PRELIMINARIES IN DRAMA CONTESTS CONTINUE TODAY

Kings Mountain, Winston, Murphy, and Lenoir Will Present Plays This Morning.

The program of the Tenth Dramatic Festival progresses with completion of the Little Theatre and Community organizations finals last night. High school preliminaries will be run off in Memorial hall this morning and contests will continue throughout the day.

Four high schools will compete today. At 9:00 o'clock tonight the winner will meet Southern Pines, which won Wednesday in the eastern division with Kelly's Flattering Word. Schools to play this morning are R. J. Reynolds of Winston, King's Mountain, Murphy and Lenoir, to decide the western high school division representative.

Professor F. H. Koch will talk on "Art and Agriculture" at 10:30 o'clock this morning in the Playmakers theatre. Other speakers will be Mrs. Loretta Carroll Bailey, speaking on the subject "Judging Original Plays," and Professor Samuel Selden on "Suggestive Scenery." At 12:00 o'clock a make-up contest will be conducted by A. T. West of Duke University.

James A. McLean, founder and director of the Southern School of Creative Arts in Raleigh, will lecture on "Composition and Color in Stage Scenery."

Negro players from the St. Augustine College in Raleigh will present a guest performance of Ridgely Torrence's Granny Maumee, under the direction of Julia B. Delany. Last year this group won enthusiastic favor with a drama from Les Miserables.

Phi Delta Theta announces the pledging of Steve Garrison of Burlington.

Simmons Offered Valuable Award

Robert L. Simmons, Jr., of Chapel Hill, a senior and honor student in the physical chemistry department of the University, has been awarded a valuable fellowship at the California Institute of Technology, at Pasadena.

Simmons holds the Ledoux fellowship in chemistry here at the University, and has published in the Elisha Mitchell Journal and the Journal of Physical Chemistry articles dealing with the research carried on under the terms of this fellowship. Simmons expects to continue his work in physical chemistry at the California institution.

PARTIAL PLANS ARE ANNOUNCED FOR SENIOR WEEK

Program to Start With Smoker And End With Dance Saturday Night.

Plans for Senior Week, which were announced yesterday by Lindy Cate, senior class president, include a week of varied entertainment, beginning Monday, April 8, and closing with the final dance of the Junior-Senior series under Bert Lown's music on the following Saturday.

A smoker in Swain hall at 9:00 o'clock Monday night will start the week's program. Following, on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday nights short vespers meetings will be conducted under the Davie poplar at 7:00 o'clock each evening. Prominent alumni have been secured to speak at these gatherings. On Friday the first of the Junior-Senior dances will be given in the Tin Can from 9:00 o'clock to 1:00 o'clock with Bert Lown's famous dance band furnishing the music. A tea dance Saturday afternoon, followed by the final dance of the series that evening from 9:00 o'clock until 12:00 o'clock will bring the Senior Week schedule to a conclusion.

The date for the free show, which is the custom for Manager E. Carrington Smith to give to the graduating class, has not been definitely decided upon yet. Arrangements are also being made with local merchants for the usual free drinks, shoe shines, and other courtesies usually extended.

MILLER LECTURE PUT OFF FOR DRAMA MEET

No assembly will take place this morning because of a conflict with the high school dramatic preliminaries in Memorial hall, it was announced yesterday afternoon by the Dean of Students. Julian S. Miller, associate editor of the Charlotte Observer who was scheduled to appear today, will be presented here April 10.

Miller's appearance has been twice postponed. He was unable to appear here last Monday as scheduled.

Murchison Speaks

Dr. Murchison was speaker for the evening at the economics seminar Wednesday night. His subject for discussion was: "Does the present economic situation justify inflation?" Inflation is highly desirable if undertaken with the proper machinery, stated Dr. Murchison.

Students Double Use Of Graham Memorial Union During Past Year

Figures Released by Director of Union Reveal That 15,000 Students Patronize Building Each Month as Compared With Average of 6,400 Last Year.

Use of Graham Memorial during the past year has been more than double the year of its opening in November, 1932, according to figures released yesterday by Mayne Albright, director of the student union building. The figures are based on the average of the first three months in 1932 as compared with an equal period in 1933.

The average for one month in 1932 was as follows: fifty-one meetings, four banquets, and two smokers, with eleven different organizations using the building more or less regularly. This year the average for each month has increased to seventy-four meetings, four smokers, and the number of different organizations using the building has increased to twenty-two.

The figures do not include meetings of various publications and of student government which have offices in the building. There have been fewer banquets during the winter quarter, 1933, than during the previous year, but the increased popularity of luncheons has more than made up the difference. There have been at least six each month, and many organizations have been glad to take advantage of a hitherto unused hour in the day for short discussions and business meetings.

Among those organizations which hold weekly or semi-weekly meetings in the Union are the debate squad, the Grail, Interfraternity Council, Dormitory Council, University dance committee, Socialist club, Lutheran students, French and Spanish clubs, informal English classes, a dancing class, and the Student Welfare committee.

The game room has shown an even greater increase in patronage than that of the activities' rooms. New games and improved facilities have brought in an average of 15,000 students and visitors each month as compared with 6,400 of the year before. These figures, obtained from the receipt numbers issued from the manager's counter in the game room are fairly accurate, the only estimate being in regard to the use of the free games. In addition to this increase, the bowling alleys have proved immensely popular. They have been in use practically every minute of the ten hours a day they are open, and since their installation in November have been used for over 20,000 games.

This increased patronage has brought in greater revenues to the Union, but the expenses of running a Union of this type make necessary the support of student fees. During February of this year the total income

Women Continue To Enlarge Influence In University Life

After Being Kept Out of University by Faculty Ban, Women Now Serve on Board of Trustees of Greater University And Play Prominent Part on Campus.

This is still a man's University. But the inroads of the feminine brigade, both as students and faculty members, point to the fact that a former stronghold of masculinity will abdicate entirely in the near future. The feminine touch, long absent, is apparent, even on the board of trustees. Since the consolidation act, women are now numbered among the trustees of the Greater University, trustees of N. C. C. W. as well as those of State combining with trustees for the University to form a board for the Greater University.

Women Banned Until 1927

For a long time the idea of adding women to the faculty was anathema to the trustees. All attempts to add them to the teaching staff were blocked. But opinion veered around to a more rational outlook on the matter—woman also had her place in the educational curriculum, and in 1927 Miss Sallie B. Marks was added to the teaching staff of the school of education—the first to scale the barrier which prevented a member of her sex from teaching.

Miss Marks conducts courses designed to prepare the future teacher to enter the field of elementary education. It is her hope to turn out well-rounded graduates, and she advises them to enter wholeheartedly into extra-curricular activities—the Playmakers, athletics, and publications.

Several in Library Science In 1931, Dr. Susan Grey Akers came to the University, taking a position on the staff of the school of library science. She is now acting-director of that school. Among her colleagues are the Misses Nora Beust, and Lucille Kelling, assistant professors of library administration. It is apparent in the instance of the library school as in other cases of woman faculty members that they teach, as a rule, members of their own sex. All of Miss Marks' students are young women as are most of those registered in the school of library science.

Extension Claims Many

The extension department also numbers on its staff women. Miss Cecilia H. Bason, the first woman member of that staff, came to the University at the same time as did Miss Marks, the former, however, entering the extension division. Among the number of student and research assistants there are again members of the feminine contingent.

Not directly connected with the University, but yet an intimate part of research work here is the institute for research in social science which has on its staff three women: Dr. Katharine Jocher, assistant director; and the Misses Harriet L. Herrington, and Julia C. Spruill, research assistants. Mrs. Gladys Angel Beard is also a member of the faculty as director of physical education for women and assistant professor of health and physical education in extension training.

Country Life Group Will Meet In Raleigh

Sessions of the Country Life conference scheduled to meet here April 21 and 22 have been postponed and merged with the Farm Life Institute which will take place at State College the latter part of July.

The conference as originally planned was for the eight counties nearest Chapel Hill, which will include Orange, Durham, Chatham, Alamance, Caswell, Wake, Randolph, and Person. The primary purpose was to broaden the interest and activities of the country church and to form a more active link between the country church and the school.

MANY SCHOOLS COMPETE TODAY IN FIRST TRIALS

High School Debaters Winning Tonight Will Debate Here April 13 and 14.

Two hundred and fifteen state high schools will engage today and tonight in the twenty-first annual debating contest sponsored by the high school debating union of North Carolina. Each school will have two teams in the participation. The school winning both debates will send their teams to Chapel Hill, April 13 and 14, to compete for the Aycock memorial cup.

The query which will be discussed is: Resolved: That North Carolina should adopt the sales tax as a feature of its state system of revenue. The final competition here will be one of the features of the annual high school week in Chapel Hill.

The high school debating union was inaugurated twenty years ago by the Di and Phi societies and the University extension division. Acting Dean N. W. Walker of the school of education is in charge of the competition this year and E. R. Rankin of the extension division is secretary and general supervisor.

Curry high school of Greensboro represented by Katherine Keister and Nash Herndon won the debate finals last year.

MEMBERS OF PUBLICATION STAFF RECEIVE REWARDS

Vergil Lee, Bernard Perry, Pat Gaskins, Donald Becker, and Lonnie Dill were yesterday awarded guest tickets to the Carolina theatre through the courtesy of the management. These tickets are presented for outstanding work on the publication for the past two weeks.

Tau Beta Pi Meeting

There will be a supper for the Tau Beta Pi engineering society tonight at 6:30 o'clock in 214 Graham Memorial. Regular spring election of officers for next year will be conducted.

Carolina Magazine

In view of the fact that no official notice was published of the meeting of the Carolina Magazine staff to conduct official nominations to editorship for the coming year, a new election was called by Editor Robert W. Barnett late last night. This meeting will take place in the office of the publication at 3:00 o'clock this afternoon.

TAR HEEL STAFF CASTS ITS VOTE FOR SHOEMAKER

Members of Daily Paper Nominates Chairman of Editorial Board for Editor.

Yesterday afternoon the staff of the DAILY TAR HEEL voted its preference for the forthcoming editor of the TAR HEEL by voting 30 to 16 in favor of Don Shoemaker, chairman of editorial board over Claiborn Carr, sports writer for the past year.

After the floor was thrown open to nominations for the editorship, Claiborn Carr was nominated, with the man making the nomination elaborating on the merits of his candidate.

Don Shoemaker was next nominated, followed by a short talk by the nominator giving Shoemaker's various campus activities and his qualifications for the position.

After the nominations had been closed, the editor then requested the two candidates to appoint four members of the staff to count the ballots, each nominee appointing two men. Ballots were then passed around, and the staff members cast their votes unsigned. These were taken up by the four appointed counters, who took them along with the proxy votes into another room to count.

With the announcement of the final result of the vote, after a short discussion the meeting adjourned.

The staff nomination, although not barring others from being made from the floor on the day of campus nominations which are to take place Monday, April 3, is usually recognized as being the official nomination.

Suggestions were also made for the annual staff banquet, Thursday, April 13, being set as a temporary date, and a committee composed of E. C. Daniel, Bob Woerner, and Carl Thompson being appointed to prepare the program.

ENGINEERS WILL MEET IN DURHAM

University Juniors and Seniors In Engineering Will Convene at Duke.

The junior and senior classes of the electrical engineering school will attend the annual spring meeting of the North Carolina section of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers which will take place at Duke University Friday, April 7.

An especially entertaining and beneficial program has been arranged. Dr. William P. Few, president of Duke University, will open the meeting with an address of welcome at 2:00 o'clock. Dr. J. Lester Woodbridge, chief engineer of the Electrical Storage Battery company will give a talk, illustrated with lantern slides, on "Operation of Storage Batteries." Following this, C. M. Schoonover, chief load dispatcher of the Duke power company, will discuss "The Load Dispatching System of the Duke Power Company."

The afternoon program will feature an address by W. S. Lee, president of the American Engineering Council, on "The Engineer's Relation to the Public."
