players was injured to an extent that he would be unable to appear in a play to be presented the next night at Yale. The following day while in the bus going to New Haven Selden memorized the lines and appeared in the production that night.

Selden has played in several of Eugene O'Neill's early plays. He was stage manager for "Desire Under the Elms," produced by the Eastern Touring company. Selden has played with the Gladys Clarke players on the professional stage and has been connected with the Taylor-Knickerbocker Stock company and the L. Verne Slout Chautauqua players. He was for a time leading man for the Manhattan players in New York.

Selden takes the role of a waiter in You Never Can Tell. Dr. Archibald Henderson has stated that this role is one of the greatest that Shaw has created. The play inspired Henderson to write his biography of the author.

LAWYERS START WORK OF SECOND SEMESTER TODAY

Joseph Suisman and Frank B. Campbell Complete Required Work For Bachelor's Degree.

The first semester of the law school came to a close last week with the completion of the final examinations at which time two law students completed their work for degrees. Registration for the new semester took place yesterday in the library of the law building, and the work for the new term begins today.

Two students, Joseph Suisman and Frank B. Campbell, completed last semester the required work for the degree of Bachelor of Law. These degrees will not be awarded, however, until the time for the regular graduation in June. Seven students of the law school have recently taken the state bar examination but the results of this test have not yet been announced.

Yesterday, January 30, was the regular time for registration for the spring term, and all students who failed to register or make the proper financial arrangements then will be required to pay an additional fee for late registration.

PHI TO DISCUSS NEED OF STAFF ELECTIONS

Two bills will be discussed tonight by the Phi Assembly. The first resolution calls for debate on the advisability of having editors of campus publications elected by the staffs. The second bill is Resolved: That the economic plan advocated by the Technocrats should be put in actual operation. The Phi will meet at 7:00 o'clock in New East.

Law Student To Read Poems At Bull's Head

Peter W. Hairston, law student in the University, will read several selections from John Masefield's Minnie Maylow's Story and Other Tales and Scenes at the weekly gathering of the Bull's Head in the Y. M. C. A. building this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. Professor T. B. Stroup of the English department will precede Hairston's readings with a short talk concerning Masefield, who is Great Britain's poet-laureate.

The Masefield program is offered in honor of a visit by the famous poet to America. Masefield is now in America.

MAGAZINE VOTES UNANIMOUSLY FOR STAFF ELECTIONS

Literary Publication in Accord With Plan Proposed by Buccaneer Staff Members.

By a unanimous vote the members of the Carolina Magazine staff in a meeting Sunday night gave their sanction to the recently proposed plan of empowering the various publication staffs with the authority to elect their own editors. This action on the part of the Magazine now leaves only the Yackety Yack as not having expressed its opinion regarding this question.

The Buccaneer came out with the proposal after a unanimous vote of the staff, and the TAR HEEL registered its approval of the plan by a three to one count.

This plan, according to a survey, seems to have received the approval of the majority of the important faculty members. The expressions of the various professors appear elsewhere in this paper.

According to the present arrangements the idea of giving the staff power to elect their own editors will be discussed at the activities committee banquet next week. After that meeting it will possibly be put definitely to a vote of the students.

Debaters Will Meet Pittsburgh Tonight

The University debaters will meet the University of Pittsburgh in Gerrard hall at 8:00 o'clock on the question: "That war debts should be cancelled." Carolina's representatives will oppose cancellation while Pittsburgh will favor it.

John Bracken, one of the debaters from Pittsburgh, is interested in politics, having received over a thousand votes in his run for Register of Deeds in the Democratic primary. Both he and Leonard Boreman, the other debater from Pittsburgh, take an active part in the discussion groups on their campus.

William R. Eddleman, a junior who is active in his literary society and on THE DAILY TAR HEEL, and R. Phillips Russell, a freshman, will represent this University in the debate.

SENIOR ENGINEERS RETURN FROM TRIP

The senior class in electrical engineering has returned to the University after an inspection trip to Charlotte and vicinity. On the tour the class visited the Riverbend plant of the Duke Power company, radio station WBT, and the Southern Bell Telephone company.

APPROPRIATIONS COMMITTEE WILL HEAR DR. GRAHAM

Tomorrow Set for Hearing Cause Of Greater University of North Carolina.

The University's postponed hearing before the joint appropriations committee of the General Assembly will take place tomorrow afternoon in Raleigh at 3:00 o'clock. President Frank P. Graham will speak for the Chapel Hill unit of the consolidated institution and will sum up the case for the three schools. Dr. J. I. Foust and Dr. E. C. Brooks, respective heads of the Greensboro and Raleigh units, will appear with Dr. Graham and speak for the divisions they represent.

A state-wide citizens' gathering will meet this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Raleigh auditorium for the purpose of discussing and presenting the educational situation of North Carolina. The North Carolina citizens' committee will convene this morning to make final preparations and propose resolutions for this afternoon's convention.

Student Attendances

University students wishing to attend the public gathering will meet in the lobby of Graham Memorial at 1:30 o'clock. Students with cars available for the trip are asked to get in touch with Mayne Albright, at Graham Memorial immediately.

The hearing will be the first for major state educational institutions of higher learning, and the most important hearing before the committee. Dr. Graham will be faced with a greater task than two years ago when he successfully waged a battle that re-

LEE AND GRUENING WILL LECTURE ON POWER QUESTION

Both of Thursday's Speakers Qualified to Discuss Problem Of National Import.

The halfway mark in the series of eight Open Forum Discussion lectures arrives this Thursday night with the appearance of W. S. Lee and Ernest Gruening on the Gerrard hall platform, discussing the power question. Both men are particularly qualified in this field, Gruening being the author of a number of books on the subject and Lee recognized nationally for his ability as president of the Duke Power company. A president and open forum leader for the fourth series have not yet been designated.

Gruening, a Journalist

Gruening, who began his brilliant journalistic career with the Boston American a short time after his graduation from Harvard, is known for his militant writing. As assistant editor of the Boston Traveler, he increased the circulation of that publication 30,000, going to greener fields as managing editor of the New York Tribune. He was managing editor of the Nation from 1920 to 1923 and last month became one of the editors of that journal.

Lee is also known as the builder of Duke University, and as the chief executive of the Duke Power company has contributed much to the power problem in North Carolina.
