

SATURDAY CLASS HOURS SHORTENED FOR CONVOCATION

Class Periods at 9:30 and 11:00 O'clock Will Be Reduced for Armistice Day Exercises.

PROGRAM STARTS AT 10:30

Classes on Saturday will be shortened in order to give all students a chance to hear Major Donald Armstrong of Fort Bragg speak at the University Armistice Day services which will be held at 10:15 o'clock in Gerrard hall, it was announced yesterday. All University students are invited to attend.

The 9:30 class hour will close at 10:08 o'clock Saturday, and the 11:00 class hour will not begin until 11:15 o'clock.

Armstrong Distinguished

Armstrong, who will deliver the address, has a long distinguished record of service with the United States Army. He received his A. B. and M. A. degrees at Columbia University, and in 1910 was commissioned second lieutenant of the United States Army. Armstrong served as brigade adjutant and on the staff of chief of artillery in the A. E. F.

During the World War serving with the fourth French army, he saw action in the Argonne. After the war from 1919 to 1924 he represented the United States embassy in Paris.

The Armistice Day celebrations in Chapel Hill are being sponsored by a committee composed of members of the University.

Delegate Majority Is For Retention; But, Shucks, There's No Convention

As a result of the method of balloting employed in Tuesday's voting on the repeal question, North Carolina finds itself with 120 convention delegates—but with no convention for them to attend.

And all the delegates have their minds made up as to which way to vote on the matter. Sixteen are opposed to retention of the 18th amendment, and 106 are all for it.

But these gentlemen will never have the opportunity to cast formally their votes.

It happened this way: According to a provision of the North Carolina constitution, there can be no constitutional convention in North Carolina unless the question "convention" or "no convention" first be put to the people and carried.

Last spring, by a three-one vote, the North Carolina Supreme court handed down a decision declaring that a convention on a federal constitutional question, according to the state constitution, would have to be called by the people of the state.

The state constitution also states that the people will choose delegates who will attend the convention, if called.

So yesterday, while declaring that they wanted no convention for a vote on the proposed 21st amendment, the people elected delegates to a convention that will never be held.

SYMPHONY GROUP PLANS CONCERTS

North Carolina State Symphony Orchestra to Give Concert Series in December.

The North Carolina State Symphony orchestra, directed by Lamar Stringfield, will make its second appearance of the year in a series of concerts during December. The symphony will give the first concert in Charlotte December 7, and will appear in Raleigh and Winston-Salem December 8 and 9, respectively.

John Powell, considered by leading music critics to be one of the outstanding American pianists, will be the guest artist. He will play "Rhapsodie Negre," one of his own compositions.

Stringfield Work Featured

Lamar Stringfield's latest work, "The Legend of John Henry" will be featured on the Charlotte program. The National Symphony orchestra of Washington, D. C., will play this composition in its concerts.

Among the compositions that will be played are: Dvorak's "New World" symphony, "Rienzi Overture," by Wagner; "Egmont Overture," by Beethoven; and "Marche Slav," by Tschai-kowsky.

Concert on Sunday

A concert sponsored by the Graham Memorial entertainment committee will be given Sunday afternoon in the main lounge of Graham Memorial at 5:00 o'clock. Lamar Stringfield and his orchestra will present the program.

DR. GRAHAM SPEAKS FOR HONOR SYSTEM

Saunders Releases Football "Review"

With stories on Carolina's win over State College, the regular weekly football issue of the Alumni Review, edited by J. Maryon Saunders, was distributed yesterday from the office of the alumni association.

General write-ups of the game are displayed on the first pages of the number. Coach Collins, in his weekly column on the first page, states that although the Tar Heels played better football against State, that the brand of playing was not as good as it could have been. Speaking of the Wake Forest game, Carolina's head football coach says, "Wake Forest will be a tough game for the Tar Heels."

Statistics on the game, line-ups, a summary of the two sides, and a play-by-play account of the State-Carolina match are given. The freshman football squad's undefeated season and the coming Wake Forest game are discussed in the latter part of the supplement. The issue is illustrated with pictures of the teams in action.

Dr. Jackson Leaves

Dr. W. C. Jackson, dean of the school of public administration, left Chapel Hill yesterday for Atlantic City to attend the national conference on government which began yesterday and closes Sunday. Dr. Jackson will return to the campus Monday.

Honor Is Heart of Self-Government, States University Head.

"The honor system is the very heart of student self-government," said President Frank Graham yesterday at the sophomore assembly in his address of the school year to the students.

Dr. Graham stated that the rebirth of real student government was coming out of this sophomore class. It is now becoming a government of the student body, and not as was in the 19th and early 20th centuries—a government where the president of the senior class was ex-officio president of the student body.

Century of Tradition

"More than 100 years of tradition are speaking through the voters at the spring elections when they elect campus and class officers. We have been moving ahead. At first we had proctors and faculty government," said Dr. Graham, "now we have student government and the honor system, which grows better men and carries out the ideals of the University."

President Graham cited a confidential survey that had been made of universities employing the honor system and those which had the proctor system. According to this report, proof was given that there is much more cheating in institutions employing proctors than in schools with the honor system.

According to Dr. Graham, when a student registers at this University he becomes a member of a self-governing community based on the ideals of the honor system, and must uphold that honor system or pack up his belongings and go elsewhere.

"There is more than one man who stands for the honor system."

Try-outs for Debate Take Place Tonight

Further try-outs for the debate with the National Student union of England here November 16 will take place tonight at 9:15 o'clock in 209 Graham Memorial.

At the try-outs Tuesday night the three judges decided to postpone selections until tonight. The subject of the debate is Resolved: That organized religion has been a hindrance to the progress of man.

The University will take the negative and the English debaters the affirmative. This debate team sent over by the union is the only foreign group the University debaters will meet this year.

GRAHAM ATTENDS ANNUAL MEETING

President and Dean Walker Represent University at College Conference.

President Frank P. Graham and Dr. N. W. Walker are representing the University in the thirteenth annual meeting of the North Carolina college conference at the King Cotton hotel in Greensboro today and tomorrow. Dr. Walker is secretary and treasurer of the conference.

This conference, which is composed of two delegates from each of the institutions of higher learning in North Carolina, will have as its central theme "Cooperative Relations Between the High Schools and Colleges."

Others in Attendance

Many members of the University faculty are in attendance. The following are serving on the various committees: Dr. M. R. Trabue, college admissions and cooperative research; Dean A. W. Hobbs, athletics; Dr. A. M. Jordan and Dr. R. M. Grumman, correspondence and extension courses; Dean F. F. Bradshaw, student mortality; Dr. E. K. Plyler, science equipment; Dr. T. J. Wilson, Jr., necrology. R. B. House, a member of the committee on tuition charges, has been unable to attend the conference.

CASTING SLATED FOR FOUR PLAYS

Try-outs will be held tomorrow at 4:00 and 7:30 o'clock in the Playmaker theatre for the four original plays to be presented December 7, 8, and 9, as their second public production of the year.

Three of these plays, "Shadows of Industry" by Vermont C. Royster, "Sing Your Own Song" by Nat Farnworth, and "Everglades and Hickory" by John Alexander, were written in playwrighting courses and were presented Tuesday night in the experimental productions.

The fourth drama, "The Head-Axe of Ingfel" is by a member of Koch's class at the University of Colorado this summer. Scripts for the first three plays are on reserve in the library.

Samuel Selden will direct "Shadows of Industry" and "Sing Your Own Song"; and Harry Davis will direct "Everglades and Hickory" and "The Head-Axe of Ingfel."

Chapel Hill Threatens Secession Protesting State Vote On Repeal

Smoker Given Tonight For Students in Town

At 9:00 o'clock tonight Graham Memorial is sponsoring a smoker for all students living in town. This also includes the residents of Acacia house, the old Chi Phi house, the Y. M. C. A., Best house, and Ranson house.

Mayne Albright, Harper Barnes, and Haywood Weeks will be present and the students will be organized as those in the dormitories were.

At 10:00 o'clock the meeting will adjourn to the game rooms which the students may use free until 11:00 o'clock. Refreshments will be served.

HOBBS SPEAKS ON NRA AT ECONOMICS SEMINAR

Professor R. J. M. Hobbs led the general economics seminar last night. Dr. Hobbs spoke on "The Legal Evolution of the National Industrial Recovery Program."

The next meeting of the seminar will take place Wednesday night. All graduate students in economics are expected to attend.

Infirm Increase

The following students were confined to the University infirmary yesterday: W. H. Anderson, Sterry Branning, R. L. Branhardt, G. L. Crane, Lydia Daniels, Elizabeth Grant, Vida Miller, H. W. Scott, F. X. Stanley, Wilson Shelton, L. W. Smith, Katherine Williams, and J. V. Woodard.

Audit Board Requires Budgets Of All Member Organizations

Decision Marks Innovation of Idea for Which Members Have Long Strived.

WILL HAVE TWO WEEKS

Campus organizations with membership in the audit board system will be required to present to that group a budget of expenses within two weeks for the current year, it was decided at yesterday's session of the board.

No checks of these organizations will be approved by the board after the two-week period without the presence of the budget. The inauguration of the idea has been the goal of members of the audit board for several years.

Secretary Informs

The secretary, J. D. Winslow, will inform the member organizations of the requirement. Winslow was made secretary yesterday by virtue of his being the junior member of the board, which automatically gives him the office. He was appointed to the board Monday by Harper Barnes, president of the student body.

A sum of $300 was set aside for the employment of student workers to assist in the office of the auditor, R. A. Sherrill. Another similar amount was voted for the regular employment of University business staff in the compilation of the audits.

The board is endeavoring to acquire new business quarters in Graham Memorial, as the present arrangement with the Yackety Yack office has proven unsuccessful.

Life Saving Tests Passed by Thirteen

Thirteen students of the group enrolled in the life saving class conducted here under the auspices of the local chapter of the American Red Cross successfully passed the required tests, it was reported yesterday by Lee Greer, who supervised the course.

The class was the forerunner to an examiners course to be conducted in the Duke University pool in the latter part of March.

Overseeing the work, Lee Greer was helped by Billy Greet and John Brabson, local examiners. Ervin Erb, Ernest Blood, and Dave Mosier also assisted.

Those who succeeded in passing the tests were: Wallace Dunham, Thomas Maher, H. E. Riggs, Frank Ferrell, N. B. Adams, Charles Levi, Leonard Rapport, Francis Campbell, J. H. Howell, Robert Sadler, Randolph Rowland, F. G. Henderson, and J. B. Carne.

Erratum

Dr. G. R. MacCarthy will address Sigma Gamma Epsilon, geology fraternity on the subject "Geo-physical Prosectum" tonight at 7:30 o'clock in New East building. The announcement that his address would be last night was incorrect.

Rally Plans Tonight

Plans for a pep rally for the Wake Forest game will be discussed at a meeting of the University club at 7:30 o'clock tonight in 214 Graham Memorial.
