

Carolina Varsity Scrimmages Coach Fetzer's Grid Charges

Collins' Proteges Look Good in First Skirmish With Frosh Football Team.

VARSITY OFFENSE BETTER

Large Crowd Is Expected for Georgia Game; Advance Sales Are Good.

For the first time this year, Coach Chuck Collins pitted his first string varsity eleven against the yearling gridsters in a heated scrimmage yesterday afternoon in Kenan stadium.

The first stringers looked good in working their plays. But they still lacked timing and necessary co-ordination which has improved rapidly during the course of the past week.

The first-year men put up a fine defensive game, but they were no match for the superior varsity eleven.

With only Julian Frankel on the injured list, the Tar Heels should be able to put their full strength against the Georgia U. invaders. In last week's contest the Bulldogs downed Tulane's famed Green Wave, 26-13. The Athens team employed a fast and effective passing game which completely baffled and swept the New Orleans boys aside.

Coach Harry Mehre, another exponent of the Rockne system, has turned out some powerful gridiron machines at Georgia during the past few years, and this fall's edition should be no exception to his recent record. The Bulldogs use a wide open and fast offense which is not only effective but great to see from the spectator's point of view.

With Carolina's fine showing against the Commodores of Col. Dan McGugin last week, the Tar Heels' grid stock has jumped many points. Already the advance sales for tickets and reservations have started flooding Bo Shepard's athletic office.

There have been two special sections, on each side of the field, prepared for the game. These seats which range from the goal line to the 30-yard marker are being sold for $1.10, including state tax. They will hold 2,500 fans.

Already an advance notice from St. Mary's Episcopal junior college, Raleigh, has been made, saying that some 60 fair maidens will come over to see the game in special busses.

Final Rites For Dr. Toy To Be Conducted Today

ADD WARREN TO FIGHT JOE COOK

Former Tar Heel Boxer to Meet Charlotte Fighter at Durham Tomorrow Night.

Add Warren will attempt to negotiate the second leg of his comeback journey against Joe Cook of Charlotte and has selected El Toro park, Durham, as the place and tomorrow night as the time.

Warren, who is not only appearing in the main bout, but promoting the show, has arranged a strong supporting card. In addition to Add's brawl with Cook, scheduled for ten rounds or less, Jake Denning, former light-heavyweight champ of the Carolinas, will hook up with Russ Rowsey, Huntington, W. Va., in a ten-round semi-final.

Carlos Beck, 175, Durham, is to face Terry Roberts, popular McAdenville scrapper in a six-round bout. Another fight promising action is billed between Bascom Bradley, Carolinas Golden Gloves champion, and Bob Rackley, Durham county amateur titleholder.

Prices for the bout are $1 and $1.50.

Warren, who embarked on a fairly successful career as a heavyweight after leaving Carolina, has for two years been head coach of boxing and wrestling at Duke. Until his recent defeat of K. O. Parker in five rounds, he had been out of the ring for some time. He now weighs somewhat less than formerly and believes that he is much faster as a result.

Here Are Georgia's Guards

YEARLINGS LOSE TO THE RESERVES

Third String Varsity Aggregation Gets Revenge on First Year Grid Team.

While the first and second Tar Baby teams were in secret practice with the varsity in Kenan stadium, the third and fourth freshman teams mixed with the third string varsity on Emerson field.

This scrimmage offered the third team varsity an opportunity to get revenge on the yearlings, who Tuesday had scored, 12 points to the big fellows' two.

The mythical scoreboard reported the unofficial score of 12 to 0 in yesterday's scrimmage, in the third varsity's favor.

As usual the frosh gave evidence of fight and drive, but they hit a new low, not knowing their plays and thereby gumming them in miserable fashion.

The yearlings will open their season against the Louisburg college eleven, Friday afternoon in Kenan stadium. In their first two games, the Louisburg gridsters looked remarkably well for early season play and should give the first-year men a tough fight.

Monogram Club To Meet Tonight At 7:30

COACH ANNOUNCES FALL MAT GRIND

Prospects for Club Gloomy With Idol, Shipman, and Miller Lost to Team.

"Chuck" Quinlan, wrestling mentor, has announced that all wrestlers will start their fall training during the middle of next week. He will devote most of his time teaching the freshmen the fundamentals of wrestling.

Prospects for this year's mat team looks rather gloomy. The absence of Miller, Shipman, and Percy Idol, the latter being captain and southern conference champion last season, has frustrated all hopes for a Tar Heel championship team.

Coach Quinlan, however, will attempt to develop last year's lettermen and add to the varsity squad some of last season's freshmen luminaries. Clarke Mathewson, letterman and captain of the 1934 grunt team, will fill the 126-pound class. Together with three other lettermen, Davis, 135 pounds; Hiller, 155 pounds; and Auman, 175 pounds, these veterans will form the nucleus of the Tar Heel mat squad.

In the other classes the Carolina coach will have to develop some of last year's freshman material. Blalock in the 115-pound class, Scheallert and Eflan in the 155- and 165-pound classes, respectively, will probably make the varsity team this coming season.

All freshmen who desire to learn the tactics of wrestling or to be acknowledged as tentative freshman material will have an opportunity to do so in next week's workouts which will continue for three weeks. Limber-

BRANDT APPOINTS EXECUTIVE GROUP

President Calls First Meeting in Graham Memorial; to Open Program for Year.

With the first meeting called for tonight at 7:30 o'clock in 214 Graham Memorial, the Monogram club is ready to start another ambitious program and continue the good work of last year.

President George Brandt announces the appointment of seven men to serve on the executive committee along with him and the secretary, Frank Abernethy. Those appointed are: George Barclay, vice-president; Dave McCachren, treasurer; Bill Croom, Norment Quarles, Clark Matthewson, Ed McRae, and Vergil Weathers.

This group has been selected because of the outstanding ability of each man in his particular branch of athletics. Each has proven his right to leadership in that there are five team captains and one class president on the committee. As a great deal of the success of the Monogram club program depends on these boys, their responsibility and powers are necessarily great.

President Brandt urges all monogram men to attend the first meeting, as several important items of business will be brought up. The failure of John Phipps to return to school necessitates the election of a representative from the club to take his place on the athletic council.

Since the revival of the Monogram club, a much more enthusiastic response to its work has been forthcoming from the various athletic squads. With such enthusiasm instilled in its members, the club hopes to lift Carolina teams to the peak in athletic circles.

D. K. E. DEFEATS SIGMA CHI, 20-0

Mangum Downs New Dorms; Kappa Sig Wins; Phi Kappa Sigma-Phi Alpha Tie.

Presenting a powerful offense coupled with a smart defense, Delta Kappa Epsilon opened its intramural grid season by decisively defeating Chi Phi, 20 to 0. Bill Hart raced 50 yards on a beautiful return of a long punt for the first touchdown. Patterson dropkicked the extra point.

The D. K. E.'s scored twice in the last half. Patterson passed 30 yards to Pruden in the third quarter and then tossed a short heave to Alexander for the final marker. Parsons converted the point after the last touchdown. Hart and Patterson were the shining lights in the play of Delta Kappa Epsilon while Hudson and Somers stood out for Chi Phi.

Mangum looked impressive in trimming New Dorms, 26 to 0. Mangum piled up two touchdowns in the first quarter as a
