DRIVE EXTENDED UNTIL TOMORROW

Work on Campus Grass Begun Today as Result of Contributions of Organizations.

The closing date for the campus improvement fund campaign has been extended to tomorrow to allow for possible donations from organizations with meetings tonight. All such societies are asked to present the matter before their members so that contributions can be received tomorrow.

At the present the fund contains $150 composed of donations from thirty campus organizations. A goal of $200 has been set, this amount being necessary to carry out the complete program of rehabilitation.

Work Begun Today
Work was begun in earnest this morning with one power cutter, 12 men, and a horse-drawn power mower leveling the grass. The other power machine will be put in commission as soon as the remainder of the fund has been collected. Present facilities, however, can take care of the work though not as quickly.

The campaign was inaugurated last Wednesday when much comment was made by students and visitors regarding the unshorn appearance of the campus. The administration, with a greatly pared budget, was unable to ameliorate the situation and with the aid of P. L. Burch of the buildings department a plan was worked out whereby $200 which would cover the repair of the University power cutters would be adequate to keep the lawn in shape through next fall.

New Low for Infirmary

Chapel Hillians, Accompanied by Negroes, Refused Food at "Penny Lunch" Counters.

Bernarr McFadden, publisher of the magazine Liberty and philanthropist extraordinary, apparently doesn't believe Negroes deserve charity, judging from a report carried back to Carolina by several University delegates who attended the Continental Congress in Washington May 6 and 7.

The delegates from Carolina, representatives from the Socialist local here, attempted to eat in one of McFadden's "penny lunch" establishments in Washington while accompanied by colored delegates to the congress. They were refused food.

Another incident involving the race question arose when one of the hotels in Washington refused to admit a Negro delegate. Several hundred representatives to the convention withdrew from the hotel.

The delegates themselves showed no race prejudice, even when sleeping in the same room with members of the other race.

Thousands at Congress
Thousands of delegates representing liberal and radical organizations all over the country convened at Washington slightly more than a week ago to discuss the present economic situation and to outline a plan for action.

The Socialist organization at Carolina was represented by Howard Hodges, Alton Lawrence, Vernon Ward, and Arnold Williams. Among the speakers at the Continental Congress, whose name is derived from the

The new staff has given the Buccaneer a "new deal," making several significant changes. A new font of type is being used and a change from three to two columns per page has taken place. A special effort has been made by the new editor to keep his first issue free of pornographics.

Pyjama-Clad Figures, Armed With Blankets and Quilts, Take Cool Rest on Sward.

The sun-worshippers have added a new group to their long line of followers—the moon worshippers. With the temperature in Chapel Hill these past few days flirting gaily with figures closely approximating three numbers, the general atmosphere has not been exactly conducive to restful sleeping.

Here was the Nudists' Cult, thought these twilight sufferers from the heat, prepared to meet nature on somewhat more even terms than those decreed by sartorial custom. Stripped to shorts these somehow managed to evade the flashing sun-rays.

Sleep Relief Legislation
What did it matter, further mused the over-heated dormitory dwellers as the sun went down, if brains were baked to such a degree during the afternoon hours that all the energy for evening study had evaporated off as sweat? Wasn't relief of some sort gained?

So a page was taken out of the book of instructions of the day-back-to-nature-ists, and forth trooped numerous pyjama-clad figures in the twilight. Bath robes, blankets, whose warmth precluded use indoors, and even quilts were carried to the stretches of grass between the dormitories.

Some enterprising souls in Ruffin and Grimes dormitories tossed their mattresses bodily out of the window onto that plot of grass which the Ruffin grass-cutters have recently made famous by their untoward activities and prepared for a night's cool rest. This morning they claimed that they slept like babes.

Dr. George Washington Carver, Negro scientist from Tuskegee Institute, will give an illustrated public lecture at Gerrard hall tonight at 8:00 o'clock. For the past week Dr. Carver has been in Raleigh, speaking at State College and Shaw University.

Dr. Carver who was born a slave and was once traded for a horse is one of the leading agricultural chemists in the world. He has evolved 285 products from the peanut. Within a few moments he can produce from peanuts "grade A" milk, facial cream, and black shoe polish. Besides these he can derive hair tonic, soap, axle grease, and many other everyday products without the least trouble.

Other Products
His accomplishments are not limited to the peanut. He has produced 115 products from sweet potatoes and 35 paints and dyes from Alabama clay. The pecan has been changed into 78 products, with the shell alone producing 27 of these.

A member of the Royal Society for the encouragement of Arts, Dr. Carver founded the agricultural department at Tuskegee Institute. At one time he was said to have been offered a position by Thomas A. Edison, but he refused to leave his work at Tuskegee.
