

CAROLINA BILLS 'CAVALCADE' FOR TWO DAYS' RUN

Frank Lloyd Directs Screen Version of Noel Coward's Play Showing at Theatre.

Besides being acclaimed as one of the most sensational of recent movie successes, "Cavalcade," beginning a two days' run at the Carolina theatre tomorrow, required a director of varied experience and talent. Such a man was Frank Lloyd who served in directorial capacity for Fox's version of Noel Coward's internationally famous play.

Lloyd began planning his work on the production six months before the actual shooting, and then his troubles had just commenced. He had to direct 25,000 extras as well as having charge of art direction, dialogue, sound recording, settings, and trick photography.

In spite of all his difficulties, critics have acclaimed his work and that of the cast, which goes far to put the screen version on a par with "Cavalcade" as a stage success.

Diana Wynyard and Clive Brook head the cast in the production.

Other Attractions

Other presentations at the Carolina this week include: "Ex-Lady," starring Bette Davis, Wednesday; "Zoo in Budapest," Thursday; "Sweepings," with Lionel Barrymore in the lead role, Friday; and "Blondie Johnson" with Joan Blondell as the featured player, Saturday.

World Affairs

By Vergil J. Lee, Jr.

Roosevelt and MacDonald

One of the most important events of the last few months was signalized this week in the joint statement issued by Premier MacDonald and President Roosevelt. The significance of the following statements cannot be minimized: (1) "The necessity for an increase in the general level of commodity prices was recognized as primary and fundamental," (2) "We must, when circumstances permit, re-establish an international monetary standard . . ." (3) the question of silver was discussed and proposals were tentatively suggested for the improvement of its status."

Japs and Chinks

The operations of the Japanese in North China this week which had begun to reach a monotonous level of "bombings by Japanese planes" and "retreats on the part of their opponents," manifested a surprising reversal of policy. Competent press reports state that the Nipponese forces are in hasty retreat. The reasons given are several, the most credible being that a strained feeling is being created between Japan and Russia because of the seizure of much of the rolling stock of the Chinese Eastern Railway by the former power. This railway, which is the main trunk line of Manchukuo—connecting Harbin and important points in western Chosen (Korea) with the Trans-Siberian route—has been definitely under Russian control for the past two years. Another reason offered by observers is that the approaching conference on world problems to be held by President Roosevelt soon and to which Japan will send delegates was the cause of this general withdrawal of troops from Chinese territory.

Another Hearst

That Alfred Hugenburg, the German Hearst, is to be expelled from his post of Minister of Economics and Agriculture in the Nazi cabinet seems increasingly likely. Owner of a vast chain of dailies, weeklies, and other periodicals—leader of the German Nationalist party—representative of the "Junkers," business interests and East Prussian landed gentry—Hugenburg has never been in sympathy with Hitler's labor program. The National Socialist party, originally a pure workman's nationalistic organization, has been forced to seek the aid of German business men for financial support, and in so doing has had to sacrifice—at least temporarily—its original radical party planks. However, now that Hitler is strongly seated "in the saddle," it appears that a return to the earlier ideals will be the objective in view. Hugenburg will only be the first to go.

Trade Stagnation

The Russo-British trade war seems to be proceeding at a lively rate, or the situation better stated would be that activity along trade lines between the two countries has almost entirely ceased. Embargoes which halt a goods-traffic amounting to a hundred million dollars a year are now in effect. It will be interesting to see, in the face of pressing trade needs of both countries, just how long this condition will last. Britain will undoubtedly suffer most from this "war," since a considerable fraction of her exports usually are directed to Russia. This situation offers an almost amusing contrast when one places it beside the usual procedure. More often the forceful imprisonment of subjects of one country by another would lative division of the Institute of Government.

The letter emphasized the view that "the national government has been coming continually closer home to North Carolinians in recent years. Developments within the last few months indicate an even closer relationship between city, county, state, and federal legislators.

"North Carolina this year has the distinction of inaugurating the practice of joint annual conferences between the legislative representatives of city, county, state, and federal governmental units in which they are jointly interested."

Pointing out that in the past legislatures in this state and throughout the country have confined their efforts to getting laws on the books, the Graham-Harris statement says that "this year the legislators' division of the Institute of Government will inaugurate the practice of interpreting the enactments of each session of the General Assembly to all governmental units, to all groups of city, county, and state officials, and to the principal groups of private citizens affected thereby."

With this in view, a complete and detailed analysis of legislation passed by the present legislature is now being made by the legislators' division of the Institute in preparation for the June meeting.

It is felt that this practice should go a long way toward promoting accuracy, understanding, and efficiency in the administration of the laws.

"We respectfully invite and urge all groups of city, county, and state officials to attend and participate in the launching of these significant and constructive governmental ventures," the Graham-Harris letter concludes.

Albert Coates, director of the Institute of Government, has announced that the June sessions will open Thursday evening, June 1, and continue through Friday and Saturday, June 2 and 3.

be used as an excuse for war actually engendered by economic conflicts; in this case the imprisonment is a real cause, but it evokes only an economic war.

businesslike and attractive Ali Baba. Cameron Murchison made Cassim, the greedy, jealous brother that the original tale had him. Koja Hassan, acted by Melville Jordon, was vigorously interpreted. Except for a slight halting and an occasional repetition of phrasing, his delivery of his lines was good. Julia Booker made Zuleika a beautiful young Arabian social climber. This was the characterization that Davis had read into the original Zuleika of the story, and although of all the characters this was the only one that really rang false, it was no fault of the young actresses. Jane Knight as the captivating and clever Morgiana acquitted herself very nicely.

The audience was, perhaps, most delighted by the dances designed and directed by Mrs. Barr and performed by Misses Bradshaw, Wright, and Hogan. The applause brought the little dancers back for a second time. Jane Knight's sword dance was charmingly graceful.

HOLMES TO READ FAMOUS PLAY OF EDMOND ROSTAND

Faculty Member, Assisted by Wife, Will Present "Cyrano de Bergerac" at 8:30 Tonight.

Dr. Urban T. Holmes, assisted by Mrs. Holmes, will present a dramatic reading of Edmond Rostand's Cyrano de Bergerac in the Playmaker theatre at 8:30 o'clock tonight as the regular monthly reading of the Playmakers.

The play is the most celebrated of Edmond Rostand's works, being written especially for probably the greatest French actor of modern times, Coquelin the Elder. Since its original production at the Port Saint Martin theatre of Paris, in 1897, Cyrano de Bergerac has been consistently popular.

In the reading Dr. Holmes will take the role of Cyrano, and Mrs. Holmes the part of Roxane. Both Dr. and Mrs. Holmes have been enthusiastically received in former readings on the Playmaker program.

TWENTY SCOUT GROUPS GUESTS OF UNIVERSITY

Twenty Boy Scout patrols from various parts of the state were guests of the University yesterday and Friday at a camporee in conjunction with the Dogwood Festival.

This camporee, sponsored by the Eagle Scout Club and the local chapter of the Alpha Phi Omega scout fraternity, was effected "to help troops develop safe and consistent outdoor programs that will make the troop a permanent factor in community character-training and citizenship building."

Each troop was graded upon its scout craft: the efficiency of its members in knot tying, signaling, camp-making, map-making, and other arts. However, this was not a championship contest. Each patrol making 800 out of a possible 1,000 points was rated a "standard scouting patrol."

Troops from the following cities and towns attended the camporee: High Point, Salisbury, Fort Bragg, Sanford, East Spencer, Durham, Broadway, Carrboro, Raleigh, Henderson, Greensboro, Oxford, Reidsville, Wake Forest, and Chapel Hill.
