PIERSON SPEAKS AT CONFERENCE OF UNIVERSITIES

Graduate School Dean Representative from University at Sessions at Princeton

Results of the conference of Associated American Universities which met last week at Princeton were announced yesterday by Dean William Whatley Pierson, who represented the University at the 35th annual session of this association.

Dr. Pierson worked with the association's committee on the classification of universities and colleges for two days in New York before attending the meeting at Princeton. At the later conference he spoke to a group of graduate school deans on the subject, "Selections of Students for Graduate Work in the Social Sciences."

Divisions of Conference

The conference, divided into a business meeting, a general, and a dean's session, lasted three days. In the business meeting Brown University was admitted into the association, and the University of Texas was elected president for the coming year. The University of Chicago was chosen as the location for the next annual meeting. The remaining part of the business period was given over to routine work and to committee reports.

Talks on educational policies featured the dean's and the general conferences. Problems regarding graduate study and policies were discussed. Papers were read centering on the practice of offering graduate work were no longer the thing, so this week we take pleasure in giving a lovely bouquet of gardenias to South Carolina. Reason: they pulled the real iron man stunt. The Gamecocks played two great football teams inside of 50 hours and won both contests. Thursday afternoon, the 'Birds licked Citadel 12-6 and then Saturday p. m., V. P. I. 12-0. Earl Clary, "the galloping Gaffney Ghost," scored the touchdowns in both games!

Once-Scorned Pipe Becoming Most Popular Campus Smoking Product

The pipe has been restored to favor in Chapel Hill. Kicked down the backstairs as a common, cheap form of smoking during the opulent twenties, the once-lowly object is swiftly outstripping all other methods of tobacco consumption.

Cigarettes still find the co-eds a stronghold, but rumor has it that certain inmates of Spencer seriously contemplate turning to the pipe in an effort to avoid getting nicotine on their fingers. For fraternity meetings, business deals, and rushing cigars maintain their dominance. Otherwise, however, the pipe is making inroads of gigantic proportions.

Money Saver

The reason is an obvious one. A can of fifteen-cent tobacco lasts twice, thrice as long as a package of cigarettes for the same price. Other fancy explanations such as pipes are less detrimental to one's lungs or that they exude a more democratic and wholesome spirit may be dismissed as the usual rationalization to conceal an economic motive.

Indeed, there is little democratic in the revival of pipe-smoking. The same snobbishness that once existed between the smokers of Melachrinos and Camels has been transferred to Dunhill users and purchasers of twenty-five cent paint products. Just as one used to talk grandly of Cuban cigarettes smuggled in from Havana, the pipe addicts are now scheming for shipments of pipes from London, Italy, and France.

Not in every case has the rise of the pipe been natural. In one fraternity house, for example, at the beginning of the year there were but three confirmed pipe-smokers. In a fortnight, however, after one of the members had purchased two pound cans of tobacco, seventeen pipes appeared mysteriously from nowhere.

One of the most interesting angles to the regeneration of pipe popularity has been the variety of pipes exhibited. They range from two-inch affairs, thru Sherlock Holmes creations, to six-inch Dunhills that threaten to poke innocent bystanders in the eye. Corn cobs, clay pipes, bubble-pipes, Turkish water pipes, and countless other variations or improvements of the conventional product lend color, tone, and atmosphere unachievable with standardized white-paper rolled cigarettes.

"Same Difference"

Pipes may be in the ascendancy as far as the general public is concerned, but for a certain particular gentleman they are distinctly out. Said gentleman had the unfortunate experience of lighting a brand new pipe while on the seventh floor of an urban apartment house.

Unaccustomed as he was to pipe etiquette, and perhaps being a trifle absent-minded, when he could draw no more from his expensive pipe, he calmly tossed it out the window much in the manner he had been treating consumed cigarettes. He has since learned the error of his way.
