JUNIOR PROM TO OPEN ANNUAL SET OF DANCES HERE

Juniors and Seniors Warned by Cate That No Bids Will Be Issued Tomorrow.

The third annual Junior-Senior dance set will get under way tonight with the Junior Prom opening the series. Bert Lown and his orchestra will play. The entire set, consisting of the Prom from 9:00 to 1:00 o'clock tonight, a tea dance tomorrow afternoon from 4:00 to 6:00 o'clock, and the Senior Ball tomorrow night, will take place in the Tin Can. Numerous fraternities are conducting house parties in conjunction with the class affair.

Juniors and seniors may obtain bids to the dances in the lobby of the Y. M. C. A. at chapel period and from 2:00 to 4:00 o'clock this afternoon. Bids may be procured at Pritchard-Lloyd's this afternoon. No bids will be issued to members of either class tomorrow, it was announced yesterday by Lindy Cate, president of the Senior class.

SENATE PASSES SALES TAX BILL

State Biennial Revenue Bill Given Final Legislative Approval Yesterday.

The state biennial revenue bill, including the modified general sales tax of three per cent, yesterday was given final legislative approval, and it will become law upon ratification, probably today.

Immediately after the passage of the measure, the state merchants association, through Secretary Willard McDowell informed the legislature that the constitutionality of the sales tax will be contested in the courts.

Without a hitch, the revenue measure was passed by the senate in morning session, and the upper body is ready to work on the school machinery bill, which was sent from the house yesterday.

Conference Measure

The bill as passed yesterday was the report of a conference committee, which was appointed after the two divisions of the general assembly failed to agree on the terms of the bill.

The main point of difference between the measures drawn up by the two bodies lay in the fact that the senate boosted the two per cent general sales tax proposed by the house and struck out the house's provision for a kilowatt-hour tax on power.

The conference committee, which worked on compromises last week, retained the main proposals advanced by the upper house.

FIVE VISITORS TO BE ON SUMMER FACULTY

Five visiting instructors will serve on the summer school faculty of the University, it was announced yesterday. Four of the visiting teachers are in the school of education. They are: Dr. Robertson R. Hollingsworth, formerly of State Teachers College, Cedar Falls, Iowa; Miss Mary Hufham, head of the department of English at Bennett School, Milbrook, New York; Dr. Orbie Earl Michie, formerly professor of secondary education at Kansas State Teachers College; and Dr. James S. Tippett of Columbia University. Tippett is an author of well known books for children.

Miss Johanne Gjerulff of the faculty of the American Institute of Dalcrose Eurythmics, New York, will teach music. All visiting instructors will remain for both terms of summer school.

MAGAZINE OFFERS MANY FEATURES IN SUNDAY ISSUE

Daniel's First Number Will Shed New Light on Post-Civil War "Scalawags."

New interpretations of the careers of Rowan Hinton Helper and Solomon Pool, hated scalawags of the post-Civil war days in North Carolina, are among the features of the Carolina Magazine to be issued Sunday by E. C. Daniel, Jr., the new editor.

J. F. Alexander describes Helper, author of a book denouncing slavery, as "North Carolina's hated friend." In his short sketch of Solomon Pool, Reconstruction president of the University during Holden's administration, Walter Terry offers historical evidence condemning Mrs. Cornelia Spencer's stand against Pool, whom he depicts as a friend to the University and a brilliant man.

In an amusing essay that is both comic and serious, Walter Rosenthal applies a universal law to an explanation of why fat men are happy. A story by Thomas McKnight, on the front page of Sunday's issue of the Magazine, contains dialogue described by the editor as "robust and realistic, worthy of Ernest Hemingway."

In his usual satirical vein, Robert Berryman gives an interesting critical estimate of the policies of the DAILY TAR HEEL under the last two editors. Included in a full page of criticism in the new Magazine are a review by Mary Dirnberger of the North Carolina Professional Artists' exhibit in Hill Music hall, a story on the handicraft show (Continued on last page)

ART GUILD TO EXHIBIT PAINTINGS HERE TODAY

A variety of charming portraits and landscape canvases from Chester Springs summer school of the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts has been hung for an exhibition this afternoon in the studio of the art guild in Hill Music hall. In connection with this exhibit the work of Mr. McLean's Chapel Hill class will also be shown.

There will be an informal tea from 4:00 to 6:00 o'clock. All students and townspeople interested in art are cordially invited.

NEW ADVERTISING PLAN INTRODUCED

Tar Heel Advertising Agency Established to Serve Local And State Advertisers.

The formation of an advertising agency under the direction of the DAILY TAR HEEL business staff was decided upon last night at an organization meeting of that group. This innovation was proposed by Marcus Feinstein, business manager of the publication for next year.

The service is offered free of charge to local merchants and is the first venture of its kind to function in connection with a college publication. The concern, to be known as The DAILY TAR HEEL Advertising Agency, will open activities when Feinstein assumes his duties as business manager.

STATEWIDE SERVICE OFFERED

The agency will offer local and statewide advertisers a complete service, including copywriters, lay-out men, artists, and mat equipment. The business manager wishes it understood that the service is extended to all Chapel Hill merchants for whatever advertising medium they may choose. Out-of-town merchants who advertise in any student publication are invited to partake in the benefits of the agency.

In organizing this agency, the business manager feels that it (Continued on page two)

Martha Hatton's Comedy at Five to Open Second Night Of Student Productions.

A sophisticated comedy in the modern vein, Martha Hatton's Comedy at Five, opens a second bill of three studio productions tonight at 8:30 o'clock in the Playmaker theatre.

The program of plays, directed by students in play direction, is continued from last night with three productions tonight and three Saturday. The plays are included in the Playmaker season-ticket series, with other tickets at 25 cents.

Comedy at Five is produced by the author, with Margaret Hervey, Eugenia Rawls, Forney Rankin and Foster Fitz-Simons.

Betty Barnett directs the second play, Eternal Spring, by Robert Barnett, which is presented with Ed Martin, Margaret Hervey, and Ellen Stewart.

William Bonyan's swaggering comedy of Long Island, Blow Me Down is the last. The cast of Katherine Jamieson, William Pitt, Malcolm Moore, Edgar Broadhurst is directed by Ed Martin.

The productions tomorrow night are The Queen Was In the Kitchen, by Ellen Stewart; Eto-wah Plantation, by Eugenia Rawls; and a repeat performance of Martha Hatton's Comedy at Five.

Contralto Exhibits Affability And Pleasing Stage Personality

Louise Bernhardt, in Interview With Tar Heel Representative, Declares She Has Never Been "Stage Frightened" and That She Is "Fed Up" on Opera.

There is nothing about Louise Bernhardt's personality that suggests the popular conception of a concert artist. "I like people," she declared after the concert Wednesday night, and this simple declaration explains perhaps better than anything else her completely unrestrained manner and affability. Besieged by autograph-hunters, who even blocked the entrance to her dressing room, she remained smiling through it all until she had granted every request for her signature.

Probably no singer conveys her personality to an audience more than Miss Bernhardt. She establishes by a word or gesture that casualness and intimacy which so many connected with the stage strive for. After completing one of her numbers, Miss Bernhardt announced that she would sing the Parodies when her next rendition was listed on the program as American Lullaby. "I vary my selections so much," she explained after her concert, "that I can scarcely keep up with them." And on being corrected by her accompanist, she laughed audibly at her mistake and converted a probably tense or slightly embarrassing situation into one which the audience enjoyed for its human touch.

Never Frightened

"I never have stage fright," she declared on being asked whether she ever felt the qualms of facing a large crowd of listeners. "I have been on the stage ever since I was ten years old." Miss Bernhardt began her career at this early age as a dancer. This reminiscence led her to explain that her

EXECUTIVE GROUP TO NAME FINANCIAL HEAD

At the first meeting of the executive committee of the rising sophomore class last night, a resolution was adopted that a financial chairman be appointed who is to confer with the class president, Russell Mickle, and the student auditor of the University to prepare a class budget. Financial matters will be considered in open meetings.

The committee went on record as approving an investigation of student entertainment programs, and it was recommended that the sophomore class take on the duty of orientating the freshmen. Nominations were made for the University dance committee. Those nominated were: Phil Hammer, Van Webb and Frank Rogers.

Another meeting of the committee was called for 7:30 o'clock Thursday evening, May 19, in Graham Memorial.

ANDERSON NAMED PERMANENT HEAD OF CLASS OF 1933

Manning Elected Vice-President And Philpott Secretary by Seniors Last Night.

Francis Anderson was elected permanent president of the class of '33 at a meeting of the senior class in Gerrard hall last night, defeating his only opponent, Robert Novins. For the vice-presidency, John Manning defeated Percy Idol, and for secretary-treasurer, Cabell Philpot won over Robert Barnett.

Agnew Bahnson, an alumnus of the University now connected with the Reynolds Tobacco company, gave a short talk at the beginning of the meeting in which he emphasized the importance of character and personality as an aid to success in business. After his talk the floor was opened to nominations for the permanent class officers.

OTHER BUSINESS

A question of choosing a class day prophet, poet, historian and testator was brought up at the meeting. Lindy Cate appointed a committee to investigate eligible men for the offices and report to the class Thursday.

Dr. Charles Mangum will address the class Thursday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, giving advice and instructions for commencement week.

Lindy Cate also stated that graduation invitations were now on sale at Pritchard and Lloyd Drug company and the Y. M. C. A.

CAROLINA STUDENT GIVEN COMMISSION

Ervid E. Ericson, law student, recently received his commission as second-lieutenant in the Field Artillery reserve corps.

Lieutenant Ericson has been a sergeant in the 316th Field Artillery for two years and has continued his army studies in the troop school held fortnightly in Davie hall. He is the son of E. E. Ericson, professor in the University department of English.

A supper in honor of the new commission officer was given by Captain Henry R. Totten to the 316th Field Artillery officers of Chapel Hill and Mebane.

CAMPAIGN DRIVE FOR LAWN FUND CONTINUES TODAY

Twenty-One University Organizations Donate $105; Group Treasurers Meet Again.

With 21 campus organizations donating a total of $105.00, the campus improvement fund after a concerted drive that lasted until late last night successfully closed the first day of campaigning. Thirty dollars more was pledged for payment today or tomorrow.

The two power cutters belonging to the University were sent early this morning as agreed by P. L. Burch of the buildings department to High Point for repairs. Work on the lawns and gutters on the entire campus to supplement the present labor utilizing the power cutter of Chapel Hill township will begin tomorrow morning.

The following organizations cooperated in yesterday's canvassing: St. Anthony Hall, Pi Kappa Alpha, Beta Theta Pi, Pi Kappa Phi, Lambda Chi Alpha, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Pi Beta Phi, Kappa Sigma, Chi Psi, Phi Kappa Sigma, Zeta Psi, Tau Epsilon Phi, Delta Tau Delta, Phi Sigma Kappa, Phi Delta Theta, the Thirteen Club, the Order of Gimghoul, the Order of Sheiks, the Y. M. C. A., Sigma Chi, and the Debate Council.

GOAL OF $200 SET

The goal set by the campaign that is necessary to fix both of the University cutters is $200. The present collection will allow for the repair of one of the machines.

INVITATIONS SALE TO CLOSE TODAY

Samples of Commencement Bids On Display at Y. M. C. A. And Pritchard-Lloyd's

Seniors are reminded that they will have the last opportunity to obtain commencement invitations today. Samples are on display at the Y. M. C. A. and at Pritchard-Lloyd's, and the sale will close at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon.

There will be two types of invitations this year. One has a cover of blue leather with a picture of Graham Memorial on it. This type sells for 50 cents each, or 45 cents if a half-dozen or more are purchased at one time.

OTHERS 25 CENTS

The other style, made of cardboard, will cost 25 cents, or 20 cents if a dozen or more are bought.

For the purchase of the leather invitations, a deposit of 25 cents is required, and on orders for cardboard bids, ten cents must be deposited. The balance will be due upon receipt of the invitations.

CONDITION EXAMS TUESDAY

The spring quarter examination for the removal of composition conditions in any course will be given Tuesday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock in 201 Murphey hall, it was announced yesterday by Dr. Raymond Adams. Students expecting to take the exam should leave their names with the secretary of the English department in 104 Saunders by noon Monday. No theme is required in advance.
