OFFICIALS EXPECT MANY DELEGATES AT MEETING HERE

Barnes Sends Request Asking Student Body Presidents To Attend Congress.

Harper Barnes has sent out a personal request to the new presidents of the student bodies of the colleges in the state asking them to be present at the fourth Annual Congress of the North Carolina Federation of Students, which gathers here Friday and Saturday.

Plans for the congress are nearing completion. Haywood Weeks, president of the Federation has prepared the Agenda sheets for the discussion groups.

Many Expected

Letters have been received from many colleges in the state saying that they intend to have from one to five delegates present. Some of these delegates will be official, while some will come unofficially but for the purpose of gleaning information from the discussion groups.

The University will have official delegates which were chosen and announced by President Barnes yesterday. Besides these delegates there will be many students who will be interested in the work of the congress and who may attend any of the meetings.

A nominal registration fee of four dollars will be charged each delegate. This sum will include lunch and dinner Friday and Saturday, and rooms for the two nights. Although this sum may not cover the entire expenses, it is hoped that by keeping the cost down, more schools will be able to send representatives.

At a business session meeting of the Y. W.-Y. M. C. A. conference at Duke, April 29, a joint Y. W.-Y. M. C. A. state cabinet was formed. This is the first cabinet of its kind in the country, and will be composed of the presidents of the student Y associations in the state and two other representatives selected by the Y.

The cabinet will meet at least three times a year, and one of its major projects will be the sponsoring of a state Y. W.-Y. M. C. A. conference each year.

The president of the cabinet for next year will be Rosanelle Cash of Duke; the vice-president, Duck Powell of Davidson; the secretary, Edith Marslander of Eastern Carolina Teacher's College; and the treasurer, Robert Kendall of Elon.

The chairman of the women will be Sarah Boger of the Woman's College of the University and the secretary, Marjorie King of Duke. The chairman of the men will be W. M. Thompson of Davidson and the secretary, Van Shuping of State.

Reminding Seniors Of Urgent Meeting

— AN EDITORIAL —

There is to be a meeting of the present senior class tonight at 8:30 o'clock in Gerrard hall for the purpose of considering the action of the junior class, taken at their meeting Monday. Every member of the class should make it his duty to attend the meeting in order to insure proper protection for his interests.

The juniors took a bold step forward as they passed, almost unanimously, the following three motions: that no contract could be entered into by the class without the sanction of the class; that the junior class break the Lown contract of $1,100, thereby defeating the suggestion that the class members be taxed further; that the junior class spend not more than $300 as its share in half the cost of another orchestra, to be obtained for the dances.

On receipt of the action of the juniors, some of the executives of the senior class argued that the third year men would have to stand by their half of the contract should the seniors decide to go through with it as it now stands. After an investigation yesterday it has been found that Lown has no legal case against either of the classes nor any individual member of either body. It has also been found that the junior class is not required in any way to uphold their part of the contract should the seniors decide to maintain it.

These same senior class executives are determined to get the senior class to uphold the contract tonight and to take on themselves any extra tax that would be necessary to bring the class the $800 needed to fulfill their share of half the expenses of the dance.

The situation is going to be presented in this manner tonight and in order to get the real sentiment of the class every member must attend. The individual interests of every member will be questioned and if every member is not present, action taken may offend those absent.

Jinxes And Omens Constitute Many Playmaker Superstitions

COUNCIL JUDGES BAD CHECK CASE

Suspended Sentence Imposed on University Student for Offense.

Only one case was brought up before the weekly meeting of the student council last Monday night and that one concerned the passing of a number of bad checks by a student of the University. Testimony and evidence was offered to the effect that the defendant had not only passed the bad checks but had also been negligent in the matter of taking them up and responding to warning notices. Since the defendant had been before the council during the fall quarter on a similar charge, the council imposed a suspended sentence. If the offender passes any more bad checks or if the existing bad checks are not made good before noon, Monday, May 8, he will be suspended from the University for the remainder of the spring quarter.

President Announces New Council Officers

Harper Barnes, president of the student body, announced yesterday the results of the student council elections Monday night. Benton Bray of Siler City, senior representative on the student council last year, was elected carry-over representative on the present council. This is in accordance with the custom of electing one member of the preceding council to serve on the new council.

John T. O'Neil of Henderson was elected secretary of the council. Before the elections, president Barnes gave a short talk, the main point of which was that the new secretary would have to carry out faithfully the duties assigned to him and not let them slide over as has been a custom in the past.

Bids on Sale

Bids for the co-ed dance Friday will be on sale this afternoon from 2:00 until 5:00 in the women's reception room in Graham Memorial. Bids will be 50 cents each.

Odd Characteristics of Carolina Troupe Include Well-Known Rabbit's Foot Omen.

Superstitious? You bet those Carolina Playmakers are superstitious! Why, when they presented Davy Crockett on a tour they all clasped hands just before each performance. And if you know what's good for you, you had better not whistle on that stage; Marion Tatum says they shy away from that.

Incidentally, Miss Tatum finds it necessary to wear someone else's clothes when she's acting. She claims that, in her own clothing, she feels too much like herself instead of like the character of a play. Further, she doesn't like to speak the first line of a production, nor does she like animals on the stage, especially cows. Not that she ever acted with a cow, but she just doesn't like bovines.

Director Sam Selden reports that superstitions are rather prevalent among the many small acting companies throughout the country, but not so much so in stable concerns like the larger theatres. Although he himself knew of practically none that were entertained by Playmakers themselves, it was discovered on investigation that some of the Tar Heel actors and actresses did have their own personal jinxes and good omens.

What! No Jinx?

Eugenia Rawls (from south Gahgiah) looks only for good omens; she confesses that she has a rabbit's foot.

Jo Orendorff has to be frightened to act well. Besides that, her make-up must be just so. And besides that, she must pin something in a secret place, be it either a remembrance from someone, or thirteen cents, so that she will have inspiration, something to act to.

Selden didn't say he believed all the weird stories he knew, but he did admit he was fired once from a group of actors, apparently because he had an old camel-back trunk, and camel-back trunks are jinxes that actors want to steer clear of.

If you want good luck, don't

BUREAU REPORTS MEN INTERVIEWED ABOUT VOCATIONS

Report of Bureau of Vocational Information Made by Acting Director Schnell.

The annual report of the Bureau of Vocational Information issued yesterday by Herman Schnell, present acting director, revealed that seventy-five University students have been interviewed and given information regarding the selection of vocations. No men have been placed in positions through the bureau as yet this year.

A similar report issued last year showed that 100 men had been interviewed for that period and that ten men had been placed. It is expected, however, that a number of placements will be made during the remainder of the present term.

The work of the bureau is carried on in the offices of Dean F. F. Bradshaw, who is the official director. Henry Johnson, Jr., formerly held Schnell's position.

The bureau aims to assist the student in making the necessary adjustment between education and work after graduation and to help his selection by supplying him with a broad knowledge of openings and their demands that will serve as a background for an intelligent choice. Each year representatives of various firms visit the acting director and endeavor to contact students with the most promising ability. This service of the bureau has been extremely successful.

Figures for past years show that during the year 1929-30 firms numbering sixteen sent representatives to the University.

Will Decide Between Extra Assessment and Breaking Contract With Bert Lown.

CALL MEETING FOR 8:30

Under State Law Concerning Minors, Contract Thought Not to Be Binding.

In view of the action taken by the juniors Monday night, when the third-year class rejected the proposed extra charge for junior-senior dance bids and moved to break Bert Lown's contract, the senior class will meet tonight at 8:30 o'clock in Gerrard hall to decide whether an extra charge will be placed on senior class members to make up the dance expense deficit or whether the group will accept no further charge and break the agreement with Lown.

Arlindo Cate, president of the senior class, yesterday expressed confidence that the members of the group were interested enough in having the dances to levy upon themselves any extra charges necessary to make up their share of the expenses.

The question of an extra charge for dance bids came up because of a deficit in the senior class treasury, and the executive committees of the two classes, meeting in joint session Thursday night, agreed on an extra charge of 50 cents for the bids.

Juniors Object

The extra assessment was objected to by the juniors because it was to be levied on both classes, although there was a surplus in the treasury of the third-year group.

The committees recommended that the 50 cents be charged
