

LATEST ISSUE OF 'TOPICS' CONTAINS GRAHAM'S SPEECH

Second Releases of News Sheet Sent Out Yesterday to Parents of Students Here.

The second issue for the academic year of the Tar Heel Topics, news sheet issued eight times a year from the office of F. F. Bradshaw, dean of students, was released yesterday. It will be sent to parents of University students residing in the state and prospective students and their parents.

Several prominent articles appear in the latest publication. The speech before the annual general assembly of University alumni by President Frank P. Graham was quoted in full. The views of Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, regarding the University's plight if appropriations are reduced, are also given; as are those of Owen D. Young, one of America's foremost industrialists and financiers.

Chart Shows Reduction

A comprehensive chart showing the dwindling resources provided the University through state aid appears on the front page, and gives a comparative graph of the relationship between the reduction of state appropriations and the increase in student enrollment.

Other features, including stories on the law and medical schools, comprise the remainder of the bulletin.

SECOND ISSUE OF STUDENT JOURNAL PUBLISHED HERE

New State Student Magazine Edited By Claiborn Carr Came Off Press Yesterday.

The February edition of the Student Journal of the North Carolina Federation of Students, was published here yesterday. The magazine, a monthly, is the official organ of the state organization of colleges and universities. Claiborn Carr is editor of the new publication, which is now in its second edition. The magazine was mailed to all North Carolina colleges and universities and to principal schools of America.

The magazine for this month contains articles of national scope. John Lang, former University student who is now president of the National Student Federation of America, has contributed the leading article. An article dealing with the student auditing system here explains the functions of the organization for the benefit of other North Carolina schools. Mayne Albright, director of Graham Memorial, has contributed a lengthy article discussing student unions in America.

The staff of editors assisting Carr in the publication of the Journal are Vermont Royster, Carl Thompson and Donoh Hanks.

Club to Stage Play

A short one-act play, Les Deux Sords, will be the chief attraction at the meeting of the French club at 7:30 o'clock tonight in room 213 of Graham Memorial.

The cast of characters includes: Mae Strowd, Alfred Engstrom, John Barrett and J. M. Terry.

"Y" Delegates To Leave

Six Men From University to Attend Joint Meeting in Greensboro.

Bill McKee, Ike Minor, J. D. Winslow, Tom Nesbit, John Acee and Harry F. Comer will leave this afternoon for Greensboro to attend the annual session of the joint Y. M. C. A.-Y. W. C. A. cabinet at the Y. W. C. A. hut tomorrow. McKee, president of the local "Y," is chairman of the executive committee for the conference and will have charge of the program arrangements.

Comer and McKee will meet with the executive committee tonight.

INTER-DORMITORY COUNCIL PLANS TO IMPROVE SMOKERS

Broadcasting Stations Abolished, And Movement Afoot to Stop Playing on Quadrangles.

Suggestions for more entertaining programs at the dormitory smokers were received by the inter-dormitory council at its regular meeting Wednesday night. Presidents of dormitories which have already held smokers spoke on the subject.

The council voted to abolish the amateur broadcasting stations which have been operating in several of the dormitories on the campus. The council stated that the action came as a result of complaints filed by radio owners in the dormitories.

The president of the council was authorized to draw up a plan that will prohibit students from walking or playing on the grass. The plan will shortly be submitted for approval to the student body, the dean of students, the buildings department and the ground's committee.

Noted Choirmaster To Appear At Duke

Hugh McAmis, choirmaster and organist of All-Saint's church of Great Neck, Long Island, will appear in a concert Sunday afternoon, February 5, at 4:30 o'clock at Duke University chapel. The organ recital will be preceded by the usual Sunday carillon concert by Lawrence Anger, Duke organist, at 3:45 o'clock.

McAmis is considered one of the foremost American organists. His concert will substitute for the usual Sunday organ recital by Apgar. Apgar is expected to appear here during the quarter in an exchange recital with Nelson O. Kennedy, organ instructor here.

RANKIN TALKS TO MANLY RESIDENTS AT SMOKER

Red Rankin addressed the residents of Manly dormitory at their smoker Wednesday night on "Intramural Athletics." Following Rankin's talk, Anthony Oliverio was elected athletic manager for the dormitory. Bill Parker entertained with several piano selections.

Confined to Infirmary

The following were confined to the infirmary yesterday: George Rhoades, L. L. Hutchison, F. T. Stanly, P. G. Jamison, Mary Delamar, Ralph Leach, J. E. Buchan, H. J. Ogburn, James H. Williams, Jimmy Craig, Percy Brown, Jr., C. B. Cameron, Walter Hargett, and E. D. Broadhurst.

NOTED VIOLINIST TO PLAY HERE

Fritz Kreisler, internationally famous violinist, who will present a concert at the University February 27 under the auspices of the local chapter of Phi Mu Alpha, national honorary music fraternity.

Dorm Room Becomes Chamber Of Horrors For Unsuspecting Feline

Amateur Zoologists Demonstrate Theoretical Knowledge by Dividing Kitty Into Several Parts and Frightening Janitor With Skeleton of Victim.

Heeding the advice of that great Elizabethan, Sir Francis Bacon, that before coming to a conclusion all reasoning should be based on actual experiment, three dormitory dwellers, students of zoology, sought to extend their theoretical knowledge into the uncharted field of the practical last Friday evening, by performing an autopsy on a hitherto live and mewing felis domestica. The success of the venture, aver the scalpel-wielders, was not only perfect but somewhat too much so.

The future disciples of Galen inveigled an unsuspecting householder to loan them his tabby for the ostensible purpose of riding their room of mice. Cramming the unprotesting cat into a burlap bag, the group smuggled the contraband—the building regulations say that no animals are allowed in the dormitory rooms—up to the chamber of horrors.

Disposition of Feline

The first dilemma that presented itself was the despatching of the animal. But an overdose of ether, humanely applied, took care of that exigency. Now for the first time haunting fears gripped the class in anatomy. Suppose they couldn't carry out their intentions? Suppose they couldn't dispose of the incriminating evidence? After all, they felt, it wasn't exactly the place to institute a dissecting room in a sleeping chamber that had never seen anything more bloody than a bull session.

But sleeves were rolled up, excess clothing was discarded, and the Vesalians got to work. Scalpels of all shapes and stages of effectiveness flashed under the glare of the electric light.

(Continued on last page)

Ground-Hog Does His Bit Toward Loading People With More Ills

Yesterday, (dedicated to mid-term reports, Ann Harding, the L.I.D. program and Bernard Shaw), brought with it one other item of importance. Although completely forgotten by the bulk of the student body, it was the date on which that pesky little animal, the ground-hog, had his opportunity to presage evil and more of it for a helpless humanity.

Old-timers on the campus viewed the early morning rain with distinct pleasure. The ninety-three fog cheered them even more. But the bursting sunshine of noon shattered them beyond repair.

Ground-Hog Sees Shadow

The met furtively in little groups and wailed their lamentations. There could be no further doubt about the matter. The ground-hog had crept out of his hole, blinked his eyes surprisedly, and had registered joy in the manner peculiar to ground-hogs.

(Continued on last page)

Groves' Book Printed

Chicago Press Releases Text Book for Next Year's Sociology Course.

A book, Marriage, by Dr. Earnest R. Groves, professor of sociology in the University, has just been released by the Chicago Press. This book was taken from the senior course in sociology and will be used next year in this course.

Another publication by Dr. Groves has been released, a chapter on the "History of the American Family." This appeared in the 1932 issue of the American General Sociology, yearly publication of the American National Sociology Society.

ORCHESTRA WILL PLAY UNIVERSITY STUDENT'S WORK

"Danse Moronique," by Hazelman, Will Be Presented by All-Southern Orchestra.

Danse Moronique, a musical composition by Herbert R. Hazelman, undergraduate music student, will be played by the all-Southern high school orchestra when it meets in Atlanta during March. Dr. Joseph E. Maddy, professor of music at the University of Michigan and director of the National Music Camp at Interlochen, Michigan, recently notified Hazelman that his composition had been chosen to be included on the Atlanta program.

The all-Southern high school orchestra meets once every two years in a prominent southern city and is made up of the leading high school musicians of the south. This organization is under the direction of Dr. Maddy, whose plan for the promotion of public school music has resulted in an annual summer camp of music study for young musicians and public school supervisors. The southern organization is the outgrowth of this national movement begun by Dr. Maddy for the purpose of training young musicians of the country.

Knows Hazelman's Work

Dr. Maddy is familiar with Hazelman's work through a program given at the meeting of the all-Southern orchestra in Memphis in 1931 by a woodwind quartet of which Hazelman was a member. There his Sherzo, a short piece for small ensemble, and his Suite Americana were given public hearings. Dr. Maddy requested Hazelman to send copies of these works to the National Music Camp where they were again played.

Dr. Harold S. Dyer, head of the department of music, will be in charge of the sessions at the all-Southern meet, and a group of associate faculty members and students will go to Atlanta to hear the performance of Hazelman's composition.

Linker Will Speak

Professor Robert W. Linker of the department of Romance languages will address a meeting of the Salisbury Woman's club in Salisbury, Saturday. The life and works of Maxim Gorky, eminent Russian novelist, will be treated by Professor Linker in his lecture.

Mid-Term Reports Today

Mid-term deficiencies will be posted on the bulletin boards in the registrar's office this morning.

FESTIVAL BEGINS WITH PRODUCTION OF SHAW DRAMA

Climax of Festival Will Be Graham's Expression of University's Tribute.

The Shaw-Henderson festival, which the University community is celebrating this week, began last night when the Playmakers presented Shaw's You Never Can Tell. The play was attended by a fair-sized crowd and will continue tonight and tomorrow night.

The festival is chiefly in recognition of Dr. Henderson's latest volume, Bernard Shaw: Playboy and Prophet, which represents the culmination of the twenty-nine years of literary labor Dr. Henderson has put into works about the famous Irish playwright.

Program Climax Sunday

The climax of the festival will take place Sunday night at the Playmakers theatre. President Graham will express the tribute of the University, and Percy MacKaye, celebrated poet and dramatist, will speak on "The World of the Theatre and the Drama." The principal address will then be delivered by Dr. Henderson on "Shaw as a World Power."

A number of distinguished critics and writers have been invited to the festival by Professor Koch. Many who were unable to accept sent congratulations, some of which will be read.

ALUMNI RE-ELECT TWO OFFICERS AT RALEIGH MEETING

George Watts Hill Continues as General Treasurer and Bowman Gray, Jr., Still Director.

At a board of directors meeting in the Raleigh office of the General Alumni Association Tuesday, George Watts Hill of Durham was re-elected general treasurer and Bowman Gray, Jr., was re-elected director for a three year term. The current business of the association was disposed of and the University's present situation in regard to the legislature was discussed.

In the absence of Judge John J. Parker, president of the organization, Dr. H. B. Haywood, first vice-president, presided over the meeting. Other directors present were Ray Armstrong, second vice-president, K. P. Lewis, Luther T. Hartsell, Jr., Thomas Turner, Jr., E. E. Rives, T. A. DeVane, T. J. Pearlsall, and J. Maryon Saunders, general secretary.

State College Professor Will Speak Here Sunday

Professor T. S. Johnson of State College will speak at the local Baptist church Sunday. Professor Johnson, who began his duties as professor of industries on January 1, has long been identified with the civic and religious life of Raleigh, where he has taught a men's class in the First Baptist church and served on the board of governors of the Rotary club.

For the past few weeks, since the resignation of Reverend Eugene Olive, former pastor of the Baptist church here, visiting speakers have been invited to conduct the services. This practice will be continued until a regular pastor is chosen for the church.