TRAINS AND CARS CARRY STUDENTS TO GAME TODAY

Campus to Be Deserted as Supporters Leave for State Game At Riddick Field.

WILL PARADE IN RALEIGH

Noon today will find the Carolina student body split into two groups, each bent on reaching Riddick field in Raleigh.

One group will be on the special train, which leaves Pittsboro street at 11:30 o'clock this morning, the other will be in the motor cavalcade which will leave at 12:00 o'clock.

The train will be decorated with slogans, and a program for the trip over has been planned. The cars will gather in front of the Morehead-Patterson bell tower and go in a group to Raleigh.

To Meet at Station

The two groups will meet at Union station, Raleigh, and form a procession to march up Hillsboro street behind the band. Everything has been made ready for the parade; placards bearing Carolina mottoes have been furnished, and the band will be on hand. It requires only the cooperation of the students to make it a grand success.

The tickets for the round trip by train cost 90 cents; the tickets are good for the return trip to Chapel Hill at 5:00 o'clock or for a return to Durham Sunday. The admission tickets to the Carolina section will cost only 50 cents for those with passbooks. Faculty members may purchase tickets at the

NUMEROUS LOANS MADE THIS YEAR

466 Loans Totaling $30,886 Have Been Extended to Needy Students This Quarter.

Four hundred and sixty-six loans totaling $30,886.50 have been extended to 334 different University students this quarter, it was announced from the office of the dean of students yesterday.

These loans were extended to students who would have had to drop out of school if financial aid from the University had not been available.

Students intending to apply for aid for the winter quarter should visit the dean of students and make application for financial aid between November 15 and December 15, it was announced by J. A. Williams, assistant dean of students. This is to prevent difficulties next quarter.

$8,369 Loaned

One hundred and forty three loans totaling $8,369.00 have been extended to students by the University since October 1.

The abolishment of free tuition has thrown additional burdens on the student loan fund. While the so called "state scholarships" provided financial help of only $75 each year to the recipient, they aided many students who were unable to pay cash for their tuition. Not being able to raise the money to pay for tuition, students who formally relied on the state scholarships have had to resort to the loan fund.

According to reports there are

Smiths Whip Williamses By One Name In Annual Directory Battle

Press Association Schedules Meeting

The executive committee of the North Carolina Press association meets at Raleigh today with members of the University committee to formulate plans for the annual meeting of the newspaper institute to take place here in January.

The University committee is composed of Oscar Coffin of the journalism department, Robert W. Madry, director of the University news bureau, and R. W. Grumman, head of the extension department.

The institute met here last year, January 18-19. John A. Park, publisher of the Raleigh Times, presided over the meeting.

SOCIETY INDUCTS SIX TAPPED MEN

Tau Beta Pi Initiates Juniors And Seniors Chosen from Outstanding Engineers.

Six members were initiated into Tau Beta Pi, national honorary engineering society, last night at a meeting conducted in Graham Memorial.

New members receiving their keys were: B. S. Old, S. S. Myers, R. M. Dailey, J. B. Crutchfield, W. W. King, Jr., and E. L. Laxton. These men, tapped several weeks ago, were selected from the upper fourth of the senior class and three from the upper eighth of the junior class.

Examination

They were required to take an examination last Friday evening on the constitution of the fraternity and on general engineering facts.

After the initiation a banquet was given in honor of the new members, at which the president of the local chapter, W. L. Ridenhour, acted as toastmaster and Dean W. J. Miller of the Electrical Engineering school made the principal address.

Tau Beta Pi at the present has a membership of twelve students and several faculty members.

Graduate Linguists

All graduate students desiring to take foreign language either French or German, have been asked by Dean W. W. Pierson to register and leave their names in the graduate office in South building before November 6. Candidates for the master's degree who wish to qualify for the Spanish examination should also make arrangements with the graduate office.

Rhodes Scholars

A. W. Hobbs, dean of the liberal arts school, announced yesterday that all Rhodes scholarship applications must be in his office by November 10.

Further Action

At a special meeting of the Student council Thursday night, a freshman convicted of cheating on a mid-term examination, and of misrepresentation to the Student council, was suspended for one quarter.

Johnsons, Last Year's Winners, Slip to Third Place as Old Rivals Battle.

This year the Smiths will be snooty. Stung to madness last year when the Johnsons outnumbered them by three, the tribe of Al, Frank, and E. Carrington rose up in the 1933 directory and wrested the leadership from the old rivals by numbering exactly twenty-three to the Johnsons' measly seventeen.

Somewhere in between the titanic Smith-Johnson struggle panted the Williamses. This year as last, they were runner-up, counting twenty-two faithful members of the clan of Horace, Jimmy, and Ben Ames. The Davises, Clarks, Browns, and Parkers limped along variously boasting fourteen to sixteen constituents.

Joneses Far Behind

Surprising was the small number of representatives for a number of good old American names, names which have at different times been among the leaders at Carolina. For example, there were but two Marshalls, seven Joneses, four Edwardses, and two Jordans.

Celebrities did fairly well this year. There were a Coogan and a Gable for the movie-minded, Keats, Poe, and Dickens for the literati, and Culbertson for the contract-bridgers. Mathewson took care of the baseball interests, and five Grahams soothed those devoted to college presidents.

The doubtful distinction of the longest name in the directory goes jointly to W. R. Hollingsworth and W. H. Killingsworth, each of whose surnames number thirteen letters. Countless Coxes, Kees, Cays etc., vied for the shortest honors. If the apostrophe in Prud'hommeaux were counted a triple tie for longest honors would ensue.

Curious names dot the entire publication. Primrose nestles

WILSON ATTENDS N. Y. CONFERENCE

Dr. Harry W. Chase Is Speaker at Educational Meeting.

Thomas James Wilson, Jr., dean of admissions and registrar, represented the University at the second annual educational conference in New York, which closed yesterday.

The meeting was held in St. Regis hotel in connection with the general meeting of institute members of the educational records bureau.

Yesterday in the closing sessions of the conference Dean Max McConn of Lehigh, Dr. E. F. Lindquist of Iowa, Dr. W. S. Learned of the Carnegie Foundation, and Dr. Harry Woodburn Chase of New York University spoke. Dr. Harry Woodburn Chase, Chancellor of New York University and former president of the University of North Carolina, talked at the closing banquet as guest speaker.

The conference is held under the joint auspices of the committees of personnel methods and on educational testing of the American council of education, the commission on the relation of school and college of the progressive educational association, the cooperative test service, and the educational records bureau.

STUDENTS URGED TO ATTEND GAME

Final Plans Made for Motor Cavalcade and Parade in Raleigh.

A pep meeting assembly, consisting of songs, short talks, and yells, was held yesterday morning in preparation for today's game.

The singing of "Rah, Carolina" opened the program as the first of a series of numbers led by H. Grady Miller.

Barnes Speaks

Harper Barnes, president of the student body, and the first speaker, said, "The purpose of this assembly is a pep meeting and the announcement of the plans for the game, transportation, and the parade." He emphasized the importance of a large majority of the members of the student body's being at Raleigh, stating that one of the primary reasons for the fine spirit displayed by the team in the Georgia Tech game was the excellence of the cheering section.

Coach Bob Fetzer was then introduced. "If I were going to take a text or topic for my talk," he said, "I would go to the code of the Monogram club, and use these lines: 'I believe in the University' and 'I believe in victory.' We don't have to apologize in regard to the latter for the game last Saturday that was recorded as defeat, because everybody was behind the team."

After quoting Kipling on working together, he said, "That's what we've got to have—teamwork. We need you in Raleigh to back the team, and we're counting on you."

Motor Parade

Agnew Bahnson, president of the University club, was introduced by Barnes. "We owe it to the team to go over there and make an effective parade. For those of you who are going in cars we will have a motor parade that will start at the bell tower at 12:00 o'clock. Those in this parade will meet the train at Union station and join the regular procession, he stated.

Ernest Hunt and his cheerleaders then led the students in a number of yells, including one of State's, "Hi-Wolf Pack," which will be used today.

The pep meeting was concluded with the singing of "Hark the Sound" and "Split It For the Team."

A. S. M. E. TO GO TO RALEIGH

The local chapter of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers will attend an annual fall meeting of the Raleigh section of this organization in Raleigh on Thursday, November 9.

At this assembly, which will be conducted in Page hall at State College, the principal speaker will be E. E. Williams of Charlotte, superintendent of steam plants for the Duke Power company.

Final Presentation of Play

The third and final presentation of Paul Green's "The House of Connelly" will be staged tonight at the Playmakers theatre. Tickets to the performance may be obtained at Alfred Williams or at the box office. Season tickets for the six productions of the season are also available.

Board Appoints Groups To Recommend Changes In Educational Program

Library Staff Gives Dinner to New Head

Robert B. Downs, appointed University librarian a few weeks ago, was honored by a dinner at the Carolina Inn last night, given by the library staff.

Among the guests of honor in addition to Downs and his wife, was Dr. J. G. de R. Hamilton. Hamilton, associated with the library for several years as director of the Southern Historical Collection, spoke in behalf of the University.

Dr. Susan Grey Akers of the school of library science and Cornelia S. Love, representing the library staff, were also speakers.

P. U. BOARD VOTES LOWER AD RATES

Advertising Prices Reduced to 40 Cents Per Inch for Buy Now Week.

Lower advertising rates in the DAILY TAR HEEL during "Buy Now" week in cooperation with the local NRA program were voted by the Publications Union board in a meeting yesterday.

The "Buy Now" week, sponsored by Chapel Hill merchants, will begin Monday as a part of the campaign conducted throughout the country for similar periods in an effort to stimulate trade by increased buying.

Buy Now

Lowered prices are expected to be put in effect during the period by merchants of the community. Details of the campaign will be published tomorrow. In connection with the intensive advertising drive planned, rates in the DAILY TAR HEEL have been reduced to 40 cents per inch during next week.

In addition, a town extension circulation list and a page of cooperative advertising for the Sunday issue were voted by the board.

A new daily feature of interesting and little-known facts about this state was granted to the DAILY TAR HEEL at the meeting. The feature released in Durham, includes a questionnaire of facts about the state in cartoon form. It is to appear next week.

Suggestions made at the meeting by R. H. Sherrill concerning the student audit board were tabled. It was announced that the board will meet at 10:30 o'clock Wednesday morning in Graham Memorial.

Eighteen Sick

The following students were confined to the University infirmary yesterday: E. B. Blood, Betty Barnett, Julia Brown, Louis Barnes, R. A. Berman, G. L. Crane, Lydia Daniels, Ruth Hall, E. K. Jackson, Flora Johnson, Vida Miller, L. O. Rowland, Howard Spain, George Steele, Jayne Smoot, C. W. Sensenback, C. C. Todd, and J. K. Warren.

Church Services

Lutheran church services will take place tomorrow at 5:00 o'clock in 213 Graham Memorial. The Reverend Schroeder will officiate.

Committees Will Study Curricula of Many Other Schools.

The Student Advisory board met last night in Graham Memorial and appointed four committees from the schools of the University which will begin immediately to draw up recommendations from the students' standpoint for changes in the University educational program.

These committees will study the curriculum here now and also the curriculum changes that have been made in other universities and to recommend from their work, any changes that they approve.

Board to Receive Reports

The Student Advisory board will hear reports from the various committees and will collect, co-ordinate and analyze their work.

The final recommendations of the groups and the board will therefore include any changes these groups deem advisable. This work will have no necessary relation to the University faculty recommendations made recently.

Seven men were appointed from the liberal arts school, including one representative from the education department, and six from commerce and engineering. No committee was appointed for the applied science division due to the fact that the advisory board had received from that school no list of eligibles.

MAGAZINE ISSUE OFFERS VARIETY

Question of First American University and Playmaker History Among Features.

Tomorrow's issue of the Carolina Magazine will feature an evenly balanced array of humor, satire, poetry, and fiction calculated to give the campus the best literary creations of the past fortnight.

Wilbur Dorsett unearths some hitherto unpublished facts concerning the Playmaker theatre, which has served every purpose from a bath house to a ball room since its inception.

"The First of Us," by Carl Thompson, establishes the argument that William and Mary College in Williamsburg, Va., was not the first university in America.

James T. Mifflin, ex-newspaperman now living in Chapel Hill contributes a character study of a sports writer in "The Demon Run."

Ex-Editor Writes

Ex-Editor Robert W. Barnett, of Shanghai, contributes an analysis of Professor Huse's new "The Illiteracy of the Literate."

Joe Sugarman, whose column Book Marks may be found on the editorial page, gives us an unexploited slant of the repeal argument in "The Puritans Hold Fast."

Chief poetry contributions are the second of a series of Villon translation by Ben Napier, "Whistlin' Man," a ballad by Robert Leeper, and verses by
