

MID-TERMS SHOW SHARP DECREASE IN DEFICIENCIES

Registrar's List Reveals That Number of Failing Grades Has Been Cut in Half.

Seven hundred and thirty-eight students in the University were reported with mid-term deficiencies in one or more subjects for the winter quarter, according to the statement posted in the registrar's office.

This number is 162 less than the total deficiency listing for the same quarter last year and 722 less than the total posted for last quarter. Based on the present enrollment of 2,600, the 738 deficient students represent twenty-eight per cent of the entire student body.

English Department Leads
Whereas mathematics caused the greatest number of deficiencies in the fall quarter, the English department showed the greatest number of poor grades this quarter with a total of 189, an increase of twenty. Mathematics was the next hardest subject, 146 deficient marks being reported as against 221 last quarter.

Although the French department showed a decrease of thirty-four, it was the third highest subject in the number of deficiencies with 130 warning grades. The number of failing history grades showed a sharp drop from 160 last quarter to only fifty-two this quarter. Chemistry, with 122, and Spanish, with eighty-four, were the fourth and fifth highest subjects in the number of deficiencies. Economics followed closely with eighty poor grades.

NOTED SPEAKERS TO APPEAR HERE THURSDAY NIGHT

Dr. Clarence Poe and Dr. Gordon Ward Will Discuss "Men and Land" on Forum Series.

"Men and Land," a discussion of important agricultural problems, will bring two distinguished speakers to the Open Forum platform in Gerrard hall Thursday night. Dr. Clarence Poe, the well-known editor of The Progressive Farmer, and Dr. Gordon Ward of the faculty of Virginia Polytechnic Institute will feature in this fifth lecture of the series.

Ward, who is speaking for the League for Industrial Democracy, is expected to reveal some interesting features of his vast amount of research data accumulated in ten years of investigation into farming methods in the United States. He believes that cooperative society is the only solution to the problem of achieving social justice for the 27,000,000 farm people of the nation.

Dr. Poe is well known through the south for his publication, which has a circulation in combined editions of 850,000 alone in the southern states. The program is scheduled for 8:00 o'clock as usual. The following week will bring Miss Minnifred Chappell, a member of the social service commission of the Methodist Episcopal Church, North and Mrs. W. T. Bost, Commissioner of Public Welfare in North Carolina to the platform here.

Odum And Jackson To Speak At Emory

Two members of the University faculty, Dr. Howard W. Odum, director of the institute for research in Social Science, and Dean Walter C. Jackson of the school of public administration, left yesterday for Emory University where they will deliver addresses to the combined Georgia Press Institute of Citizenship.

Dr. Odum will address the Institute Wednesday evening February 8, on "Leadership in Public Affairs," and Dean Jackson will conduct a round table discussion on Friday morning, February 9, on "The Technique of Leadership."

FAMOUS PEOPLE HONOR SHAW AND HENDERSON HERE

Tributes From Celebrities of Entire World Are Read As Festival Closes.

Dr. Archibald Henderson, whose remarkable versatility has brought him distinction as mathematician, historian, and literator, today stood acclaimed by representatives of two hemispheres, noted educators, scientists, and authorities of the drama, who joined with the University Sunday night in paying joint tribute to Bernard Shaw, the famous Irish dramatist, and his distinguished biographer, Dr. Henderson.

The celebration Sunday night, which was held in the Carolina Playmakers theatre, with a large audience attending, marked the culmination of the Shaw-Henderson festival, which was opened last Thursday evening with the presentation by the Playmakers of You Never Can Tell, one of Shaw's earliest comedies, which prompted Henderson, upon seeing it in Chicago in 1903, to begin a correspondence with Shaw that led to the latter's acceptance of the Chapel Hill professor as his authorized biographer.

Celebrate Henderson's Work
The festival was planned chiefly in celebration of Henderson's splendid achievement

DYER TO DIRECT ORATORIO SINGERS AT FAYETTEVILLE

Head of Music Department Will Begin Supervision of Rehearsals for The Holy City Tomorrow.

Professor Harold S. Dyer, head of the music school, will direct rehearsals of a group of Fayetteville musicians who will present Alfred Gaul's The Holy City at Fayetteville, Sunday, March 5. Dyer will begin his work tomorrow night and will continue to supervise the production until it is presented next month. Dyer has been chosen from a group of several music supervisors of the state.

The Holy City is one of the most popular American oratorios. Excerpts from it have been frequently adapted to secular use.

Dyer acted for several years as director for numerous choral presentations in Wisconsin and Kansas. Since coming to this state he has directed choral festivals of the state music federation. Last spring he conducted the federation festival in Charlotte and will direct a similar musicale in Raleigh this year. Dyer was recently appointed national chairman of choral festivals for the National Federation of music clubs.

Press comments are unanimous in according the Boston troupe full applause on the creation. Large audiences have attended the presentations in many of the country's finest theatres.

FIRST AID COURSE WILL BE OFFERED HERE IN SUMMER

Red Cross Will Sponsor State-Wide School in First-Aid Will Be Taught Here in August.

Through a cooperative arrangement with the American Red Cross, the University extension division and the Chapel Hill chapter of the Red Cross announced yesterday that a state-wide course for the training of first-aid instruction will be given at the University, August 21 to September 1. Colonel Joseph Hyde Pratt, president of the local Red Cross, and R. M. Grumman, director of the extension division, are responsible for the project.

The course will consist of thirty hours of instruction in first-aid and methods of teaching the subject. A special physician sent here from the national Red Cross headquarters will conduct the course.

As the institute will be conducted simultaneously with the annual coaching school, a number of athletic directors are expected to enroll. Public utilities companies, police and fire departments, hospitals, schools, and juvenile organizations, including the scouts, may send representatives.

DARST SUGGESTS TURNING TO GOD AS ONLY REMEDY

Bishop Cites Religion of Soldiers As Example of Youth of Today to Follow.

Enlistment of the cause of God was brought out as the only salvation from this period of financial depression by Bishop Thomas C. Darst, Bishop of East Carolina, speaking in the freshman and sophomore assembly yesterday.

According to Bishop Darst the fundamental cause seems to be that people had nothing very definite to which to devote their time. To illustrate his point he defined the religion of a soldier, which was given to him by an ex-soldier, and which is "The religion of a soldier is that of great cause and a great companionship." As a remedy for the evils of today Bishop Darst suggests that the youth of today enlist themselves in some cause that would lift them from themselves and eliminate selfishness.

In conclusion Bishop Darst stated that we shall see the dawning of a new day when the people return to fellowship with God.

CHAPEL SERVICES TO BEGIN TODAY

Voluntary devotional services will be inaugurated this morning at 10:30 o'clock in Memorial hall with Bill McKee conducting the short scriptural reading and prayer. Similar ten-minute programs will be given every morning except those on which freshmen and sophomore assemblies take place.

Walter Patterson, University organist, will render two meditative musical selections, one at the beginning and the other at the close of the program. No account will be taken of attendance and no announcements will be in order. Everyone is invited to attend.

The services will be conducted by members of the Y. M. C. A. cabinets. Lawrence Fountain and Ike Minor will read the passages on Wednesday and Thursday, respectively.

Hugh McAmis Visits Department Of Music

Hugh McAmis, organist and choirmaster of All-Saint's Church of Great Neck, Long Island, who presented a concert Sunday afternoon at Duke University, visited the University department of music yesterday.

As a guest of Professor Nelson O. Kennedy, local instructor in organ, McAmis inspected the organ installed in Hill Music hall and played several selections for a small group of music students. He is considered one of the foremost organists in the eastern United States and is now visiting a number of organ locations in the east while on vacation.

YEAR BOOK STAFF CASTS VOTE FOR STAFF ELECTIONS

Staff of Yackety-Yack Votes to Elect Editor Under Plan Submitted by Other Staffs.

The members of the Yackety Yack staff met yesterday afternoon and by a vote of 11 to 3 favored the election of its editor by a staff vote. The decision was made after a long discussion of the merits of the new plan.

The first proposal to be passed was that the staff was against the old method of election by the student body. Following this negative action, the group was in a dead-lock for some time regarding the advisability of offering a recommendation differing in some respects from that ratified by the other three publications. It was finally decided, however, that, all-in-all, the plan already proposed by the other staffs was best suited to the selection of the best man for office.

All Staffs Agree

Now that all the publications have expressed approval and substantiated the merits of the staff-election plan it will be brought up for discussion tonight at a meeting of the campus activities committee, and then submitted to the student council for official sanction before being placed to a campus vote.

Fifty-One Books To Be Sold At Bull's Head

Fifty-one books, formerly in the rental library, will go to the highest bidders at an auction sale in the Bull's Head bookshop tomorrow morning during chapel period. These books have been paid for themselves in the rental library and are being sold in order to provide funds for newer books to replace them. Mayne Albright will be the auctioneer.

Among those to be placed on the block are Obscure Destinies by Willa Cather, The Sheltered Life by Ellen Glasgow, Grand Passage by Vicki Baum, Westward by Margaret Ayer Barnes, Red-headed Woman by Katherine Brush, The Phantom by George Worts, and Mourning Becomes Electra by Eugene O'Neill.

Green Signed by Fox

Paul Green, University professor who is now in Hollywood, has been signed by Fox to write a rural story for Will Rogers. The company made the decision after the success of Rogers' "State Fair," adapted from the novel by Phil Stong.

FIGHT LOOMS AS HOUSE TAKES UP BUDGET SLASHES

Friends of Greater University Prepare to Wage Stern Fight If Cuts Are Proposed.

Friends of the Greater University of North Carolina, which now embraces the State College at Raleigh and the Woman's College at Greensboro, are making a big fight to increase the appropriations for the University, asserting that, if the budget bureau's recommendation for funds for the Greater University for the next two years is allowed to stand, the institution will be reduced more or less to the status of a prep school.

Whether to raise or lower the figure recommended is the big question now at issue. Members of the committee, however, seem to be of the opinion that the University's appropriations should be kept within the figure recommended by the budget bureau. Another floor fight may result if such a recommendation is made.

Study Being Conducted

Sub-committees of the joint appropriations committee are now engaged in studying State-supported teacher's college and Negro colleges with a view of "co-ordinating" the work. This "co-ordination" may mean consolidation, a rather popular word in this Legislature.

It is the belief of many legislators that the state can operate the schools at a minimum of $16,500,000, but the school people are represented as believing that it will take at least eighteen million dollars to do this.

DI AND PHI WILL ARGUE ELECTIONS AT JOINT SESSION

Senate and Assembly Will Debate Elections of Editors By Staffs Tonight.

The Di Senate and the Phi Assembly will meet in joint session at 7:00 o'clock this evening in the Di Senate hall in New West. This will be the first session which the two societies have held together since the spring quarter of 1932.

The committee appointed by President McKee of the Di to propose bills for discussion has placed the following resolutions on the calendar for the meeting:

Resolved: That the Dialectic Senate and the Philanthropic Assembly in joint session assembled on this February 7, 1933, go on record as favoring the proposal to vest the election of the editors of the DAILY TAR HEEL, the Carolina Magazine, the Buccaneer, and the Yackety Yack with the staffs of the respective publications.

Resolved: That the General Assembly of North Carolina now in session should by statute withdraw from students in the various state-supported schools of education the privilege of signing the free-tuition note, such statute to become effective at the beginning of the 1933-34 school year.

Resolved: That a general cooperative store should be organized by the students and faculty of the University for the purpose of securing at the lowest possible prices such merchandise as they may desire.
